Elementary Kids Literature Workshop

On June 18, the Economic Education Center hosted the Elementary Kids Literature Workshop for more than 20 elementary educators. The workshop was a collaboration between the center and the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis. Participants explored creative ways to engage young students and integrate economics and personal finance with math, language arts, and other subjects in the classroom. The workshop demonstrated literature-based lessons and activities that bring stories and economic concepts to life and also highlighted online learning resources like the award-winning "Ella" series. Participants received copies of all lessons demonstrated as well as other resources. Seven of the participants plan to enroll in the Cooperative Credit option for the workshop.
