SENIOR & GRADUATE BIOGRAPHIES

Mimi Colvin – Audreyesque

The inspiration for Mimi's Senior Collection is the ever-fashionable Audrey Hepburn. The inspiration came specifically from some of her most magical films, including Sabrina, Love in the Afternoon, and Breakfast at Tiffany's. The five evening dresses incorporate the classic black and white color scheme that Audrey carried off so well, here realized in satin and lace. Mimi is eager to enter the fashion industry and hopes to secure a position that will utilize her design and retail skills.

Jamie Daughaday – Summer Beach

Jamie's junior knit wear collection was inspired by the beautiful beaches of Southern California! Each piece is soft, comfortable, and light - perfect for volleyball on the beach or shopping on Main Street. This is Jamie's first attempt at knit wear and accessories.

Heather Lea Gill – Summer Fling

When Heather first began sewing eight years ago she never imagined the trade would become her passion. Her first trip to Los Angeles left an impression that continues to inspire her. For these collections she has drawn creativity from both the beach and street scene. Her Mini Collection uses stretch cotton accented with hand-painted Art Deco and Nouveau designs. As a challenge, she employed silk and chiffon for her Senior Collection. Heather also enjoyed creating the accessories included in her collections. In the future, Heather hopes to have a family and become a college fashion professor.

Emily Alexandra Hunter – Inspired Romance

Emily's signature collection of Bridal Wear was inspired by her recent engagement. As she designed, she included her favorite color, hunter green, and her favorite plant, ivy. After graduation, Emily plans to continue apparel design and hopes that all of her hard work will finally pay off!

Megan Christie

As a graduate student who works full time in the fashion industry, Megan has a comprehensive understanding of the trade. She is an active member of Fashion Group International and a trend-setter in her own right.

Elizabeth DeLassus – My Fair Lady

Elizabeth has always been intrigued by both the utilitarian and artistic components of fashion design. Raised in Kenya, land of many ethnicities, Elizabeth was inspired and influenced by the ways in which use fabric and color are used for cultural expression. Elizabeth enjoys the study of fashion history and the development of trends. Her Graduate Collection explores the Empire-style design through the use of both princess and bias cuts. The pièce de la résistance is a 100 percent cotton gown featuring custom-made black and white organdy lace.

Heather Elizabeth Desmond – Geometric Visions

Heather has been a life long student of art history. Recently she has been fascinated by the philosophies and principles of Modern Art. For her Graduate Collection, Heather drew inspiration from two revolutionary Modern Art Movements, Cubism and Minimalism. The elements of geometry and simplicity inherent in both are made manifest in Heather's designs. Heather's Mini Collection of retro-infused swimwear was inspired by her own swimwear needs: classy, comfortable, confident, and care-free coverage.

Pearl Meksikrin – Today's Thai

Pearl was raised in Thailand, and her Graduate Collection blends elements of both her native and adopted cultures. Pearl has chosen to construct her sports wear garments in Thai silk, a fabric well known for its beauty and grace.
