The Legend

Lives

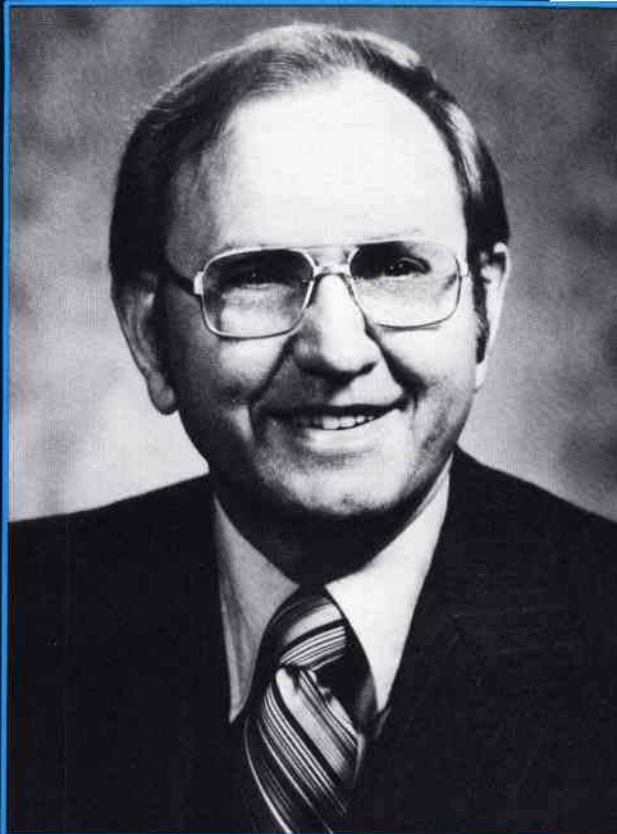

Dear Readers of the LINDEN LEAVES:

Lindenwood College's yearbook is an appropriate vehicle to convey to present and future generations something of the legends that come out of the past. Through reporting on activities of the current generation of Lindenwood students, these pages transform today's events into tomorrow's legends. Every group of students leaves its imprint upon this college.

As you absorb the content of these pages, may you experience a deep and abiding satisfaction in the knowledge that these legends of our will bless the life of any person who pauses beneath a linden tree and gives thanks for what Lindenwood College has been, is, and will become.

Sincerely, James I. Spainhower

James I. Spainhower
President

A yearbook represents captured moments shared by friends, companions and others. It is an effort which takes patience, experience, dedication and, in this case, a sense of humor.

Such would not be accomplished without a goal for success, cooperation and cohesiveness of those involved, and most importantly, achievement of the goal.

In this yearbook we captured what we felt were the crazy, the serious and the good times that will filter through our minds as we share our memories with new friends.

No matter where we live or what we do, this yearbook will hold together the memories of 1985-1986 at Lindenwood.

Lookin' Good

A berth in the NAIA District 16 playoffs ended the rollercoaster ride on the upswing for Lindenwood and first year coach Scott Westbrook.

Westbrook spent the year juggling lineups from a group of seasoned veterans and inexperienced walk-ons. The result was a fine 11-7-2 record and the school's second playoff appearance in its history.

A 1-1 tie with nationally ranked UMSL was typical of the Lions' season.

Although lacking in talent and depth in several areas, the Lions used hard work and hustle to come out on top in 1985.

