Hidden in the unbalance of our everyday lives, we find a moment of equality and change; an equinox. As with nature, where the seasons progress, so do the colleges of Lindenwood. Fresh ideas shine on the horizon; old ones fade into the twilight. The increase of men students brings the colleges themselves nearer to becoming an equinox where, like the night and day in nature, the two elements are equal, completing the whole. Captured here, then, is record of an equinox of our lives.

"Listen to the exhortation of the dawn!
Look to this day!
For it is Life, the very Life of Life.
In its brief course, lie all the verities and realities of your existence . . .
For yesterday is but a dream,
and tomorrow is only a vision . . .
Look well therefore to this day!"

from Sanskrit

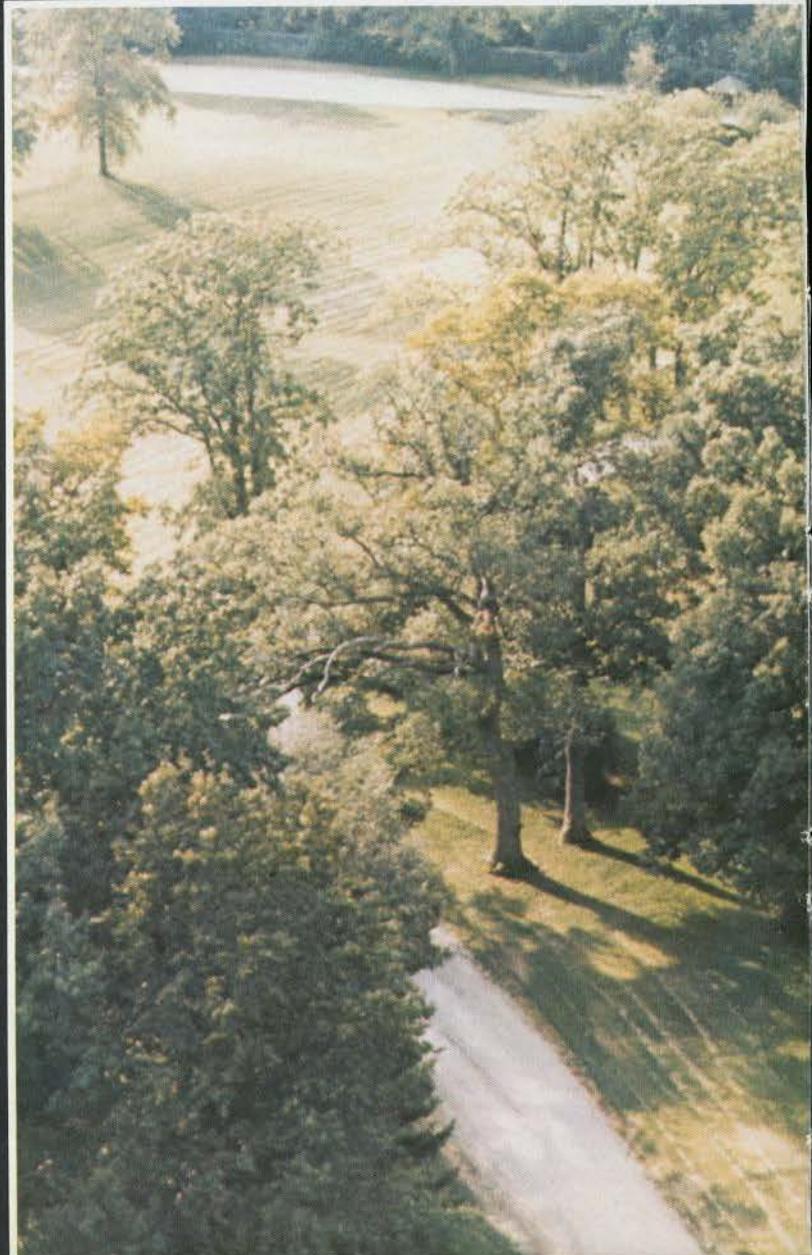

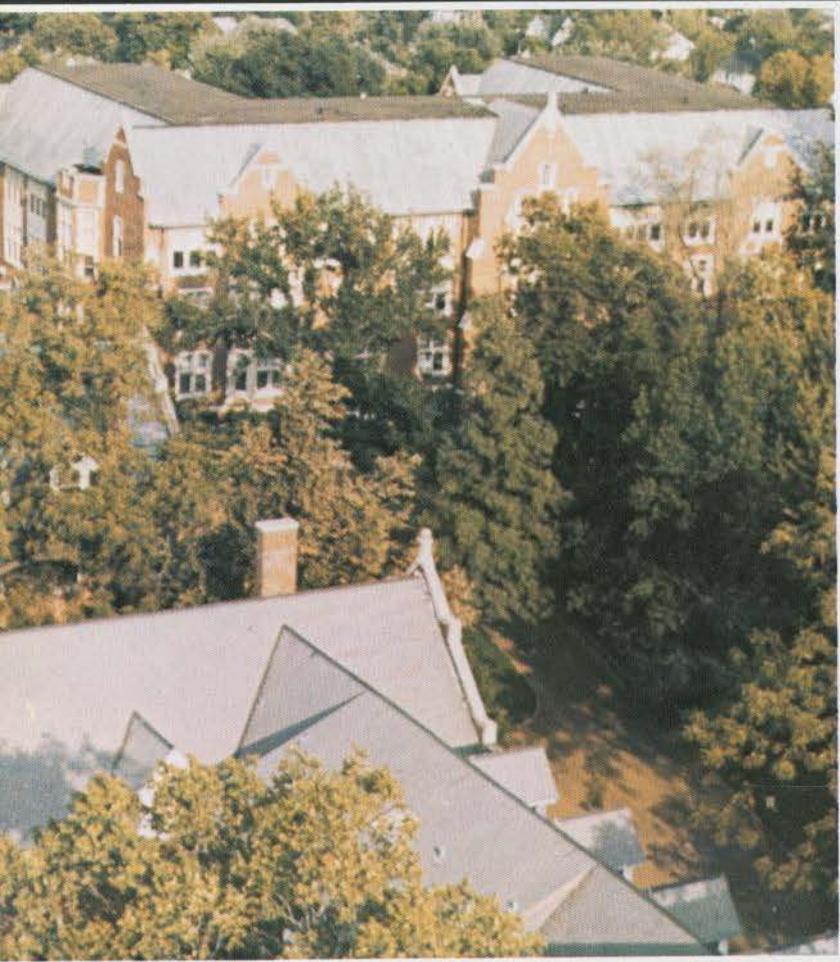

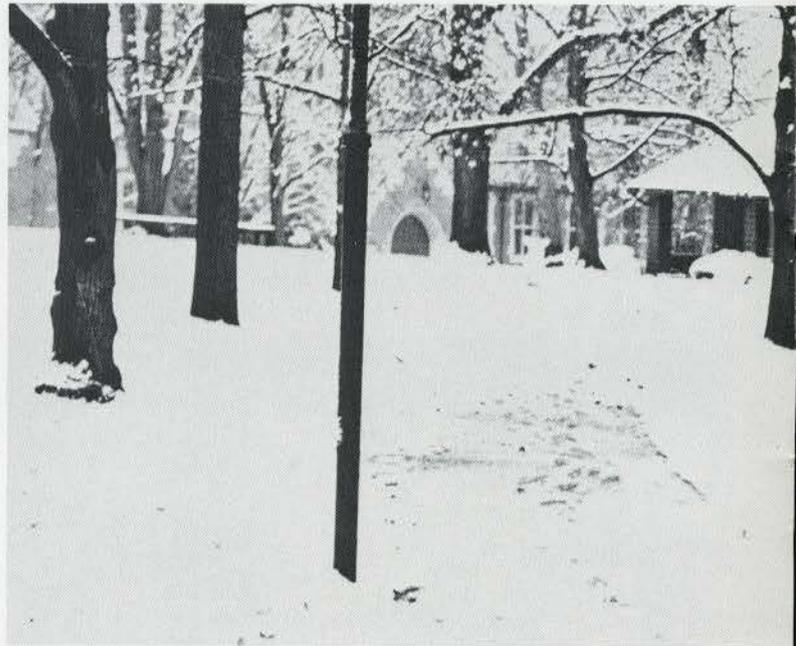

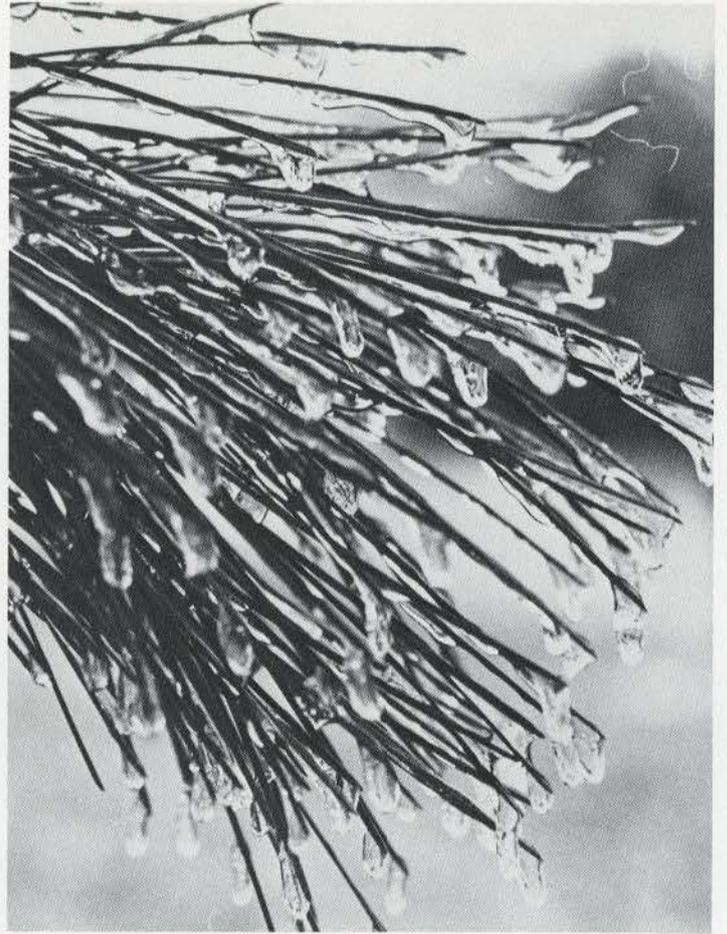

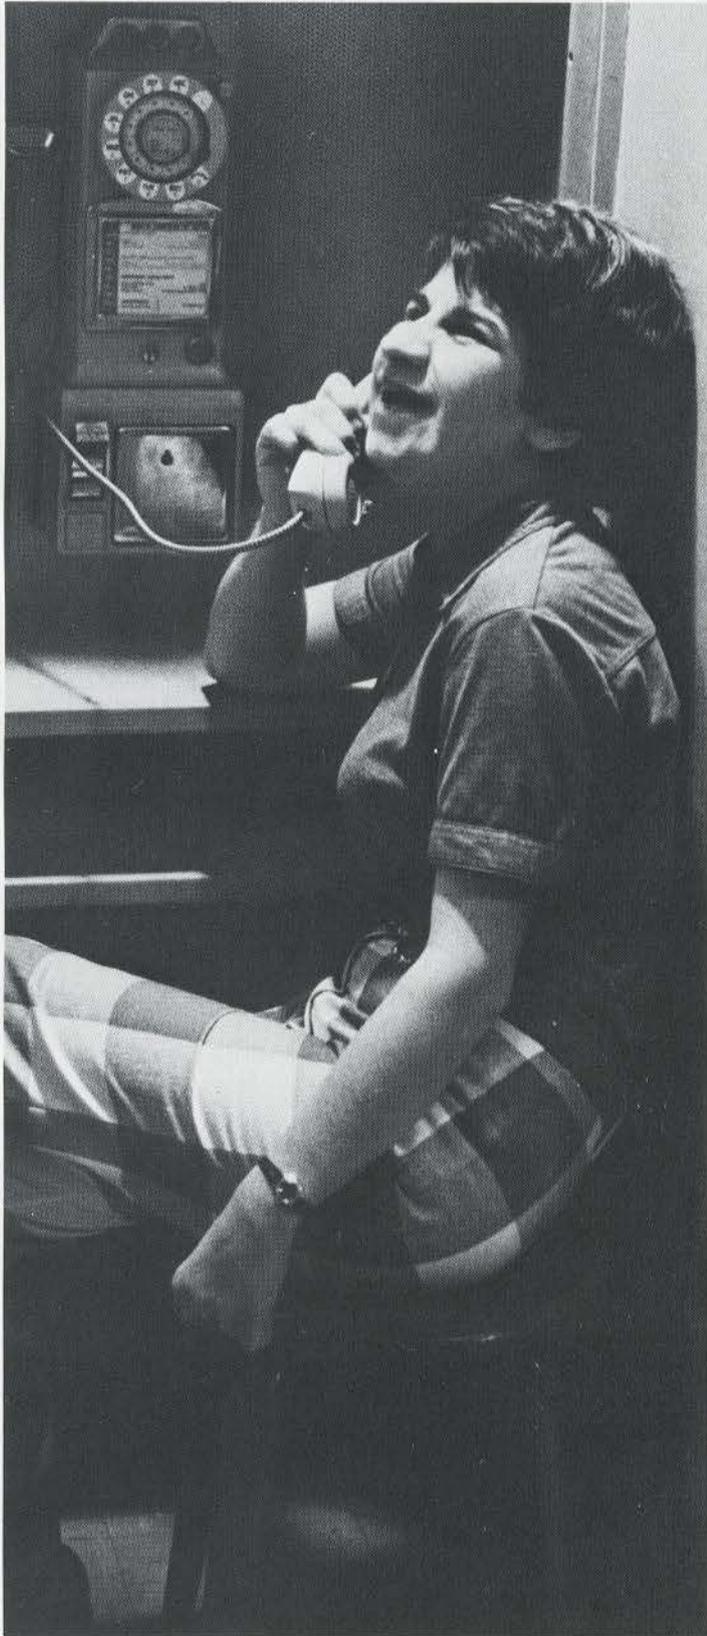

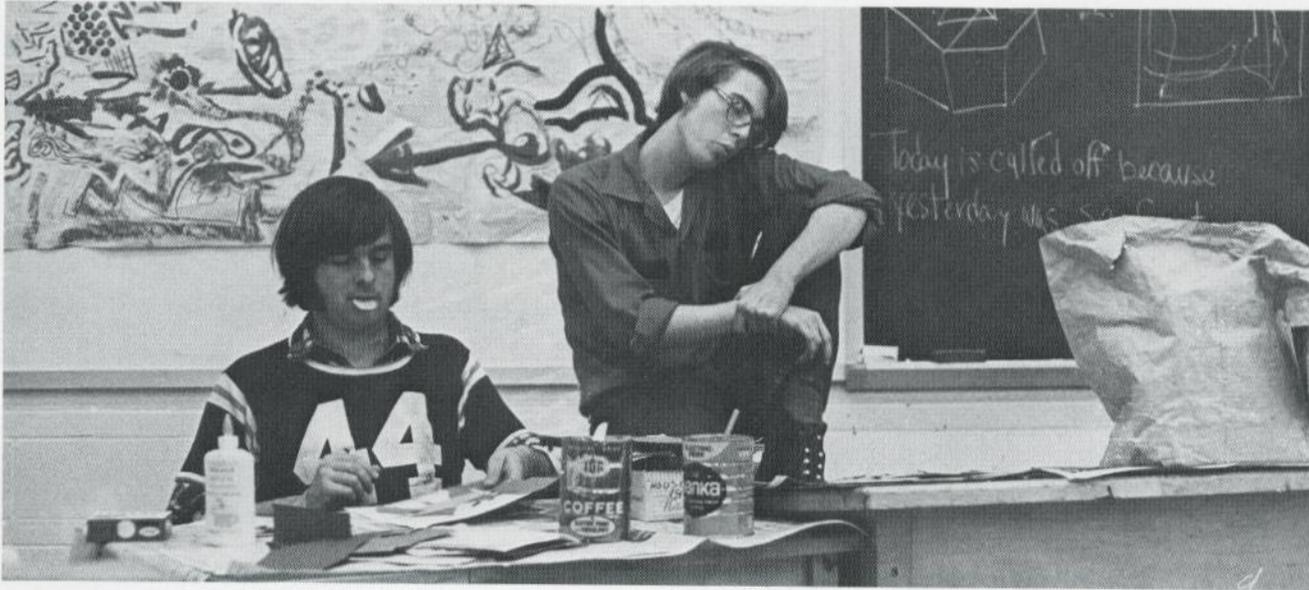

