LINDENWOOD COLLEGE for WOMEN

FOUNDED 1827

SAINT CHARLES, MISSOURI

DR. FRANC LEWIS McCLUER, President
Friendly

MRS. FRANC McCLUER
Gracious

ROEMER HALL

Administration offices, class rooms, laboratories, Post Office and Book Store.

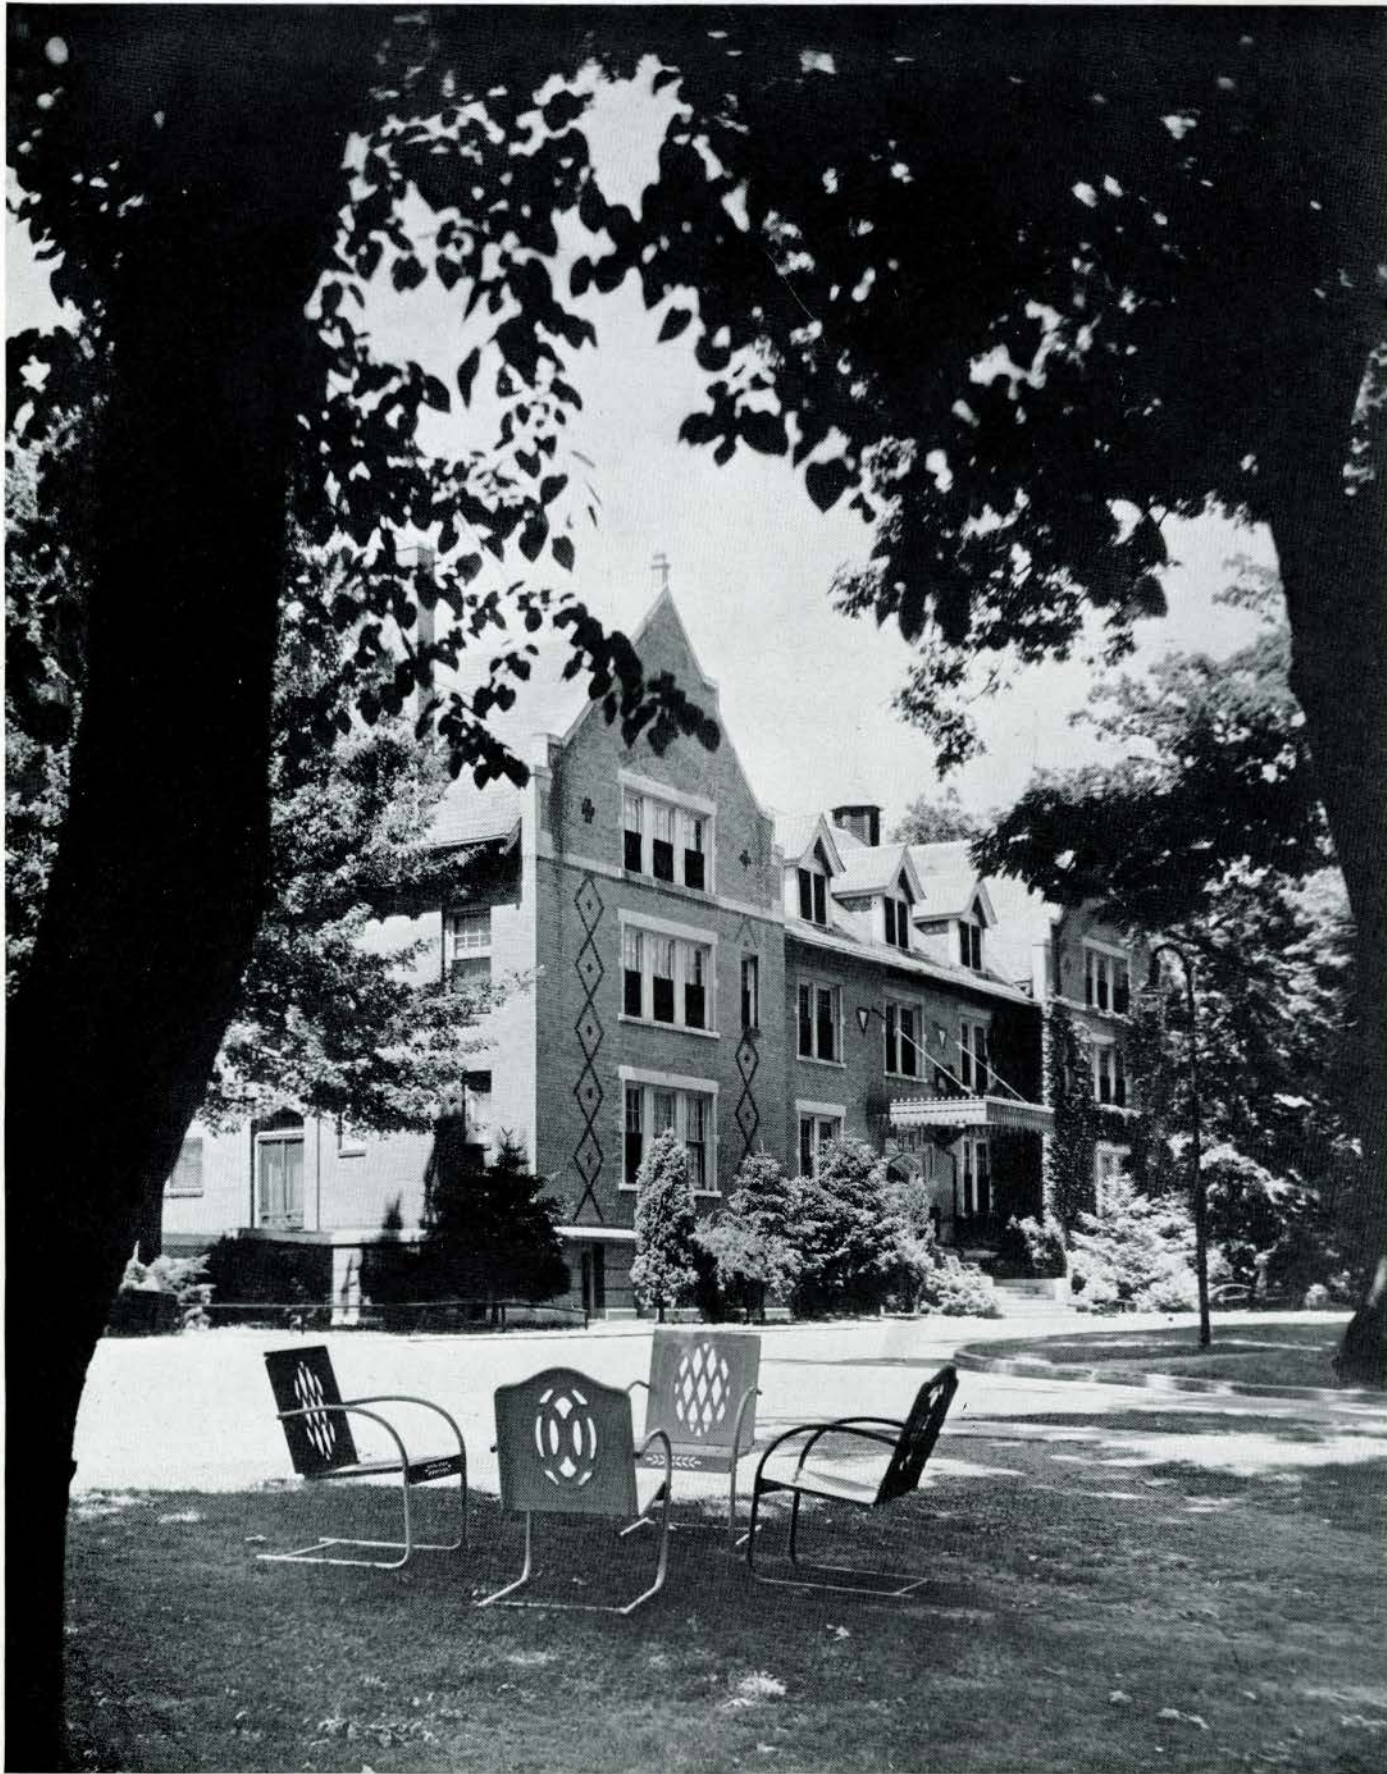

BENEATH the shadows of beautiful Linden trees for more than a hundred years graceful and gracious maids have come and gone. At Lindenwood lingering memories of a gracious past and perfect confidence in the future awaits you.

