Miss Helen Moffett, of Loda, Ill., is receiving congratulations on honors received at Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Mo., where she is a freshman. She had just won the annual $5 prize offered by the president of Lindenwood, John Lincoln Roemer, for the best Christmas story. Her story tells of a New England mother, left lonely on Christmas Eve, who is surprised by a visit from all her children and grand-children, and finds arrangements made so that she will not be lonely thereafter. The story is entitled "The Spirit of Christmas." It is appearing as the leading number in the 12-page alumnae magazine, Lindenwood College Bulletin, for January, which has a circulation of 5,000 former students and alumnae.

IRWIN HALL.

The late Rev. Robert Irwin, D.D., is remembered in Irwin Hall, the latest dormitory to be built at Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Mo. It was dedicated Oct. 24, and has accommodations for 80 girls, who are now lodged therein. It is in modified Tudor Gothic style, and cost $250,000. Dr. Irwin was president of Lindenwood 13 years, from 1880 to 1893, and did much for the college. He was, prior to that, in charge of the Presbyterian depository in St. Louis, and former pastor of the First Church in Kansas City. His son, Rev. W. Francis Irwin, D.D., of Irvington-on-the-Hudson, N. Y., gave the dedicatory address, and two sons-in-law, Rev. E. W. McCluskey and Rev. W. F. Jones, offered prayers. Dr. MacIvor presided as president of the Board of Directors, presenting the key to the building, which was accepted by the college president, Dr. John Lincoln Roemer. Much of the ceremony was out of doors, and it brought together a large concourse of people.

PHILIPPINES EDUCATOR COMING HERE TO LECTURE

Rev. Dr. D. S. Hibbard, president of the Silliman Institute at Dumaguete, Philippine Islands, will come to St. Louis the last of this week under the auspices of the Presbyterian Board of Foreign Missions for several engagements. Silliman Institute is a boys' school with more than 1000 enrolled, its industrial departments being of special importance, where it has been said Filipino boys are being "changed from cock fighters to baseball players."

One of these "boys," Cesareo de Asis, has been in St. Louis for two years, up to last June, completing a medical course at St. Louis University and at Washington University. He was a member of the Second Presbyterian Church here during that period, and is now an interne at a hospital in Dayton, Ohio. Many other young men from Silliman Institute have come to the states for technical and professional studies.

The Gho Dormitory, one of the large buildings of the institute, was built with funds given by William E. Guy of 10 Portland place, a member of the Second Presbyterian Church.

Lindenwood College is to have an address by Dr. Hibbard at 11 o'clock Monday morning. He will spend Sunday in the suburbs, preaching in the morning at the Webster Groves Presbyterian Church, in the afternoon at Kirkwood, and coming in to the city to McCausland Avenue Presbyterian Church at night. He will spend most of next week visiting outlying churches in the St. Louis Presbytery, and on Sunday, January 18, is to preach at the Lafayette Park Presbyterian Church here.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH.

Thirty members attended the Junior Christian Endeavor meeting Sunday, the first meeting of the new year. The topic was "Jesus, the Ideal Hero." Each one was asked to come prepared to tell one thing in the life of Jesus that they admired and to tell why. Splendid talks were made and impressive thoughts expressed. Miss Virginia Wallace, a former assistant in the work of the society, now a student at Lindenwood College, was a visitor at the meeting and gave an interesting talk.

Miss Virginia Wallace returned Monday to Lindenwood College, St. Charles, to resume her school work. She is very much in love with her work and proud to be enrolled in this college, which is the oldest west of the Mississippi and the only four-year woman's college in the middle west. Great preparations are being made to celebrate its centennial in 1927, in the nature of a scholarship fund in honor of Mary Easton Sibley, founder of the college.

Reception at Mansion Following Inauguration, and Ball Will Take Place at Capitol Tonight.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 12.—

Sam Aaron Baker, who rose from wood cutter and section-hand to chief executive of Missouri, today was inaugurated in the hall of the House of Representatives in the State Capitol as the thirty-seventh Governor of Missouri, and delivered his first message and legislative recommendations to both houses of the Fifty-third General Assembly, meeting in joint session.

The oath of office was administered by Chief Justice W. W. Graves of the State Supreme Court, before members of the House and Senate, Judges of the Supreme Court, incoming and outgoing State officials, and crowded galleries.

Baker is the thirty-seventh Governor of Missouri, but is the thirty-sixth man to hold the office. John Miller of Cooper County held the governorship twice between 1825 and 1832. Baker, a native Missourian, is the fourth Republican to be elected Governor.

PHILIPPINE INDEPENDENCE DISCUSSED AT LINDENWOOD

"Propaganda for Philippine Independence" was taken up from an islander's standpoint by Dr. D. S. Hibbard, president of the Silliman Institute, yesterday morning at Lindenwood College. In a humorous vein he illustrated how the teachings of independence which America gave to the Filipinos are now proving a boomerang.

"We hear about their future independence," he said, "as they walk along the streets, among their business men and their professional men, and the children weave it into their orations at school and even into their prayers.

"There was a little boy at school who was determined to talk about independence. No matter whether it was geography or arithmetic or grammar, Juan was always lugging in the word. Finally his teacher said, 'I am going to give him something in which he can't say a word on the subject of independence.' So she said, 'Juan, you are to write a composition and bring it to class. The subject of your composition will be 'A Cow.'" She said, 'I will guarantee he doesn't get any independence into that.'

"He brought in his composition and read: 'The cow is a very useful animal. She has two horns and four legs. The cow is found in many islands of the Philippines. Some cows give milk, but, as for me, give me liberty or give me death.' It is claimed that the teacher went home with a sick headache."

Dr. Hibbard suggested a policy by which the United States would set a goal toward which the Filipinos could work.

The Rev. J. E. Roemer, president of Lindenwood College, St. Charles, pronounced the invocation. Judge Graves then administered the oath of office to Baker.

The Bible used in administering the oath was one presented to Baker on his 24 birthday by his mother, Mrs. Mary Amanda Page, who died on Nov. 7, 1898. The Bible was held by Baker's daughter, Mary Elizabeth Baker, 14 years old.

After the oath was administered a salute of 17 guns—the "Governor's salute," was fired by Battery (St. Charles) of the 128th Field Artillery, stationed out-

Home Rule for Cities and Rigid Economy Advocated by Baker

Governor Also Urges Reduction of Taxes for State and County, and Change in Banking Laws.

By a Staff Correspondent of the Globe-Democrat.

JEFFERSON CITY, MO., January 12.—Economy in public expenditures, reduction of taxation for state and county purposes and extension of home rule in police affairs to the large cities, were the high lights in the inaugural address of Sam A. Baker as Governor of Missouri today. He was sworn in by Judge Graves of the Supreme Court.

The ceremonies took place before the members of the Fifty-third General Assembly, state officials, members of the Supreme Court, and citizens, in the Hall of Representatives.

He succeeded Arthur M. Hyde of Trenton, also a Republican, and is the fourth Republican Governor of Missouri since the civil war.

Accompanying Baker into office were a complete set of Republican executive officers. Except Phil A. Bennett, Lieutenant Governor, the others were sworn in by Judge Graves at the conclusion of Baker's inaugural address.

Bennett was ushered into the office of Lieutenant Governor in ceremonies held in the Senate Chamber at 2:30 p. m. The oath was administered to Bennett by Supreme Judge Atwood.

The executive officers besides Baker and Bennett are: Charles U. Becker, Secretary of State, who succeeded himself; Robert B. Otto of Union, Attorney General, who served as assistant to Attorney General Barrett during the past four years; L. D. Thompson, State Auditor, who retired as State Treasurer, and C. Eugene Stephens of Maplewood, State Treasurer, who formerly was chief clerk of the Secretary of State.

Long before the hour of inaugural ceremonies a great throng clamored for admission to the House chamber and the galleries, which seated but 1500 people. Only the members of the Legislature, state officials and members of the Missouri Supreme Court and their families and invited guests occupied the floor. The general public was confined to the galleries, and these soon were packed.

The main entrance to the hall was left open so that the people who were unable to get in could hear. These stood in the rotunda outside.

Former Lieut. Gov. Lloyd presided. Speaker Parker sat by him. Baker was escorted by a joint committee through the main entrance and down the center aisle to the speaker's stand. The Two Hundred and Third Coast Artillery Band played "Hail to the Chief," and Battery B of Boonville, a detachment of the One Hundred and Twenty-eighth Field Artillery fired a gubernatorial salute of twenty-one guns when Baker was sworn in.

Takes Oath on Mother's Bible.

With his hand upon a Bible presented to him by his mother on November 27, 1898, Baker swore to uphold the Constitution of the United States, the Constitution of Missouri and the laws. He repeated the oath after Judge Graves in a loud voice. His 14-year-old daughter, Mary Elizabeth, held the Bible during the administration of the oath.

Then Gov. Hyde presented Baker. "This is a proud and happy moment in the history of Missouri," said Hyde. "I believe it holds in it great possibilities for the state we all love. I am very glad to present to you Sam A. Baker, Governor of Missouri."

Others Take Oath.

When Baker concluded his reading other executive officials were sworn in and the joint Assembly stood to receive the benediction by Rev. Henry Muckerman, pastor of St. George's Church, Linn, Mo.

The inaugural ceremonies were ushered in with an invocation by Dr. J. L. Roemer, president of Lindenwood College, St. Charles. His invocation follows:

"Almighty God, the God of our fathers and our God, we acknowledge thee as the great ruler of universe.

"Thou hast ordained government by the established laws of the making. Thy laws and thy ways we rejoice, have always had in view the welfare of thy people. In acknowledging thee as our God and our Sovereign, we acknowledge that just and righteous government is pleasing to thee.

"We invoke thy blessing as we meet this day to inaugurate a new Governor of this commonwealth. We thank thee for the possibilities that lie before us as a people. Thy abounding Providence toward us is shown in the great advance which has been made from time to time since the beginning of our history, material progress, educational progress, spiritual progress, has marked our history. Today is greater than yesterday. The morrow is the prophecy of still greater things, new problems, new methods, new achievements, confront us.

"With thankfulness in our hearts for past blessings and with gratitude for the larger opportunities that are before us as a people, we come with earnest prayer that thy benediction may rest upon him, whom the people have called to service, as he assumes the duties of his office."

Rev. Muckerman in his benediction mentioned Baker by name and invoked divine guidance upon his work as Governor, he said:

"Lord, God of hosts, our Father who art in heaven, we thy children turn to thee with hearts filled with gratitude for the blessings we have received from thy bounty. We are ready to enter upon a new era in the history of our great state. It is therefore not only with gratitude, but also in supplication that we raise our hearts to thee, to thee our Father of Lights from whom every good and perfect gift must come, without whom we can do nothing.

"We pray thee, who bids us to pray in order to receive, to bless our country and great State of Missouri, to let the paraclete that spirit of truth and of light safeguard the ingoing officials, but, above all, we beseech thee to shower thy choicest blessings upon our newly elected executive, His Excellency Gov. Sam A. Baker. Keep from him and his office whatever may prove detrimental or deterrent to the execution of his responsibilities. We hope and pray that thou wilt vouchsafe to give him the leadership of a Joshua, the zeal and conscientiousness of a Samuel, the courage and convictions of the Machabees, the knowledge and prudence of a Solomon, the wisdom of a Daniel. May he, by thy grace, govern and guide the ship of state unto thy glorification and for the welfare and advancement of our state and its populace.

Ask Blessings.

"May the blessing of God the Father who created us, of God our Son who redeemed us, and of God the Holy Ghost who sanctifies us, descend upon us and remain forever. Amen."

The audience remained standing until the Senate had marched from the hall. Baker was photographed with Judge Graves in the act of taking the oath and was photographed again in his private office. It was banked with roses, sent to him by the Commercial Club and Jefferson City banks.

Endowment Campaign.

Launching a $150,000 St. Louis campaign for Dubuque University, Dubuque, Ia., was one of the principal acts of the St. Louis Presbytery at an all-day meeting yesterday at the Sidney Street Presbyterian Church, Sidney street and Minnesota avenue. The Presbytery voted a welcome to the president of the university and his associates and pledged that the Presbyterian pastors will do all possible in opening their pulpits for a public presentation of this cause.

Rev. Dr. K. F. Wettstone, president of Dubuque University, and formerly pastor of the Sidney Street Church here, was a guest of the Presbytery and is to remain in the city for about two months. With him yesterday was Dr. Walter Barlow, dean of the university, who gave a comprehensive address as to Dubuque University's aid in training the foreigner in America for Christian leadership.

Dean Barlow spoke at a dinner at which Rev. Dr. W. B. Lampe presided. The resolution approving the financial campaign was presented for the Committee on Education by Dr. R. S. Calder of Lindenwood College. Raising the $150,000 here will be part of a general campaign among Presbyterians everywhere to increase the university's endowment by $1,000,000.

Downtown Headquarters Opened.

GLENN HUNTER FETED AT LINDENWOOD

Glenn Hunter, leading man of "Merton of the Movies," played a star part at the chapel at Lindenwood College yesterday morning, and was guest of the college at luncheon, to the great enthusiasm of 500 girls. One hundred and eighty-seven of the 500 girls had seen Glenn Hunter's acting at the American on College night last Monday, where he had paid particular attention to the Lindenwood girls. He explained this yesterday in Roemer Hall.

"When I saw Dr. and Mrs. Roemer's box party come in," he said, "and all the other girls from Lindenwood gave them such applause, I thought it must be a school with a whole lot of pep. And when I found out it was Lindenwood I knew it was a splendid school, for I had heard of it before. So I thought Lindenwood ought to come into the play."

The actor referred to his interpolations Monday night. Someone on the stage asked where he had been, and his answer was, "I've been out at Lindenwood." Then in another part of his role he used the name "Lindenwood" in place of "Hollywood."

The four girls who had constituted the singing quartet from Lindenwood Monday night, Misses Gladys Sullivan, Carmela Graziadei, Helen James and Emma Monier, sang again for Glenn Hunter in the dining room. He complimented them highly.

Announcement is made in the February number of the Lindenwood College Bulletin that President John Lincoln Roemer of the college has given $5000 to the Sibley Memorial scholarship fund now being raised. The announcement states: "Coming as this gift does, at the very beginning of the intensive efforts to secure this fund, Dr. Roemer's gift will be doubly appreciated by those interested in the movement. It is his earnest wish to see the original idea of Mrs. Sibley completely carried out, and to witness the time when the scholarship fund will be sufficiently large that no worthy girl who really wants to come to Lindenwood may be prevented through lack of money."

The alumnae and former student clubs at twenty-three different centers have started in this movement, and several clubs, notably those of Chicago and St. Louis, have each raised initial gifts of $1000. The purpose is to endow a $100,000 scholarship as part of the centennial celebration in June, 1927, in honor of the founder of the college, Mrs. Mary Easton Sibley.

In the fall of 1912, the Malen Burnett School of Music was originated in Walla Walla under the supervision of Miss Malen Burnett. It is now in its 12th season. Throughout its history, its founder, Miss Burnett, has directed the life of the conservatory so that it is now known as a school of thorough methods. Its pupils have won honors in local and state contests and have appeared on numerous Music Teachers' association programs in the Northwest.

Miss Burnett was a pupil in Berlin of Oscar Raif, Heinrich Barth, Alexander Raif and in Paris of Moritz Moskowski. Her studies in this country have been with Adolph Weidig theory and Louis Roleyn, child specialist of Chicago and the Dolorza school of Geurhythmics in New York. For the last two years, Miss Burnett has been giving normal courses in children's work at Seattle which have proved exceptionally popular. She is now introducing the course at her studio in San Francisco.

Miss Edna Hanna, the associate director, is a pupil of Miss Burnett and of the same teachers in Berlin. She taught very successfully in Lindenwood college, St. Charles, Mo; and was the Dean of Music there. In the summer of 1924 she was a member of the Master Piano Class under Mme. ### LINDENWOOD STUDENTS AID SCHOOL CHILDREN

Children of the St. Charles public schools are rejoicing over an hour of "story-telling" each week, which the students of Lindenwood College will give to them in the spring semester just opened. It has been so arranged at Lindenwood that this story-telling can be a feature of one of the classes in expression, under Miss Harriet Diven. College girls are "practicing" on the children of the ward schools, and, while it is play for the boys and girls, it is a serious matter for the story-teller, who knows that she is going to be "graded" on her skill in putting her story "across." The stories are to be original, or, at least, adapted by the girls, and it is said that fairies, elves, goblins, palaces and magic forests will predominate.

The plan is coequal in the eyes of the St. Charles children with that other joyful idea of Lindenwood College in its "physical ed" department, under Miss Marjorie Weber, by which on Thursday afternoons of the springtime the school children gambol on the campus for an hour or two under the direction of members of the class of prospective "playground teachers." There are swings on the campus, which the children think the very best part of their exercises.

Several Lindenwood girls are doing other practice work in the St. Charles schools. Miss Betty Arveson, who is head of Lindenwood's Student Government Board, is teaching sixth-grade history three times a week at the Benton School, St. Charles; her sister, Miss Maude Arveson, who is president of the senior class of Lindenwood, teaches health and hygiene to sixth-graders at the Benton, and Miss Viola Karrenbrock has history in the fifth grade in the same school. ## Modernism in Art Graphically Shown in College Address

Mrs. Emily G. Hutchings Outlines Types to Lindenwood Students.

An address on "Modernism" was given by Mrs. Emily Grant Hutchings Thursday morning at Lindenwood College, in which she illustrated certain principles of art by paintings. Mrs. Hutchings showed copies done by Paul Berdanier of St. Louis, of four paintings of the Futurist School, an extreme type of the Modernist movement. These were part of a collection of 100 imported by Mrs. Mabel Dodge of New York. Mrs. Hutchings contrasted the four copies, which were extremes, with some originals which are also modern, but which have not abandoned the established art ideas of design and color.

As an illustration of the "Modernist" spirit in literature as well, Mrs. Hutchings read some of the strange "poems" of Gertrude Stein in her volume, "Tender Buttons."

"Maternity," a Modernist painting by Van Rees, was shown as the most rational of the four copies. While admitting that it might serve as a cartoon for a stained-glass window, its rhythmic vibrations being its chief merit, the speaker said that this rhythm was still better sustained in Knauer-Hase's "Sunlight on the Danube," which she exhibited as "a powerful piece of nature delineation in pure color."

Other pictures contrasted were: "Marine Scene," by Sousa Cardoza, and an original marine by W. T. Brundage. In Cardoza's painting, as shown, the effect of a storm was amazingly pictured in tilted sails, a lighthouse in curves, and huge fish absurdly in the air, whereas Brundage's painting gave the suggestion of ocean turmoil without being out of keeping with true-life form and color.

"Young Girl," by Villon, was a Modernist patch-quilt, so to speak, of billous blotches. "Dance of the Spring," by Picabia, the last of the group of Modernists, was spoken of as being full of vibrations, but not more than "Autumn Caprice," a painting done by Mrs. Emily Summa of St. Louis, which Mrs. Hutchings said was best appreciated if Chopin's "Caprice" could be played at the same time.

A new painting by a St. Louis artist, Gazella Loeffler, much admired by the students, was named "Under the May-Apple Tree," and was a charming study of children and a blackbird, radiant with spring colorings. Another St. Louis artist, Blanche Skrainka, was represented in "Drowsy Fisherman," a scene in Costa Rica, in which the Modernist idea of abstract suggestion was carried out in the "dreams" of the fisherman, shadowy outlines in the scenery.

Frank Nuderscher's "The Sentinel," painted at Arcadis, was an Ozark scene, in which the gray-brown rock, seen in color rather than outline, represented eternity answering to eternity in the permanence of the oak tree in rich autumn coloring. "It is the universe, the macrocosm and the microcosm," said the speaker.

One of the rarest works shown was that of Nino Ronchi, who, by his war experiences, gained "a new outlook on life." The conclusion of the lecture was that the best of Modernism can give much that is worth while, but there is also much that will wear away and be forgotten.

MARKHAM MEMORIAL

Mrs. Mary J. Alexander, of Canadian, Texas, who was Miss Mary June Mathes when she attended Lindenwood College before the Civil War, writes in a clear hand, although 85 years of age, to "Dear Lindenwood friends," saying that "when the time of Centennial arrives, if living, I will be with you in spirit." Mrs. Alexander is the dear mother of Rev. H. P. Alexander, pastor of the Presbyterian Church of Maitland, Mo., and her daughter, Lucy, married Rev. Harry G. Romig, an Auburn Seminary classmate of our pastor, and a guest of pastor and congregation of Markham Memorial upon his furlough from active service. Rev. and Mrs. Romig are stationed at Teng-hsien, Shantung, China. They are beloved friends of our pastor, even at this distance of time and space. "Though sundered far we oft may meet, around the blood-bought mercy seat." Mrs. Alexander writes her Lindenwood friends: "I have had a paralytic stroke, but by the mercy of our Heavenly Father have become able to be around, and write a little. My husband died in 1886. I do not belong to a Lindenwood Club, for at my age I feel it impossible to attend one." The editor of "Lindenwood College" remarks: "Note it well, all girls of yesterday. The 85-year-old-limit seems a valid excuse for staying out of the nearest Lindenwood Club; but younger 'girls' are not exempt."

An important social event of the year at Lindenwood College, will be a Washington's birthday party tomorrow evening, consisting of a dinner, given to the faculty and students by President and Mrs. John W. Roemer. Of particular interest is the announcement which will be made at this party of the choice of the Spring Festival queen. Ballots have already been taken, but the result is known only to Mrs. Roemer, who will make the announcement. A maid of honor from the junior class and four maids from the sophomore and freshman classes are also to be announced.

DR. R. C. WILLIAMSON GIVEN FAREWELL LUNCHEON

A farewell luncheon to Rev. Dr. Robert C. Williamson, retiring pastor of the Tyler Place Presbyterian Church, was given by the Presbyterian pastors of the city yesterday at the City Club. Dr. Williamson will go early next week to a new pastorate in Upper Montclair, N. J. Rev. Dr. George Wales King, moderator of the presbytery, expressed the presbytery's regret at Dr. Williamson's departure.

The Tyler Place Church was represented in speeches by two elders, J. B. Sharp and Dr. R. R. Vaughan.

Rev. Dr. John L. Roemer, president of Lindenwood College, spoke on the progress and growth of the congregation. Rev. Norman B. Harrison, whose early home was in Montclair, spoke of the prospects before the new pastor. Rev. Dr. C. B. Boving of Sidney Street Church spoke as the former president of Westminster College, of which Dr. Williamson was a graduate.

Other addresses were made by Rev. Dr. C. E. Jenney, pastor of the First Church; Rev. Dr. William B. Lampe, pastor of West Church; Robert Johnston, an elder in the Second Presbyterian Church; Rev. W. A. Murdoch of Southampton Church, which was formerly a mission of Tyler Place; Rev. Ernest S. Abbott, assistant at the latter church, and Rev. Peter W. Fischer, pastor of Boyle Memorial.

STUDENTS' POSTERS USED IN LINDENWOOD PLAY

Gaily-colored posters made by art students are being effectively used at Lindenwood College for the French play, "La Poudre aux Yeux," which will be presented at Roemer Auditorium tomorrow night at 8 o'clock, by students of French in the institution.

The cross-word puzzle, as exemplified in illustrative French diction, is the motif of a poster by Miss Lucille Ward, a freshman. Another art student, Miss Corene Placek, who in the last two years has contributed many bits of school advertising, has made a cartoon of a Frenchman expressing some witty sentiment. The lettering is done in gold and green.

Those taking part in the play will be: Misses Pauline Davis, Mary Louise Blocher, Virginia Symms, Helen Smith, Mary Margaret Ransom, Dorothy Burke, Roberta and Kathryn Mackechnie, Julia Ayres, Etta Feist, Maye Randolph, Jean Fair and Rosalyn Cohen. Between the acts French solos will be sung by Misses Mary Sue Guthrie and Carmela Graziadel, and there will be a solo dance by Miss Ida Hoeflin. The student orchestra, under the direction of Miss Agnes Gray, will play.

Miss Helen Lee Maupin is managing the finances of the play, and the proceeds will go to the Mary Easton Sibley Memorial scholarship fund.

'Oh Girls,' Written By June Taylor, to Be Produced Soon

(Special to the Globe)

St. Charles, Mo., Feb. 18.—Miss June Taylor, a freshman at Lindenwood College here, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Taylor of 907 Central avenue, Dodge City, has written a comedy, "Oh Girls!", which has been accepted by the Lindenwood Athletic Association for production. Miss Taylor will have one of the leading parts in the play.

The parts were chosen by the athletic association board and staff, because of special dramatic ability and membership in the association.