We are one, yet how different.

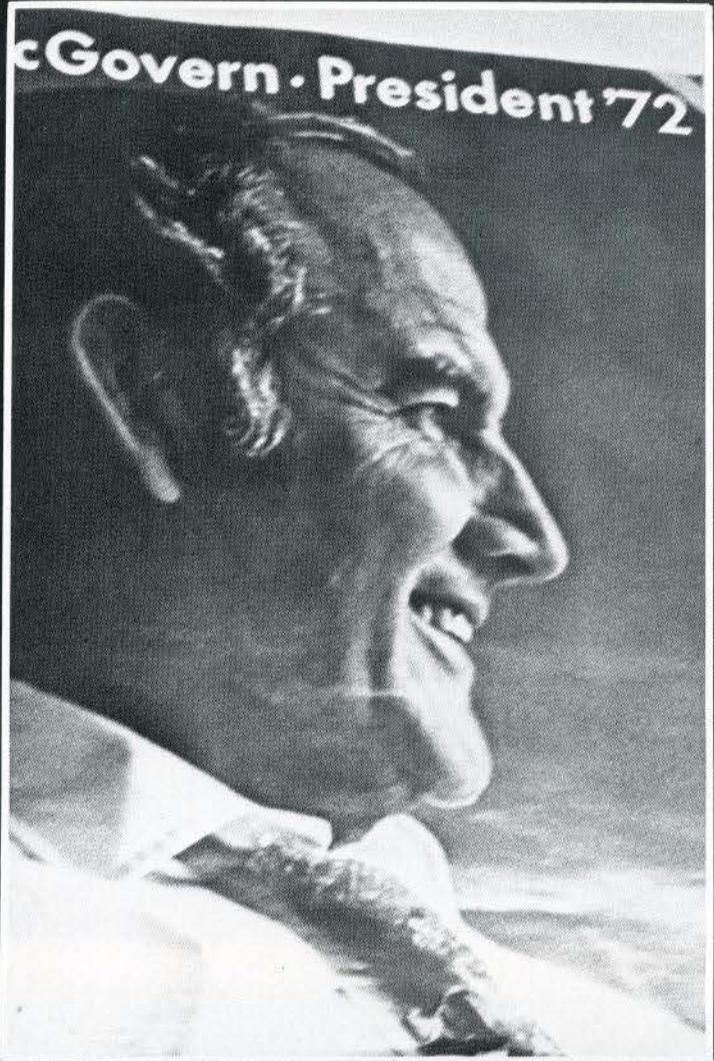

(WASHINGTON)—RICHARD NIXON'S SWEEPING PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION VICTORY IS A LANDSLIDE COMPARABLE TO THOSE OF LYNDON JOHNSON IN 1964, FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT IN 1936 AND WARREN G. HARDING IN 1920.

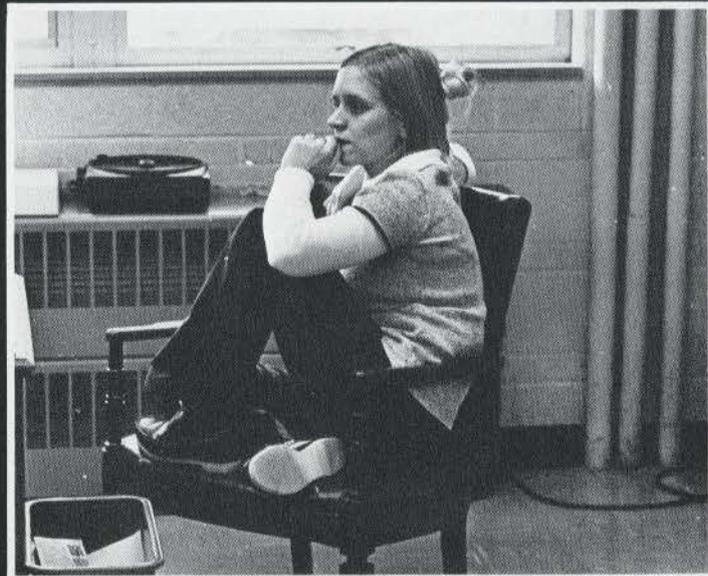

THE USUAL DEFINITION OF A LANDSLIDE IS A VICTORY WITH 60 PER CENT OR MORE OF THE POPULAR VOTE IN A PRESIDENTIAL ELECTION.