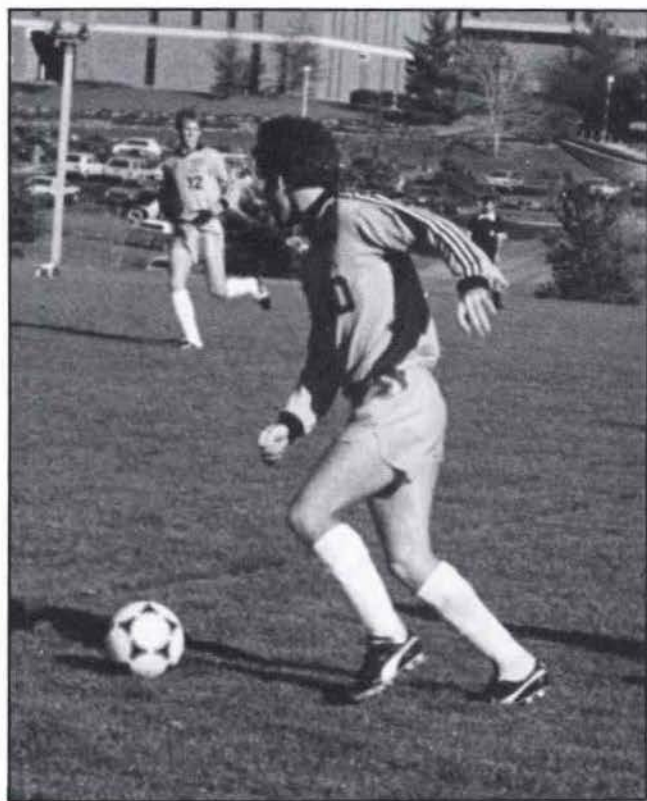

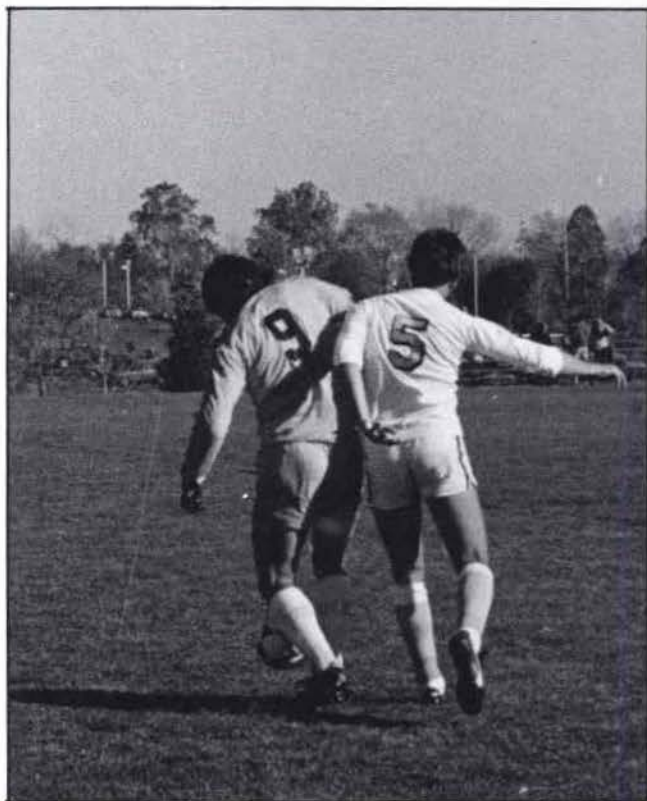

Senior John Powers, Tim Mahoney, Juniors Sominic Condellire and goalie Dale Fiala helped keep things in order during the rough part early in the season.