Miss Taylor also is a managing editor of the Linden Bark, a campus paper which is sponsored by the journalism girls of Lindenwood. Although Miss Taylor is only a freshman and came to Lindenwood "not knowing a single soul" and "just because it was such a wonderful school" (to quote June), she has taken such an important part in school activities and made so many friends that her classmates and upperclassmen are very proud of her. Before coming to Lindenwood College, she attended Dodge City High School, where she made a very creditable record in her school work and other activities.

Because Miss Taylor has shown herself so capable in her first year, great things are expected of her.

Miss Sara Shomberg of Altoona, Pa., a senior at Lindenwood College, was announced as Spring Festival Queen, at a Washington's birthday party given at the college by President and Mrs. John L. Roemer, Thursday evening. The election by ballot had occurred a week before, but the result was not known until the night of the party, when the winner was escorted to her temporary throne on a dais embellished with the national colors. Miss Shomberg is business manager of the college annual, and is one of the managing editors of the college weekly, Linden Bark. She is quite prominent in the Y. W. C. A. Students chosen to make up the queen's court were: From the junior class, Miss Elizabeth Bramlett of Malvern, Ark., maid of honor; sophomores, Miss Virginia Hoover of Kansas City, and Miss Margaret Slavens of Hutchinson, Kan.; freshmen, Miss Margaret Enloe of Jefferson City, and Miss Elizabeth King of Ferriday, La.

A Washington's birthday dinner was served and a dance followed in the Butler gym, which was strung with myriad streamers of the national colors, balloons and flags. Under the largest of all the flags were the crimson chairs of the queen and her maids. Mrs. John L. Roemer stood at the front of the dais, assisted by four pages from the freshman class, Misses Lewellyn Trapp, Evelyn Ellis, Elizabeth Burke and Dorothy Augustine. The coronation will be in the first week of June.

*Globe-Dem.
Soc'y., Feb. 22*

Amid great enthusiasm, the name of Miss Sara Shomberg was announced Thursday night at Lindenwood College, as the spring festival queen, her coronation to take place at commencement, early in June. Election to the spring festival throne is the greatest honor that the student body can bestow. Miss Shomberg, who is a member of the senior class, and whose home is in Altoona, Pa., has wavy, golden hair, not bobbed, and dark blue eyes. She is tall and slender. Her election is a second proof of her popularity, as she had the unusual honor last year of being maid of honor to the May Queen.

At the party Thursday night, when Mrs. John L. Roemer, dean of students, announced the result of the vote, Miss Shomberg wore a georgette dress, all white, with heavy beading in crystal, the only color in her costume being a jade ostrich fan. Mrs. Roemer also was gowned in white, embroidered in beads, with an old-gold floral spray and a corsage of fresh roses. The throne for the queen was covered with red, chairs being wrapped in the same color, to harmonize with the Washington's Birthday decorations of the hall.

Five other students were elected as attendants. Miss Elizabeth Bramlett of Malvern, Ark., a junior, will be maid of honor; Misses Virginia Hoover of Kansas City and Margaret Slavens of Hutchinson, Kan., will represent the sophomore class; and Misses Margaret Enloe of Ferriday, La., the freshman class. Dresses of turquoise, white and rose pink were worn by these girls at the party. Four of the younger freshmen, Misses Lewellyn Trapp, Evelyn Ellis, Elizabeth Burke and Dorothy Augustine, served as pages, escorting the queen and her maids to the throne as they were announced by Mrs. Roemer. Upon reaching the dais, Miss Shomberg received from Mrs. Roemer a large badge, with the words, "Miss Lindenwood."

There was a dinner preceding the dance, at which small hatchets were given as souvenirs. After the queen was announced, a short program was given. Miss Virginia Hoover and Miss Dorothy Dunseth, in "A Midnight Fantasy," impersonated portrait paintings of the girl of today and the girl of Washington's time. A quadrille was danced by Misses Mary Olive Crawley, Emma Monier, Frances Baggett and Dorothy Williams. Miss Audrey Rickert recited "Penelope Penlope."

MALVERN YOUNG LADY CHOSEN AS MAID OF HONOR AT LINDENWOOD

Miss Elizabeth Bramlitt was chosen by her Lindenwood College class mates as Maid of Honor for the Queen of the Spring Festival. Miss Bramlitt is a Junior at Lindenwood College St. Charles, Mo. and is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. T. Bramlitt of 727 Main street. The announcement of this honor was made at a Dinner Dance Thursday, 19. Miss Bramlitt wore a french blue chiffon, trimmed in os-Thursday 19. Miss Bramlitt wore a headband of rhinestones.

As she took her place beside the queen on the throne she looked very winsome and charming. Miss Bramlitt is very prominent member of her class. She is President of the Junior Class and Arkansas Club, Vice president of the Euthenics Club, and a member of the Athletic Association.

Miss Bramlitt is the first Maid of Honor of the Spring Festival, for until this year the Fete has always been known as May Day. The reason the title has been changed is that school will continue into June this year and the crowning of the Queen and her attendants will take place the eighth of June. The Senior who takes the honor of being Queen, Miss Sara Shomberg, was last year's Maid of Honor. Since it is a class vote each year, there is no reason to suspect that the sentiment of the class in regard to Betty will change.

Miss Helen Lee Maupin Handles Lindenwood College Production.

Miss Helen Lee Maupin, of Moberly, who attends Lindenwood College at St. Charles, Mo., was business manager of the French play, "La Poudre aux Yeux", presented in Roemer Auditorium, Friday evening. The business manager had entire charge of the financial items in the production of the play, such as the sale of tickets and the rental of costumes and stage properties. The smooth, excellent manner in which the play was produced proved how capably Miss Maupin filled this position.

The proceeds of the play went toward the Mary Easton Sibley Memorial Scholarship, with which students and alumnae propose to honor the founder's memory at a centennial celebration in 1927.

Miss Maupin is a junior at Lindenwood. She is taking an active part in student activities, and is now treasurer of the Y. W. C. A. and vice president of the Athletic Association.

ALTOONA GIRL GIVEN HONOR AT LINDENWOOD

Announcement of Miss Sara Shomberg of Altoona, as spring festival queen at Lindenwood college, St. Charles, Mo., was made by Mrs. John Washingtons' birthday party at the Washingtons birthday party at the college, Thursday evening, Feb. 19. It was a very popular choice, and was greeted with much applause. It was an election by the senior class, following the annual custom, and the result bears evidence of the many friends gained by Miss Shomberg during the three years she has been at Lindenwood.

The election as spring festival queen is considered the highest honor the students can give. Last year Miss Shomberg was shown also as a decided favorite, because the juniors elected her as first maid of honor to the queen of that year, who was Miss Catherine Yount, of Cape Girardeau, Mo. She is a senior. The queen is to be crowned during commencement week in early June.

Miss Shomberg wore a white dress, beaded in crystal, and carried a jade ostrich fan, at the party. When she was announced "queen" and escorted to her seat on a crimson "throne," Mrs. Roemer decorated her with a large badge bearing the words, "Miss Lindenwood," suspended by red ribbons.

Miss Shomberg has been active in many of the student organizations, and is serving as business manager of the student annual, Linden Leaves, which will soon be issued. A slight illness kept her at home for the first part of the semester, but this did not prevent a good majority of votes in her behalf. There will be a maid of honor from the junior class, two maids from the sophomores, and two from

LOCAL GIRL MADE FESTIVAL QUEEN AT LINDENWOOD

Miss Sara Shomberg, daughter of A. F. Shomberg, local druggist, and a graduate of the Altoona High school, class of 1919, has been elected Spring Festival Queen at Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Mo., where she is a member of the senior class.

This distinction is the highest honor which the Lindenwood student body can bestow. It indicates not only popularity and a gracious personality, but also excellence in scholastic work and a participation in student activities. Although illness kept Miss Shomberg away from college, at home for the first week of the present semester, her name was borne in mind, and when the ballot was cast, she was easily victorious.

She was also first maid of honor to last year's queen (Miss Catherine Yount, now doing graduate work at Columbia University), and she thus gains a double honor, seldom known before in the history of the college. The coronation will be an event of commencement week, early in June.

Miss Shomberg is business manager of the student annual, Linden Leaves, is prominent in Y. W. C. A. work, and also takes part in the various clubs, athletic sports and entertainments at the college.

Lindenwood has been in continuous existence as a college for women since 1827, and is planning a notable centennial celebration two years from now. Its founder was Mrs. Mary Sibley, daughter of Judge Rufus Easton, first postmaster of St. Louis, and wife of Major George C. Cigley, U. S. Commissioner to the Indians.

Announcement of the result of the ballot for the Spring Festival Queen was made at a Washington's birthday party, on Thursday evening, by Mrs. John L. Roemer, wife of the president. Five attendants were also announced. Miss Shomberg's maid of honor will be Miss Betty Bramliffe, president of the junior class.

Cordial farewells were extended to Dr. R. C. Williamson, former pastor of the Tyler Place Church, at a luncheon of his fellow-ministers and a number of laymen, Friday noon, Feb. 20, at the City Club. Rev. George Wales King, D.D., presided, and the church was represented by the Tyler Place assistant, Mr. Ernest S. Abbott, and by two elders, Mr. J. B. Sharp and Dr. R. R. Vaughn. His predecessor as pastor, Rev. John L. Roemer, D.D., now president of Lindenwood College, and others were heard. Rev. Norman B. Harrison, as a former resident of Upper Montclair, N. J., spoke of the district to which Dr. Williamson goes. Dr. Dobson has been appointed moderator of the Tyler Place session.

Rev. Frederick E. Stockwell, D.D., General Director of the College Department of the Board of Christian Education, made a visit to Lindenwood College last Wednesday. He addressed the students in chapel, congratulating them on the appearance of their work. He afterwards inspected the new Irwin Hall.

MISS JENNIE RUTH GAMBLE

Miss Jennie Ruth Gamble of Dahlgren, Ill., is a grandniece of Mrs. Mary Easton Sibley, founder of Lindenwood College, in 1927. Because of that relationship Miss Gamble has made arrangements to enter Lindenwood as a freshman in the college centennial year, in September, 1927.

Miss Gamble is a daughter of O. C. Gamble of Dahlgren, who was a nephew of Mrs. Sibley. Mr. Gamble's mother and Mrs. Sibley were sisters in the Easton family, being daughters of Judge Rufus Easton, first Postmaster of St. Louis, who was also Federal Judge, commissioned by President Jefferson to make investigations in the St. Louis district concerning the activities of Aaron Burr.

The young grandniece has not yet finished high school and she considers it a happy coincidence that she will complete her work there in the summer of the centennial. Her room and dormitory have been engaged and will be awaiting her two years and six months from now.

The Railroad Y. M. C. A. again furnished Station WIL, The St. Louis Star and the Benson Radio Company, with a feature program when the mandolin orchestra of that organization was heard Saturday in addition to solos by the Misses Gladys Sullivan, Lindenwood College; Evelyn Hoffstetter, Eleanore Franz, Virginia Jackson and Lucille Jordan.

In the orchestra, which has a personnel of twenty-nine such instruments as flute, viola, violin and guitar, are represented, as well as a variety of mandolins. The most popular numbers played by this band of musicians were "The Rosary," "Boston Ideal," a march, and "Down Dixie Way," a medley of old southern airs. To the listening millions the unison of the orchestra was remarkable; to those present, the direction of Alf Westphalen was the remarkable performance.

Miss Sullivan sang Massenet's "Elegie" and "God Keep You, Dear."

Miss Jordan, who is a pupil of Mrs. Elizabeth Farmer's School at Sparta, Ill., had her teacher for accompanist. Among her numbers were "Chanson Provencale" and "When I'm With You."

Miss Franz, Staunton, Ill., a soprano, sang "One Sweetly Solemn Thought," with Miss Jackson, who also is from Staunton, as her accompanist. Preceding this Miss Jackson played "Fantasie and Sonata," a piano solo.

Miss Hoffstetter's contribution to the delightful program was a violin solo, a gavotte.

AT LINDENWOOD COLLEGE, MISSOURI

"Miss Marguerite Hersch of Pagosa Springs, a member of the Alpha Mu Mu honorary music sorority of Lindenwood college, at St. Charles, Mo., a member also of the Athletic association and the English club of the college, took part recently in a Y. W. C. A. program as well. Miss Hersch is considered quite a versatile young woman, equally interested in sports, school-work, and college activities. She may also be said to be talented among a line rare among college students, as she won the Lindenwood budget prize last commencement for the best adherence to system in the management of her personal financial accounts."

Miss Elizabeth King, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John C. King of Ferriday, Louisiana, has been chosen as one of the Freshman attendants of the Spring Festival Queen of Lindenwood College at St. Charles Missouri, where she is now studying.

Miss King has that rare combination of beauty, personality, and stateliness. Tall, and not too slender, neither too compact; she stands erect, well composed, and with a dignity of added attractiveness because it is so seldom seen in this day of jazz. Miss King has, also, a very rare personality, a personality of the retiring, cultivated, slightly sedate young debutante. Her blonde beauty is pleasing because it is not so light that is seemingly denotes weakness, nor is it dark enough to denote coarseness. Waving bobbed hair (that is not cut in one of those detestable extreme styles) clear blue, girlish eyes, an aquiline nose, a strong but dainty red mouth constitute one of the prettiest faces in Lindenwood College.

This last honor that was bestowed upon Miss King is considered the highest honor a Freshman can get as it not only denotes the superiority of the beauty of the girl, but also her superiority in class-work and in popularity with her class-mates.

Miss King's partner in the Spring festivities is Miss Margaret Enloe of Jefferson City, Mo. The queen of the Spring Festivities is Miss Sara Shomberg of Altoona, Penn.

Mrs. J. Littlefield was unanimously indorsed to take Mrs. John Payne's place as president of the Eighth District. Reports were given from members attending the association meeting at the Coliseum; the illustrated lecture on "Broken Laws," at which Mrs. Ess advised on observing laws in the home; the St. Louis Parllamentary Law Club, and the talk on the crime wave. A reading was given by Mrs. M. S. Keator of Edna Ferber's "Sundried." The Lindenwood College Club Reciprocity, held at the Forest Park Hotel, was reported by Mrs. Chas. Forse. ### LINDENWOOD FOUNDER BORN ON JAN. 1, 1800

In preparations which have begun at Lindenwood College for the centennial in 1927, the fact has been brought to light that the founder of the college, Mrs. Mary Easton Sibley, was born on the very peculiar date, January 1, 1800. The college weekly, "Linden Bark," is publishing various interviews as to "what century was Mrs. Sibley born in?" Most of the students are too young to remember that the same argument was brought forth in relation to the year 1900, so that the "puzzle" is new to them. Wide divergence of opinion has been found, many of them saying Mrs. Sibley's advent was in the eighteenth century, and many others declaring it was in the nineteenth.

Announcement just made of commencement dates and speakers at Lindenwood College presents Gov. Baker as the commencement speaker, Tuesday morning, June 9. The president of Lindenwood, Dr. John L. Roemer, offered the inaugural prayer last January, when Gov. Baker was inducted into office.

The baccalaureate speaker on Sunday, June 7, will be Rev. Dr. Russell H. Stafford, pastor of Pilgrim Congregational Church.

There are twenty-one members of the class to graduate.

Monday, June 8, will be observed in the morning, as class day, following the annual custom. A change is to be made by introducing the festival queen coronation on Monday afternoon. In previous years, this has been conducted in May, with a "May Queen," but the title is now changed to "Spring Festival Queen," and the date is put in commencement week for the accommodation of visitors. ### LINDENWOOD STUDENTS GO TO ONONDAGA CAVE

Among vacationists from Lindenwood College, in the Easter recess which began yesterday, will be two who are going to Onondaga Cave. Dr. Kate L. Gregg of the English department and Miss Lois Karr, who teaches mathematics and physics, started last evening for Leasburg, in Crawford County, which is five miles from the Onondaga Cave, a little known, but beautiful series of caverns, in which white onyx appears in quantities. It is 100 miles southwest of St. Louis.

On the last day of studies, Wednesday, an unexpected diversion was furnished by the landing of an airship. F. C. Nelson and Holman Johnson, aviators from the Bridgeton Field, made a forced landing because of a new motor, just installed in their plane, was refractory. Fortunately this occurred just after luncheon, so that all had a chance to see it.

Program Completed for Championship Oratorical Contest

Eight Winners of District Trials Will Meet Friday When Delegates Will Be Chosen to Speak in Kansas City May 1.

Plans are practically completed for the GLOBE-DEMOCRAT's oratorical contest finals, which will be held in the Pershing Theater Friday, April 24, at 8 p. m. At this time the eight contestants, winners in the district contests in the Forty-Ninth State, will compete for the championship of the territory sponsored by the GLOBE-DEMOCRAT in the national contest plan and for the privilege of speaking in the midwest zone finals in Kansas City May 1, when the representative from the Middle West to the national finals in Washington will be determined.

John J. Maddox, superintendent of instruction for the St. Louis public schools, will be chairman of the GLOBE-DEMOCRAT finals Friday evening, and the following will serve as judges: Former Senator Zenophon Wilfley, Dr. John L. Roemer, president of Lindenwood College; Dwight D. Currie, president of the St. Louis Bar Association; Msgr. J. J. Tannrath, Dr. Isaac Lippincott of Washington University, Dr. Ivan Lee Holt, pastor of St. John's M. E. Church, and Mrs. Elma H. Benton, principal of Hosmer Hall. The Grover Cleveland High School Orchestra, under the direction of D. H. Cleland, will furnish music.

Order of Speakers.

E. Lansing Ray, editor and publisher of the GLOBE-DEMOCRAT, made the drawings today determining the order of the speakers in the contest Friday, which are as follows: First, David Fishback of Carrolltitions. Wager is barely 13, and, while he didn't win first place, he says he wouldn't take a lot for the experience he had in the competition. He hopes there'll be another contest next year, so he can try again.

A. S. Boucher, director of the High School Department of the State Teachers' College, Cape Girardeau, Friday evening, in which College High and Central High of Cape Girardeau, Murphsboro, Farmington, Poplar Bluff, Sikeston and Warren, Ark., competed: "The contest here was of high order. The GLOBE-DEMOCRAT and the Forty-ninth State would have been proud of every one of the contestants, could they have heard them."

A. U. Simmons, principal of Fayette High School, whose representative, S. L. Meyers, Jr., competed in the district contest in Jefferson City, says in regard to that contest: "The contest was a success in every way. There was a large crowd and everyone enjoyed it. I hope the GLOBE-DEMOCRAT will continue this work next year."

Jesse W. Barrett, who served as one of the judges in the district contest in Jefferson City, reports that in addition to the great enthusiasm in the contest there, the Gov. Baker's speech on "The Origin and Development of the American Constitution," which started off the big Constitution program for

LINDENWOOD COLLEGE HONORS BUTLER'S MEMORY

Pictures of the late Col. and Mrs. James Gay Butler of St. Louis had places of honor, draped with American flags, yesterday morning at ceremonies at Lindenwood College honoring their memory. ### "BUTLER DAY" PROGRAM AT LINDENWOOD TODAY

Annual exercises of "Butler Day" will be held this morning and afternoon, at Lindenwood College, with many former students of the college in attendance. This is in commemoration of the late Col. James Gay Butler and his wife, who gave several buildings and other benefactions to Lindenwood, amounting in the aggregate to more than $3,000,000. President John L. Roemer, who came to take charge of Lindenwood eleven years ago at the request of Col. Butler, will preside at a program of reminiscences by speakers who knew Col. Butler, this morning at 11 o'clock.

Elaborate exercises by physical education students are planned for this afternoon. At 2 o'clock, in Butler Gym, there will be a program, culminating in an original dance-drama, "The Court of a Pagan King." Miss Gladys Sullivan will sing. Other features will be folk dances of various nations, clogging, formal gymnastics, and interpretation of children's rhythms.

On the campus, a balloon dance will be presented by twenty girls. Ices and cake are to be served, after which the company will return to Butler Gym for a swimming and diving exhibition in the pool.

BUTLER DAY IS OBSERVED AT LINDENWOOD COLLEGE

The annual observance of Butler day, in memory of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Gay Butler of St. Louis, took place at Lindenwood College, St. Charles, at 2 p. m. yesterday. The celebration was in charge of the physical education department, consisting of a dance recital, exhibition of indoor work, with special diving and swimming at 5 p. m. President and Mrs. John L. Roemer were in charge of the exercises, attended by a large number of Lindenwood alumni from St. Louis, St. Charles and other cities.

Mr. and Mrs. Butler are Lindenwood's largest benefactors. Together they gave more than $3,000,000 to the college. The dormitories Butler, Niccolas and Irwin were built with Butler funds, as were also the $500,000 Roemer Hall, used for administrative and class purposes. Margaret Hall, the music conservatory, was purchased and remodeled by Butler.

Finals in Oratorical Contest to Be Held at Pershing Tonight

Eight Will Compete for Championship in National Contest to Speak at Midwest Meeting in Kansas City.

This evening at 8 o'clock in the Pershing Theater the GLOBE-DEMOCRAT will hold its Grand Final Oratorical Contest on the Constitution. At this time the eight contestants—winners in the district contests throughout the Forty-ninth State—will compete for the championship of the territory sponsored by the GLOBE-DEMOCRAT in the National Contest plan and for the privilege of speaking in the Midwest zone finals in Kansas City May 1, when the representative who will represent the Middle West in the national finals in Washington will be determined.

The eight contestants speaking this evening represent the best in oratorical ability from among the 25,000 high-school boys and girls enrolled in the work of the contest in the Forty-ninth State and have won the privilege of speaking in this contest only after previous competitions in elimination contests—first in their own schools and then in competing with other school winners.

The contestants on tonight's program are:

David Fishback of Carrollton, Ill. Paul Street of Normandy. Emmanuel Buckler of Greenville (Ill.) College High. Cullen Coil of Roosevelt High, St. Louis.

Alice Igoe of the Academy of the Visitation, St. Louis.

Ruth Harris of Paynesville, Charles F. Lamkin, Jr., of Keytesville.

Donald Miley of Sikeston. Each of the contestants will speak on "The Constitution" except Fishback, who will speak on "Hamilton and the Constitution."

Contestants' places on the program were made by drawings by E. Lansing Ray, editor and publisher of the GLOBE-DEMOCRAT.

Maddox Is Chairman.

John J. Maddox, Superintendent of Public Instruction in St. Louis, will be chairman of the meeting tonight and the following will serve as judges: Xenophon P. Wilfley, president of the Missouri Bar Association; Dwight D. Currie, president of the St. Louis Bar Association; Dr. John L. Roemer, president of Lindenwood College; Dr. Isaac Lippincott, professor of economics at Washington University; Dr. Ivan Lee Holt, pastor of St. John's M. E. Church, South; Rev. J. J. Tannrath, pastor of the St. Louis Cathedral, and Mrs. Elma H. Benton, principal of Hosmer Hall. The low point total system will be used in judging.

C. S. Yost, editor of the editorial page of the GLOBE-DEMOCRAT, will announce the awards.

Music for tonight's program will be furnished by the Grover Cleveland High School Orchestra, under the direction of D. H. Cleland.

Since the contest this year represents a much larger enrollment throughout the 49th State than that of last year, a larger attendance is expected tonight than that of the final GLOBE-DEMOCRAT contest last year held in the Memorial Chapel at Washington University, where it was necessary to turn many away. The Pershing Theater will accommodate approximately 2000.

No admission is charged and no seats are reserved. The GLOBE-DEMOCRAT invites the public to attend. Doors will be open at 7 o'clock. The program will begin promptly at 8 o'clock.

Contest of Great Interest.

The contest this evening—the culmination of the greatest patriotic educational program in the 49th State for the year, is of particular interest not only because of the fact that it represents the best in speaking ability and in content of Constitution study that the high schools of this section of the Midwest can offer, but because it is worth while evidence of the fact that the young people of the nation are gaining a real appreciation of the Constitution and the things for which it stands, a knowledge far greater than the majority of those of a generation ago attained, and that through this intelligent appreciation there must come a greater reverence and respect for law and obedience.

No more commendable project for the bringing of schools together in worth while and sportsman-like competition has ever been inaugurated in the schools of America than these oratorical contests, national in scope and being participated in this year by 1,400,000 high school boys and girls representing 16,216 schools, furthered by thirty-five major newspapers and 1120 other publications. No greater stimulus to public speaking has ever been offered. This renewed interest in and stimulus to public speaking, bringing back into favor and popularity the old town hall meetings, in itself justifies the project to say nothing of the gain in information of the knowledge essential to the well being of every true American citizen.

A very pretty affair at Lindenwood College was the sophomore dinner-dance Friday evening, April 24, in which the sophomore class, headed by Misses Lillian Tweedie, Margaret Edwards, Sylvia Rubins and Mary Louise Blocher, were hosts to all the students and faculty with Miss Margaret Miles as sponsor. Japanese decorations were carried out, the Butler Gym being hung with Japanese lanterns and smilax. Sophomore colors, red and white, were observed. There was music by an orchestra, and a special favor dance, in which Japanese fans were the favors.