These pages will show you the modern buildings and beautiful campus, but the young women who come here are the most wonderful part of Lindenwood.

Still stands stately Sibley Hall.

AYRES HALL

Dormitory, dining room
for all the students.

The beginning of many happy parties.

BUTLER HALL

is a residence hall, housing the gymnasium and the swimming pool, too. The big college parties are all held in Butler.

Vine clad Irwin Hall is a dormitory for eighty young women.

Looking out from the entrance of Roemer Hall.

Through the Loggia of Niccolls Hall
freshmen girls have gone in and out
for thirty years.

THE PRESIDENT'S HOME

Students are invited to call.

The Margaret Leggat Butler Library where
"the minutes of the previous meetings" are recorded, and where we query about the future.

South Study Room of the Library.

The Lillie P. Roemer Fine Arts Building for Music, Art, Radio.

The Memorial Room set with furniture of an early period.

The grand reception room.

STUDENT HEALTH CENTER

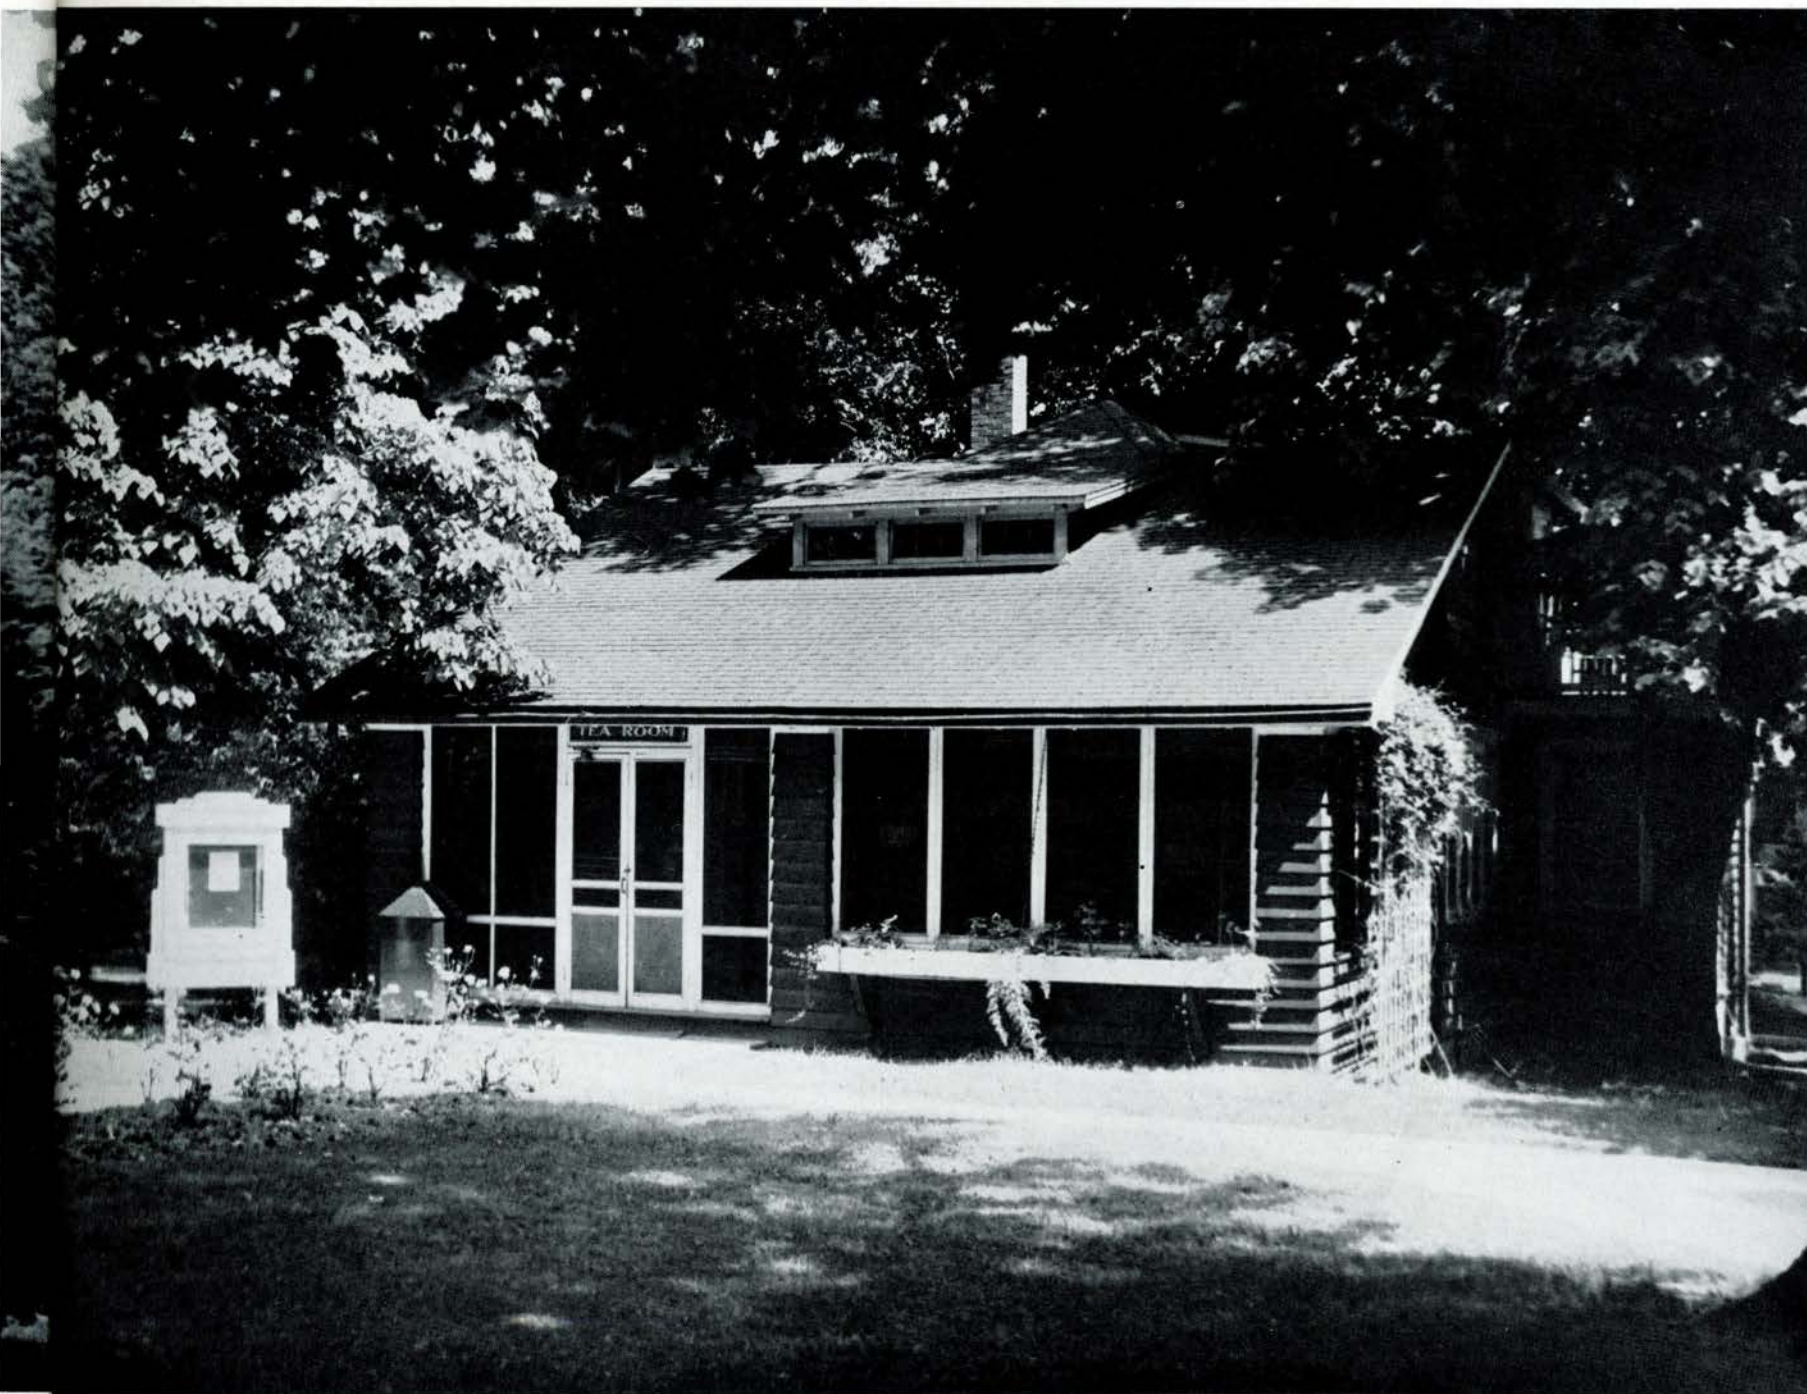

Friendly nurses and doctors are in attendance.

On the way to Roemer
this vista will greet you.

The Gables . . . The Faculty Club.

Tea Room . . . Lots of conversation with the freedom of the saints.

MODERN education has vocational tendencies. Students find fields of interest here for both hands and head.

Lindenwood Women Arrive

POST OFFICE

Every one expects a letter
every mail and students
share the good news.

COLLEGE BANK

It is wise to have a balance in the bank.

Lindenwood women love a street supper. Here is one in full swing.

Outdoor games are invigorating.

The men of the campus
throw a party

Most every one swims.