TONIGHT, NIXON'S PERCENTAGE OF THE POPULAR VOTE HAS AVERAGED ABOUT 65.

JOHNSON WON 61.1 PER CENT OF THE POPULAR VOTE IN DEFEATING BARRY GOLDWATER IN 1964. THAT WAS THE HIGHEST PERCENTAGE IN THE TOTAL VOTE CAPTURED BY A PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE SINCE POPULAR VOTE RECORDS WERE FIRST KEPT IN 1824.

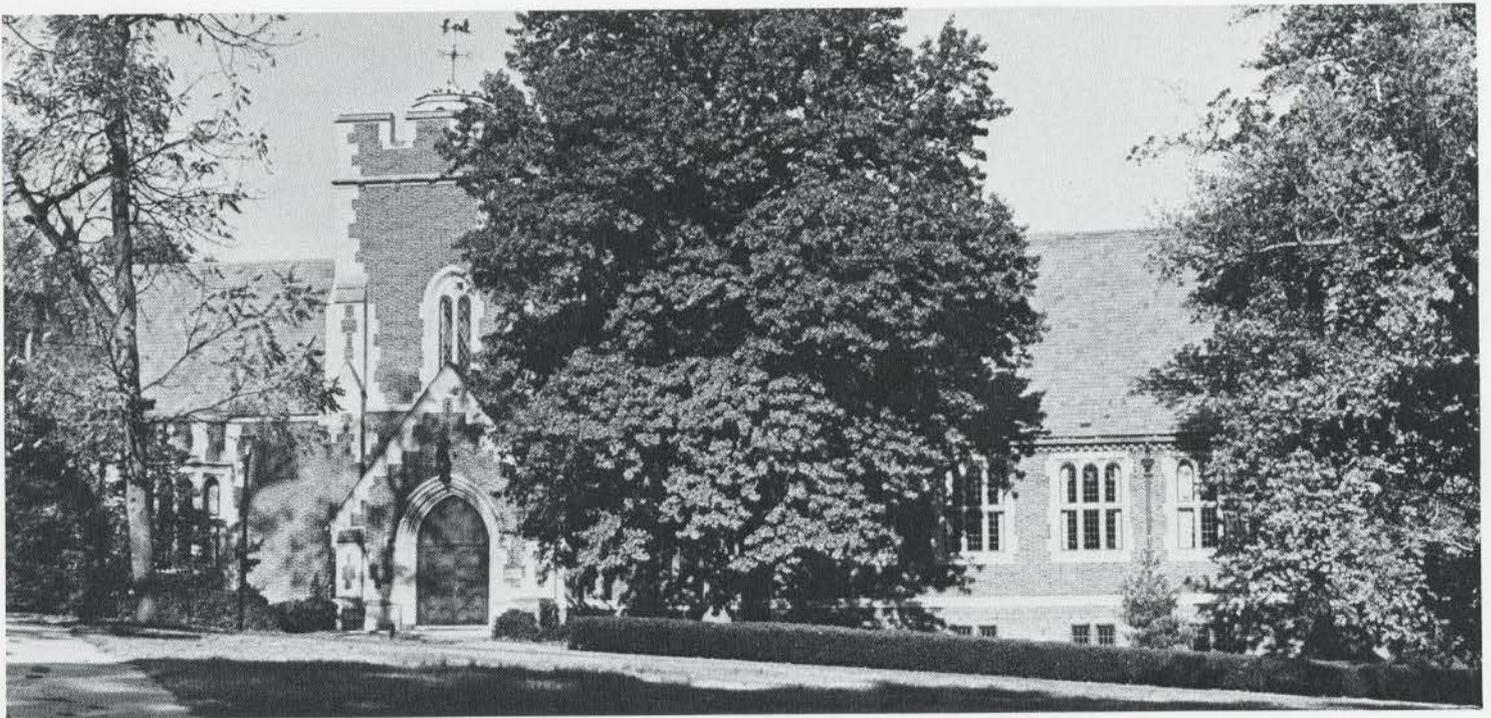

ROOSEVELT CARRIED ALL BUT TWO STATES--MAINE AND VERMONT--IN HIS CRUSHING DEFEAT OF ALF LONDON IN 1936. IT WAS THE NEAREST ANYONE HAS COME TO CARRYING EVERY STATE IN MODERN POLITICAL HISTORY.