ST. LOUIS AND VICINITY.

Among the awards of the current year at Lindenwood College is a contest into which a number of students have entered for committing most verses of Scripture to memory. It will close May 1st. This is a memorial of the wife of Judge Badgett—the "Dorothy Holtcamp-Badgett prize"—Mrs. Badgett having been a Lindenwood student in her girlhood. It is carried on each year in connection with the Bible department.

"Butler Day" exercises at Lindenwood College, last Thursday, were in memory of Col. James Gay Butler and his wife. Their gifts to Lindenwood were greater than of any other donors. The fact was brought out by Dr. John L. Roemer, president of Lindenwood, that Col. Butler (who died in 1916) gave himself with his gifts. He "knew all the girls by name," frequently visiting the college. Several of the alumnae who had known him were present and gave talks.

Joplin Girls Make Good Cooks.

St. Charles Mo., April 25.—Miss Pauline Martin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Martin, 814 Byers avenue, and Miss Annavere Brookshire, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Brookshire, 710 Wall street, Joplin, who attend Lindenwood college here, are specializing in home economics. Each member of the advanced cooking class, to which both of these girls belong, will individually prepare and serve three meals: a luncheon, a formal dinner and an informal dinner, to which several students and faculty members will be invited.

Miss Brookshire will serve an informal dinner on April 28, and at a later date Miss Martin will serve a formal dinner at which the president of the college, Dr. J. L. Roemer, and the dean of students, Mrs. J. L. Roemer, will be the guests of honor.

MISS RUTH KAHN ENTERTAINS.

Miss Ruth Kahn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Kahn, will entertain Miss Mary C. Olsen, an instructor of history in Lindenwood College; Miss Sylvia Rubins, a sophomore in the college, and Miss Virginia Hoover, another Lindenwood sophomore, at a formal dinner April 30 at 6 P. M. This is a part of the course in home economics.

Miss Kahn has been studying at Lindenwood College for two years, this being her sophomore year. She is majoring in chemistry and won a scholarship in that subject last year.

Miss Kahn's assistants in her entertainment are to be Miss Wilma Neiderluecke and Miss Willa McCallum. The menu of the dinner is as follows:

Fruit Cocktail
Chicken and Dressing
Potato Puff
Buttered Asparagus
Giblet Sauce
Radishes and Celery
Stuffed Tomato Salad with Saltines
Strawberry Shortcake
Demi-tasse
Nuts and Bon-bons

The color scheme is to be carried out in red and white.

Delivers Lecture to Students of Lindenwood College at St. Charles.

At 11 o'clock Thursday morning, April 16, Cyril Clemens of Webster Groves, formerly of Georgetown University, Washington, D. C., delivered a lecture to the students of Lindenwood College, St. Charles. Mr. Clemens, who is a cousin of the greatly loved Mark Twain, used as his subject "Authors Little Known." The three authors whose lives Mr. Clemens reviewed with such personal sidelights on their characters and works that the lecture was deemed by all exceedingly interesting were: Samuel Johnson, Thomas Love Peacock, and Anthony Trollope.

In dealing with Johnson, Mr. Clemens contrasted him with Shakespeare, bringing out the fact that while the works of Shakespeare are greatly read and studied, there is little known about the man himself, which case is directly reversed in the life of Samuel Johnson. Mr. Clemens then told of the life of Peacock, the satirist, whose greatest works were "Headlong House" and "Nightmare Abbey," and of Anthony Trollope, a realist, who at one time was very popular. The speaker described Johnson as a conservative, Peacock as a pessimist and Trollope as an optimist.

Mr. Clemens radiates enthusiasm in his subject and work. He is a good raconteur and his sense of humor adds to the enjoyment of the story. The college-girl audience agreed that the lecture was well worth while.

Funeral of Judge
Frank A. Hobein to Be Held Today

Services at St. Francis Xavier's Church to Start at 8:30 O'Clock.

The late Frank A. Hobein, a veteran member of the St. Louis bar, will be buried in Calvary Cemetery this morning, after services at 8:30 o'clock at St. Francis Xavier's Church. He died Thursday afternoon.

Judge Hobein was born in Missouri, near Jefferson City, October 10, 1852. Except for several years spent at college in Montreal, Canada, he lived in this state all his life, the greater part of the time in St. Louis, where he was a familiar figure in the civil courts and in social circles. He was a bachelor and lived at 3710 West Pine boulevard with his cousins, the Misses Siemers, three of whom survive him. One of the three is a religious of the Sacred Heart in their institution at Lake Forest, Ill. The other two are Misses Agnes and Paula Siemers. He is also survived by two nieces, a nephew and a half-brother.

Although confining his energies for many years to looking after his property and that of his cousins, Judge Hobein kept in close touch with the courts. He was regarded as one of the ablest constitutional lawyers in the state and his specialty was Probate Court work.

Interested in Education.

His principal diversion was making addresses on Shakespeare and Daniel Webster to students of several colleges. He took a deep interest in the education of young women and several times every year he would address the history classes at Lindenwood College at St. Charles and the Sacred Heart College at Lake Forest, near Chicago. For a number of years the Hobein medal for the best essay on English literature has been a subject of contest at Lindenwood. On gala days at Lindenwood the "Judge" would be a familiar figure, roaming around the campus doffing his hat and showing his close-clipped white hair and telling all and sundry that he was a young man, but prematurely gray. Whenever Robert Mantell came to St. Louis with a Shakespearean repertoire, Judge Hobein would be in a front seat. He specialized in his Shakespearean discourses on Brutus and Macbeth, but on occasion would take a turn at Lear or Othello.

Being of German lineage, he was

A graduating recital at Lindenwood College was given yesterday afternoon by Miss Elsa Brechnitz, pianist, a student whose home is in Belleville. Miss Sampsell sang several Italian and French numbers, a group of "Bayou Songs," by Strickland; "Twilight," by Dobson; "On a Moonlight River," Barnett, and "May Morn," by Denza.

deeply imbued with a love for the products of the "fatherland." He knew Goethe and Schiller almost by heart and insisted that he was a better Irishman than many a man born in that country, because his knowledge of the Teutonic tongues enabled him to read Gaelic. He could enjoy Chaucer without resort to a glossary.

He was an ardent politician and was generally on "the other side," having started in life as a Democrat and frequently voting for a Republican.

He had his law office in the same suite in the Wainwright Building as Thomas J. Rowe, another old-time lawyer and a "hard-boiled" Democrat, and he and Judge Hobein had many a witty argument when the latter would forsake the party and run off after the strange gods of Republicanism.

One incident in the life of Judge Hobein of which he lived to tell was the fact that he left Canada and went to New York State in November, 1876, casting his vote for Samuel J. Tilden for President. The election officials protested and he protested. The result was that Hobein's vote and those of several other nonresident students who claimed a right to vote for President any place in the United States were placed in a separate box and eventually were counted for Tilden.

Too Many Prayers Merely for Favors, Minister Declares

Dr. Roemer Doubts There Ever Will Be Universal Creed.

"More people know about Christianity, what it does and how it works than they do about its theology," said Rev. Dr. John L. Roemer, president of Lindenwood College, in a sermon yesterday morning at the First Congregational Church, Wydown boulevard and University lane, on "The World's Greatest Prayer." The prayer was that of Christ, "Father, I have manifested thy name."

The Savior's attitude in prayer, as an example for mankind, was pointed out as a real communion with God, not simply a request for favors. "To some people prayer merely is a catalogue of their wants, a sort of requisition on the storehouse of infinite supply," he said. "There once was a great storm at sea, and a clergyman was a passenger on ship-board. The people begged him to hold a prayer meeting. He did so, and 300 came to pray. Next morning, after the storm had subsided, when he desired to bring them together for a prayer of thanksgiving, only three came."

The speaker quoted Christ's words, "I pray for those whom thou hast given me." He said, "He prays not for a life of ease for them, not to take them out of the world, but to keep them from evil. We of today sometimes think that the greatest blessing we can confer upon our friends is to take their burdens from them. A St. Louis man said to me the other day, 'I have been through so many hardships, but I am fixing it so that my son will have a life of ease.' Hardship has done less damage than softness. By trials and troubles we are made better and glorified."

"Christ utters a prayer that they may all be one. There is a difference of interpretation about that. I have seen church people trying to get together on the basis of organic unity. I believe in that, if it can be accomplished; but I think one creed absolutely the same is impossible. All people cannot think alike. There are diversities of people, and there must be diversities of mind and of expression. But there is a unity that comes from oneness of spiritual life. The processes may be different, but the conclusions are the same."

"If we make Christ's aims our aims there will come into our lives a new fighting morale for the kingdom of God."

Lindenwood College Centennial to Be Observed in 1927

72 Alumni Attend Annual Luncheon and Meeting Yesterday.

Announcement of the Lindenwood College centennial in 1927 was made yesterday at an annual luncheon at the Missouri Athletic Association by the St. Louis Lindenwood College Club. Classes were represented as far back as 1875 and 1876 in the seventy-two members. A discussion was held of the scholarship fund in memory of Mary Easton Sibley, with which the Lindenwood alumnae and former students intend to endow the institution at the centennial. Besides President and Mrs. John L. Roemer who were guests, the college was represented by Dean Alice E. Gipson and Miss Alice A. Linneman, both of whom responded to toasts.

Mrs. Leslie A. Burritt of New York City, who attended Lindenwood in the '80s, told of the strong friendship in New York among the members of the Lindenwood Club, and of her own "adoption" of six graduates of recent years, who have spent the winter in New York.

Mrs. Joseph W. White, president of the club, introduced Mrs. W. C. Hamill as toastmistress, who named each speaker in a poetic way as a "flower in the centennial garden of Lindenwood." President John L. Roemer spoke on "The Linden Tree, King of the Campus."

The "king of the campus" is an elm tree more than 200 years old. The lindens that are on the campus represent tradition and symbolize Lindenwood, Dr. Roemer said. He quoted a leading citizen of Kansas City who had spoken of "the important place Lindenwood has in the history of Missouri," Mrs. Mary Easton Sibley's name having been selected for a memorial at Washington as the "representative Missouri woman." An official of the Presbyterian Board of Education, on a recent visit, had said, "of the fifty-seven varieties of Presbyterian colleges he found none so well organized as Lindenwood."

Mrs. John L. Roemer, to whom a calla lily was presented, spoke on "The Queen of the Campus, the Lily."

Dean Alice E. Gipson's talk pertained to Lindenwood's faculty and to the willingness of the girls to study. "I have been delighted with the record," she said. "An astonishing number have done superior work under instructors who are determined to keep up the standards of the college."

Mrs. Joseph W. White's subject was "Rosemary," and Mrs. D. M. Hardy of Waterloo, Ill., who spoke on "Ivy," recalled early history of Maj. and Mrs. George C. Sibley, who founded Lindenwood.

The pansy was represented by Miss Lillian Zacher; the calceolaria or pocketbook plant by Mrs. Arthur J. Krueger; sweet peas by Mrs. H. A. Kotkis, and the peony by Mrs. Leslie A. Burritt of New York.

and Miss Kathryn Hocker, secretary. A rainbow scheme, terminating in a surprise "pot of gold," will constitute the decorations. Other students who will speak will be Miss Eleanor Brown for the juniors, and Miss Betty Birch for the freshmen. Toasts from the faculty will be given by Dr. John L. Roemer, president of the college; Dean Alice E. Gipson and Miss Marjorie Weber, head of the physical education department.

Miss Elizabeth Rhoads, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Rhoads, of Stuttgart, is a competitor in an unusual contest at Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Mo., where she is a freshman. Miss Rhoads is specializing in art, and is taking a course in costume designing as part of her work.

She is one of six girls to try for the annual prize offered for a house-dress design. The prize is offered by the Kansas City manufacturer of the popular "Nelly Don" dresses, who is a graduate of Lindenwood. The winner of this contest will have the pleasure of having her design made up as a Lindenwood Nelly Don model, as well as a substantial award.

MEDFORD GIRL ENTERTAINS WITH LUNCHEON AT COLLEGE

Word has been received here that Miss Eleanor Stewart, of Medford, who is a student in Lindenwood College, specializing in Home Economics, recently entertained the following Lindenwood faculty members at a formal luncheon: Dr. John L. Roemer, president of the college; Miss Lucille Hatch, of the music department; and Miss Marjorie Weber, head of the physical education department.

The luncheon was served in the suite of rooms attached to the "Home Ec" department. The color scheme was in pink and white, carried out in pink roses. Miss Stewart is a freshman at Lindenwood. She is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Stewart, of Medford.

About 100 guests were present at a recent annual French tea in the Y. W. parlors of Lindenwood College. Quartet tables were arranged in May Day decorations, with a stick candy May pole in the center of each table, from which hung streamers of red, white and blue, representing the colors of France as well as of the United States. The same national colors were wrapped around the pillars of the rooms. French flags were the favors. The Lindenwood Orchestra furnished music, and there was also solo singing. # Kansas Cityans Give Good-Will Tourists Cordial Reception

St. Louis Delegation Banqueted by Chamber After Two Strenuous Days in Towns in Western Part of State.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE GLOBE-DEMOCRAT.
KANSAS CITY, MO., May 19.—After two days of strenuous activity, the Good-Will tourists who are representing St. Louis on a trip through forty-nine Missouri towns, are resting tonight in their special train in Kansas City, ready to proceed tomorrow toward Chillicothe.

The train left Nevada early this morning and worked its way northward along the western part of the state.

Rich Hill had risen early to greet the delegation, and had decorated the main thoroughfare with flags. The Mayor, Dr. D. H. Cromwell, with E. E. Veau and J. W. Jamison, formed the Reception Committee.

Harry Simon, secretary and treasurer of the Marquette Cloak and Suit Company, made a brief talk, pointing out the fact that the visit of the St. Louisans was not strictly a business call, but an expression of friendship.

"We have called upon you," he said. "Now we want you to return the visit. Come to St. Louis soon, and come often."

Former Resident Returns.

At Butler a cry went up for Sam Blair, assistant trust officer of the Mississippi Valley Trust Company, who lived in the town when a boy. Blair was kept busy renewing old acquaintances.

The Good-Willers were conveyed from the station to the town square in automobiles, led by Mayor W. W. Henry.

Others in the Reception Committee were: L. R. Twyman, president of the Commercial Club; H. L. Oberweather, Dr. T. W. Arnold, Charles Fisk, W. F. Duvall, Wes Black, Rev. D. A. Dickey, Rev. T. C. Brammar, C. H. Argenbright, Ted Armstrong and Col. C. E. Robbins.

Scott R. Deckins, secretary of the Sales Managers' Bureau, in a brief talk at the town square, stressed the educational and cultural advantages of St. Louis, and urged the townspeople to make St. Louis their regular market.

The Girls' Glee Club of the Adrian was ready with songs

H. Sneed, A. B. Bowman, R. W. Adams and L. M. Crouch, Jr.

Pleasant Hill afforded Guy C. Motley, secretary of Lindenwood College, St. Charles, his best opportunity thus far to mix business with pleasure. The train was met at the station by the girls of the Knickerbocker Buddies, a hiking organization, who pinned roses on the lapels of the St. Louisans. Motley reciprocated by bedecking the girls with Lindenwood buttons of yellow and white. The roses were raised in local greenhouses, said to be among the largest west of the Mississippi River.

The girls, Misses Frances Dumm, Lucy Gibson, Marguerite Farrell, Harriette Parker, Margaret Bell and Ernestine Jerard, also passed out pamphlets telling of the glories of Pleasant Hill.

Otto C. Kircher, president of the Chamber of Commerce, greeted the delegations in behalf of Pleasant Hill's masculine population.

Evidence of the dominance of St. Louis' wholesale market was conspicuous at Lee's Summit, where the Browning Dry Goods Company, the town's largest store of its kind, had arranged a large banner, inscribed as follows:

St. Louis Products.

"Established 1888 by E. T. Browning; $2,500,000 worth of St. Louis dry goods and shoes have been cleared through this store."

O. C. Browning, president of the store, had a warm greeting for H. S. Zucker, president of the Hust-Zucker Neckwear Company, who, he recalled, had sold him his first bill of goods.

The Reception Committee at Lee's Summit was made up of Mayor Joe Noel, E. T. Browning, president of the Triangle Club; J. H. Miller, and Rev. Thomas J. Haney.

Independence had made elaborate plans for the entertainment of the good-will travelers and the reception at this suburb of Kansas City was especially cordial.

Thirty-five new automobiles were at the depot to transport the visitors to the business section, where a special platform had been constructed for the band.

The committee in charge of arrangements was headed by the year-old Mayor, R. T. Sermon, and included Frank W. Rucker, president of the Chamber of Commerce; Lawrence D. Jones, the secretary; W. W. Kinney and William Bern, Jr.

Good-Will Tourists Welcomed at Score of Missouri Towns

Business Men Visit St. Joseph and Spend Night at Chillicothe.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE GLOBE-DEMOCRAT.
ST. JOSEPH, MO., May 20.—A glee club has been formed by thirty of the St. Louis delegates before the Good-Will special of the Chamber of Commerce reached St. Joseph late today, and the station rang with songs of greeting as hosts advanced to welcome the business missionaries. It is not a finished glee club exactly, and its repertoire naturally is limited, but what its members lack in training it makes up in enthusiasm.

St. Joseph sent her leading citizens to greet the St. Louisans at the station. Besides George McIninch, president of the Chamber of Commerce, and Marion E. Cox, president of the Booster Club, there was Harry E. McPherson, who has been mentioned among others to Gov. Baker to fill out the unexpired term of the late Senator Spencer. McPherson, who was a member of the last General Assembly, and a major during the world war, admitted that he was surprised to see his name introduced.

Judge W. K. James made a brief address of welcome to the St. Louis delegation, and Harry Simon, secretary and treasurer of the Marquette Cloak and Suit Company, responded.

Spend Night at Chillicothe.

The Good-Will travelers were taken on an automobile tour through the city before the departure of the special for Chillicothe, where the delegation will stop for the night.

The hospitality of the old South was evident at Liberty, the first stop of this morning. Liberty turned out to pay honor to the St. Louisans in general, and, in particular, to Guy C. Motley, secretary of Lindenwood College, who spent his youth in that town of churches and schools and beautiful homes.

Motley's brother, C. L. Motley, was a member of the Reception Committee, headed by E. R. Kirkland, president of the Commercial Club of Liberty. Following an automobile trip through the town and past William Jewell College, the Good-Will delegation gathered at the Courthouse, a relic of civil war days. H. R. Banks introduced Roy S. Rauschkolb, manager of the development service department of the Chamber of Commerce, who made a brief talk on the advantages of St. Louis as a shopping center.

A. L. Dodge, a representative of Butler Brothers, joined the party at Liberty, to accompany J. N. Brown-dyke, house sales manager of Butler Brothers, over the rest of the route.

A Centennial Garden was the program of toasts at the annual luncheon of the St. Louis Lindenwood College Club, at the Missouri Athletic Association, Tuesday, May 19. One of the oldest alumnae, Mrs. D. M. Hardy, class of 1876, told of the coming of Mary Easton to Missouri at the age of 3, in 1803; her marriage to Maj. George C. Sibley at 15; and their coming from Fort Osage to St. Charles, where they founded Lindenwood in 1827. How the lindens have grown and what their meaning is, was described by the college president, Dr. John L. Roemer.

Announcement was made of the motion-picture benefit for the club in its scholarship drive at the Missouri Theater on June 1-5, when Alice Joyce will appear in "The Little French Girl." Miss Lillian Zacher of 3529 Victor street, is in charge of the tickets.

Miss Beryl Wade, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. J. H. Wade of Ozark, who is attending Lindenwood College as a freshman, recently was one of a group of girls to spend Sunday in St. Louis on a tour of the cathedrals, under the special chaperonage of Miss Alice Linneman, head of Lindenwood's art department. They first attended church services at Christ Church Cathedral, and its artistic beauties were pointed out to them. Then they went to the Catholic Cathedral, to admire its beautiful architecture and mural decorations. Miss Wade found that church's peculiar and wonderful mosaic especially admirable. After taking dinner at the Jefferson Hotel, the girls returned to college, reporting an extremely interesting day.

Good-Will Tourists Welcomed Back in 49th State Borders

Carried Fame of St. Louis to Merchants in 35 Towns.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE GLOBE-DEMOCRAT.

MOBERLY, MO., May 21.—The 49th State welcomed the Good Will tourists of St. Louis back into its borders this afternoon when their special train reached La Plata, after an absence of three days. Their travels have taken them to the Northwestern section of Missouri, where they have carried the fame of St. Louis to merchants and individuals in thirty-five towns.

Tonight the delegates, representing more than fifty business houses of St. Louis, are resting in Moberly, with but two more days of travel ahead of them. The Good Will special is scheduled to arrive in St. Louis Saturday afternoon, after visiting fourteen more towns.

The tourists pulled out of Chillicothe early this morning, after a night featured by a meeting at the Courthouse and later by a radio concert in the railroad yards beside the special train. G. M. Horton, superintendent of the Western Union Telegraph Company, at the dials of a portable set, brought on the tour by C. E. Borntraeger, merchandising manager of the McGraw Company, picked up several concerts for the entertainment of the travelers.

The members of the party were hoping to see former Gov. A. M. Dockery at his home in Gallatin, where the first stop of the day was made, but he was in St. Louis.

The people of this community are welcoming the warm weather, because of the need of sunshine for crop development.

Until this afternoon not a delegate had missed the train at any point enroute, but the inevitable occurred at Milan, where the Good-Will travelers stopped for twenty minutes.

Delegate Misses Train.

The victim was Guy C. Motley, secretary of Lindenwood College, St. Charles. He lingered just one minute too long, and had to commandeer the automobile of T. A. Dodge of Milan to overtake the special at Green City.

The contingent of the Roberts, Johnson & Rand Shoe Company was augmented at Milan where B. L. Bishop boarded the special.

Besides Penn Love and J. R. Moorehead, president and vice president respectively of the Milan Chamber of Commerce, the Welcoming Committee included Mayor Isaac Dodge and Mrs. A. R. Poole, prominent in community work, and an alternate to the National Republican Convention in 1924.

The grassy lawn of the town park at Green City made that stop a welcome one to the tourists. Mayor J. M. Border headed the Reception Committee, composed of S. P. Dewitt, A. E. Jones, Dr. J. D. Bohrer, Rev. Z. A. Young and D. H. Cow-

Annual Luncheon Lindenwood College Club.

Among guests at the annual luncheon of the Lindenwood College Club of St. Louis, Tuesday, May 19, at the Missouri Athletic Association, was Mrs. Leslie A. Burritt of New York City, who said that she tries to "adopt" Lindenwood girls whenever they come to New York, and she has six of them "under her wing" at present, whom she often invites to her home on Riverside drive, or to theater or opera parties. Mrs. Durritt attended Lindenwood in 1881-82, has now a niece in the college and expects to have three nieces there next year.

Dr. and Mrs. John L. Roemer, Dr. Alice E. Gipson and Miss Alice A. Linnmann of the college faculty, were guests, each responding to a toast. The toastmistress, Mrs. W. C. Hamill, made much of the centennial idea (1927) and the speakers, each representing a plant or flower, were part of Lindenwood's metaphorical "centennial garden." Dr. Roemer spoke for the linden tree; Mrs. Roemer for "the lily," which also happened to be her own given name; Dr. Gipson for the daisy, and Miss Linnmann for the four-leafed clover, with its points of "faith, hope, love and luck." Students of the college had gathered that morning a large collection of the four-leafed clovers, which were distributed.

Mrs. D. M. Hardy of Waterloo, Ill., and Mrs. J. B. Brouster of Creve Coeur, were graduates, respectively, of 1876 and 1875. Other speakers were the club's president, Mrs. Joseph W. White, "Rosemary"; the treasurer, Mrs. Arthur J. Krueger, "Calceolaria, the pocketbook plant," and Mrs. H. A. Kotkis, "sweet peas." There are now 72 members in the St. Louis Lindenwood Club, and 25 associate members still at the college.

GIRL HAS NOT MISSED SUNDAY SCHOOL IN 11 YEARS

Miss Pauline Davis of Nowata, Ok., a sophomore at Lindenwood College, has established a record for not having missed Sunday school for the last eleven years. When Rev. Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick preached in St. Louis two weeks ago, Miss Davis had arranged to attend the service, but when she found that this would involve such long waiting as to make it necessary to miss Sunday school, she decided not to attend his service.

Last year, at Lindenwood, Miss Davis won the $10 award given annually to the freshman memorizing the most Bible verses, known as the Dorothy Holtkamp Badgett prize.

GOOD WILL TOURISTS OF COMMERCE CHAMBER HOME

Party, Traveling in Special Train, Visited 48 Cities and Towns in Northern Half of Missouri in Week.