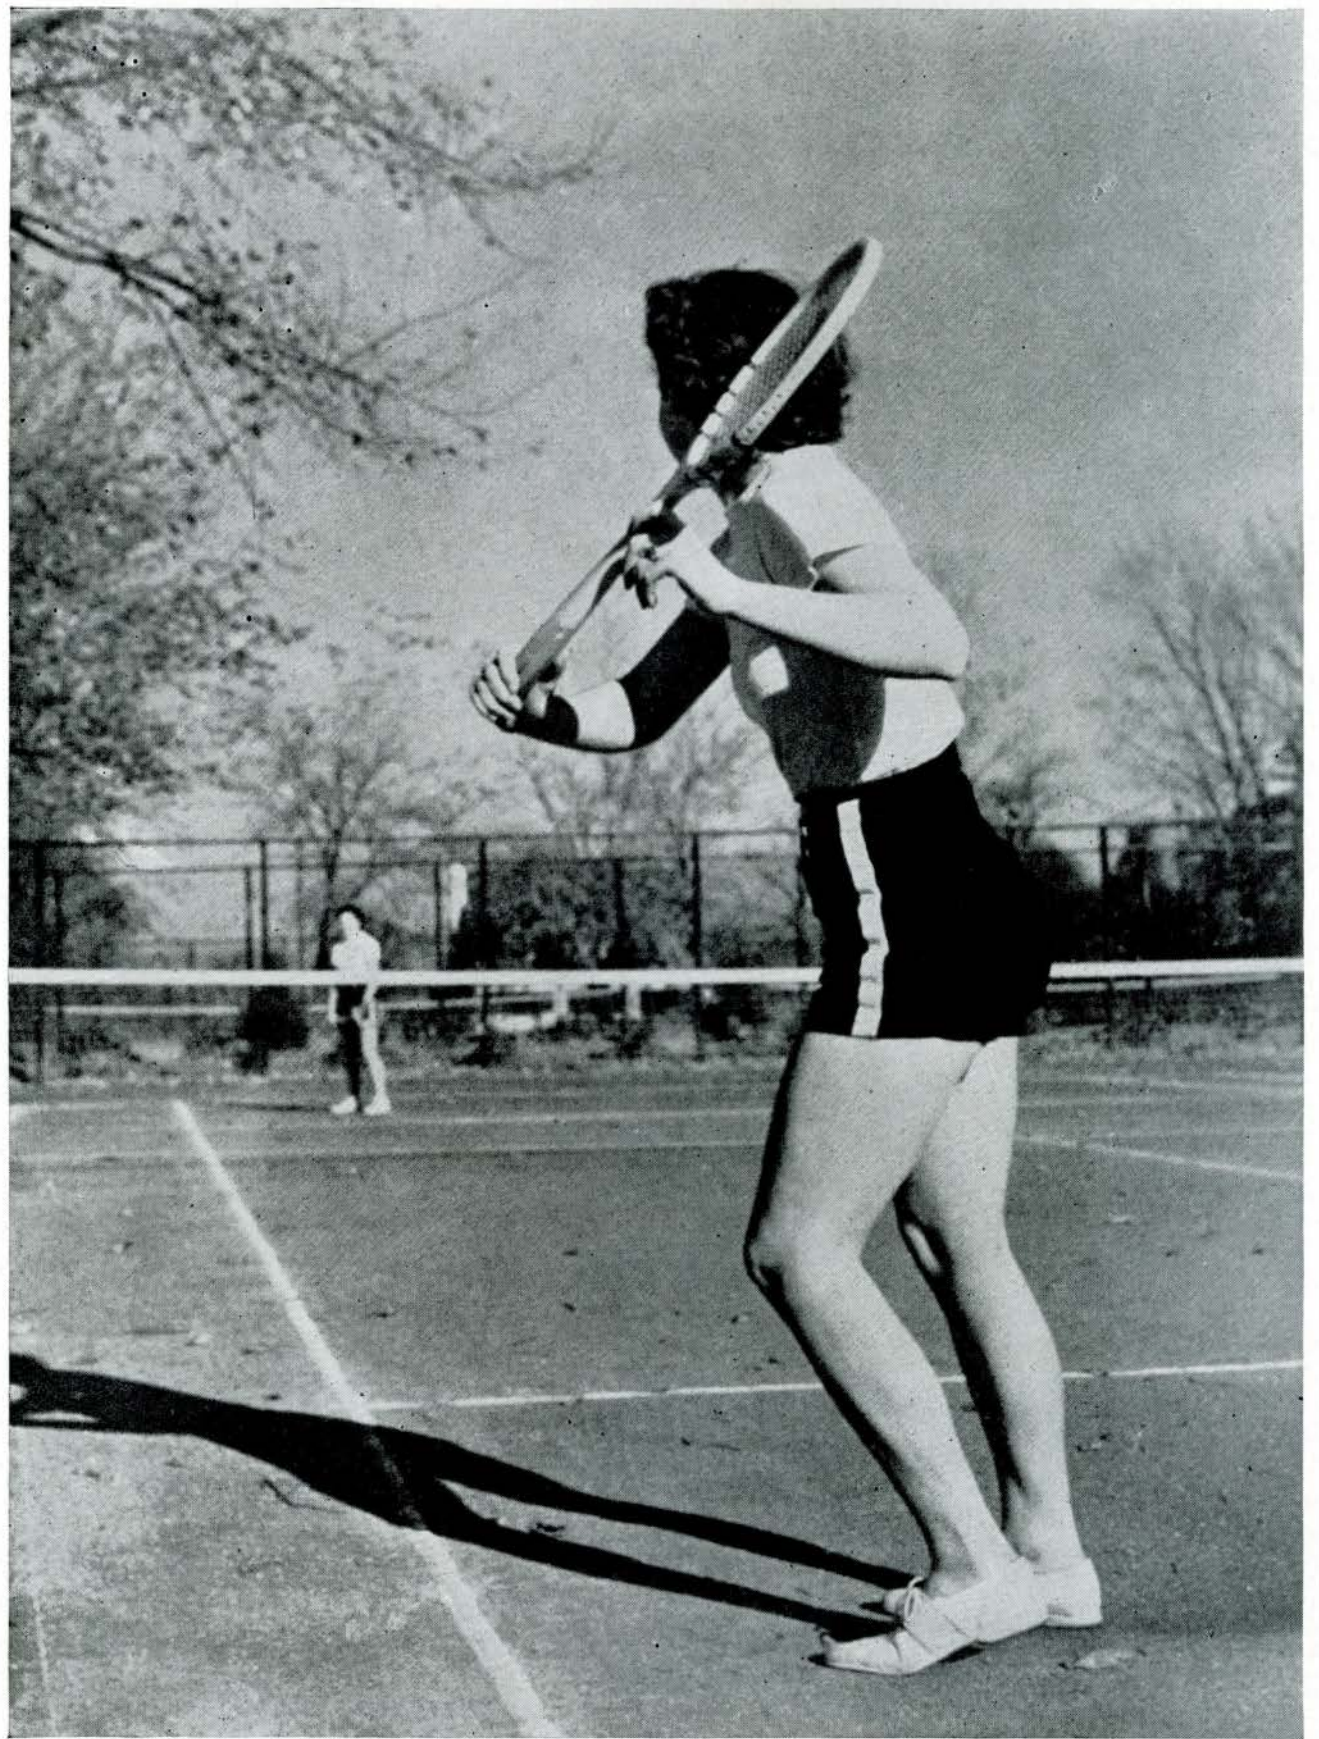

Tea room chat.

Some like the horses best.

Well kept Tarvia courts
allow you to play all year.

It looks like a hit.

The sixth hole of the golf course.

Classes cease and the students are enroute to the dining room.

Democrats prepare resolutions.