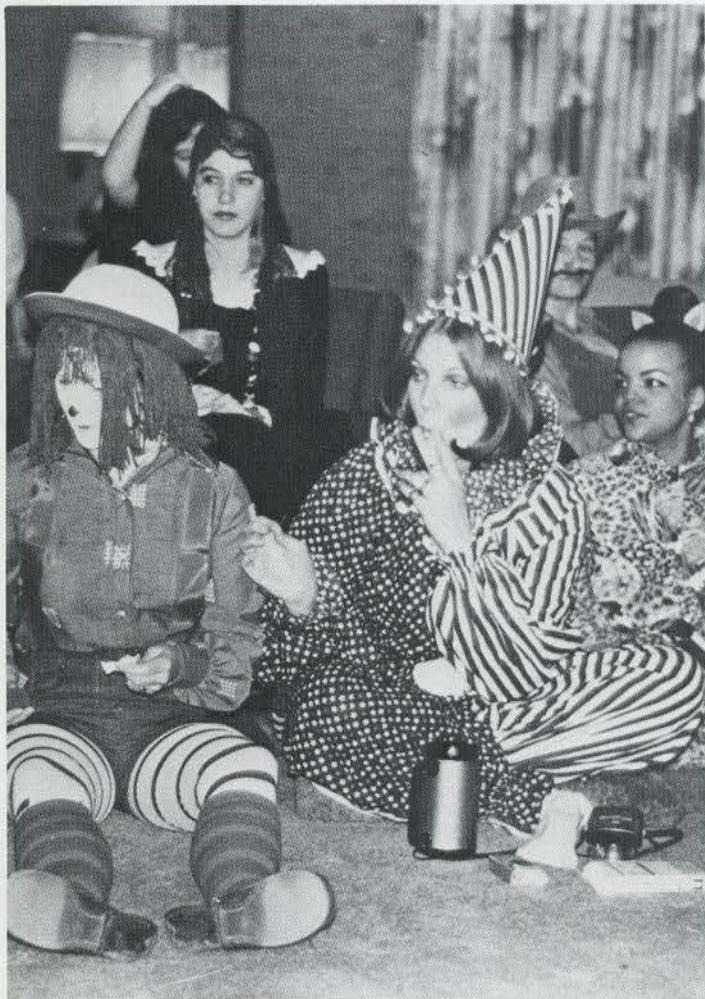

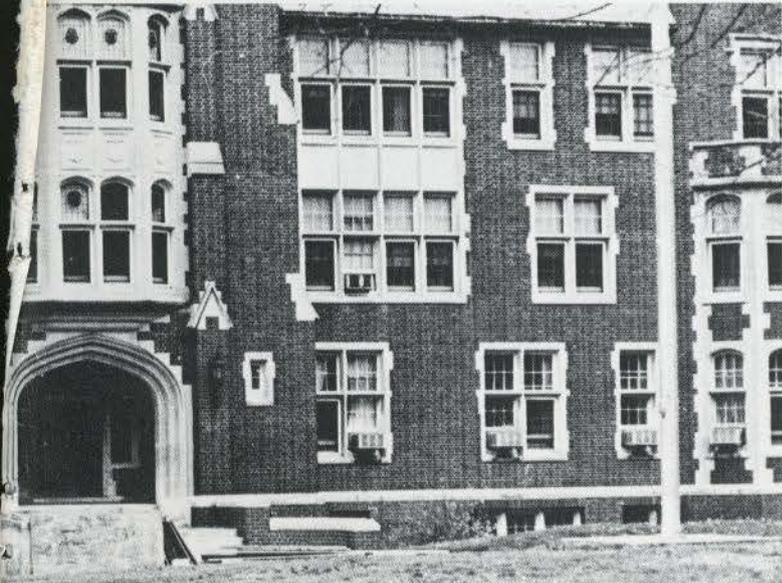

And God who studies
each commonplace soul,
Out of commonplace
things makes
His beautiful whole.
Susan Coolidge

Faculty, students, and friends join in the atmosphere of work and play. Each contributes a part of themselves to the whole. Throughout the year, each is found in abundance. Diversity is indeed a quality at Lindenwood. Something for everyone turns up, whether you like crowds or would rather be on your own.

No matter where else the day's activities may lead, all roads end at the cafeteria.

humanities

Humanities is the largest academic division at Lindenwood with areas ranging from foreign languages to studio art. The languages at Lindenwood consist of German, French, and Spanish. These can be studied on a cursory level or pursued in depth. Features of this department are January trips to Mexico and France and independent studies as well.

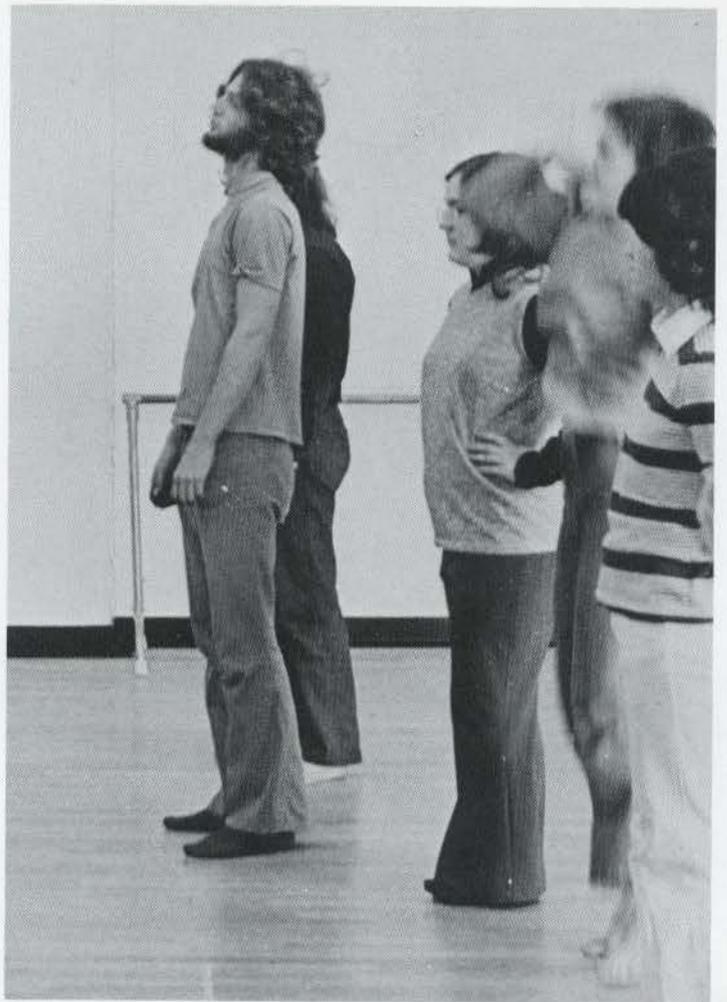

Music has always been an integral part of Lindenwood's academic program. Whether in theory or practice, the college offers a variety of cultural experiences that are not only useful to the music scholar, but to other students of the college community as well. Located near St. Louis and its outstanding musical offerings, Lindenwood can allow its music students to experience excellent concerts and also provides the opportunity to receive musical instruction from various members of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra.

The Communication Arts Department is a combination of many interesting fields. Theatre, broadcasting, television, film, and advertising are areas which offer reputable facilities to the students. The flexible curriculum of a communication arts major allows him to either concentrate in one specific area or to broach the entire field of communications.

Other areas of concentration in the humanities division are art history, studio art, classics, English, philosophy, and religion.

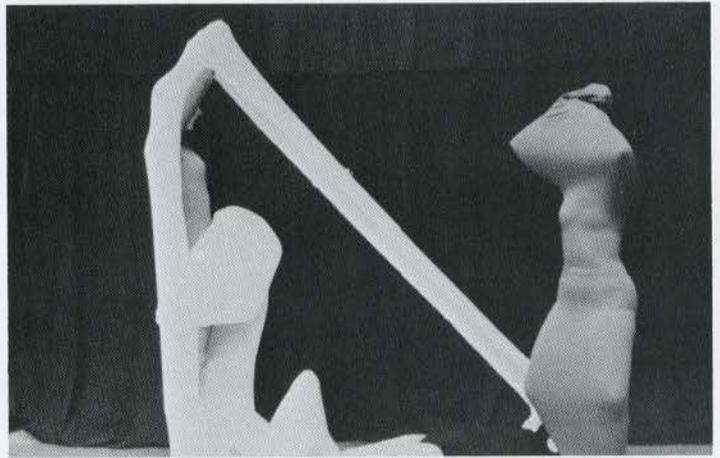

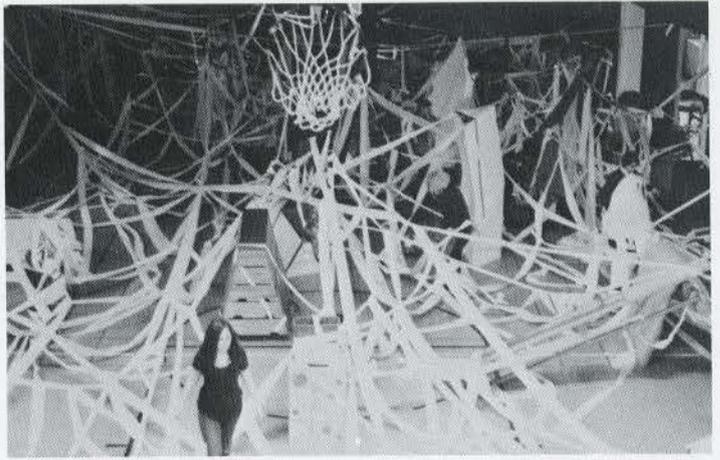

Lindenwood was fortunate to have the Proposition, a touring improvisational theatre group from Boston, on campus on February 28, 1973. Thirty Lindenwood students were invited to participate in a theatre workshop offered by the group during the afternoon.