Tired but triumphant, nearly 100 members of the Sales Managers' Bureau of the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce returned home late yesterday after a Good Will tour in Missouri which took them through 48 cities and towns in the northern half of the state. The party, which traveled in a special train furnished by the Missouri Pacific railroad, started from St. Louis last Sunday night, making the first stop at Jefferson City Monday morning.

The trip, the 23rd to be made under the auspices of the Chamber of Commerce, and designed primarily to give sales managers of the manufacturing and jobbing houses an opportunity to study at first hand the problems encountered by their sales forces on the road, was pronounced the most successful ever made. It has been an annual event since 1898, when the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce inaugurated the first trade trip, with the exception of a few years during the war.

Results of Great Benefit.

The results of the trips has without exception been of great advertising value to St. Louis and the many civic and commercial institutions represented. In charge of the party were Philip A. Becker of the Central Credit Corporation, chairman, and Scott Delkins, secretary. They were assisted by Roy S. Rauschkolb, manager of the Development Service department, and Robert E. Lee, secretary of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association.

Everywhere on the trip the Good Will tour was given the heartiest reception. The last day's tour began at Mexico, where a night stop was made Friday night. The first stop was made at Wellsville. Then Montgomery City, Warrenton, Wright City and Wentzville were visited in the order named before arriving at St. Charles.

There the tourists found themselves surrounded and outnumbered by the girls of Lindenwood College, so they quickly surrendered. They were driven directly to the college dining hall where lunch was served and an interesting program enjoyed until the two hours allotted were over. Guy C. Motley, secretary of the college, was a member of the touring party all week, but he had not disclosed the lavish plans made for a climax of the six days' festivities.

Five Public Night Meetings.

At each of the five night stops public meetings were held at which the residents of the various cities were addressed by the corps of speakers with the party. The programs usually were in two sections, that of the homefolks invariably being given first place. Then the visitors told of the many advantages St. Louis had to offer, in addition to giving them a splendid musical entertainment. Besides the meetings many personal calls were made on the merchants. Civic Development Noted.

The civic development of many of the communities visited was astonishing to most of the tourists. Everywhere were seen paved streets. White way lights and public buildings of expensive design and ample proportions. Department stores, though smaller than those in the Missouri metropolis, were quite as complete and stocked with goods of a quality to satisfy the most fastidious trade.

On every hand there were innumerable new automobiles. Culture and prosperity dominated the attitude and remarks of the crowds who gathered to meet the trains. But despite the stylish clothes of the girls and the city manners of the men and boys, everywhere there was a clamor for the souvenirs which the tourists presented lavishly.

Members of the party who had made similar trips to other trade territory expressed themselves as amazed at the progress they found in their own State. Without exception they voted the trip the best they ever had and one which is bound to accomplish great good, both for the city of St. Louis and for the cities visited.

Members of the Tour.

Among those who participated in the tour were:

Graduates Discuss Destiny at Annual Lindenwood Luncheon

21 Seniors to Receive Degrees at Exercises on June 9.

Despite much-discussed tendencies toward "science" in the schools, the Lindenwood College annual senior luncheon at the Missouri Athletic Association yesterday showed that the degree "Bachelor of Arts" holds its own, almost two to one, against the degree "Bachelor of Science," in the roster of twenty-one graduates. Exception is made to two graduates in music, with the degree, "Bachelor of Music." Thirteen will receive A. B. and seven B. S., but to one graduate both degrees will be awarded.

President and Mrs. John L. Roemer were the hosts at the luncheon, and Dr. R. S. Calder, sponsor of the senior class, with Mrs. Calder and the college dean, Dr. Alice E. Gibson, were guests.

An impromptu census, taken down the line, revealed several surprises among the seniors. By no means every one has bobbed hair. Six, including the president of the class, Miss Maude Arveson, are wearing long tresses.

Among the careers contemplated by the twenty-one graduates, whose ages range from 20 to 24 years, three admit that they intend to marry in the near future. Ten are looking forward to teaching. One intends to do welfare work, and another, who specialized in music, to go on the concert stage. Several intend to travel next year, several others to study in post-graduate courses, and one or two will go into business.

This is the largest graduating class which Lindenwood has had since it inaugurated the four-year college curriculum. The commencement address will be given Tuesday morning, June 9, by Gov. Baker.

The seniors are as follows: Misses Elizabeth Arveson, Maude Arveson, both of Merrill, Wis.; Margaret Boss, Jackson, Mo.; Gertrude Bird, Davenport, Ia.; Charlotte Buck, Otée, Neb.; Virginia Bauer, Mitchell, S. D.; Helen Calder, St. Charles, Mo.; Viola Kararenbrock, St. Charles; Marion Kaufman, Fayette, Mo.; Helen Kready, Sikeston, Mo.; Roberta Mackechnie, Indianola, Neb.; Martha Messinger, St. Louis; Roberta Moehlenkamp, Martha Peppardine, Neosho, Mo.; Anne Podrasky, Lake Charles, La.; Maye Randolph, Williamson, W. ### LINDENWOOD GIRL WINS PRIZE FOR MAKING DRESS

Miss Marie Lansing of Buffalo, N. Y., a Lindenwood College student, received first prize in Lindenwood's home economics department for the best-made dress in the "Nelly Don" competition. Her dress, a tailored rose flannel, will be made up in the fall line of a Kansas City dress manufacturer.

Similar distinction comes to Miss Isabel Wanless, whose design of a straight-line dress won first place in the art department and is likewise to be used as a model. Miss Wanless' home is in Springfield, Ill. She also entered the competition for sewing and won second place. The third dress prize went to Miss Adah Davis of Waynesville, N. C., the second prize for design to Miss Oda Wentworth of Unionville, Mo., and the third to Miss Martha Shortridge of Sedalia. Miss Alleen Moran of Stuttgart, Ark., received honorable mention. The prizes aggregated $80.

Lindenwood Dress Design Awards.

A competition for dress designing and workmanship in the art and home economics departments of Lindenwood College has resulted in the award of six prizes, bestowed by Mrs. Paul F. Donnelly of Kansas City. A house-dress made by Miss Marie Lansing, which won first prize of $25 in the dressmaking, will be adopted by Mrs. Donnelly's manufacturing plant. In the art department, Miss Isabel Wanless' dress design won first prize of $15; Miss Oda Wentworth took second prize, $10; and Miss Martha Shortridge, third prize, $5. Following Miss Marie Lansing's place as first in the dressmaking department, the other winners were: Miss Adah Davis, $15, and Miss Wanless, $10; Miss Wanless having also won in the art department. Honorable mention was given to Miss Alleen Moran.

At the annual luncheon of the St. Louis Lindenwood College Club at the Missouri Athletic Association, last Tuesday, Mrs. W. C. Hamill as toast-mistress introduced speakers who represent flowers and plants for "the Centennial garden of Lindenwood campus." This centennial, which will occur in 1927, was anticipated in all the speeches. One of the ideas was that of the "Calceolaria," a flower commonly called the "pocketbook plant," which was represented with a real blossom presented by Mrs. Arthur Krueger, treasurer.

Dr. John L. Roemer, Lindenwood's president, toasted the "King of the Campus," the linden tree for which the college is named. He had found, he said, that the linden is a tree of which "the bees are fond." He thought the simile held good for Lindenwood, in training girls in studies and accomplishments which are "sweet and sane." Also at the speakers' table were Mrs. John L. Roemer, dean of students, and Dr. Alice E. Gipson, dean of the college. To Mrs. Roemer was presented a calla lily, and to Miss Gipson, daisies. The "daisy" idea was carried out later in the dessert, which consisted of individual, great flower pots, with paper containers inside, filled with ice cream, in the center of which was a fresh Shasta daisy.

Mrs. Joseph W. White, president of the club, presented "Rosemary" and said that all members are much interested in the centennial scholarship fund which is being raised. A "rosebud" represented the 25 absent associate members, St. Louis girls who were at their studies in the college. Mrs. D. M. Hardy, of Waterloo, Ill., an alumna of 1876, presented different leaders from Lindenwood's beginning in 1827 as the "ivy." Mrs. J. B. Brouster was a guest who graduated exactly 50 years ago, and formerly taught in the St. Louis public schools.

Miss Alice A. Linneman, of the college faculty, brought a bunch of "four-leafed clover" from the campus; Miss Lillian Zacher spoke on the "pansy;" Mrs. H. A. Kotkis on "sweet peas," the favorite flower of the late Col. James Gay Butler, who endowed Lindenwood; and Leslie A. Burritt of New York, on "The Peony; Symbol of Sturdiness." The St. Louis Lindenwood club has now 72 members.

Miss Lillian Tweedie, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Tweedie of this city, and a student of Lindenwood College, appeared with the Lindenwood orchestra at the recent banquet, given by the Lindenwood Athletic Association at the Forest Park Hotel, St. Louis, which received much favorable comment upon its music. Miss Tweedie is a young woman of exceptional ability in both piano and violin music. She is also one of the leaders in school activities, being president of her class, a member of the Sophomore basket ball and hockey teams, obtaining membership in the Athletic Association. Last year she participated in the Freshman play given in honor of Mrs. J. L. Roemer, was also a member at large of the Spanish Club, ernment board. She is declared also and is a member of the student gov- to possess the true college spirit. Besides her enviable record at Lindenwood, Miss Tweedie also maintains her reputation in her home city where she is regarded as one of its most charming young women.

LINDENWOOD GIRLS STAGE CIRCUS TONIGHT

Announcements by the "Ringless Sisters" placarding the walls of study halls at Lindenwood College, give a warning of a "circus," in which everybody is to take part tonight at the Butler Gymnasium. "Put aside your books and pens and thinking caps," says the poster, "and don your tickler hat, your laughing pocketbook, your fairy hankie and your happy blue dress." The circus is under the auspices of the Lindenwood Y. W. C. A., of which Miss Julia Ayers is president. An original music band will play and there will be a great variety of entertaining features.

LINDENWOOD COLLEGE STUDENTS ISSUE ANNUAL

"Linden Leaves," the students annual of Lindenwood College, appeared on the campus today. It is dedicated to Dr. Kurt Stumberg, college physician and member of the faculty, with the inscription: "To him who is of unfailing kindness and humor; who is witty yet crushes levity; who holds God in awe and reverence; who sees good in all and evil in none."

New views of the campus and its buildings are shown, including some winter scenes. There are portraits of President and Mrs. John L. Roemer and Dean Alice E. Gipson. A new idea in pictures of members of the faculty shows each one informally, out of doors, in a characteristic pose.

The staff of the publication consists of Miss Gertrude Bird, editor; Miss Sara Shomberg, business manager, and Misses Cora Wallenbrock, Helen Kready, Margaret Enloe, Corene Placek, Lydia Dodge and Laura Margaret Mellette.

One prophecy of 1980 reads thus: "Officer, arrest that man I believe he is thinking of smoking." The retort courteous from a student who "doesn't know how to put on a typewriter ribbon" is: "Can Paderewski tune a piano?"

The book contains 200 pages, and is illustrated with pictures of classes, members of clubs, honor societies, athletic organizations and other activities.

Changing a Name.

"Morningside, or some similar name" is reported to be the choice of Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick, for the old Park Avenue Baptist Church, "the church of the Rockefellers," of which he is to become pastor in a year and a quarter. People will expect something tremendous when all the changes are made which Dr. Fosdick demands, and which the congregation assented to, by a vote of 350 to 17. The old church property of the Park Avenue congregation has a valuation of $1,600,000, it is said. The new church is to cost a great deal also. In anticipation, it is styled "a many-storied temple." It will have offices in the tiers above. Columbia University students are expected to "sit under" Dr. Fosdick, as the Scottish people say. The new church will be built not far from the university.

It is not so hard, nowadays, for an institution to change its name, as was seen in Trinity College, at Durham, N. C., which acquiesced in the conditions of the $6,000,000 gift by a wealthy tobaccoist. An epigram concerning this transaction was recently expressed by Dr. Kate L. Gregg, a professor in the English department of Lindenwood College, who said: "Mr. Duke is not to be blamed for wishing to keep his name alive through 'Duke University,' rather than 'Duke's Mixture.'"

DR. ROEMER SPEAKS IN JERSEYVILLE

Dr. John L. Roemer, president of Lindenwood College, gave the commencement address last night for the graduating class of the Jersey Township (Ill.) High School at Jerseyville, Ill. He spoke on the topic, "The Biggest and Best Things of Life."

"The strength of this republic," said Dr. Roemer, "is not in its material wealth and great material resources, but in the translation of its riches into human life."

"Greater than returns that come from investments in stocks and bonds are the returns of a well-balanced, educated boy and girl. The home, the state, the church have no greater source of supply of leadership than the school, whose function is to train the mind, direct the moral life and furnish the highest ideals of living."

"This is a day in which we talk in large numbers and do large things. There is nothing small about us. The day of doing small things is gone. Big aims, big achievements dominate our minds. Youth catches the spirit of the day. Youth wants to do something more than ordinary. Youth will never be satisfied with what has been done, but pushes forward to what can be accomplished."

"One of the biggest and best things is the cultivation of a spirit of contentment—not a contentment that is spineless, aimless, worthless, but one that makes the best of what we have, while we try to make the best of our lot better. Discontented lives cannot attain the best. One of the greatest men of history illustrates this in two sentences, 'I have learned in whatsoever state I am, therewith to be content,' and coupled to this a deathless purpose, 'I prize toward the mark for the prize.'"

St. Charles, Mo.—Miss Dorothy Dunseth, of Washington, who has specialized in expression in her course at Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Mo., and who has appeared in a number of recitals and plays in the school year, gave her graduating recital Wednesday afternoon, May 27. She presented part of Shipman-Hymer's play, "East Is West," telling of the love affairs of a young American and an attractive girl who is supposed to be Chinese. However, it turns out that she also is American, and the play ends just as everyone wishes it to. Miss Dunseth portrayed each character cleverly. Her gown on the stage was much admired. She wore a dress of cream silk lace over pink georgette, on which were large pink and green satin flowers. She wore shoes of green marbled kid, the exact color of the green flowers on her dress.
Miss Margaret Fox, of Carbondale,

Graduation Sermon Heard by Seniors at Lindenwood College

Caps and Gowns Worn for First Time at Talk of Dr. R. H. Stafford.

Caps and gowns were worn yesterday afternoon for the first time by the graduates of Lindenwood College, and the baccalaureate sermon was preached in Roemer auditorium by Rev. Dr. Russell H. Stafford, pastor of Pilgrim Congregational Church, on "The School of the Master." Miss Carmela Graziadei sang a solo, "My Redeemer and My Lord," by Buck.

Announcement was made that because of the heat, the spring festival today will be held two hours and a half later than intended. The queen will be crowned at 6:30 o'clock this evening on the campus, immediately preceding the commencement play.

Those who sat in the front seats yesterday, vested in their new sartorial dignity, were the following, with the degrees which they will receive: Bachelor of music—Misses Virginia Bauer and Gerturde Wallrich; bachelor of science, Misses Maude Arveson, Gertrude Bird, Charlotte Buck, Martha Messinger and Anne Podrasky; bachelor of arts—Misses Elizabeth Arveson, Maude Arveson (two degrees), Margaret Boss, Helen Calder, Viola Karenbrock, Marlan Kaufman, Helen Kready, Roberta Mackechnie, Roberta Moehlenkamp, Maye Randolph, Sara Shomberg, Helen Towles and Mary Frances Wertz; associate in arts—Misses Ellen Boyce, Anabel Couper, Pauline Davis, Etta Feist, Blanche Fish, Frances Fitzgerald, Helen Fleming, Marjorie Groves, Lillian Hinkle, Eleanor Kleinschmidt, Ethel Landreth, Thelma McCoy, Laura Margaret Mellette, Dorothee Meyers, Audrey Nixon, Adelalde Peabody, Isabel Poole, Larrita Scoggin, Margaret Slavens, Frankie Stumpe, Elizabeth Sweet, Virginia Symms, Lillian Travers, Margaret Wilson and Miriam Wright.

Dr. Stafford's text told of the appointment of the twelve apostles, in St. Mark, 3:14-15. "So long as life continues," he said, "the educational process goes on, and in the educational process throughout life, as in this institution, the religious element must play an important part if the results are to be commensurate with the labors involved in the great enterprise of living. I invite your attention to religion as in itself constituting an educational project."

The speaker showed that a true relationship to God is more than worship and obedience. He regretted in the church "a sort of neo-Mosaism, a nervous and apprehensive eagerness to observe the letter of the law in forgetfulness of its spirit." He said that if Jesus be primarily the teacher of his followers, one's first duty is to understand him.

"What God wants of us, as students in his school, is that our feeling for him shall come to be one of enthusiastic confidence under the contagion of his aim and purpose. In terms of modern school administration, Jesus supplemented his lecture courses to the general public with a seminar for his special students.

"It is deplorable that the seminar method in religious education—thorough study in a little circle of congenial minds intent upon the same problems—has largely disappeared from modern religious practice. We have great congregations, but a few small conferences.

"Jesus led the twelve to think, and to ask questions, without, however, always telling them the answers to the questions which they asked. Religion is designed, first of all, as God's method for our education, to make us thoughtful."

Otoe Girl Graduates.

Miss Charlotte Buck, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Schuyler Buck, of Otoe, will graduate Tuesday, June 9, from Lindenwood College at St. Charles, Mo., receiving the degree, Bachelor of Science, after completing the full four years' course. Miss Buck as a member of the senior class of 21, was a guest at an elaborate luncheon given by the President of the college, Dr. John L. Roemer and Mrs. Roemer recently, at the Missouri Athletic Association in St. Louis. There was a beautiful setting of smilax and white and gold flowers, the college colors. Miss Buck is to have a part in the "planting of the ivy" on class day, June 8. At the commencement exercises the chief speaker will be Gov. Sam A. Baker, Missouri. Miss Dorothy Meyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Meyer, 1009 Third corso, is a second year student at the same school.

Miss Marguerite McCormick, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. F. McCormick of 209 South McCann street, appeared in one of the closing junior recitals at Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Mo., giving a late afternoon program. A report from the college says: "Four Chopin numbers were rendered, her best talent being perhaps shown in the Nocturne Op 27, No. 1. The second piece, the Harp Etude, gave a fine display of technique and feeling. Her second group consisted of Debussy's 'Arabesque', a fanciful number, and Liszt's 'Rhapsodie No. 10', with its beautiful runs. She closed with Weber's 'Concertstuck', to whose heavy and spectacular work she gave a fine rendition."

She will complete her year with the commencement on June 9, when Governor Sam A. Baker, of Missouri will make the address.

BAKER PRAISES CHRISTIAN IDEAL IN SCHOOL TALK

Governor Lauds Schools With Courage to Hold to Standards.

Christian education was set up as the high star towards which both teachers and students should steer, in an address delivered by Gov. Sam Baker before the graduating class of Lindenwood College this morning.

Terming the Christian ideal the greatest factor in social efficiency, the Governor lauded those schools which in the face of the modern trend have the courage yet to stand for the high standard set by the Greatest Teacher of all.

Gov. Baker said in part:

"I am glad that we have institutions that are not afraid in the modern times to include in their educational efforts, that education that we call Christian education, because we are as we are taught, and usefulness, success and happiness depend on such education.

"A true Christian education is the richest, noblest, sublimest attainment in the realm of human achievement. A Christian life is the natural life. There is no escape from its methods, its qualities, its realities if we expect to reach the full stature of our development. Christian education is simply learning how to comply with the Divine laws of the Creator. It is merely getting into the attitude of reception for the inflow of Divine love.

"The best things have the highest price. In this case the price is the painstaking care and earnest toil necessary to reach the height of true womanhood. In training for a worthy life, human nature must be well understood. The freedom of the will must be honored, and our responsibility of choosing between good and evil must be recognized.

"Life is a struggle. We grow by overcoming the things that hinder. Hard knocks give birth to appreciation and often our natures with the tenderness of sympathy. Christian education is not a separate thing, an attachment, a mere adoption. It permeates our entire life; it is the substance that moves us to our highest activities; it is genuine goodness—the very life itself. In all our development we are never free from it. Its benign influence works steadily in the home, in the school, in the church, in every thought, in every stroke of labor.

"Christian education begins with birth and never calls for graduation exercises. Its growth is endless. The purity and sincerity and reverence of the mother silently molds the heart of the child; the father's manly earnestness and sacred respect for each duty that falls to his lot, leaves an indelible impress upon the soul of his offspring. The wholesome spiritual atmosphere in the home is the greatest Christianizer.

"In the school the character and management of the teacher tell the result of his labors. There every duty must be righteously executed and the precious growth of the home stimulated toward the ripeness of maturity. The church takes its color from the home and the school, guided by the minister's spirit and policy. So we are all united in this fundamental mighty work."

Heart Culture Needed for Education, Says Baker at Lindenwood

Governor Delivers Address at 98th Commencement of St. Charles College, Before Large Audience of Students and Relatives.

Lindenwood College reached its ninety-eighth anniversary at commencement exercises yesterday morning, when Gov. Sam A. Baker spoke on "Education" and Dr. John L. Roemer, president, announced, "two years from now this college will be just 100 years old." The auditorium was crowded. Motor parties came from Kansas City and many towns in Missouri and Illinois, and one very large car brought one student's parents from Wisconsin, taking back to Wisconsin half a dozen students as guests.

Gov. Baker made a plea for a constructive, Christian education. People are mistaken, he said, who hold that "knowledge" is the sole aim of education. He showed the fallacy of the "bread-and-butter" theory. "In the town in which I live," he said, "there is a great and growing institution—I am sorry it is growing—which is bounded by gray stone walls. There are a great many people there who were able to make a living. When they were outside those walls they made money. They have eaten three meals a day for many years, and even since they came to the Penitentiary they have eaten regularly.

"Education of the right sort doesn't teach us how to live without work, but it teaches us how to work and serve. If you don't have the heart culture to start with, college culture will do very little for you."

By far the greatest amount of applause the Governor received was when he came to the home duties of girls, and recited a droll skit about a college girl who could "fence and box, swing a 6-pound dumb-bell, and play golf and tennis all day long, but she couldn't help her mother 'cause she wasn't very strong."

Doesn't Like Finishing School.

Gov. Baker hazarded the remark, "I hope this isn't a 'finishing school,'" whereat Dr. Roemer shook his head emphatically. The latter said afterward, "No, the things we stand for are not the attributes of a 'finishing' school. The 'finishing' school seems really to finish only one thing, and that is father's pocketbook."

In the course of many awards, notice was taken of the medal annually bestowed by Judge Frank A. Hobein, whose death occurred a month ago. Miss Cora Wallenbrock of St. Charles won this medal, which was for English composition. The Sigma Iota Chi scholarship was won by Miss Eleanor Brown of Nickerson, Kan., and the Eta Upsilon Gamma scholarship, by Miss Elizabeth Bramlitt of Malvern, Ark., who was first maid of honor to the spring festival queen.

Miss Virginia Symms of Nevada, Mo., won a scholarship of $25, the same as last year, for best work of any student carrying twelve hours of literary work. The following scholarships to juniors were given: Misses Grace Larson, Paxton, Ill.; Eunice Willbrand, St. Charles; Kathryn Mackechnie, Indianola, Neb.; Dorothy Towers, St. Charles, and Louise Clough, Wyaconda, Mo.

The following freshmen received scholarships to be applied on their expenses next year: Misses Cornelia Mochtenkamp, Doris Achelpohl, Frances Stumberg, Monabelle McKinley, all of St. Charles; Mary Katherine Abney, Napton, Mo.; Rosalind Douglas, Hillsboro, Ill.; Mattalou Marshall, Sliam Springs, Ark.; Eugenia Whittington, Amarillo, Tex., and Mary C. Carr of Kansas City, Mo.

Home Economics Awards.

In cooking, sewing and good housekeeping, there were prizes for about twenty girls, each a $2.50 gold piece. Miss Pearl Padgett of Greenleaf, Kan., received the prize for best sewing; Miss Doris Achelpohl of St. Charles was adjudged "best cook," with honorable mention to Miss Marie Nelson of Auburn, Neb.

"Most Bible verses" had been committed to memory by Miss Kathryn Porter of Dahlgren, Ill., who received a $25 prize. For "prize rooms" in the various dormitories, awards were given to Misses Gertrude Wallrich, Elizabeth Arveson, Margaret Edwards, Nellie Jones, Grace Larson, Miriam Garver, Dorothy Patterson, Norma Elbring, Alice Elbring, Kathryn Routzong, Emma Meffat, Frances Frazier, Eleanor Kleinschmidt, Lillian Tweedie, Maxine Curreathers.