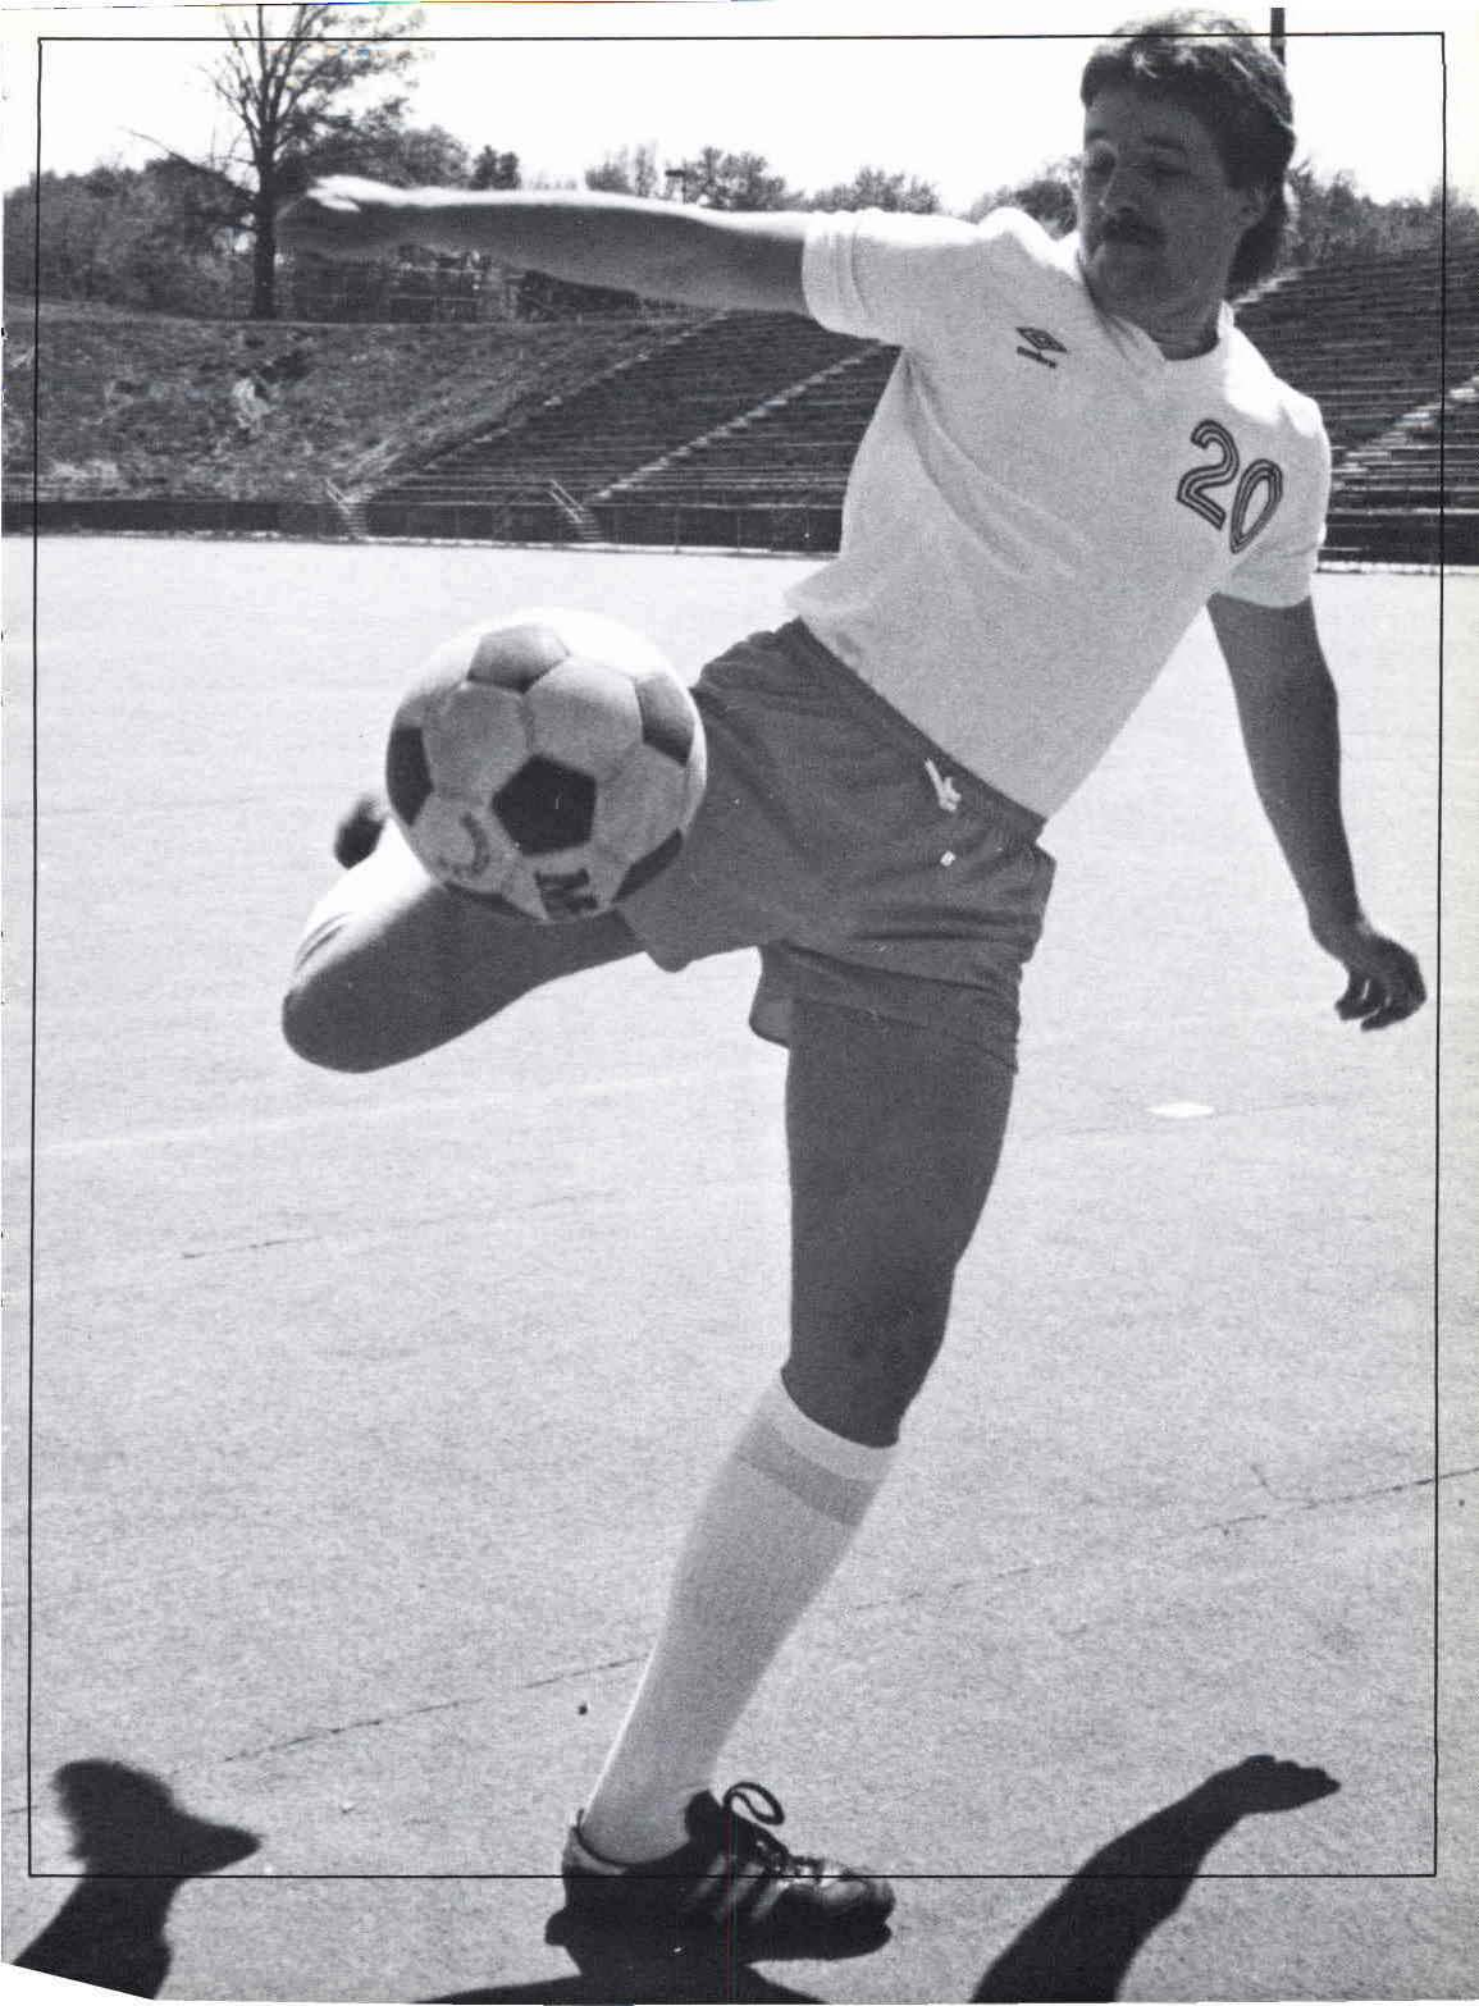

Other senior players included Mike Baer, Mark Brewer, Marc Schwering, Brian Lange and Todd Herr.

Many of these players were a major part in Lindenwood's first playoff team in 1983 and provided the nucleus for three more winning seasons.

Hopes for future success rest in the hands of Dale Fiala, Dominic Condellire, Bob Herdler: and of course Scott Westbrook.

"Don't Let the Ball Bounce"

The Lady lions enjoyed one of the best seasons posting a 7-9-2 record.

Although a 7-9-2 record won't qualify a team for the World Cup, the Lions faced a rugged schedule which included the likes of UMSL, SIU Edwardsville, Quincy College and Missouri Baptist.