Some of our Ohio women greet Senator Robert Taft, who delivered the Republican Keynote Speech at Lindenwood's Political Convention.

Republicans register delegates.

Wyoming women greet Senator O'Mahoney, who delivered the Democratic Keynote Speech at Lindenwood's Political Convention.

Lilies and roses greet you from the front door of Irwin Hall.

May Queen and Court, 1948.

THE Tanke Twins always worked and played together.

An interesting biological study.

It is an accomplishment
to learn to live with books
and it brings big results.

Cooking is a "must"
and sewing, too.

Chemistry holds many a secret.

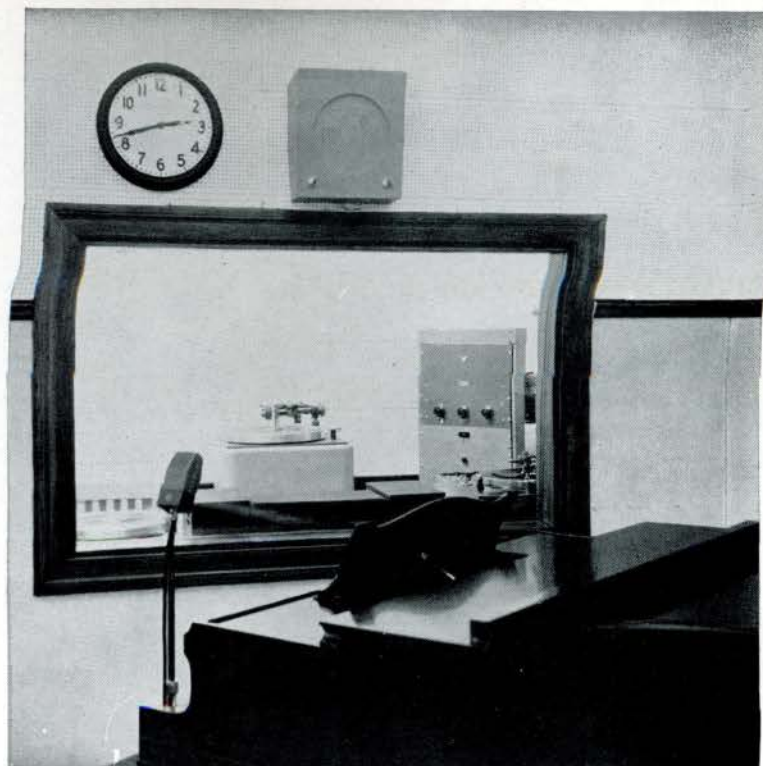

Costume design
is inspiring.