Miss Helen Calder won the senior athletic prize. The progress prizes in music went to Misses Mattalou Marshall, Dorothy Rumph, Elizabeth Owens and Evelyn Shapiro. Best art posters for a $10 award were made by Misses Lucille Ward and Correnne Placek. The former won an art prize given by the Lindenwood College Club. The Nelson prizes, and the Christmas prize, previously announced were publicly awarded. New members of the honorary sororities were announced, state teachers' certificates bestowed, and diplomas. Nineteen four-year graduates, and others completing a two years' course, were presented by Dean Alice E. Gipson. Dr. Roemer conferred the degrees.

Would Like Library.

Dr. Roemer spoke of the memorial scholarship of "at least $100,000," which Lindenwood College clubs are preparing for 1927. Any other centennial gifts would be accepted, he said, and "if anybody wants to give $75,000 for a library, it will be named for the donor."

Rev. Dr. John W. MacIvor, president of the Board of Trustees, offered prayer. The orchestra and choral club gave music for the processional. A solo was sung by Miss Kathryn Mackechnie, and a duet by Misses Elizabeth Owens and Carmela Graziadei.

SOCIAL EFFICIENCY AIM OF EDUCATION, SAYS GOV. BAKER

Executive Here for Commencement Addresses at Lindenwood and Benton
College of Law.

ASSERTS IGNORANCE MAKES FOR DANGER

Opponents of Proper Schooling Standing in Their Own Light, He Tells Girl Graduates.

Gov. Baker, former school teacher and recent State Superintendent of Schools, delivered the commencement address at Lindenwood College, St. Charles, this morning, and will address the graduating class of Benton College of law tonight, at Sheldon Memorial.

Speaking to the young women of Lindenwood, the Governor discussed "The True Aim of Education," and used much philosophy and some poetry.

"It costs money to maintain schools, public or private," the Governor said, "but every dollar spent is well spent. Opponents of education are standing in their own light. A community composed of ignorant individuals is a dangerous community in which to live. Some folks charge that schools are failures; they say that some teachers fail. Sometimes parents fail, yet we do not talk about abolishing parenthood.

Some physicians fail, and see their mistakes go by in a hearse, yet we do not talk about abolishing the great medical profession. Some lawyers fail, and all that they get out of their practice is possibly a complimentary ticket for the hanging of their favorite client, yet we do not talk of doing away with the legal profession. Some preachers fail, yet we do not advocate doing away with the spreading of the gospel. These criticisms are ridiculous. To use a term of the street, some folks get their tongues mixed up with their eye-teeth and can't see what they are saying.

Opposes General Criticism.

"I recall some years ago a great wave of protest went up over the country because it was discovered in the schools of Cleveland, O., that a great percentage of the children did not know what a sugar beet was, and yet we find a great many folks of mature judgment who are not familiar with that plant. I have no sympathy with this idea of general criticism. No criticism is just unless it is of a constructive nature. It is just as easy to praise and to give a word of encouragement as it is to condemn.

"Neither knowledge culture, money culture, nor hereditary culture, contains the spirit of true democracy found in all true culture. Some folks say that the harmonious development of all the faculties is the true aim of education. This is an error. In the first place, it is impossible to develop all the faculties harmoniously. It is true the law of compensation makes up for this inability to develop all the faculties. One faculty will be developed to such an extent that the weakness in other faculties may not be noticeable.

"The true aim of all education, in my opinion, is social efficiency. That efficiency that is recognized among all people, that maintains a balance of power between individuals and society; that includes all the good in the other aims and excludes all the evil; that efficiency that places a reliance on the maker and teacher of all good things; that will enable us in times of trouble to exclaim with the prophet of old: 'The Lord giveth, the Lord taketh away. Blessed be the name of the Lord.'

Describes Socially Efficient.

"It is impossible to name all the qualities of social efficiency. Of course one who is socially efficient must not be a drag on society. She must be able to make a living, if you want to put it in such terms. She must be willing to render to others just dues. She must be industrious, not dreaming.

"The socially efficient individual must be helpful, not selfish in his or her desires, but willing to use his talents for the benefit of mankind. The socially efficient individual, in my opinion, must show that spirit of helpfulness, the Christian spirit that was shown by the Master while on this earth, and shown in all his precept and example. I am glad that we have institutions that are not afraid in these modern times to include in their educational efforts, that education that we call Christian education, because we are as we are taught, and usefulness, success and happiness depend upon such educations."

Lindenwood Language Teacher Who Will Sail for France This Week

MISS E. LOUISE STONE.

Miss E. Louise Stone, head of the romance language department of Lindenwood College, is sailing this week for France, and will spend much of the summer in Paris, where she will continue work at the Sorbonne, which she began last summer, and will do some research work at the Bibliotheque Nationale. She also intends, at the close of the season, to go down into Spain.

Miss Stone has done much to interest Lindenwood students in practical use of foreign languages. She is active in promoting Le Cercle Francais, a students' French club, which gave an all-French play, with particular attention to costumes and accessories, a few months ago. The club also gave a French tea to about 200 guests, at which only French was spoken.

The wedding of Miss Gladys Schultz, niece of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Niekamp of the Gatesworth Hotel, and Dr. Edward F. Sullivan, took place at 10 o'clock this morning at the Immaculate Conception Church, the Rev. Father O'Sullivan officiating. Miss Mary Rose Roberts attended the bride as maid of honor and John Porter was best man. The bride wore flesh-colored georgette over satin of the same shade. The skirt was made with godets headed with georgette roses, and the bodice was simple and sleeveless. Her hat was of cream horsehair and pink maline adorned with a single pink rose. She carried roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Roberts wore green georgette and cream lace, and a hat to match of hair braid and maline. Her flowers were pink roses. A breakfast for the bridal party and a small reception followed at the Gatesworth Hotel, after which Dr. and Mrs. Sullivan departed for Creston, Ia., to visit his parents. After a brief visit in Chicago they will make their home in Gillespie, Ill.

The bride is an alumnae of Lindenwood College, and the bridegroom was graduated a year ago from St. Louis University Medical School.

The bride's sister, Miss Laura Melsheimer, served as maid of honor, and she wore a becoming costume fashioned of georgette, orchid in color, embellished with lace. Her flowers were butterfly roses.

Miss Helen Barnbeck, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid, and she was gowned in Nile green georgette, and carried Columbia roses. Helen Wichman was a cunning little flower girl, wearing pink ruffled georgette. She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Gus Wichman. Mr. Alvin Busse was the best man, and the ushers included Messrs. Dewey Schmoll and Edwin Croissant.

The bride's wedding gown was Chantilly lace over white satin shadowed with flesh chiffon. It was simply draped and caught with orange blossoms. The court train was satin and georgette and weighted with orange blossoms and valley lilies; over this fell a tulle veil held to her hair with wreaths of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley. A reception and dinner followed the ceremony at the Century Boat Club. It also was the silver wedding anniversary of the bride's mother and father.

The bride attended Lindenwood College and Washington University.

The marriage of Miss Mildred Melsheimer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Melsheimer of 59 Aberdeen place, and Carl Eugene Barnbeck, 3455 Halliday avenue, took place last evening at the First Congregational Church, Dr. John L. Roemer, president of Lindenwood College officiating. The bride's sister, Miss Laura Melsheimer, served as maid of honor, and Miss Helen Barnbeck, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid. Miss Melsheimer wore orchid georgette, made with a paneled skirt and combined with lace. She carried butterfly roses. Miss Barnbeck's gown was Nile green georgette and her flowers Columbia roses. The bride wore Chantilly lace over white satin, simply draped and caught with orange blossoms. The court train was of satin with wide bands of georgette at either side and was weighted with more of the blossoms. Her tulle veil was arranged to her hair with tiny bands of orange buds, and she carried lilies of the valley. Helen Wichman, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Wichman, preceded the bride as flower girl, dressed in ruffled pink georgette. Alvin Busse was Mr. Barnbeck's best man; Victor Hofmann was groomsmen and Dewey Schmoll and Erwin Croissant were ushers.

Yesterday was also the silver wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Melsheimer, and to celebrate the occasion a reception and dinner for 165 guests followed at the Century Boat Club. The bridal party stood under a bower of pink roses.

Mrs. Barnbeck attended Lindenwood College and Washington University and the bridegroom is a graduate of Rankin School and attended St. Louis University.

Weddings and Engagements

Dr. Edward F. Sullivan and his bride, who was Miss Gladys Schultz until Tuesday, are in Creston, Ia., the home of Dr. Sullivan's parents. They will make a short visit in Chicago and will then go to Gillespie, Ill., to make their home. The ceremony was performed at the Immaculate Conception Church, the Rev. Father O'Sullivan officiating.

Miss Mary Rose Roberts was maid of honor and John Porter was best man. The bride wore flesh colored georgette over satin of the same shade. The skirt was made with godets beaded with georgette roses and the bodice was sleeveless. Her hat was of cream horsehair and pink moline adorned with a single pink rose. She carried roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Rose wore green georgette and cream and a hat to match of hair brown and moline. Her flowers were pink roses.

The bride is a niece of J. and Mrs. William L. Nickamp of the Gatesworth Hotel and she was educated at Lindenwood College. Dr. Sullivan was graduated from the St. Louis University Medical School a year ago.

St. Charles, Site of State's First Capital, Lays Claim to Being an Older Settlement Than St. Louis

LINDENWOOD COLLEGE FOUNDED IN 1828

It is an established fact, however, that in the fall of 1762 Louis Blanchette "Chasseur" first touched the shores of "Rio Missouri" and traveled west until he met Bernard Guillet, chief of the Dakotas, who is the legendary founder of St. Charles, known in those days at the "Village of the Little Hills." Blanchette is said to have gone back to his native fort, returning in 1769 with a company of Canadians, at which time he formally named the city "Les Petites Cotes" and assumed the title of commandant of the post.

Blanchette's precise connection with the settlement is not clear, in as much as a census of the town was taken in 1787 and no one by that name was mentioned in the list, which was headed by one Pedro Tibo as chief citizen. The census of 1791, however, contains the name of "Don Luis Blanchette." The intrepid old adventurer died in 1793.

The growth of the city was retarded for several years because the Governor of Upper Louisiana discouraged settlement beyond the district of St. Louis and refused to issue and approve grants, although St. Charles had already been designated as one of the five major districts of the Upper Louisiana territory. In 1781 there were only six dwellings in the city, and six years later its population was only eighty.

It was organized as a county in December, 1818, and grew in importance as a trading post, a recognition of this fact being its selection as the site of the first capital in 1821. When the state government moved to Jefferson City, St. Charles pursued its course as one of the thriving industrial cities of the state, and in 1828 received a valuable addition to its resources by the founding of Lindenwood College, an institution for girls, which has continued in uninterrupted operation to this date, and, with its 500 students, is regarded as one of the best of its kind in the West. The founder of the college was Maj. George C. Sibley, who erected a small house upon his own expansive estate and aided in the instruction of the first few students. Subsequent donations by Sibley accounted for its affluent career. St. Charles College, a military school, fared less happily and is now defunct.

FIRST BRIDGE BUILT AT ST. CHARLES

In the City Cemetery, one mile west of St. Charles, is a curious monument—a shaft of iron dedicated to eighteen men who lost their lives in 1871 when a span on the bridge being built across the Missouri River collapsed and sent them all to a horrible death. The monument, quite appropriate, is a section of the iron girder around which has been twisted a cable and anchor, and on it is a bronze plate with the inscription:

"Erected as a monument to the eighteen men who lost their lives in 1871. Erected by the employees of the St. Charles Bridge Company."

The eighteen victims lie in separate graves within the plot on which the iron girder is the center piece.

The bridge on which these men lost their lives was the first to be built across the Missouri River and was the first ever built west of the Mississippi River. It was started in 1869 and was completed in 1871, the collapse of the span delaying its dedication for several months. It suffered another accident in 1889 and was rebuilt, but again an unkind fate overtook it and six workmen were killed when a span broke before the work was completed. The bridge is now in good repair and is used for its original purpose.

crossing of the Missouri roads.

St. Charles today, surrounded by a fertile territory without rival in the state, is a thriving city of 10,000 population. It is connected with St. Louis by two railroads—the Wabash and the M-K-T—and by interurban and the thirteen miles that intervene are spanned by the Victory concrete highway. Car shops, shoe factory and foundries are its main industries although it naturally regards Lindenwood College as one of its principal assets. Sacred Heart Convent is also another institution of great value. Its five banks report deposits totaling $4,830,058.

BEST HOUSEKEEPER

Miss Margaret Edwards of this city attended Lindenwood College at St. Charles, Mo. during the past year. At the recent commencement exercises announcement was made that she and her roommate, Miss Elizabeth Arveson of Merrill, Wisc. were the winners of the "good housekeeping" prize. They were adjudged to have the best-kept double room in Butler hall, one of the five dormitories at the school. The test is made on the whole year. Miss Edwards also excelled in scholarship, having been chosen as a member of the honorary literary society, Alpha Sigma Tau. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Edwards of this city.

A special story from Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Mo., to The Times today announces:

"Miss Frances Frazier, of El Dorado, has made a record for "good housekeeping" in her student life at Lindenwood College. At the recent commencement exercises, President John L. Roemer announced that for the best-kept room in Nicolls Hall, one of the five dormitories, Miss Frazier and her room-mate, Miss Emma Mofat, of Sparta, Ill., carried off the prize. This hall is the student home of about 100 girls."

Miss Frazier has regularly won honors in grades throughout her school and college courses.

Miss Elizabeth Bramlitt, of Malvern, has gained an outstanding honor at Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Mo. At the recent commencement she was named as winner of the Eta Upsilon Gamma scholarship for next year, which is awarded on a basis of marks in daily studies. It is one of the most substantial prizes in Lindenwood's series. Miss Bramlitt will be a senior next year. Gov. Sam A. Baker, of Missouri, was the commencement speaker, and the awards were announced by the college president, Dr. John L. Roemer.

Miss Bramlitt was also an outstanding figure in the spring festival ceremonies of the evening before, when she was maid of honor to Miss Sara Shomberg, of Altoona, Pa., the spring festival queen.

LINDENWOOD GETS ATHLETIC FIELD AND AMPITHEATER

Projects Are Expected to Be Completed When College Opens in the Fall

Erection of an athletic field and an outdoor amphitheater at Lindenwood College, St. Charles, was voted Monday at the annual meeting of the board of directors of the college. Work will be started at once and both projects are expected to be completed when the college opens in the fall.

A scholarship system extensive enough to cover all the sophomore class of the current season, conditioned only on the grades being up to standard for the last two years' work, is being planned for the centennial of the college in 1927. A high scholarship average for the last year was reported by Dr. L. Roemer, president, at the meeting. Dr. John S. MacIvor of the Second Presbyterian Church, St. Louis, was re-elected president of the board. Other officers were re-elected.

LINDENWOOD VOTES ATHLETIC FIELD FUND

Natural Bowl to Be Trans- formed Into an Am- phitheater.

Funds for a new athletic field at Lindenwood College were appropriated by the Board of Directors at a meeting Monday and work will be commenced at once, with plans looking to one of the most complete athletic fields in any girls' college in the country.

Another outdoor development will be the grading and other preparation necessary to transform a natural bowl between the hills back of Niccoll's Hall into an amphitheater, where outdoor plays will be given during the school year. This natural bowl was used for the spring festival of the college and the crowning of the festival queen early this month.

Officers of the Board of Directors were re-elected, as follows: President, Rev. Dr. John W. MacIvor of the Second Presbyterian Church; vice president, Rev. Dr. David M. Skilling of Webster Groves Presbyterian Church; Secretary and treasurer, George B. Cummings.

The Executive Committee and the committees on Buildings and Grounds and Finances were re-elected. The Faculty Committee was changed by the addition of the names of Dr. David M. Skilling and Thomas H. Cobbs. To the Auditing Committee were added Rev. Dr. R. S. Calder, Rev. Dr. Harry C. Rogers of Kansas City and Rev. B. P. Fullerton.

LINDENWOOD TO GET NEW ATHLETIC FIELD

Directors Launch Plans for Centennial Celebration in 1927.

Lindenwood College is beginning plans for its centennial in 1927, the matter having been taken up by the board of directors at the annual meeting Monday at the college. One of the features will be a series of scholarships for junior and senior years, culminating in the commencement of 1927. The recipients will be members of the current season's sophomore class, who have sufficiently high grades.

A new athletic field was assured by the appropriation of a generous fund.

Another improvement voted on was the equipment of the natural bowl between the hills back of Sibley Hall as an out-door amphitheater, where plays will be presented by the students.

Over Tyler Presbyterian Post.

Rev. Dr. Leonard V. Buschman of Woodbridge, N. J., sent word yesterday that he will accept the Tyler Place Presbyterian pastorate, to which he was called about three weeks ago. His acceptance was addressed to Rev. Dr. R. Calvin Dodson, executive secretary of the St. Louis Presbytery, who has been moderator of the Tyler Place Church session.

Dr. Buschman has been pastor at Woodbridge for six years, and is stationed not far from Rev. Dr. R. C. Williamson, who left the Tyler Place Church to become pastor at Upper Montclair, N. J. Dr. Buschman was originally from Missouri, and attended Westminster College at Fulton, Mo., graduating from that institution. His theological training was at Princeton Seminary, from which he graduated. The Woodbridge congregation exerted every effort to induce him to remain, promising him a larger salary and various other inducements, but on Sunday he announced that he would come to St. Louis.

The Tyler Place Church is in a thriving condition, and has a membership of 1000. Rev. Dr. John L. Roemer, president of Lindenwood College, was a former pastor.

WASHINGTON U. GIVEN MILLION BY C. REBSTOCK

Only Provision of His Gift Is that $300,000
Be Used for New Building of Zoology and Biology.

BALANCE GOES FOR ENDOWMENT

Donor Came Here
When 14 and Made Fortune, Despite Lack of Early Education, Through Hard Work.

Washington University yesterday announced a gift of $1,000,000 from Charles Rebstock, 3222 Hawthorne place, retired founder of Charles Rebstock & Co., and a director of the National Bank of Commerce.

The only stipulation attached to the gift is that $300,000 be used in the erection of a new building to house the university's department of zoology and biology. The remaining $700,000 goes to the general endowment fund, to be used as the institution directs.

A man who rose in the business world through thrift and application to business, Rebstock said his gift was an expression of his appreciation of St. Louis, inspired by memories of his old friend, the late Col. James Gay Butler, benefactor of Lindenwood College at St. Charles, Mo.

School Left Unfettered.

"While Mr. Rebstock's gift," said J. H. Zumbalen, secretary and treasurer of Washington University, in

Has Given $1,000,000 to Washington U.

announcing the donation, "is one of the largest gifts Washington University has yet received from an individual, the marked characteristic which distinguishes it from the usual run of gifts to educational institutions and makes it particularly helpful to the university, is the fact that two-thirds thereof is made a perpetual general endowment. Mr. Rebstock's sagacity had enabled him to discern the value of such a gift."

The new biology and zoology building to be constructed under terms of the gift will be called Charles Rebstock Hall and will face Forsythe boulevard, just west of the recently completed Newton R. Wilson Memorial Hall. In addition, the university will institute in its biology department a professorship to be known as the Charles Rebstock professorship.

Building Badly Needed.

The department of biology and zoology also includes botany, the study of plant life. In fact, all study pertaining to life, plant and animal, will center in the new building. Into it will go extensive laboratory equipment.

Although the popular controversy over the conflict of evolution and religion and the Scopes trial at Dayton, Tenn., have given a sharp stimulus to interest in the biological sciences, there is no direct connection between these facts and the plans for the new building at Washington University. Heretofore the department has been housed in a flimsy wooden structure and the need for a substantial building for an expanding department has been felt for a long time.

A wider interest among students in the biological sciences has been marked for some time, according to university officials. For premedical students, the study of zoology is compulsory. Candidates for degrees and in other departments of the university also are called upon to satisfy requirements in the biological field.

Some Gifts Are Liabilities.

Commenting further on the gift, Zumbalen said:

"A gift for a new building simply, the whole of which goes into the building and its equipment, however acceptable in itself, is rather an additional liability to the institution than an asset, for the institution must, year after year, find the funds necessary to maintain and operate it.

"When it is remembered that the average actual cost per year to the university for each student in attendance is about double the tuition he pays (in some departments it is nearly five times the amount of the tuition), it is apparent that the most urgent need of the university is a constantly increasing general endowment to keep pace with the expansion of the student body, the expansion of the teaching staff, and the character of the work.

Rebstock was a generous contributor to charitable and philanthropic causes. Several years ago he purchased the Wintersteiner collection of microscopic slide studies of eye diseases, reputed to be the largest in the world, and presented it to St. Louis University. At the time Rebstock was a member of the executive committee of the Missouri Association for the Blind.

Retired Five Years Ago.

Born in Cincinnati, Rebstock came to St. Louis at the age of 14 with his parents. Today he is 78 years old, but still vigorous and active and a director of the Industrial Loan Company, 714 Chestnut street, as well as in the National Bank of Commerce. After fifty years in business as a wholesale liquor dealer, having built up Charles Rebstock & Company, Main and Elm streets from a small concern, he retired in 1920.

Rebstock went out into the world with none of the higher educational advantages which he has furthered with his gift to Washington University. He got his early start with Adolphus Busch when the latter was starting the brewery enterprise which later grew to great size. Starting in as a bookkeeper with Anheuser-Busch, Inc., when it was known as E. Anheuser & Company, Rebstock remained with the brewing company four years. At one time he was its entire office force—clerk, bookkeeper, janitor, etc.

In 1870 he started in the wholesale liquor business for himself. Busch loaned him money without security to tide over the first years. In five years the business was firmly established and expanded until it had a large force of salesmen covering a territory that extended to the Pacific Coast. With his retirement in 1920, he became director of the National Bank of Commerce.

Advocate of Thrift.

Rebstock started cultivating thrift habits when he was an employe of Busch. His savings during those four years furnished part of the capital with which he started in business for himself. His thrifty habits enabled him in 1891 to join with Busch in establishing the Southside Bank, of which he was made vice-president.

"I don't believe in the element of luck in the business world," Rebstock said yesterday. "Success in business comes through thriftiness accompanied by ambition and application to business. I attribute my own success to firm adherence to those principles."

Although he retains a live interest in business and expects to remain active in that field for years to come, Rebstock said his hobby had come to be contributing money to worthy and serviceable causes. His attention was directed to the worthiness of education by the large gifts of his friend, the late Col. Butler, to the same cause.

Butler, who died eight years ago, gave Lindenwood College at St. Charles new life with gifts totaling approximately $4,000,000.

Rebstock is a widower, his wife having died thirty years ago.

CHARLES REBSTOCK.

ST. LOUISAN GIVES $1,000,000 TO WASHINGTON U.

Gift of Charles Rebstock, 78, Inspired by Benefactions of the Late James G. Butler.

ZOOLOGY BUILDING WILL BE ERECTED

Professorship to Be Instituted in the Biological Department Bearing Donor's Name.

Charles Rebstock, 78 years old, of 3222 Hawthorne place, retired wholesale liquor dealer, has given $1,000,000 to Washington University.

A botany and zoology building, which will bear Rebstock's name, will be erected with $300,000 of the gift. The remaining $700,000 will be added to the general endowment of the institution, without restrictions as to the use to be made of the income from it.

In announcing the gift, last night, Rebstock said that it was inspired by the benefactions of his friend, the late James Gay Butler, to educational objects. Butler gave nearly $4,000,000 to Linden-wood College, at St. Charles.

The university, in its announcement, stated that besides the building of the Charles Rebstock Hall, a professorship would be instituted in the biological department, to be known as the Charles Rebstock professorship.

Perpetual Endowment.

Rebstock Hall will face Forsythe boulevard, immediately to the west of the recently completed
Newton R. Wilson Memorial Hall.

While this gift is one of the largest yet received by Washington University from an individual, the announcement says, "the point which differentiates it from the usual run of gifts is that over two-thirds of the whole is designated as a perpetual endowment. The ordinary gift of money for a building, which all goes into building and equipment, however acceptable it may be, is rather a liability than an asset, because the institution must thereafter year by year find the money to maintain and operate the building.

"When it is remembered that the actual cost per student to the university is about twice the tuition charged—in some departments it is nearly five times the tuition—the significance of Mr.
Rebstock's gift becomes apparent."

Science Building Needed.

Rebstock, whose special interest in scientific subjects is shown by the stipulation attached to part of his gift, said today that he did not wish to comment on the present evolution controversy. At the university headquarters it was stated that a scientific building happened at this time to be more needed than almost any other, as some of the work in science is inadequately housed.

Rebstock, as a youth, was bookkeeper and clerk for the brewing firm of E. Anheuser & Co., which later became the Anheuser-Busch establishment. In 1870 he went into the liquor business for himself, on money borrowed from Adolphus Busch. He built up a wholesale establishment with a large personnel of clerks and salesmen. He remained in active business for 50 years, and since his retirement in 1920 he has acted as a director of the National Bank of Commerce and of the Industrial Loan Co. He co-operated with his friend Butler in organizing the latter company, which is now affiliated with the Industrial Savings Trust Co.

