Reflections Of The Past

When Lindenwood and our nation were young and eager to grow, it was a time of innocence and trust, enrichment and awareness. Although many of these ideals have slipped away, they can still be restored. Let us then, look back and commemorate our past, for a future without reflection is barren.

"Today Lindenwood is standing at the crossroads, one leading to a great college, such as Smith, Vassar, or Wellesly, and the other, -- the fate of being classed as a girls seminary. True to its Presbyterian origin and backing, the policy of Lindenwood is and ever will be conservative. She will not grow by taking big risks, but slowly and carefully, until someday Mrs. Sibley's dream may be realized."

(Linden Leaves -- 1906)

“Today Lindenwood is standing at the crossroads . . .

She will not grow by taking big risks, but slowly and carefully.

until someday Mrs. Sibley's dream may [again] be realized."