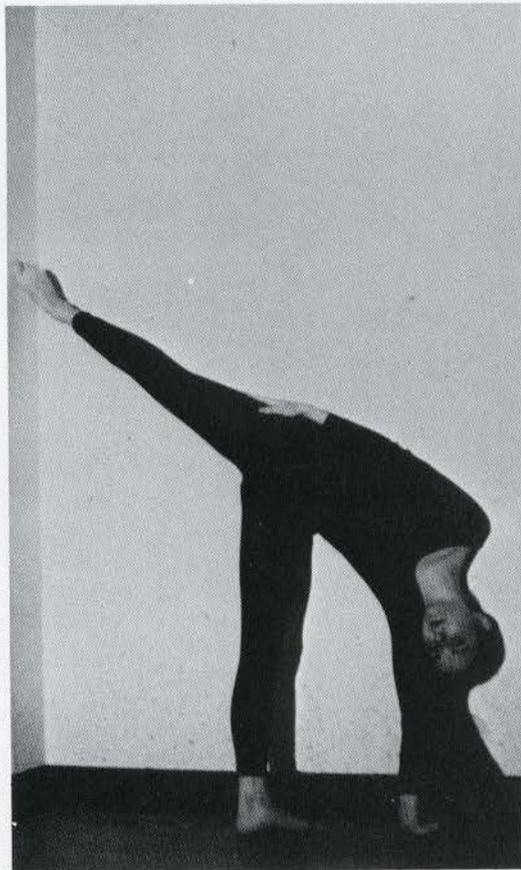

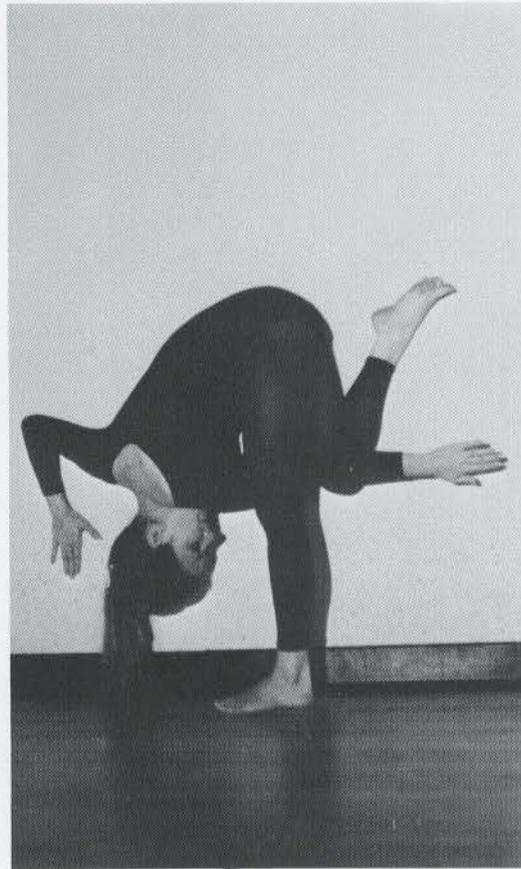

Musicians Cathleen Woebling and Robert Plummer (ABOVE) receive instruction from Mr. Robert Coleman, a member of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra.

The arts

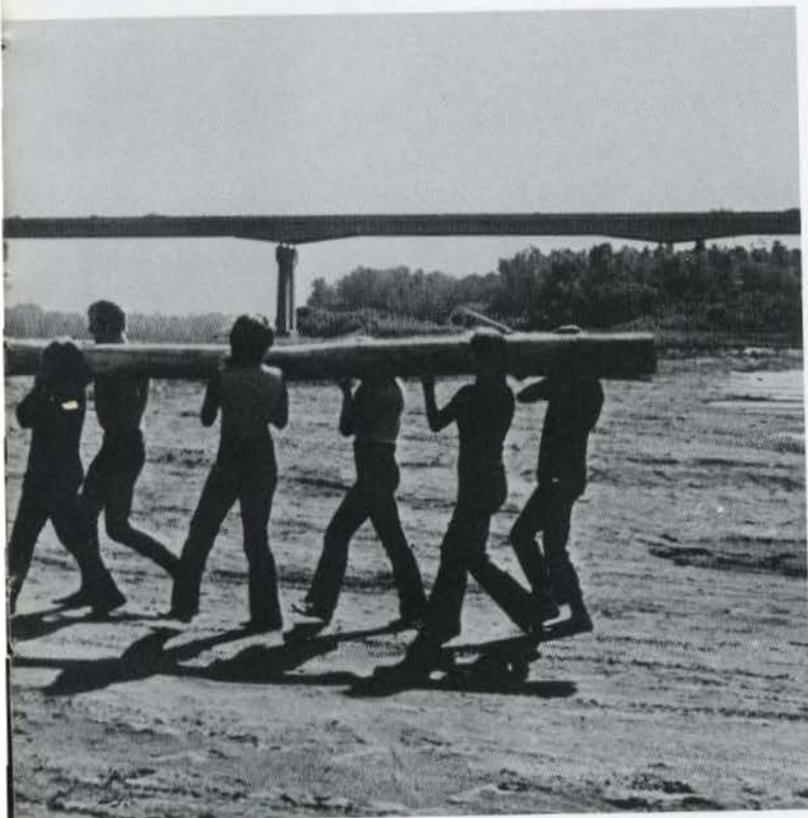

This is where it happens; Fine Arts Building.

Not all things are what they seem to be. This large centipede eventually grows into a man-made environment; a project for the basic art class. However, not all being done here is for the environment. Students create paper mache animals in "kiddie art" a course in how to pacify elementary school children. The pottery displayed on these shelves may look like harder work than these other art experiences, but each one takes much concentration from the students and instructor.

natural sciences

The division of Natural Sciences includes biology, chemistry, nursing, mathematics and physical science.