Lives With Relatives.

Several years ago he purchased the Wintersteiner collection of microscopic slides for the study of diseases of the eye and gave the collection to the medical department of St. Louis University. He has been a large donor to the Provident Association and to the Missouri Association for the Blind.
Since his wife's death, nearly 30 years ago, he has made his home with relatives and two nieces at present share the Hawthorne boulevard residence with him.

$1,000,000 GIFT BY C. REBSTOCK TO WASHINGTON U.

Donation Includes $300,000 for Zoology Building, $700,- 000 for General Endowment.

A gift of $1,000,000 to Washington University by Charles Rebstock,

Charles Rebstock.

3222 Hawthorne place, banker and former wholesale liquor dealer, was announced yesterday by J. H.
Zumbalen, secretary - treasurer of the university.

Rebstock, in making the gift, stipulates that $300,000 of his donation is to be used for the erection of a new building to house the university's department of zoology and botany. The remaining $700,000 is to constitute a perpetual endowment fund, the interest of which may be used for general purposes by the university.

The new building will face Forsythe boulevard and will be immediately west of the recently completed Newton R. Wilson Memorial Hall. It will be known as Charles Rebstock Hall.

Fills Great Need.

"The unusual feature of this gift is that more than two-thirds of the money is designated as a permanent endowment," said Zumbalen.
"The ordinary gift of money for a building to an educational institution is rather a liability to the institution, as it must year after year find money to maintain and operate the building. Every university's need is a constantly increasing endowment."

Rebstock is 78 years old and a widower, his wife having died thirty years ago. He is a native of Cincinnati. He came with his parents to St. Louis at the age of 14.
He had none of the higher educational advantages. His early start was with Adolphus Busch when Busch was starting his brewery.
He worked at the brewery for four years and in 1870 started in business for himself as a wholesale liquor dealer, founding Charles Rebstock and Company. He retired in 1920 and became a director of the National Bank of Commerce.

Old Friend Inspired Gift.

Rebstock said he was inspired to make the gift by memories of his old friend, the late Col. James Gay Butler, who gave more than $4,000,000 to Lindenwood College,
St. Charles, Mo.

Speaking of his business success
Rebstock said:

"I don't believe in the element of luck in the business world. Success comes through thriftiness, accompanied by ambition and application to business. I attribute my own success to firm adherence to these principles."

LINDENWOOD'S PET DOG, 9 YEARS ON CAMPUS, DIES

When students return to Lindenwood College this fall they will miss a familiar figure which had freedom of the campus and halls, "Lin," the Alaska spitz dog, owned by Dr. and Mrs. John L. Roemer for nine years, almost the entire time that they have been at Lindenwood. The woolly white dog died a few days ago.

He was a dog of aristocratic canine lineage. The owner of a famous dog kennel once offered $1000 for him, which was refused, because "Lin" by that time had become such a distinctive personality on the grounds that he could not be "sold."

BARBARA ESCHBACH HEADS LINDENWOOD ATHLETICS

A change will be made in the physical education department of Lindenwood College by the addition of Miss Barbara Eschbach as director. Until now Miss Eschbach has been head of the physical education department at Marshall College, Huntington, W. Va. She is a graduate, with B. A. degree, from the Western College for Women at Oxford, Ohio, and received her Master's degree from Columbia University, New York. She was head of the physical education department in the Oklahoma College for Women at Chickasha, Ok., before going to Marshall College. Her home is in Albia, Ia.

Swimming is an important part of the physical education department at Lindenwood, in the natatorium beneath Butler Hall. Every student takes swimming unless physically unable to do so and life-saving contests are a popular feature. Golfing on the enlarged golf course, archery and other outdoor activities will make up the early fall course. About $10,000 is being spent on further development of the practice grounds.

She taught library science in the State Teachers' College at Farmville, Va., and from there went to Winthrop College at Rock Hill, S. C., where she has been until now.

Although plans are not as yet formulated it is probable that a library will be the next new building to be constructed at Lindenwood. Spacious, sunny quarters for the library were provided in Roemer Hall when that building was erected four year ago and the library of more than 10,000 volumes is still housed there, but the increasing number of students makes more room desirable. This was suggested by the president, Dr. John L. Roemer, in his commencement address in June, when he made the offhand promise that "anyone who would donate $75,000 for a library building shall have the building named for him."

Dr. Roemer Declares Present Generation Is Christianity's Index

Educator Preaches Sermon at E. St. Louis Presbyterian Church.

"Christianity must be known by the faith of the present generation," declared Rev. Dr. John L. Roemer, president of Lindenwood College, yesterday morning in a sermon at the First Presbyterian Church of East St. Louis. He spoke on the topic, "First the Kingdom," with the text, Matt. VI., 33.

"Jesus had a way of putting first things first," said Dr. Roemer. "He has never been accused of indirectness. His purpose and his plans were as open as his life. 'Seek ye first the kingdom of God,' was his supreme passion. In this day, when we hear his life summed up in the words, Reformer, Martyr, Example, Idealist, we must not be unmindful that Jesus is the interpreter of himself. The kingdom of God was his thought, his life, his destiny.

"Kingdom" Controversy.

"Discussion has arisen as to whether the 'kingdom' and the 'church' are synonymous. It is not the time for hair-splitting definitions. We accept the fact that the church is a potential part of the kingdom of God; that the kingdom of God finds partial expression at least in the visible church. The things for which the church must stand are included in the larger term.

"What is the greatest work of the church," was a question propounded to leading ministers. One answered: "To set forth Christ as the Way, the Truth, the Life." Another said: "To bring God to the world, and the world to God"; a third, "To translate Christianity into the vernacular of our own generation." Still another: "To make more real and vital the Christian faith." There was in all the answers a belief that the church must be the interpreter of God in the world through Jesus Christ. The faith of the fathers is a grand history of the past, but Christianity must be known by the faith of the present generation.

Human Conception.

"The church owes the world Christ's idea of God. Christ gave us a human conception of a Divine Father—a God holy, righteous, good, who came to man as a heavenly father. No longer was his father to be a judge only, a ruler, an exacting king. He was the head of the great human family—one always present, always potential, universally related, and bound up in all the affairs of life.

"The question of the day is, 'Have we forgotten the God of Jesus?' Selfishness abounds. Materialism is always rampant when the presence of God vanishes from man. To whom is the world to look? Men take little heed of printed creeds, but pay every reverence and respect to practiced creeds. The times in which we live demand not less of doctrine, but more. They demand a strength of belief that will make men sit up and take notice of the verities that make for noble living. Jesus was constantly linking the actions of man with man's conception of God. The church owes a debt to the world it can discharge only by living close to the God and father of our Lord Jesus Christ and our Father.

Material Evaluation.

"The church owes the world Christ's idea of man. How much is a man worth? Man has always been evaluated by the world, by what he can do, what he can earn, what he controls. It is natural for human beings, surrounded by human estimates of life, to talk in terms that are material. A mark of progress in evaluating man is that character is looming larger in modern estimates. Even though there are signs of a change, the cheap way in which we think of the taking of life, the popularity of the suicidal route to eternity, the daily record of killings, mean that we have not reached Christ's idea of the value and sacredness of human life.

"The solution to many of the ills of life will come when material values are not placed upon immortal souls. 'A man is better than a sheep,' Christ taught. A man is of greater value than the whole world.

"Sin" a Christian Term.

"The church owes the world Christ's idea of sin. We are told that there is no word in non-Christian language which means 'sin' in the sense of moral evil. Missionaries, like the disciple of the first century, take some other word and fill it with new meaning. The fathers of the church defined sin as the lack of conformity unto, or transgression of, the law of God. The world is losing its sense of sin, we are told. It is modifying the terms of conformity. People just don't care. But it is easy to indict the present age. I have sometimes wondered if we did not confuse many human standardizations of living by ranking them as transgressions against the will of God. There are many things which the church may decree, but which may not be transgressions of the law of God. Christ was very clear on the question of sin. Lust, dishonesty, oppression, greed, hypocrisy, he could not accord with the father's will. He never put the fact of sin to a popular vote. He never laid down petty rules of conduct. The Christian life is just letting Christ live his life in us. The church has nothing to fear in strict conformity to the will of God. It has everything to lose in failure to make its determined stand for righteousness."

Idea of Salvation.

The speaker also included the church's obligation to give the world "Christ's idea of salvation," by which there should be "a new life, not merely a new form of life." Reference to the war was made, and the German song, "Deutschland uber Allies."

"Christ's kingdom asks not for death, but life, to perpetuate its principles. Let the church have a slogan of inspiration for a kingdom whose conquest is for saving all nations and peoples. Let us go forth, not to destroy, but build up the world, in righteousness and in truth, with this inscription on our banner: 'Christ Over All.'"

Brilliant Record of English Teacher

Miss Helen G. Calder, a graduate of the season at Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Missouri, has been engaged to teach physical education and English in the Mesa High school. Miss Calder, who received the degree of bachelor of arts in June, gained special honors at college along both the lines noted. She was president of the Lindenwood Athletic association for the last year, and at commencement was declared foremost in athletics of the entire school of 500 students, for which she received a gold medal.

Miss Calder also gained the Hobein medal in English composition in a previous year. She has also been much identified with the histrionic art in college dramatics, having held different offices in the Lindenwood Players.

Miss Calder was one of the editors of Linden Leaves, the college annual, and has been for two years a member of the staff of Linden Bark, the college weekly.

Greater Sports for Lindenwood Planned Under New Coach

Miss Barbara Eschbach to Take Charge of Physical Education Activities — New Ground Is Added to Athletic Field.

Miss Barbara Eschbach, recently head of the physical education department of Marshall College at Huntington, W. Va., will arrive in the near future to take charge of the physical education activities at Lindenwood College. She is to have several assistants, and the sports and athletics, which have always been emphasized at Lindenwood, will have a greater scope in the next school year, because of extensive improvements.

An athletic field, comprising about 10 acres of campus, was approved at the June meeting of the College Board of Directors and a generous sum appropriated to put the grounds in shape. Dr. B. Kurt Stumberg of the board has been actively supervising the terracing of the athletic field this summer, and it is rounding well into shape. Part of the new ground will provide three additional holes for golf, supplementing the original six holes, so that there will be a nine-hole golf course.

The athletic field lies just west of Butler gym and natatorium. Because of the natural slope of the ground, a system of terraces are being installed. On the two upper terraces will be a series of tennis courts. Dropping to a terrace next below will be an outdoor basketball course and a baseball diamond adapted to women's baseball. The final terrace will be a regulation-size hockey field with a grand stand for spectators. From this will extend the three new golf holes.

Plans have been perfected after a study of athletic fields in many colleges. The grounds are to be picturesque as well as practical, a plan having been carefully arranged for the planting of trees and shrubbery so that these will add to the landscape, but not interfere with the trees. It will be something out of the usual conception of an athletic field.

Miss Eschbach's home is in Albia, Iowa. She received the degree B. A. from Western College, Oxford, Ohio; M. A. from Columbia University, New York. Before going to Marshall College, she was head of physical education at the Oklahoma College for Women at Chickasha, Ok.

WOMAN TO WRITE HISTORY OF LINDENWOOD COLLEGE

Lindenwood College has decided to publish in substantial form an illustrated "Centennial History," which will be a narrative of the College's continued existence from the time of its founding in 1827 until now.

Miss Lucinda de Leftwich Tempin will write the book. She has spent the last two weeks at the college, studying its archives. Very complete data is available, as diaries and records have been preserved, some of the documents extending back to 1764. Maj. George C. Sibley, U. S. A., husband of Mary Easton Sibley, came of a family well known in this country's military annals, and it was the custom of each generation to keep a diary.

Mrs. Sibley's father was Judge Rufus Easton, who was appointed by President Jefferson to investigate the alleged treason of Aaron Burr. He held a judgeship here, and was the first postmaster of St. Louis. His son, Alton Easton, was the founder of Alton, Ill.

Miss Tempin left yesterday for two weeks in Asheville, N. C., but will return later for further research early in September. The Centennial History is to be ready for distribution in the spring of 1927.

LINDENWOOD OFFICERS SERVED LONG TERMS

In 98 Years College <sup>Board</sup> Has Had Only Four Presidents.

In compiling material for use in the centennial celebration at Lindenwood College, the long term of service of many members of the Board of Directors is noted. In the ninety-eight years of its history, Lindenwood has had only four presidents of its board.

The director of longest service, who also was president of the board, was the late Rev. Dr. Samuel J. Niccolls, who served forty-one years in this capacity, from 1874 until his death in 1915. His successor in the board presidency for a short period was Rev. Dr. John L. Roemer, president of the college since 1914, whose term on the Board of Directors is of eight years' earlier duration, started in 1906.

Rev. Dr. John W. MacIvor, who became pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church in 1916, was elected to the presidency of the board, and has served since. Samuel Copp, who is memorialized with his wife in a large stone tablet as one of the early members of the Second Church, was a member of Lindenwood's board for twenty-one years, until his death in 1893.

Next to Dr. Niccolls, the term of Rev. Dr. S. C. Palmer of St. Louis, on the board is longest, having continued for thirty years. Robert Ranken, of the Tyler Place Church, has been a Lindenwood director for twenty-eight years. Rev. Dr. David M. Skilling, of Webster Groves, vice president of the board, has served for twenty-one years. Dr. B. Kurt Stumberg, of St. Charles, has been a director for twenty years, and prior to him, his father, Dr. John Stumberg, was a member of the board from 1875 to 1901.

The late Rev. Dr. J. H. Hendy, of Jefferson City, is listed among those serving eighteen years. Others now dead, who were on the board for twenty-two years or more were: Dr. James H. Brookes, Dr. Thomas Marshall, Judge S. S. Watson, B. A. Alderson and George S. Drake.

Social Interest Revived By Return of Home Folk

By Dixie Payne

SOCIAL interest wanes with the summer. Only events for the young folk and a few informal affairs to honor visitors and brides-to-be break the monotony of the late August days. However, this period of waning interest will be brief, as already a few of those who left Oklahoma for cooler climes are returning home, while others—many of them—will be returning before or during the first week in September. And with their return will come a revival of interest in things social—innumerable small and informal affairs for the exchange of greetings and reminiscences of summer vacations.

Not in many Augusts have we known so many weddings or had so many announcements of weddings that took place earlier, but were kept secret. The latest announcement of an early spring wedding, and one that is especially interesting owing to the prominence of the two families, is that made by Doctor and Mrs. John A. Reck of 438 West Thirteenth street, of the marriage of their daughter, Julia Margaret, to Paul William Lamerton of Enid. The wedding took place May 2 in Gainesville, Texas, with Rev. Robert E. Joiner of the First Presbyterian church officiating. Both were students at the University of Oklahoma, where the bride was a member of the Alpha Phi sorority and Mr. Lamerton was a member of the Phi Delta fraternity.

The bride is well known in the younger social circles of Oklahoma City. She attended Lindenwood college and was graduated from Stephens college before entering the state university. Mr. Lamerton is the son of Doctor and Mrs. W. E. Lamerton. The young folk will make their home in Enid after September 1.

LINDENWOOD COLLEGE TO OPEN TOMORROW

Lindenwood College will open tomorrow morning with more than 500 students in attendance, representing about thirty states. As is usual at this college, a large number will come from the South. A "Lindenwood Special" has been chartered by the college field agent which will bring the Arkansas girls, starting at Little Rock this evening. One student comes from the Philippine Islands.

The new athletic grounds, covering about thirty acres, will be ready for use.

Students Return to Lindenwood College.

In the enrollment of students which opened Tuesday morning at Lindenwood College, a larger proportion of old students returning was seen than in any previous year. The class of 1927, which includes the incoming junior class, will have especial honors, as it will be the graduating class in Lindenwood's "year of jubilee," when the college will be 100 years old, in the spring of 1927. Seven "Miss Smiths," Betty, Laura, Lucy, Margaret, Marjorie, Martha and Mildred, coming from seven different towns, are among the more than 500 girls who will make up the student body. There are 17 girls registered from St. Louis, and about an equal number from Kansas City, so that each of these groups will be enrolled as auxiliary to the alumnae of Lindenwood Clubs of those two cities. A noticeable feature of increase is in the music department, where the number of students is much larger than ever before. More than 30 states are represented in the entire body, and one student comes from the Philippine Islands.

Several of the teachers have spent the summer in Europe.

Lindenwood College Club Asked for and Gifts for Scholarship

At the first meeting of the St. Louis Lindenwood College Club for this season, yesterday afternoon, at the Forest Park Hotel, it was decided to ask each of the seventy-two members to send her gift for the Mary Easton Sibley scholarship, with the name of her club attached, so that the club should thus have a larger total for its share in the proposed scholarship for the benefit of needy girls. The scholarship is to be made ready by the alumnae and former students of Lindenwood, all over the country, to celebrate the centennial in 1927. It is determined to be 100 per cent represented by the St. Louis members, each one giving according as she can. Mrs. Joseph White presided.

There are this season about twenty girls attending the college from St. Louis, and they will constitute an auxiliary St. Louis Lindenwood Club. The same method is being followed for the large number of students from Kansas City. In the registrations yesterday at the college was the name of a daughter of Mrs. W. W. Seymour of Chicago, a former president of the Chicago Lindenwood Club, who is taking an active part in the alumnae work for Sibley scholarship.

Plan Life's Program, Advises Dr. Roemer in Lindenwood Address

Urges Students to Make the Best of Time and Par- ents' Investments.

At the first vesper services of the college year last evening at Lindenwood College President John L. Roemer addressed the students on the topic, "The Look Forward." He suggested a spirit of reciprocity between freshmen and upper-classmen. "The spirit of a school," he said, "is dependent upon how it is atmospherized by those who have gone before."

"There should be a similarity of purpose among you, to make the most out of your investment of time, your parents' investment in you, and the investment the college has in you, for no standard school like Lindenwood, whose primary object is education, can be maintained on tuitions alone. Education, public or private, is made possible by the generous gifts of others to help us."

"'Education,' said a great educator, 'is observation.' The great differences in people are differences in vision, or seeing. Some people go to Europe, and see only the bill of expense. Others bring back storehouses of riches from the places they have visited."

Find Place in Life.

Dr. Roemer urged that early in their college life, students should seek to find out definitely the work intended for them to do. "The greatest of life's discoveries," he said, "is to find your own place in life, the niche you can best fill. 'Study your aptitudes,' is more than a rhetorical phrase. It is the secret of happiness and true success. Disappointments, failure, misery are often the result of trying to do something and be something for which we are not fitted. Leadership is urged, but the world's greatest need is not leaders; it is followers, co-workers, people who can nobly fill a subordinate place and be well qualified for it.

"Conservation of energy is another thing that must be learned. We are amazed at what some people can do in so short a space of lifetime. What is the secret? The answer comes back: Work. Alexander Hamilton said, 'Some people give me credit for genius, but the only genius I know is 'hard work.'

"Conservation is a word filled with meaning. There is so much waste—waste of time, of wealth, of effort. Some work hard, and have nothing to show for it. They are busy, and never achieve. Doing things with the least expenditure of time, means and personal effort is life's secret. 'How much is a thing worth when done?' is a question of supreme importance."

Value of Friendship.

The value of friendship was instanced in quotations from various literary men, and in the Scriptural quotation, "No man liveth to himself, or dieth unto himself."

The development of "character" and of "good works" was described as the end of education. "Education that fails to reach beyond mind is useless. A mental giant may be a moral dwarf. Body, mind, spirit, man's three in one, must be trained together to give meaning to education. The greatest return you can make for your education is to have it truthfully said of you, 'The world was a little better because she lived in it.' The greatest work you can perform is to have your deeds speak for you."

The formal convocation address at Lindenwood will be made this evening by Dr. Jay William Hudson, professor of philosophy at the University of Missouri.

LINDENWOOD COLLEGE ADDRESS

Dr. John L. Roemer Tells Girls
What They May Expect.

The opening address of the year at Lindenwood College was given last night by the president, Dr. John L. Roemer, who spoke on "The Look Forward." Speaking to the girl as a type starting into college, he said: "You will never again be just the same girl you were before for your vision of life will differ. Others who have been here before and have become acclimated, know just what a freshman must go through. The spirit of a school is dependent upon how it is atmosphere'd by those who have gone before."

Monday evening, Dr. Jay William Hudson of the University of Missouri will give the convocation address.

First Vespers at Lindenwood.

College songs were sung at the first vesper service of the year at Lindenwood College, in Roemer Auditorium, Sunday evening. The president, Dr. John L. Roemer, addressed the students, saying:

"A new school year confronts us. Many are now entering upon their first experience of college life. New conditions, different surroundings, strange faces from various parts of our land greet you. Your college experience will be valuable only as you cherish the past and improve your present opportunities.

"Whether new or old students, there should be a similarity of purpose, to make the most out of your investment of time, your parents' investment in you, and the investment the college has in you.

"This world owes much to those who look forward. It is a drab life that penetrates no farther than the realm of the seen and tangible. Some people go to Europe, and see only the bill of expense. Others being back storehouses of riches from the places they have visited. 'Education is observation'."

Dr. Roemer urged the formation of friendships, saying: "The self-made man does not exist. He counseled the girls to find their real aptitudes, and to conserve their energy for things worth while."

Classes were organized and registrations completed Friday, and the college is now beginning its winter's work. A convocation address will be given Monday night by Dr. Jay William Hudson, of the University of Missouri.

Plans for commemorating the centennial are on foot among students and others, and out of 2,000 students who have passed through Lindenwood a large proportion promises to return for the 1927 commencement. Special honors are promised for the lucky class, which has resulted in an unusually large junior class.

They have chosen Miss Mary Olsen of the history department as sponsor for the class. The vice president is Miss Miriam Robinson of Burlington, Ia., who is a niece of Miss E. PASTOR SAYS OUT-OF-DOOR
SLEEP GIVES INSPIRATION

To sleep at least one night in the year "in the open, under the stars," was recommended as a tonic for sanity and right living yesterday to the students of Lindenwood College in an address by Rev. Dr. John W. MacIvor, president of Lindenwood's Board of Directors and pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church. Ever since he was born, Dr. MacIvor said, he had practiced this habit of real outdoor sleeping as many summer nights as he could. "Throw your whole soul into whatever you are doing, be it business or study or pleasure," he said. "When domestic difficulties occur, the fundamental fault is almost always that some one is holding back, some one is not giving his soul." The speaker counseled the students to "be faithful to the finest hour you have ever had."

JONES-PIXLEY WEDDING

A very beautiful and interesting event was the marriage of Ruth Elaine Pixley of Ferguson, Mo., to Stanley Gordon Jones of St. Louis, on Friday night, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Pixley of Ferguson.

The ring service which united them was said by the father of the groom, Dr. W. F. Jones of Carlinville, at 8 o'clock.

Alfred Friedly of St. Louis, sang "At Dawning" by Cadman. Miss Salina Chase of Ferguson, played the wedding march. The groom was attended by his cousin, Haden Avery Glotte of St. Louis, as best man. The maid of honor was Miss Etolia Skelton of Princeton, Ind., a Lindenwood College classmate of the bride.

The beautiful Pixley home was appropriately decorated with purple asters and pink roses. The maid of honor wore a peach colored georgette crepe and carried a bouquet of purple asters. The bride was gowned in ivory satin and lace, beaded in pearls. She wore a long bridal veil with a crown of orange blossoms, and carried a shower bouquet of white bridal roses and orchids.

Immediately following the wedding ceremony, a reception was held for the one hundred and fifty guests present.

The bride is a graduate of Lindenwood College, and the groom attended Blackburn College and the University of Illinois. He now holds a responsible position in the engineering department of the Bell Telephone Company in St. Louis.

The young couple will be at home after a short trip east, in their house, already furnished by the groom, in Clayton, Mo.

FIND YOUR NICHE IN LIFE, CLERGYMAN ADVISES

John Keats, the poet who refused to be a physician, was held up to the students of Lindenwood College yesterday morning as a model, in an address by Rev. Dr. Chester E. Jenney of the First Presbyterian Church. Keats, he said, had "the genius, ability and nerve" to defy his guardian and quit being an interne in a hospital, going down to Italy instead, to write poetry. As a surgeon he would have been poor, as a poet he is immortal. To choose one's calling according to one's personal taste and desires, instead of "drifting" in some unsuited occupation, was the example upheld.

Dr. Jenney advised the students: "Find out what you want to do, and what you want to be, and then work along those lines."

