DID YOU KNOW?

Saint Charles, MO, the town that Lindenwood University is located in, was Missouri's first state capitol and was the home of Daniel Boone, who was known as a pioneer and explorer.

STUDENT SPOTLIGHT: Sarah Marian

"I am a sophomore from St. Peters, Missouri, and I'm majoring in history with secondary education certification! I joined Sigma Sigma Sigma in the fall of 2022, and have since been very involved in my sorority and PHA. Last year, I was Sigma's ritual chair, and this year I am the events manager and fundraising chair. In addition, I was a Pi Chi during fall 2023 primary recruitment. Now, I am the Director of Recruitment for Lindenwood Panhellenic. I was also recently initiated into Order of Omega, which is the FSL honor society."

ORGANIZATION SPOTLIGHT: International Student Fellowship

International Student Fellowship (ISF) is a student organization which celebrates and supports the unique diversity of the Lindenwood University student body. The core of this group is the international student population, and it draws its vitality and energy from everyone open to growing with us, including local community members. It allows for a place to make friends, so the college experience in the U.S is more fun, meaningful and connecting. They respect and invite people of all nations, cultures and faiths to participate in their activities. The ISF is very active on campus and regularly hosts events that allows for an engaging way for students from all over the world to connect.

NEWSLETTER MARCH 2024

“There is nothing impossible to them who will try.”

-Alexander The Great

PROFESSOR SPOTLIGHT: Dr. Joseph Steineger

Dr. Joseph Steineger, the 2022-23 LSG Professor of the Year, is Associate Professor of Philosophy. He joined the Lindenwood faculty ten years ago in 2014 and teaches courses in logic, metaphysics, philosophy of mind, philosophy of religion, and political philosophy. He is known for his love of philosophy, whether in or out of the classroom, never missing an opportunity to discuss any philosophical topic. Go ahead - try him! Whether in his introductory or upper-level classes, or extracurricular contexts like Philosophy Club or the PPE Reading Group, he'll explore any philosophical topic with you at length. He loves being a part of the College of Arts and Humanities and earned degrees in Political Science and Religious Studies when he was an undergrad, before realizing that philosophy was more practical than he had originally been led to believe. Outside of school, Dr. Steineger enjoys hiking, traveling, listening to music, and staying up late to binge shows and movies that he mines for more philosophical insights.

STORIES FROM THE ARCHIVES

“Did you know that prior to social media, when students wanted to voice their displeasure about something at Lindenwood, they would create anonymous protest newsletters and post them around campus. There have been several over the years, but the longest lasting one was The Black Squirrel, which protested some of the conservative policies put in place at Lindenwood during the 1990s.” To view some of the protest papers, you can go to: <https://digitalcommons.lindenwood.edu/underground/>