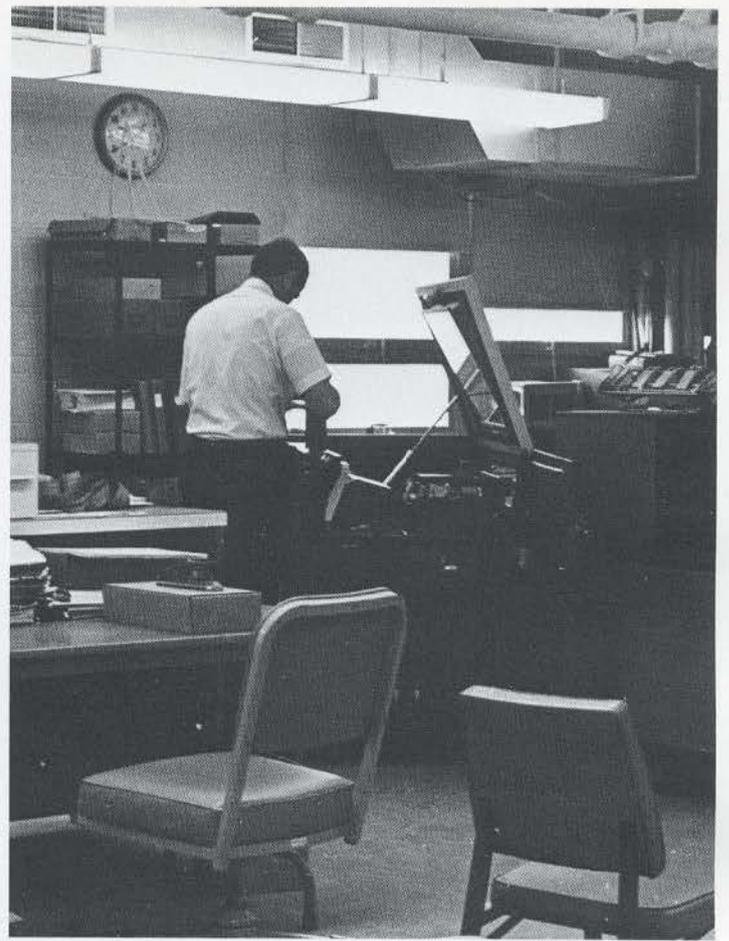

Students studying in the areas of biology and chemistry are encouraged to experience independent research and to become familiar with equipment through laboratory work. Science students also have the opportunity to study in related fields, such as, ecology and nursing.

Mathematics not only offers courses in the area but follow through with career suggestions. This department provides students with knowledge that is useful in fields outside of math, such as medicine and teaching. The students pursuing a field in mathematics may avail themselves with both an excellent staff and the Lindenwood Computer Center which houses the I.B.M. 1130 computer.

Physical education is made available to the students of Lindenwood in many varied activities. Included in this area is gymnastics, swimming, dance, archery, tennis, and, of course, equitation. Many of these sports provide students with a chance to compete, but it is in the area of equitation that Lindenwood shows its overwhelming skill and talent.

social sciences

The department of social sciences offers areas of concentration in American Studies, Economics, History, Political Science, Psychology, Sociology, and Elementary Education.

Business Education and Administration prepare the student for careers in the 'business world.' This includes everything from secretarial occupations to the fascinating area of computers.

Both sociology and psychology offer behavioral labs and independent studies which afford the student the opportunity to explore his area of interest. Psychology degrees are the B.A. and B.S., while sociology leads to a more complete graduate study level.

History covers many areas, including American Studies and Classical Civilization. January courses in Europe are a part of the history curriculum, while on campus seminars, independent studies, and tutorial courses provide the student in this field with a broad expansion of knowledge.

Education is an interesting area, offering the student actual classroom training via the Lindenwood Campus School. Here students may observe and teach preschoolers and kindergarteners. Also, in his senior year, after laboring through Strategies and Tactics, the education student is required to teach for one semester in one of the area schools.

BECALMED

in finding myself
i release familiar wounds —
that so often have dragged,
like a boat's anchor
in the harbor.

my nerves pulse —
as sails flap in wind,
not strong.
slowing down —
they drift;
become motionless.

my bones
have no memory,
it is my mind —
that like a chart
is rooted to the currents of love,
and selfishness of the tide —
to rise and fall.

still,
i raise the question,
of what it means to live alone,
and what is the ocean —
without the currents?