Yesterday morning Miss Jane Frances Winn, literary editor of the Globe-Democrat, spoke to the students of the journalism department of Lindenwood College, St. Charles, on "New Books of the Season." Briefly she reviewed several books of the year, pointing out the best and commenting on them. Among those which received special mention were Viscount Grey's "Memoirs," Willa Cather's "The Professor's House," "Hunter's Moon," by Ernest Poole, and the latest books of Edna Ferber and Booth Tarkinton which are now in the press.

ities, since the purpose of novels is to give pleasure. After the war there was a noticeable tendency among the English writers to write books of a religious nature. In a conversation with Hugh Walpole some years ago I asked him the reason for this. He replied that it was impossible to write otherwise since this was the topic uppermost in the minds of men after such an experience as the world war. Now the tendency is toward psychological novels and in many of this year's books are found characters having abnormal slants to their minds."

Miss Winn said in part:
"The books of this year are not fewer than before, but the quality is higher. One often hears lamentable stories of the inability of authors to have their books published. It seems to me that one should have no difficulty in doing this judging from the sort of things which have been published heretofore. However, the general standard of fiction is at present about that of a few years ago. One finds not so many sex novels as novels of a higher standard. It is a well known fact that books do not live by comparison but by pleasure-giving qual-

EQUAL RIGHTS DISCUSSED IN SPEECH AT LINDENWOOD

Women's responsibility in the body politic was presented by Dr. ~~Charles~~ T. Devine, publicist and lecturer, yesterday, in an address to the students of Lindenwood College.

He said he had never favored suffrage on the ground that it was "a right," but rather because he believed women would bring something new to the government. His definition of suffrage was: "a means by which society serves its great ends and purposes and it is for society to determine, from time to time, on that basis, whether people of 21 or 40, whether property-holders or those who own no property, whether white or black, whether native-born or foreign-born, whether man or woman, should exercise the suffrage."

Referring to the pact at Locarno, he expressed the innate objection of all women to war. From their experience and their social heritage, he said, women of all others have the most reason to protest against war, and to desire universal peace.

Subtle Sophomores.

This is the season of the year when college classes revel in stunts of some kind, and especially in those which will hold up the freshmen to ridicule to test their right to be called good sports. The sophomore class at Lindenwood College decreed that the freshmen should go back a peg in the order of evolution, and come forth as monkeys, last week, which no doubt proves that the said sophomores are fundamentalists. However, the Simians also evolved, and as they came up to man, directly through the apes, they lost their tails, which fact the sophomores did not seem to take into consideration. However, science or no science, fundamentalist or modernist, it was a great week for the sophomores, and the patient freshmen, waiting until the end of the week, left their tails behind them and appeared once more in abbreviated dresses and with bobbed hair, each one having attained to the honorary order of good sport, than which there is no greater conferred by college high-muck-a-mucks.

SWAINS OF YORE, TO DO THE TALKING, FED GIRLS CANDY

Never Eat Caramels, College Women of Those Days Tells Lindenwood College Club.

"Fifty years ago young men used to take hard caramels with them when they called on girls, so they could do all the talking while the girl ate them. Never eat caramels, girl."

This was the advice Mrs. D. M. Hardy of Waterloo, Ill., a graduate of Lindenwood College 49 years ago, yesterday gave to the St. Louis Lindenwood College Club on its annual outing at the school in St. Charles.

Mrs. Hardy also told how the president of the school had to be consulted before one might keep a Saturday afternoon date.

Others who took part in the program were: Dr. John L. Roemer, head of the school; Mrs. Joseph White, president of the club; Mrs. W. W. Seymour, of the class of 1891, who has a niece in the college; Mrs. W. K. Roth and Mrs. W. C. Hamill.

Mrs. J. B. Brouster, salutatorian of the class of 1871, and her sister, Miss Sarah McElhinney, also a graduate, were among the guests at a luncheon given by Dr. and Mrs. Roemer, at which student members of the St. Louis Associate Club assisted.

TELLS OF LINDENWOOD WOOING 50 YEARS AGO

President of College Had to Give Permission for Dates.

Fifty years ago the president of the school had to give his permission before a young man could keep a Saturday afternoon date with a girl at Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Mo.

This was one of the amusing reminiscences Mrs. D. M. Hardy of Waterloo, Ill., graduate of Lindenwood forty-nine years ago, indulged in yesterday when she accompanied thirty-five members of the St. Louis Lindenwood College Club on their annual outing at the school.

She described a typical suitor of fifty years ago, taking one of her own as an example. One amorous young man, she said, brought her hard caramels on his calls so that he could "do all the talking" while she ate.

"Girls, never eat caramels," she cautioned the Lindenwood student body, gathered to hear and laugh over her memories of the queer old days.

Others who participated in the program for the occasion were: Dr. John L. Roemer, head of the school; Mrs. Joseph White, president of the club; Mrs. W. W. Seymour of Chicago, who has a niece in college; Mrs. W. K. Roth and Mrs. W. C. Hamill. Mrs. Seymour, a graduate of 1891, said she found her Lindenwood credits acceptable when she went to the University of Chicago two years ago to study law.

Student members of the St. Louis Associate Club were escorts to the club members and assisted Dr. and Mrs. Roemer as hostesses at luncheon. The officers of the associate club are Misses Dorothy Patterson, Roslyn Cohen and Bessie McNary.

A PRETTY CHURCH WEDDING

Miss Margaret Ferguson, of Fulton, Became Bride of Robert Henderson, of Jackson

The wedding of Miss Margaret Adele Ferguson, of Fulton and John Robert Henderson, of Jackson, Mo., was beautifully solemnized at the Christian Church in Fulton, Saturday morning, October 31, 1925, the ceremony being said by the Rev. Dr. J. T. Ferguson, of Kansas City, Mo., an uncle of the bride, assisted by the Rev. W. Garnet Alcorn, pastor of the Fulton Christian Church. Dr. Ferguson also said the ceremony for the parents of the bride at the time of their marriage. 24 years ago

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the Ferguson home, on West Sixth Avenue for the out of town guests and wedding party, and from there the young couple left on a bridal trip by car to Kansas City, from where it is expected they will go to Chicago. They will be at home at Jackson, Mo., following their return.

The dining room of the Ferguson home was decorated in white chrysanthemums and the table was adorned with white roses, lilies of the valley and ferns. Mrs. Ferguson was assisted in the serving by Mrs. John Suggett, Mrs. Matt Wymore, Mrs. Baker Terry, Mrs. J. C. Humphreys, Misses Frances Renoe, Jane Crozier, Grace Knox and Ruth Kimbrell.

Preceding the ceremony, Miss Virginia Renoe, of Fulton, played "Chanson d' Amour," and Miss Esther Hund of St. Joseph sang, "Bird of Love Divine," by Hayda Wood. Mrs. N. T. Cave then sang, "All for You," by Bertram Brown. These numbers were accompanied on the organ by Miss Virginia Renoe.

To the strain of Mendelssohn Lohengrin wedding march, played by Miss Virginia Renoe, the bridal procession entered. The ministers entered from the front side door. They were followed by Miss Kathrine Yount, of Cape Girardeau, Mo., the bride's maid, and Jack Baldwin, of Springfield, Mo., groomsman. Miss Roberta Crozier, of Fulton, maid of honor, then entered followed by the flower girl, little Miss Betty Jean Ely, of Webster Groves, Mo., a niece of the groom. The bride was accompanied to the altar by her father, Dr. A. D. Ferguson, of Fulton, and the bridegroom entered with his best man, Capt. Robert R. Russell, of Mexico. Miss Virginia Renoe also played the march at the close of the ceremony.

The altar of the church was beautifully decorated in ferns and flowers, the ferns being banked along the rostrum. Two gilded baskets of bronze chrysanthemums and cathedral candles were also used in the decoration.

The bride was gowned in lace over satin with a veil wreathed in orange blossoms to match. She carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and lillies of the valley. Miss Roberta Crozier, maid of honor, wore a watermelon pink georgette over yellow with a cloth gold turban and gold slippers and hose to match. She carried an arm bouquet of Coolidge roses. Miss Kathrine Yount, bride's maid, wore a dress of maize marionette crepe with cloth gold turban and gold slippers and hose. She carried an arm bouquet of Coolidge roses. Little Miss Betty Jean Ely, the flower girl, wore white crepe-de-chine and carried a basket of white roses interspersed with heart petals. Mrs. Mrs. N. T. Cave wore bronze crepe-de-chine with cream lace and wore a poudre blue hat. Miss Hund's dress was of cream lace over peach and she wore a black hat. Miss Renoe wore a tan georgette beaded in bronze and wore an ashes of rose hat.

The bride is a daughter of Dr. and Mrs. A. D. Ferguson, of West Sixth avenue, Fulton. She graduated from William Woods College, of Fulton and Lindewood College, of St. Charles. She is a member of the Phi Theta Kappa, Alma Mater honorary sorority. She taught last year in the Jackson, Mo., high school.

The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Henderson, of Jackson, Mo.. He attended Washington University in St. Louis and was a member of the Kappa Alpha fraternity. At the present time he is engaged in the lumber business at Jackson, and the couple will make their home in that city.

The many friends of the young couple in this city extend congratulations and best wishes for a long and happy married life.

Miss Betty Birch of Kansas City was crowned Halloween Queen last night at the annual Halloween party given at Lindenwood College in the Butler Gym. A secret election had been held under Y. W. C. A. auspices on Wednesday night and the name of the queen was not revealed until she emerged, in a radiant orange and black gown, from a shock of cornstalks, in which she had been completely hidden. She was crowned by Dr. John L. Roemer, president of the college, with a wreath of laurel. As Lindenwood is now 100 per cent Y. W. C. A., the vote taken for queen had included the ballots of every girl in the college. Miss Julia Ayers is president of the "Y," and assisted Mrs. Roemer as hostess.

Miss Birch is the daughter of Rev. Chester Birch, a Presbyterian minister, who has often preached in St. Louis. Her mother, formerly Miss Laura Welty, graduated at Lindenwood a number of years ago, and is a leading member of the Kansas City Lindenwood Club. "Queen Betty" is a sophomore and a strikingly beautiful girl, tall and slender, a Titian blonde, whose exquisite auburn hair is the envy of all her fellow-students. She has shown dramatic talent in several college plays, takes part in athletics, is a good swimmer, and a writer on the staff of Linden Bark, the college weekly newspaper.

Last night's party was styled a "barn dance," all the girls coming in gingham dresses. Refreshments were cider and gingerbread, and the decorations were autumn boughs and cornstalks. An orchestra played for dancing.

THE SWAINS OF OTHER DAYS.

It happened at Lindenwood. Mrs. Hardy of Waterloo, Ill., was talking. Her subject was the court-ing tactics of the knightly days. She walloped a treasured, romantic legend right on the button.

They were smooth, shrewd villains, those revered dads of the present generation of sheiks. They knew women. In accordance with immemorial custom they pledged their devotion with lyric eloquence, and they placed the object of their heart's desire on a pedestal and they brought her offerings of myrrh and frankincense, but there was method in their tricky madness, just the same.

One of their favorite devices, Mrs. Hardy tells us, was the hard caramel. A seemingly innocent confection, but when Emily or Martha or Susan put it in her mouth she was vocally helpless. That was just what our revered ancestor had been maneuvering for. With his lady love practically lock-jawed the floor was his. He could then talk uninterrupted by the fluttering digressions and vagrant whimsies of the feminine mind. And he did talk. He told her how wonderful she was. He laid out paths of asphodel to the Fortunate Isle where he was going to build his Castle in Spain, of which she was to be the chate-laine. And she swallowed it all, along with the caramel, and begged for more.

Verily, brethren, men have been deceivers ever. Those silver-haired patriarchs of saintly mien and noble pose were 100-per-cent experts at love making. And, since the truth may now be told, women have ever been 100-per-cent efficient in being made love to. For which let us thank whatever gods there be.

ELIZABETH TAIT TWICE HONORED IN SCHOOL WORK

Decatur Girl Receives Special Recognition in Lindenwood

Miss Elizabeth Tait, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dan W. Tait of Decatur, has been twice honored this fall in her school work in Lindenwood college, St. Charles, Mo.

She has been elected president of the Illinois club, an organization composed of those students whose homes are in this state. The Illinois club is one of the largest state clubs in the school.

The second honor to fall to Miss Tait is her election as cheer leader of the sophomore class. As such, she took a prominent part in the recent celebration of the exciting "Sophomore week" of the college.

PLAYERS OF LINDENWOOD COLLEGE HOLD ELECTION

Officers of the Lindenwood Players at Lindenwood College have been chosen as follows: Misses Ida Hoeflin, president; Mary Louise Blocher, vice president; Margaret Knoop, secretary; Frances Baggett, treasurer, and Audrey Richert, reporter. The sponsors are Misses Lucia Hutchins and Harriet Diven, both teachers in the expression department. Misses Helen Almond, Lillian Aderhold, Bettie Birch, Willa O'Bannon and June Taylor recently were taken in as new members and an opening tea has been given. The Lindenwood Players will present two plays this year.

Vocational Worker to Speak.

Miss Florence Jackson of Wellesley, Mass., vocational worker, is to spend several days in conferences with students at Lindenwood College, during the coming week-end and will speak Sunday night at 6:30 in Roemer Auditorium on "Vocational Progress of Women."

Miss Betty Birch, of Kansas City, Missouri, was queen of the Halloween festivals at Lindenwood College on Friday evening, October 30. Miss Birch was elected by the popular vote of the students but was not announced until 9 o'clock Friday evening. After an especially attractive dinner in the dining room, the girls of Lindenwood gathered in the gymnasium for a merry old-time born dance, dressed in aprons and overalls.

The gymnasium was effectively decorated with grinning pumpkins and shocks of corn, brightened by the ruddy glow from many shaded yellow lights. Throughout the evening apple cider was served and dainty chocolate cakes, in which were fixed clever little fortunes. At 9 o'clock the noisy crowd became suddenly quiet, and from an inconspicuous corn shock at the side came the queen. She was dressed in black with a flas hof orange that brought out even more the beauty of her curly auburn hair and flashing amber eyes. President Roemer escorted her to the throne, where she was crowned the Queen of Halloween with a crown of autumn leaves. Miss Birch is the daughter of Rev. Chester Birch of Kansas City. She is a sophomore at Lindenwood this year and is especially popular among the ladies of Lindenwood.

Miss Frances Baggett, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Baggett of 1655 East Elm street, has been elected treasurer of the Lindenwood Players, the honorary dramatic organization of Lindenwood college at St. Charles, Mo. Membership in this club and participation in its plays are the highest honors that can be conferred upon a student in the oratory department. The Players will produce two modern dramas this year in addition to several shorter plays and sketches. In one of these, a one-act farce to be presented soon, Miss Baggett has a leading role. She will take the part of "Mr. Wouldby" in this production of "The Pot Boiler."

Lindenwood Freshman Arrange Birthday Party.

A point has been strained, at Lindenwood College, in permitting this year an elaborate party on a week-day night. This will be the birthday celebration in honor of the Dean of Students, Mrs. John Lincoln Roemer, next Monday night, November 9, when the freshman class will bring forth all its glories of pink and orchid, class colors, and will give several "surprises" in Mrs. Roemer's honor. It has been a tradition with the freshmen ever since the Roemers took charge at Lindenwood eleven years ago, that a party should be given by them on her birthday. The date has always been adjusted, hitherto, so that the party should occur on a Friday night, but this year, Monday being the anniversary, a plea was made for an exception, which was granted. An added reason was the fact that one of Lindenwood's most distinguished visitors of the year, Miss Florence Jackson, of Boston, is to be there for the weekend, and can be present Monday, but could not make it for Friday night. Miss Ruth Bullion of Little Rock, Ark., has general responsibility as president of the freshman class, for the success of the affair, which is to be a dinner-dance.

LINDENWOOD TO GIVE BIRTHDAY PARTY

New Songs and Surprises for Wife of College President.

Many new songs and surprises are to be offered tonight by the 200 freshmen at Lindenwood College, in celebration of the birthday of the wife of the president, Mrs. John L. Roemer. The songs will be sung at dinner, under the leadership of Miss Ruth Bullion, president of the class, and the surprises will be sprung in the Butler Gym, which has been transformed by decorations into a flower garden of pink and orchid, the freshman class colors. These decorations were in charge of Miss Jane Grosvenor of Chicago, a freshman who is specializing in art.

The birthday dinner party for Mrs. Roemer is always regarded by the students and faculty as the great social event of the fall semester. Full dress will be worn and there will be a number of outside guests. Miss Patty Ryan has had charge of the invitations and Miss Helen Cowan of the refreshments, which are to be unique.

Miss Virginia See, a St. Louis girl, promises an outright "surprise" in the favors for the party, of which she has charge. Miss Avanelle Jackson is head of the Committee on Flowers, which means a good deal, as every freshman is planning to send a corsage to the upper classman or faculty member whom she invites personally to the party. Miss Virginia Irwin will look after odds and ends and Miss Jerry Schwarz is chairman of the Song Committee.

TEN LINDENWOOD GIRLS TO RECEIVE WARDROBE

Ten girls at Lindenwood College are sure of having new this winter, through their own efforts, the following clothes: An evening gown, an afternoon dress, a negligee and a tailored coat or suit. This is all to come in the line of "duty," because these ten students constitute the advanced home economics class in sewing, which is known as "Clothing III." It is eligible only to those who show special aptitude, and only seniors and juniors can take it. In preparation for these triumphs of costuming, they are just now making simple woolen dresses for sport or street wear, in which they are learning to drape the goods without patterns. They have also to make "a made-over garment" and a child's garment before they can go on to the glories of the wardrobe enumerated.

Those taking the course of "Clothing III," are Misses Annavere Brookshire, Betty Bramlitt, Delta Neumann, Lorraine Lyster, Louise Clough, Dorothy Towers, Eunice Willbrand, Agnes Boschert, Marjorie Wills and Bessie McNary.

Vincennes Girl in Character Role

St. Charles, Mo., Nov. 16.—A pretty character role was played by Miss Patty Ryan, of Vincennes, in a recent play, "Garden of Dreams", at Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Mo. Miss Ryan, who is a freshman, took the part of the "Russian sweetheart", in the line of those who passed in review before "Pierrot" of the restless heart. Her costume and dancing were the subject of much favorable comment. The play was part of the annual dinner-dance which the Lindenwood College freshman class gives for the birthday of the president's wife, Mrs. John Lincoln Roemer.

Miss Clara Bowles of Perry, played the piquant part of "Irish Sweetheart" in "Garden of Dreams," a playlet recently presented at Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Mo., in honor of the birthday of the president's wife, Mrs. John L. Roemer. Her clever costume carried shamrocks on dress and hat, and she was admirably fitted for the merry role. She was one of a number of "sweethearts" passing in the dream of "Pierrot." The play was a part of a dinner-dance which the freshmen give annually. This year the hostesses numbered about 200. Each acted as an escort to some other member of the college, presenting that one with a corsage bouquet. The class gift to Mrs. Roemer was a corsage of orchids, roses and lilies of the valley. Decorations of pink and orchid were lavishly used, these being the freshman class colors.

Birmingham Girls Appear In Play At School

TWO Birmingham young ladies who are attending Lindenwood college at St. Charles, Mo., Misses Adria Spielberger and Hermyne Rosenberger, were actresses, appearing on the stage at Lindenwood for the first time, in a freshman playlet, "Maker of Dreams." This was a recent program in honor of the birthday of the president's wife, Mrs. John Lincoln Roemer. Miss Rosenberger was a "page," wearing a costume of white satin, with a plume. Miss Spielberger's costume was the charming, hoop-skirt gown of sixty years ago, all in pink ruffles. In her pretty dance and singing she portrayed the "old-fashioned sweetheart" called out by the "Maker of Dreams."

There are about 200 freshmen at Lindenwood this year and the selection of two girls of dramatic ability from one city for a cast of about twenty was unusual.

LOCAL GIRL IN DRAMATIC ROLES AT LINDENWOOD COLLEGE

ST. Roemer. She wore the full ruffled skirt of the '60's and sang a pleasing number, in a review of "Sweethearts" called forth by the "Maker of Dreams" for the restless "Pierrot."

Miss Hermyne Rosenberger was another Birmingham girl, also a freshman, who had a part in the play. She was a beautifully clad "page" who helped announce the numbers. The hall was lavishly decorated in pink and orchid, freshman class colors.

LINDENWOOD COLLEGE
PREPARES PROGRAM

Game, Sermon, Dinner, Dance and Play Listed for Thanksgiving.

A full program for Thanksgiving Day at Lindenwood College is announced, and every girl will remain at the college through the holiday. Rev. Dr. R. Calvin Dobson, executive secretary of the St. Louis Presbytery, will preach the Thanksgiving sermon at 11 o'clock in Roemer Auditorium.

Preceding this, at 9 o'clock, will be the annual exciting hockey game between picked teams of students representing, respectively, Kansas and Missouri. "Razzers" and "Jay-hawks" are organized for cheering purposes.

Thanksgiving dinner, with its turkey and other accessories, will not be an altogether selfish feast, as on Wednesday of this week the students will make their annual offering to the old people of the St. Charles County Infirmary. A collection is taken, from which the girls of the sociology class, having first learned the wishes of the inmates, present to each old person whatever small gift he or she may have wished, whether it be tobacco, lump sugar, embroidery floss or a new apron.

Dinner is set at Lindenwood for 1 o'clock and it is likely to continue, with songs and celebration, until 3 o'clock, when "young gentlemen" will be allowed to attend a tea-dance in the Butler Gymnasium. The student board members, headed by Miss Eleanor Brown, will be hostesses at this affair.

In the evening the Lindenwood Y. W. C. A. will give a play, "The Goose Hangs High," by Louis Beaché. Those taking part will be Misses Marion Eldredge, Irene Van Evert, Dixie Mason, Pauline Scherer, Virginia Shelton, Alberta Simpson, Selma Sonin, Anna Margaret Brecht, Frances De Lozier, Dorothy Jansen, Dorothy Beatty, Aline Davidson and Dorothy Hall. An amusing feature of the cast will be the appearance on the stage of "Hudson Super," a small yellow dog, who is a pet of the students, and who has been trained for his "role."

BRYN MAWR GIRLS TO HAVE SMOKING ROOM AT COLLEGE

'Time Establishes New Authority of Convention,' President of School Says.

BRYN MAWR, PA., Nov. 24.— (By U. P.) — "Time in its passing establishes new authority of conscience and convention," President Marion Edwards Park said yesterday upon issuing an order which modifies the rule at Bryn Mawr College against smoking by girl students.

The Self-Government Association of Bryn Mawr reported to President Park that it had become increasingly impossible to enforce the rule.

Thus one smoking room has been set aside in each hall of the residence and smoking is allowed on the lower athletic field when games are not in progress. Rules against women smoking "no longer rest solidly on intelligent public opinion," President Park said.

Dr. Roemer Opposes Plan.

Dr. John L. Roemer, president of Lindenwood College, St. Charles, in an interview today expressed his disapproval of college girls who smoke.

"Any such action as taken by Bryn Mawr College will not be countenanced at Lindenwood," he asserted. "No committee ever has presented to me or anyone else at the college a petition to permit smoking among girls, and if they did, I certainly would not approve it."

Dr. King to Speak Tomorrow.
Rev. Dr. George Wales King, pastor of Markham Memorial Presbyterian Church, will give the address at vesper service at Lindenwood College tomorrow night at 6.50 o'clock. The Lindenwood students for many years have been especially interested in the institutional work carried on by Markham Church in downtown St. Louis. It has been their custom, which they will continue this year, to dress many dolls for the church Christmas tree for the little girls of the parish, and to provide other gifts.

Lindenwood College Thanksgiving Program.
Dr. R. Calvin Dobson, executive secretary of the St. Louis Presbyterian will conduct the morning Thanksgiving service in Roemer Auditorium at Lindenwood College. Thanksgiving dinner will be served at 1 o'clock and will be followed by a tea dance, given by the Student Board in the gymnasium. In the evening, the Y. W. C. A. will give Louis Beach's play, "The Goose Hangs High," under the direction of Miss Lucia Hutchins. Marian, Edridge, Irene Van Evert, Alberta Simpson, Selma Sonin, Dorothy Janses and Dorothy Bentley have the principal parts in the play.

Local News

Miss Lucille Ross of Central City, took part as a freshman at Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Mo., in a recent play, "Garden of Dreams," which the freshman class gave at its annual birthday party in honor of the president's wife, Mrs. John Lincoln Roemer. There are about 200 freshman at the school and out of this number Miss Ross was selected as one of the richly clad "pages" in the play. She helped to announce the numbers of song and dancing, and stood at the "gates" through which the characters passed.

MISS MILDRED ENNS of La-Porte was heard in a students' recital at Lindenwood college, St. Charles, Mo., on Thursday, Nov. 19. This program constituted the weekly "assembly" of the college. Miss Enns' selection, which received much applause, was "The Lark," a piano composition by Balakirew.

