

THE LEAD

Stay connected with the Lindenwood School of Education

Think Like an Entrepreneur Camp

The center is partnering with the Foundation for Economic Education to offer “Think Like an Entrepreneur,” a fun-filled, engaging, three-day experience for high school students during July 16-19. Students will get a unique feel for the college experience while discovering the entrepreneurial mindset and how to use it to create value for themselves and their communities. There is room for only a few more students! Cost is only $79 including tuition, housing, and meals, and scholarships are still available to offset the cost. Click for more information.

Camp Invention

On June 26, the center will engage approximately 100 elementary students participating in Camp Invention at Lindenwood. This unique STEM camp is organized each year by Mary Gismegian. Students will get a practical, hands-on introduction to basic ideas about economics and entrepreneurship.

Elementary Kids Literature Workshop

Looking for creative ways to engage young students and integrate economics and personal finance with math, language arts, and other subjects in the classroom? Look no further! Join the center, in collaboration with the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis, on June 18 for the Elementary Kids Literature Workshop in Dunseth Auditorium at Lindenwood. The workshop is perfect for elementary teachers, curriculum coordinators, SOE faculty, elementary education majors, and SOE alumni. Try out lessons and activities that will bring stories and economic concepts to life. Learn about online learning modules like the award-winning “Ella” series, which features topics such as decision-making, opportunity cost, and saving. Participants will receive copies of all lessons demonstrated. Click for more information.

Lindenwood School of Education Honors Outstanding Cooperating Teachers

We would like to thank all of our student teaching Cooperating Teachers for opening their classrooms to Lindenwood Teacher Candidates, for sharing their knowledge and expertise, and for mentoring with enthusiasm. You have made a difference in the lives of our future educators! A special congratulations to this semester's Outstanding Cooperating Teachers for their exceptional efforts:

Julie Vahle, John Weldon Elementary School

Amy Barker, Kirkwood High School

Nikki Heath, Orchard Farm Elementary School

Laura Walsh, Fort Zumwalt West Middle School

Jaelyn Oeschner, Stone Creek Elementary, Wentzville

Dr. Stephen Sherblom Will Present at the Association for Moral Education Conference in November

Dr. Stephen Sherblom will be presenting a conference paper entitled “Wisdom is more than expertise” at the Association for Moral Education’s 45th annual conference in Seattle, WA, November 7-9, 2019. Psychological models of Wisdom are severely limited when compared critically with traditional wisdom traditions, seeming more like a restricted expertise rather than a wide-ranging life-changing development of moral maturity. Academic models tend to leave out those traditional aspects most at odds with current American society – humility, self-awareness, and a deep sense of connection to other people, the planet, and all life. This paper argues that without those more spiritual elements any model of wisdom will be inadequate, and probably doesn’t deserve to use the word Wisdom, which has a long and rich tradition we ignore at our peril.

Magna Publications’ 20 Minute Mentor Videos Features Podcasting Tips From Drs. Leavitt and Elder

Magna Publications hosted a technology conference last fall where Drs. Elder and Leavitt filmed two videos on podcasting. These videos are produced for 20 Minute Mentors, “video-based programs designed to answer a specific question related to teaching and learning. They deliver actionable insights in highly focused 20-minute presentations designed to fit busy schedules.” Dr. Lynda Leavitt’s 20-Minute Mentor video focused on the basics and benefits of podcasting, and tips on how to create your own podcast. Dr. Robyne Elder's video concentrated on the technology tools needed to create a podcast, from the right microphone to the most beneficial podcasting platform. Both 20-Minute Mentor videos are available for purchase or can be checked out at the Lindenwood Library. Visit the below links for more information.

Associate Dean, Dr. Jill Hutcheson Recognized by the Society President and Executive Director of Kappa Delta Pi

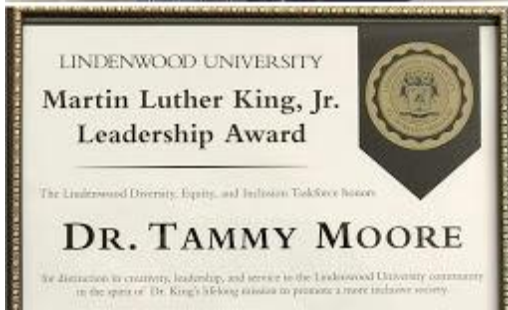

The School of Education's very own Associate Dean, Dr. Jill Hutcheson was recently recognized by Kappa Delta Pi's Society President, Dr. Victoria Tusken and Executive Director, Ms. Faye Snodgrass for her commitment and leadership of the Lindenwood PDK Chapter and the mentoring provided to its student members. They recognized Dr. Hutcheson for STEAM-related professional development, sponsorship of LEGO First Competition and her community outreach with "We Help Two" which worked to donate socks to Crisis Nursery.

Dr. Hutcheson's leadership and dedication to providing a professional community of educators through the School of Education chapter of Kappa Delta Pi is a great asset to our school. The recognition is much deserved and we are happy to highlight the wonderful contribution she provides to the Lindenwood School of Education.

Dr. Tammy Moore Recieves MLK Jr. Leadership Award

Congratulations to our Director of School of Education, Advising, Retention, and Certification Center (ARCC) - Dr. Moore (pictured left) was presented the 2019 MLK, Jr. Leadership Award presented by the Diversity, Equity and Inclusion (DEI) Task Force during our University wide staff meeting. This award grants distinction and recognition to those individuals in the Lindenwood community who embody the spirit of Dr. King's work.