The 1985 Lions played at a quicker pace which resulted in more goals and some exciting action. A pair of victories over Flo Valley and Principia and a 1-0 shutout of rural Missouri Baptist highlighted the season.

A 3-2 victory at Northeast Missouri State proved to be the most thrilling. Trailing 2-0 at halftime, Lindenwood rallied in the second half to pull the upset.

Sophomore Debbie Johnson provided most of the scoring punch on her way to becoming an All-District selection. Goalkeeper Kathleen Beckham Brasier was outstanding in the nets all season.

Veterans Jennifer Fear, Cindy Niggley, Kim Divis, Virginia Roland and Amy McCracken gave coach Debbie Kehm solid field play. Newcomers Jill Holstrom, Jan Heeman, Kathy Thronesberry and Amy Petkar gave Kehm a good foundation for the future.

Shoot for the Top

Coach Larry Logan hoped to begin his college coaching career on the winning track. With four returning starters and an exciting up tempo style of play, the prospects looked good for the 1985 season.

However, several key injuries and some academic problems contributed to the Lion's 9-25 record.

The Lions were a tall and talented outfit, but were unable to put together a full game to take advantage of their talent.

Three thrilling victories over arch-rival Columbia highlighted the season. The up-start Lions also threw a scare into Division II power Siu Edwardsville before falling.

Logan brought from Elsberry High School a fast break pressing style with emphasis in putting points on the scoreboard. The old adage, "The best defense is a good offense" applied to the Lions.

This was most evident in a 105-97 victory over Webster University. Seniors Kevin Kiner and Earl Austin benefitted most in combining for 40 points a game. Kirk Landwehrmier, Eric Riensfelder, Don Kaiser, Brad Bontty, Melvin Starkey, and Allen Sell were also heavy contributors to the exciting 1985-86 season.

Women's Softball

Spirited to the End

A long time ago someone once said "Experience is the best teacher." With the loss of standouts such as Karen Gaines, Missy Maurer, Lisa Anzer, Lisa Fisk and Julie Bahler, the Lady Softballers have suffered some heavy growing pains in 1986.

What the Lions didn't have in experience, and talent, they made up for with a spirited attitude and a willingness to have fun.

"Of course, I would rather win more games," said Coach Linda White, "but if I could translate the positive attitude of this group to some of my other teams, there's no telling what could have been."

With so many regulars missing, White was forced to go with the old draft method to gain players.

White was pleasantly surprised with the play of Missy James, Ronna Holloman, Jennifer Ellicott, and Karen Bergman.

Returning veterans: Kim Divis, Kim Remmert, and Kathleen Beckham-Brasier continued the solid play throughout the season.

If this group of young players can stay together to form a nucleus, who knows what the future holds for Lindenwood Softball? Hopefully more marks in the win column.

Graduation

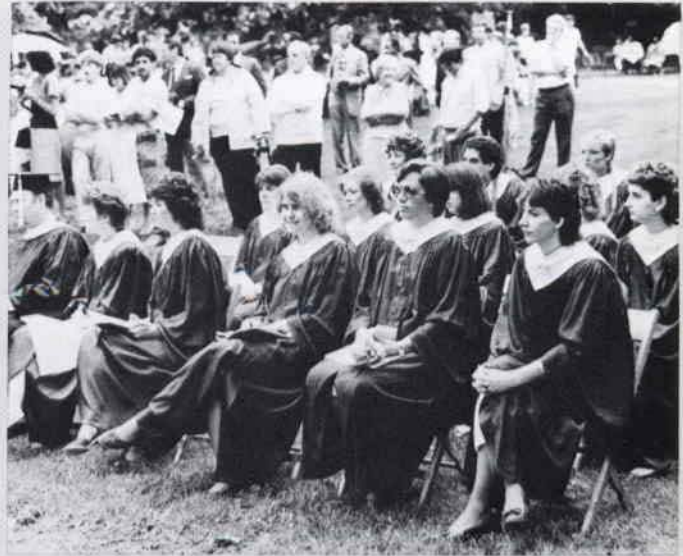

The Honorable Judge William L. Hungate knew readily the importance of being content in life as he spoke on "Despising not thy Youth". Sadly, many said farewell to their peers May 17, 1986 in order to move on, yet it is with great excitement that we salute them as Alumni and as Living Legends of Lindenwood College.