Missouri Woman Contributes to Latest Fiction

"Danae," by Marianne Gauss. Reviewed by M. M. Ransom, Lindenwood College.

"Judge Moxey called his second daughter 'Danae' because he had always loved the story of the beautiful princess who was shut in a tower, then known and loved by a star. He supposed that Danae would be beautiful, like his wife." Which is only another proof of the fallibility of mortals. From the first year of her life Danae's physiognomy adopted the "austere features of the Moxeys." Yet the mother of Perseus in time was to be proud of her namesake. There is beauty in intellect.

The plot itself is wholly subservient to the development of the character of Danae and that of Lincoln Kittredge, friend, lover, husband. This is noticeable in the carelessness throughout with regard to small details. The author is so anxious to impress the reader with the marked basis for the succeeding motives and reactions of her chief characters that the effect is rather overdone, the use of forecast too extensive.

An orthodox Protestant family, creed bound, a faith, blind, inexplicable, such was the early environment of Danae Moxey. The result was inevitable—revolt, unbelief, years of groping. To put it in Lincoln's words: "You haven't any faith; you live in a shadow; when success comes, or any happiness, you want to cry out, 'It isn't worth while.'"

Lincoln Kittredge was a minister's son, brought up in the same small Missouri town, the same social group and fundamentally the same home as Danae. The Kittredges were always poor, always in need, so that to Lincoln's essential lack of faith there was added a bitterness and contempt toward mankind.

Globe-Democrat, Nov. 26.

"In the night he would wake with a horror of life in his soul. Yet it was even a sharper fear he had that he might die. He was always imagining that he was ill, and he could not shake off the hope of his childhood that life would yet prove to have a happy ending. He did not want to give it up and be put down in the ground."

Lincoln grew up, went West, and became an infidel lawyer. Danae was trained for the same profession. Fate threw these two together, a promising young lawyer in a far Western town and his capable woman secretary. The transition in time and place is noticeably weak here, as often elsewhere in the book. In time Danae's feeling of friendship, of admiration for her business associate was submerged in a great love—a love which reached beyond the bounds of self. Because of her love, when the time came, she was able to make the sacrifice to redeem his reputation at the possible cost of her own.

Two infidels saved each other. It was Lincoln who first rediscovered the faith of his fathers, through the unconscious influence of Danae's personality. Danae herself did not find a solution for the doubting questions in her soul until the miracles of birth and death had left their indelible mark. Her children, the death of Lincoln, who was friend before husband, taught her the fundamental meaning of life.

The story is a good one. Miss Gauss, who is, by the way, a native Missourian, has put life on paper—the struggle of more than one woman, of more than one man, for worldly success, and over and above all, spiritual belief. (Harper's.)

"REJOICE IN GOD" THEME OF SERMON

Rev. R. Calvin Dobson Preaches at Lindenwood College.

Blessings surpassing material wealth are what one should be thankful for on Thanksgiving Day, declared Rev. Dr. R. Calvin Dobson, executive secretary of the St. Louis Presbytery, in a Thanksgiving sermon yesterday at Lindenwood College. "In all our Thanksgiving today, we rejoice chiefly in God," said Dr. Dobson.

All the students and faculty attended the service, at which Dr. John L. Roemer presided. A Thanksgiving anthem, "All Ye Nations, Praise the Lord," was sung by the college choir. There were also two solos.

"Thanksgiving Day is peculiarly an American day," said Dr. Dobson. "Nowhere could there be found a better soil in which to plant this blessed tree of liberty than here in our own country. For the very spaciousness and vastness and resourcefulness of this country are such as to surpass the nations of the earth.

"But physical resources and material prosperity, however essential they may be, are not the greatest blessings that can befall a nation. We thank God today that, while our granaries and barns are bursting with plenty, we also have and to spare of the bread of life, for which the nations hunger. We rejoice chiefly in God, and are glad our national liberty finds its true meaning in the greater liberty which we have through Christ Jesus. 'For if the son of man shall make us free, we shall be free, indeed.' And so we are glad for the privilege of paying our vows unto the Most High."

These Kansas City Girls to Take Part in Lindenwood College Play

FIVE Kansas City girls attending Lindenwood college, St. Charles, Mo., have prominent parts in the Thanksgiving play, "The Goose Hangs High," to be presented tonight at the college under the auspices of the Young Women's Christian Association.

1. Aline Davidson (personal photo) is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank F. Davidson, 4415 Campbell street. She is a freshman at the college and a graduate of Central High school.

2. Irene Van Evera (photo by Cornish-Baker) a former student of Westport high school, may be remembered by many for her part of May Porcher in "Seventeen," recently presented by the Kansas City theater. Miss Van Evera is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reynier Van Evera, 6430 Wornall terrace.

3. Selma Sonin (personal photo) a sophomore, will carry the role of grandmother in the play and will wear a lace fichu worn by a Lindenwood student seventy-five years ago. Miss Sonin is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Sonin, 3703 Holmes street. She is a graduate of Westport.

5. Marian Eldredge (personal photo) a graduate of Central, is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. James S. Eldredge, 2843 Benton boulevard.

COLLEGE TEACHER RETURNS FROM THEATER MEETING

Miss Harriet E. Diven, head of the expression department of Lindenwood College, is returning today from a national conference on the American theater, held at Pittsburgh, at the Carnegie Institute. Representatives of colleges were about in equal number with those from the stage and lecture platform.

Three main objects were considered. First, the existence of the theater in its struggle in competition with cheaper forms of entertainment; second, the dramatic training of colleges and universities; and, third, the movement for little theaters and community playhouses. It was the first conference of the kind to be held in this country.

ART STUDENTS INSPECT ST. LOUIS CATHEDRALS

The two St. Louis cathedrals, Episcopal and Catholic, were visited Sunday by six students from Lindenwood College, who came from the art department under the chaperonage of Miss Alice Linnemann, to study the art features of these buildings. They went to Christ Church Cathedral, Thirteenth and Locust streets, in the morning, where they took particular interest in the reredos and altar, and remained for the 11 o'clock service.

They spent the afternoon in the St. Louis Cathedral, at Lindell boulevard and Newstead avenue, where they were especially interested in the high color effects, the figure mosaics of the different chapels, and the mural painting and mosaic treatment of the transept.

Ford to Become 'Collegiate,' Girl Says

How the automobile figures in making the young person "collegiate" is told in an article, "The Process of Becoming Collegiate," in "Linden Bark," the weekly of Lindenwood College, St. Charles, by Miss Louise Wielandy, freshman at the college, daughter of Paul J. Wielandy, president of the Blackwell-Wielandy Book and Stationery Company.

"The last step in becoming a recognized 'collegiate' is this," the article, which is in the guise of a letter to "Cousin Hiram," says. "You must become the proud owner of a stripped-down Ford. Go to a secondhand dealer and select the rustiest and most ancient one available which will still run and rattle. Use your own taste in decorating it, but be sure it is covered with clever bits of wit. Fill this car with collegiate friends and ride about town. I am sure that no one who sees you will fail to smile, shake his head and sadly say, 'There goes another collegiate in his car.'"

Miss Morris to Athletic Association.
Miss Elizabeth Morris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Morris, who is attending Lindenwood College at St. Charles, Mo., and is a Sophomore there this year, has recently become a member of the Lindenwood Athletic Association. Membership in this organization is a great honor and may only be obtained by hard work in athletics. Lindenwood offers a wide variety of athletics this year, as the tennis courts and hockey fields have been improved and added to, and there is a new basketball court being prepared. The whole athletic field covers forty acres. Miss Morris has certainly distinguished herself by gaining membership into the Athletic Association, as it is one of the most important organizations of the college.

MISS DOROTHY BEATTY WINS UNUSUAL DRAMATIC HONORS

Miss Dorothy Beatty, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Beatty, has attained quite an honor in the dramatic department of Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Mo., where she is a freshman.

In the annual Thanksgiving play, "The Goose Hangs High," given on Thanksgiving night, Miss Beatty was selected to play one of its leading parts, that of the boy-twin Bradley Ingals.

"The Goose Hangs High" is a play regarded as something between comedy and serious drama. It is a story of American family life of today, which strikes some tragic notes, but, as the title indicates, ends happily. The difference between comedy and tragedy is exactly that; for many a play presented as laughable comedy would be rather stark tragedy if it ran on to the usual end in real life.

The play has the distinction of a strong run both in New York and Chicago. In the original production the leads were Norman Trevor and Katharine Grey.

'Most Popular of America's Women' Visions Peace Aims

Miss Jane Addams Tells Lindenwood College Audience that Little Things Count.

The need of the United States in both the League of Nations and the World Court was discussed last night by Miss Jane Addams, recently voted in a magazine contest as "the most popular woman in America," speaking in the Roemer Auditorium at Lindenwood College on "Newer Movements Towards World Peace."

Miss Addams' address was a combination of political discussion and impressions gained in a recent tour abroad, both in Europe and the Orient. She stressed the fact that in all the countries abroad there is a growing feeling of resentment towards the attitude of this country in remaining aloof from world problems and movements which are leading towards world peace.

Peace Movement Not New.

"The peace movement is not a new idea, but has been in evidence for more than 300 years, finding expression in the philosophy of Kant and in the poetry of Tennyson," Miss Addams asserted.

"A basis for permanent international understanding has been evidenced indirectly in numerous small things recently. The Interparliamentary Union eliminated the poisonous phosphorus on matches, while the Interpostal Union has established a uniform mailing system all over the world. These things, while small in themselves, have had their effect in drawing the nations together," Miss Addams said.

Again, in citing the new feeling of interest among nations, the speaker mentioned a recent case in the League of Nations, where a delegate from Haiti brought to the attention of the league the bombing of villages in South Africa. An apology was offered by the British representative and the official responsible for the bombing was recalled.

Heckled at Calcutta.

Before the league was formed it was impossible for nations to assemble and discuss affairs of international nature like that, and the result has been the establishing of a more sympathetic bond between the countries of the world, Miss Addams declared.

In referring to her own experiences abroad, Miss Addams told of being heckled by an audience in Calcutta because they felt that she, an American, could not be in sympathy with their country. The same irritation is evident in China, while there is a general feeling throughout the Orient against the United States because of the exclusion act.

As opposed to this irritation against the country, was the ovation given her in Osaka, Japan, by 10,000 school children as a mark of tribute for her work in the interest of world peace, she said.

Miss Addams included in her address a brief history of both the League of Nations and the World Court and a prophesy that the next twenty-five years would witness the most interesting development in international relations in the history of the world.

In reply to questions from the audience, Miss Addams also described briefly her work in connection with Hull House of Chicago, of which she was the founder. She likened the House and its mixed population to a miniature League of Nations.

Miss Addams was the guest of honor at a tea given in the college tea room in the late afternoon, by the Alpha Sigma Tau, an honorary literary sorority. Dr. and Mrs. John L. Roemer, with Dr. and Mrs. Kurt Stumberg, assisted in receiving, together with Misses Grace Larson, Pauline Davis and Bertha Pepperdine, officers of Alpha Sigma Tau. All the student and faculty members of the sorority were present.

There was also a students' recital of piano and song numbers at 5 o'clock, in Roemer Auditorium, in compliment to Miss Addams. Those participating were: Misses Mildred Hamilton, Margaret Cope, Lois Lawton, Alberta Keys, Marie Nelson, Clara Howles, Geraldine Fitzgerald, Virginia Miller and Silvia Snyder.

World Peace Cause Up to Women, Says Jane Addams

Famous Settlement Worker Sees Ultimate Victory to Outlaw War in Hands of Mothers, Wives, Sweethearts, in Appearance Here.

By HELEN STRAUSS.

Although the man's voice rings loudest in the Senate, it is the women who are making the biggest fight for world peace, according to Miss Jane Addams, famous social worker of Hull House, Chicago, who addressed the students of Lindenwood College in St. Charles last night.

Women's clubs all over the country have included among their activities the education of their communities to the needs of an international organization for the maintenance of peace, Miss Addams said.

"When the World Court question comes up in the Senate this month it will be the men who decide whether or not the United States is to enter it," said Miss Addams in an interview. "But by educating the public to the benefits obtained from joining the court, the women can do their share in putting it over. Appeals to senators is one way to express public opinion."

Students Interested.

Asked whether college students were interested in such world problems, Miss Addams said, "I have been talking to college audiences all my life, and I have found them interested in serious topics. When they aren't, it is the business of the speaker to interest them in whatever subject he is discussing."

In her recent trip abroad and the Orient Miss Addams sensed an ever growing feeling of resentment toward the United States for its failure to join the peace court at The Hague.

"Entering the World court doesn't mean that we will not have another war," said Miss Addams. "It means that we are headed in the direction of peace, and that strifes such as the recent one, are far less likely to occur."

Miss Addams predicted that in the next 25 years, important and far reaching changes will take place in the relations of the various nations of the world.

Peace Movement Not New.

"The peace movement is not a new idea," Miss Addams declared. "It has been in evidence for 300 years, as perusal of the philosophy of Kant and the poetry of Tennyson will show."

To illustrate the workings of an international court, Miss Addams mentioned a recent case before the League of Nations. Following protest of a delegate from Haiti in regard to bombing of villages in South Africa, the British representative offered an apology and the official responsible was recalled. Such peaceful settlement of a dispute would have been impossible under other conditions, Miss Addams declared.

In China, which Miss Addams recently visited, she was heckled by an audience that believed that being an American she was not in sympathy with their cause.

The exclusion act is responsible for that feeling, the speaker declared.

Welcomed in Japan.

In contrast to a cold reception given her in Calcutta and China was the warm welcome of the school children of Osaka, Japan, as a tribute to her work in the interest of

Although the speaker declared that she would "stick to her topic," she did talk briefly of the Hull House when questioned by the audience. She likened the famous settlement which she founded in what was once the "badlands" of Chicago to a miniature League of Nations, because of the friendly way in which its mixed population works and plays together.

Following her arrival at Lindenwood College, Miss Addams was the guest of honor at a tea given by the Alpha Sigma Tau, an honorary literary sorority. She was received by Dr. and Mrs. John L. ## WORLD PEACE VIEWS OF MISS JANE ADDAMS Welfare Worker Says U. S.

Must Enter Both League and World Court.

Miss Jane Addams, welfare worker and advocate of world peace, declared in an address at Lindenwood College last night that the United States must sooner or later enter both the League of Nations and the World Court.

She outlined her conclusions from a recent tour abroad and declared that in foreign countries a feeling of resentment towards this country is evident because it attempts to remain aloof from world problems and movements which lead towards world peace.

She observed a general irritation against the United States in the Orient, because of the exclusion act, and in Calcutta, she said, she was heckled by an audience which felt that she as an American could not be in sympathy with them.

"But the nations are gradually being drawn more closely together, not only by the League of Nations but by many little things," Miss Addams said. "For instance, the Interparliamentary Union has eliminated poison phosphorus on matches and the Interpostal Union has established a uniform mailing system. These things are small in themselves but are powerful influences toward establishing a basis for permanent international understanding."

Miss Addams explained the history of the League of Nations and the World Court, and on request described her work in connection with Hull House in Chicago, which she founded. Hull House with its mixed population is a miniature League of Nations, she said.

Slickers Painted By Lindenwood Girls.

"Slickers Painted" is the sign which greets one as she enters the room of Miss Jane Grosvenor of Chicago, a student at Lindenwood College, who is specializing in art. The recent fad of painted slickers has brought out a great deal of artistic talent at Lindenwood. There are girls in nearly every dormitory who spend their free hours painting fair "co-eds," dapper "collegiates," and even wild cowboys upon gayly colored slickers. It is claimed that the class of a student can be discovered by the looks of her slicker, the freshmen wearing far brighter ones than the rest of the college.

Lindenwood Receives Book of Designs.

The Lindenwood College art library has recently been the recipient of a beautiful book of styles, ancient and modern, compiled in Paris, France, showing the history of women's costumes. It is the gift of Mrs. Nell Donnelly, head of a garment manufacturing firm in Kansas City, and she brought home with her from a trip abroad. She uses a duplicate in the work of her own firm in designing.

Mrs. Donnelly is a Lindenwood graduate. She gives prizes each year to the girls in the department of design in Lindenwood's art department, and to those who are studying sewing in home economics. The models which win prizes are taken over by Mrs. Donnelly for use in her factory. This large volume was formally presented at assembly, in a speech by Dr. John L. Roemer.

SAYS TAKE AS GOOD CARE OF BODY AS OF AUTO

"Take at least as good care of your bodily health as you do of your automobile," said Rev. Dr. L. V. Buschmar, pastor of the Tyler Place Presbyterian Church, in an address to the girls of Lindenwood College at assembly yesterday morning. He urged health as a positive duty of everybody.

"How careful we are with our autos to see that every tire is pumped up and that there is alcohol in the radiator so that it won't freeze in winter, and yet we may have from ten to twenty automobiles in the course of our lifetime, but we only have one body to last us all the years through.

"And it isn't necessary to put alcohol in our radiators either," the minister hastened to add, "to keep our bodies in health."

The pastor enumerated as the five things worth while in life, health, knowledge, reputation, character and faith. "Take notice," he said, "that I do not include either wealth or fame."

Course in Marriage Eyed Askance Here

Boston University Idea Does Not Appeal to Head of Lindenwood College; Eastern School Recently Graduated Its First "Trained Bride."

By HELEN STRAUSS.

Is success in marriage a matter of education?

Can a girl be prepared for a career as a wife, just as she is prepared for a career as a school teacher?

Or does the success or failure of marriage depend entirely upon the individuals who have entered into the compact and the circumstances of their lives?

In the east the idea is growing among educators that many matrimonial ships may be saved if the girls are taught where the rocks are; and that such a study is as important as physics or modern European history. A course which is intended to prepare girls for proficiency in marriage was added to the curriculum of Boston university some time ago, and the other day, the first of the 53 young women to graduate with a certificate for a course in matrimony, began to put her theories into practice. The first certified bride is Mrs. Fred G. Woolfe, who was formerly Audrey Ware of Boston university.

Eastern girls may flock to school to prepare themselves for married life, but the girls of the mid-west are still content to get their training from their mothers.

While home economics and one and two years courses leading to proficiency in household duties are taught at Lindenwood college, Dr. John L. Roemer, president of the school, does not contemplate adding a matrimonial course to the curriculum.

"For a number of years we have been teaching such subjects as home economics for the purpose of giving the girls a practical understanding of efficiency in conducting a household," said Dr. Roemer, "but in spite of the changes that have been made in other schools, we do not intend to delve further or more personally into the education of girls to the needs of married life."

An "after theater supper" in honor of Miss Jane Addams was given Wednesday night at Lindenwood College tea room by the Alpha Sigma Tau of the college, following Miss Addams' address on "World Peace." Miss Addams came to Lindenwood at the invitation of the honorary literary sorority. Dr. and Mrs. John L. Roemer presided at the affair, assisted by student officers of the sorority, Misses Grace Larson, Pauline Davis and Bertha Pepperdine.

Lindenwood Prize Awarded.

Announcement was made yesterday by Dr. John L. Roemer at Lindenwood College that the winner of the annual Christmas prize story contest at the college is Miss Mary Chapman, a sophomore, of McAlester, Ok. Her story is entitled "Ice Bound," and is a narrative of a young girl's self-denial to make others happy at Christmas time, in a season when a sleet storm has bound up all traffic. The judges were the teachers of the English department. The story will be published in the current Linden Bark, the campus weekly. Miss Chapman is a member of the Linden Bark's staff. The prize is a $5 gold piece.

SOCIETY NEWS

The last Friday night dinner preceding the holiday vacation at Lindenwood College was the occasion of an entertainment for seventy-five Rotarians and "Rotary Anns" of St. Charles, by Dr. and Mrs. John L. Roemer, in the college dining room and gym. Besides the guests from outside, thirty-six college students who are daughters or sisters of Rotarians at home were included at special tables, where the color decorations were in gold and blue. John C. Hall, governor of the Fourteenth Rotary District, and Hiram C. Martin, organizer of the St. Charles Rotary Club, were guests from St. Louis. The St. Charles club officers who attended are: Guy C. Motley, Matt Gauss, W. F. Knox, J. C. Willbrand, Dr. John L. Roemer, and J. Ed Travis.

A program of "stunts" was afterward given in the Butler Gym, at which a chorus of nine Lindenwood girls sang special Rotary songs. Miss Betty Birch gave a reading and Miss Clara Bowles was among those who sang solos. The St. Charles club presented a large basket of flowers to Dr. and Mrs. Roemer.

PLUMPNESS NOW AIM OF COLLEGE GIRLS

So It Would Seem at Lindenwood Where Prizes Were Given Those Who Gained.

Plump sturdiness—visible sign of good health, sound body and mind preparing for mature duties—is the aim of college women today in their physical education. At least so it would seem at Lindenwood College, where, in a contest ended yesterday, five girls reported gains of 20 pounds or more each during the fall semester and were awarded prizes.

The girls demonstrated in this contest what can be done in putting on weight through properly planned courses in gymnastics. The leader was Miss Eloise Evans of Lexington, Ok., who advanced from 106 to 133 pounds and who was awarded the original prize. She was so closely pursued by four others that four additional prizes were given to Miss Laura Lee Thomas of Greenwood, Miss., whose weight is now 120 pounds, although it was under 100 when she started; two Missourians, Misses Mary Yancey and Lucy Smith of Marshall, who also acknowledged gain, and Miss Gladys Waldauer of Greenville, Mississippi.

A similar faculty prize was won by Mrs. Elizabeth Kenny, house-mother at Nicolls Hall.

At a Christmas dinner each of the girls and employes received a gift. Miss Edna Hough had charge.

The art department decorated the graves of Lindenwood's benefactors. The art students presented to President John L. Roemer $60.57 for the Mary Easton Sibley scholarship fund. This sum was realized from sale of Christmas cards.

The Christmas play, "You and I," was presented by the Lindenwood Players under the direction of Miss Harriet Diven.

Vacation begins this morning. Classes are to be resumed January 5.

STUDENTS DECORATE GRAVE OF LINDENWOOD FOUNDER

Among the Christmas decorations at Lindenwood College, the graves of the founder of the college, Mrs. Mary Easton Sibley, and her husband, Maj. George C. Sibley, United States Army, have been remembered by the college art department, following its annual custom. These graves are in an inclosure on the campus, Lindenwood having been the Sibleys' home. Wreaths of holly, caught with red ribbon, are seen below the granite stone, which conveys the striking fact that Mrs. Sibley was born on the first day of the year 1800.

Beginning the college when she was 27 years old, her interest was active till her death, at the age of 80. Mrs. Sibley's father, Judge Rufus Easton, was the first Postmaster of St. Louis. Interest in her grave is especially active just now, because of the fact that 1926-27 will be the centennial year of the college. It is to be observed with elaborate ceremonies.

They visited Cairo and the Valley of the Kings, which she described. The club's contribution for the year to the Mary Easton Sibley scholarship fund totals $500.

Globe-Democrat, Dec. 20

The St. Louis Lindenwood College Club, at its meeting Tuesday, December 15, at the Forest Park Hotel, voted $500 to be sent to the Mary Easton Sibley memorial scholarship fund of Lindenwood. This makes the total of $2500 which this club has given to the fund.

All other alumnae and former students in different cities are assisting, and the endowment thus raised will be used to help needy girls through college. A recent addition of $100 has been raised in the college by students of the art department through the sale of original Christmas cards.

Mrs. W. K. Roth gave an account of her cruise on the Mediterranean. Among the places visited she was most impressed by Cairo, Egypt, and the tombs, including that of Tutankhamen. She brought home with her from Egypt a sprig of the palm tree which is of the same variety as that bestowed, centuries ago, in these ancient royal tombs. She also exhibited some of the articles of clothing worn by the Dragoon guides.

A letter was read from Dr. John L. Roemer, president of the college, regretting his inability to be present, because of duties attached to the Christmas closing. Refreshments were served by a "team," of which Miss Lillian Zacher was chairman.

SAINT LOUIS WOMEN AT WORK

January

JANE ADDAMS

IN her talk on "World Peace" to the students of Lindenwood College on December 1st, Jane Addams, the world famous founder of "Hull House" Settlement in Chicago, stated that the peace movement is not a new idea, but has been in existence for three hundred years. She said, although the man's voice is the only one in evidence in the Senate, that it is the women of the country who are making the biggest fight for world peace. Miss Addams, who has recently made a trip abroad in the interest of the peace movement, said that she found a growing feeling of resentment in the Orient toward the United States for its failure to join the peace court at The Hague. She was heckled in China by an audience who did not believe that she was in sympathy with them, and was given a cold reception in Calcutta. A very pleasing contrast to this was the warmth with which she was greeted by the school children of Osaka, Japan, who showed a great knowledge and appreciation of her work in the interest of peace.

Miss Addams predicted that in the next twenty-five years there will be important and far-reaching changes in the relations of the various nations of the world.