Designed, made and modeled
by Mary Ann Mertens.

Learning to make duplicated copies.

Radio and Sound Recording rooms adjoin practice studio.

Dr. John Thomas, Director of Music, and a pupil.

Kemper Dance

Bear Pits at the Zoo.

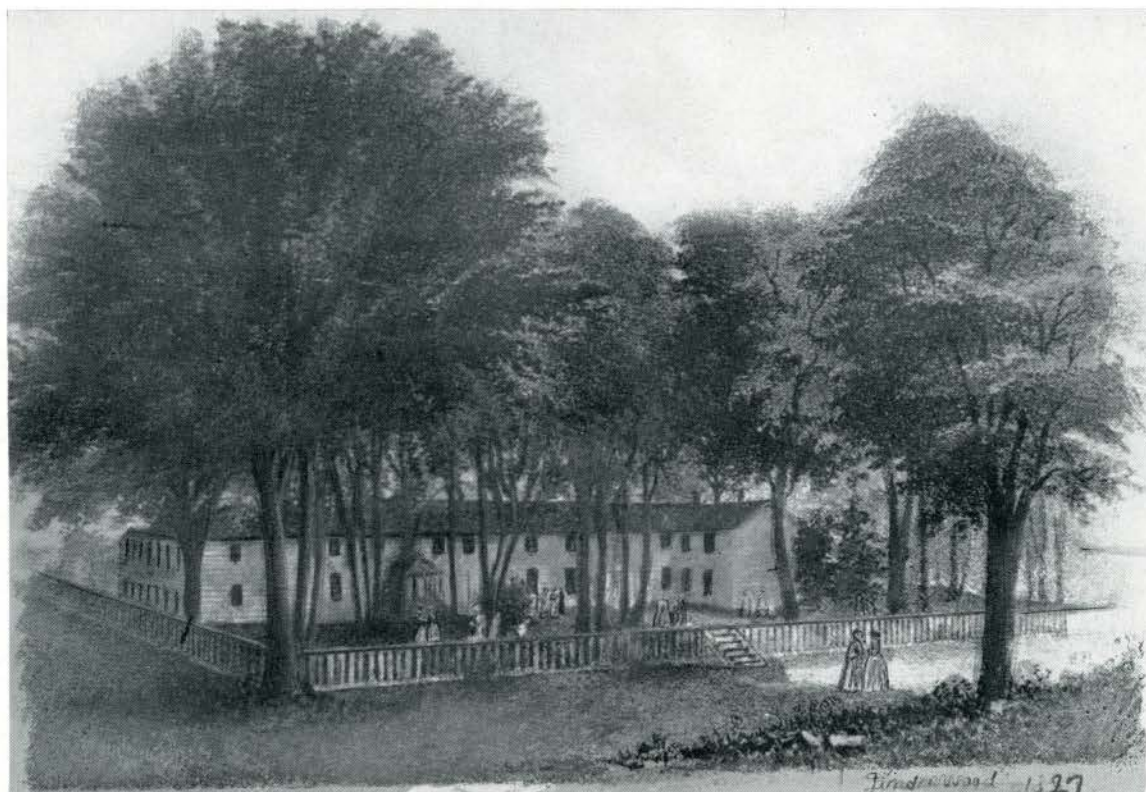

Shaw's Garden.

Lindenwood's campus as seen from the air.

Beautiful Lindenwood has grown from this beginning. In 1827, before we had railroads or highways and when our neighbors were the Indians, Major George C. and Mrs. Mary Easton Sibley founded Lindenwood.

They specifically stated the College should have a national outlook. From this humble beginning has developed a college that is nationally known. A friendly welcome awaits you.