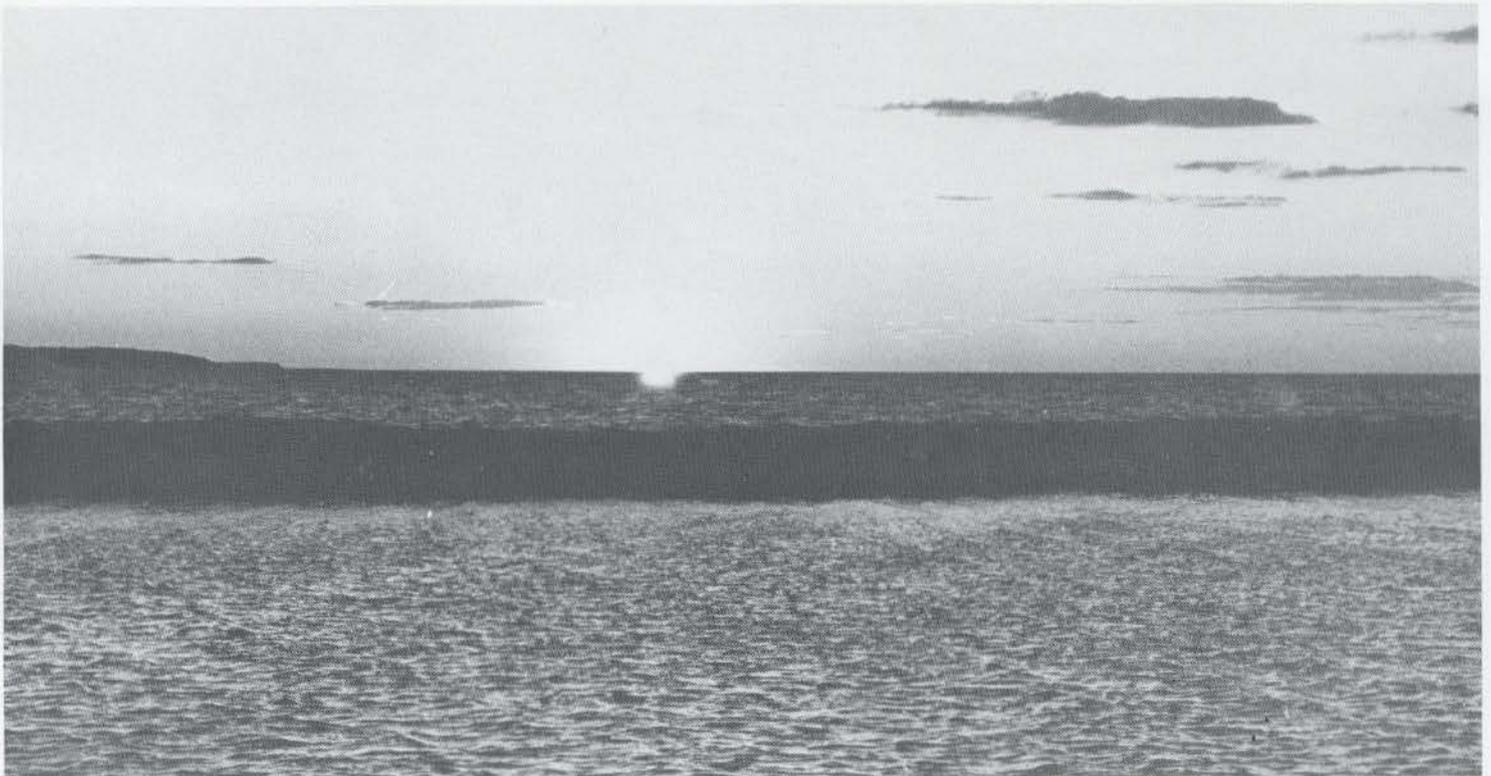

Conch shells and tobacco

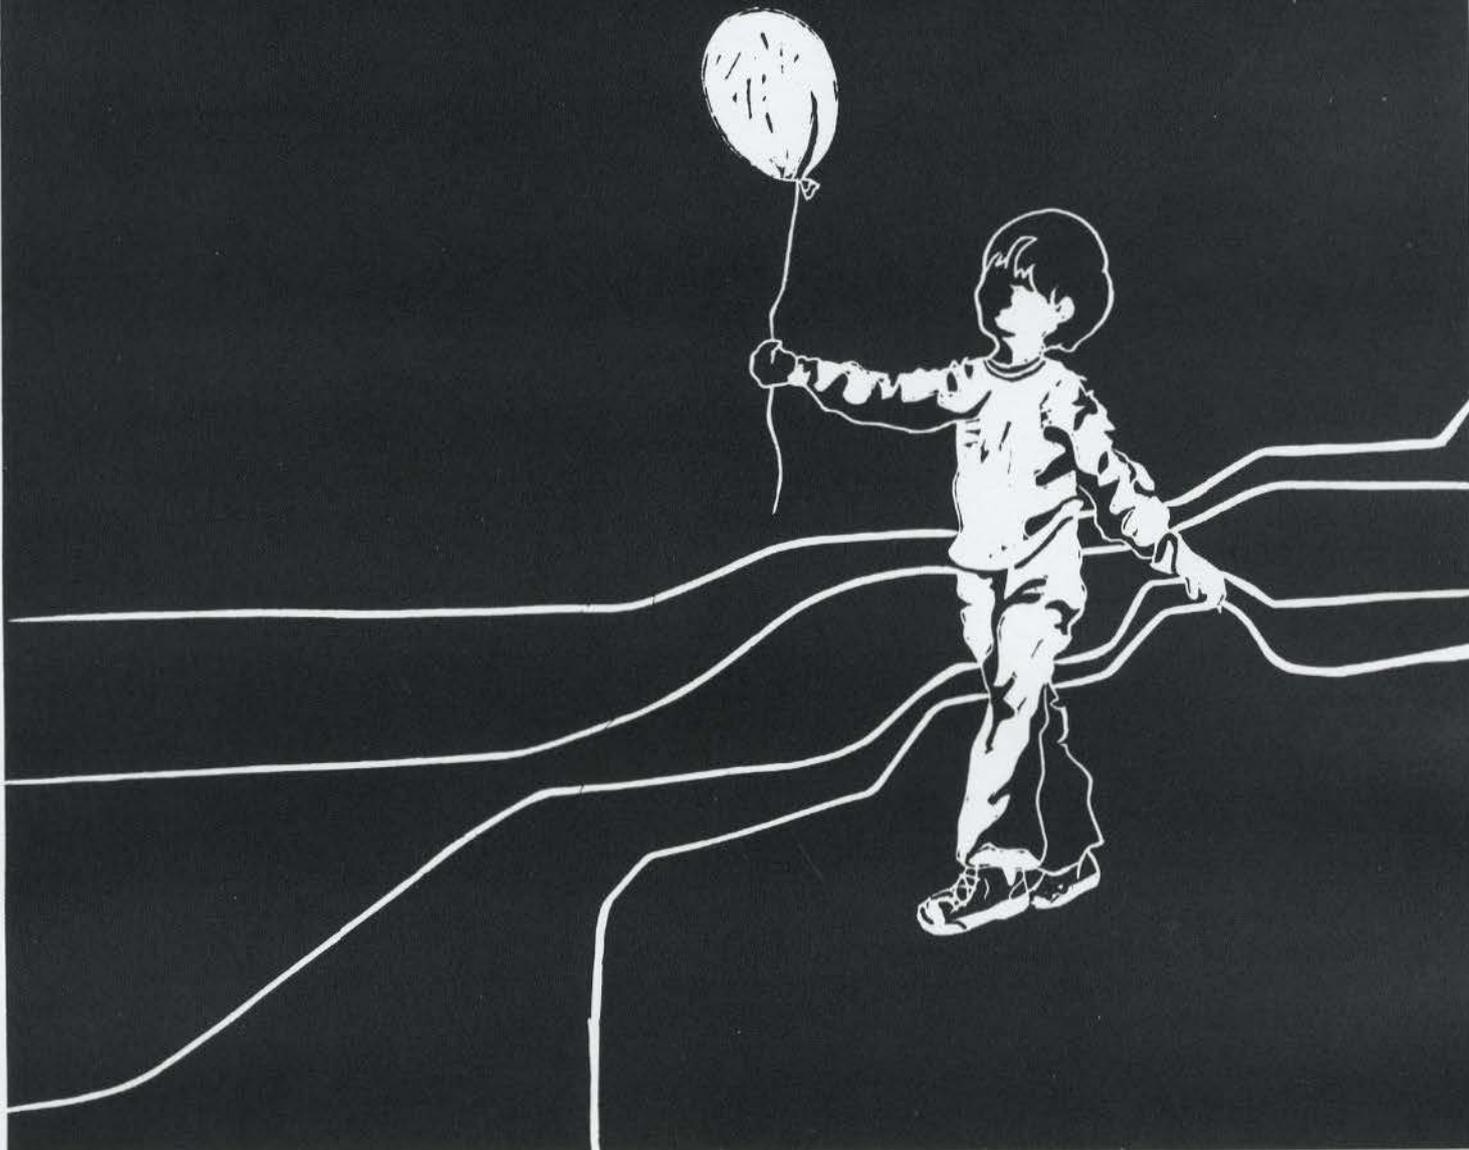

Ah! sea,
wretched devil.
Tossing shells
of the orient
from coast to coast
and then beneath.

Tobias heard
an echo calling,
but lingered there.
Left alone with chewing tobacco
and drowned memories
of a foreign dream.

DREAMS ARE LIKE THAT

a 'enthal

once upon a time I had a dream about a lady a lot like you
she had silken hair and soft green eyes
this lady a lot like you
she crossed my mind a thousand times
passing unforgettably
and each time she comes she bares her soul
and shares her love unselfishly
she shows me love is selfless — faithful and undieing she shows me what two people are souls that house each other this lady a lot like you is my dream in an instance of repose — her comings are small eternities that shape and nourish my slumber
but then, dreams are frustrations when lost in reality's game for dreams are our hopes calling out truth's real name in the dreams and love that's true
there's the lady — the lady I love you

Consumer Economics: Selecting the Best Buy

My friend died today,
He slit his wrist in a department store window.
He learned the most efficient method while staying at the hospital (nut-ward-4E).
In the movies people just make a slash across their wrists.
My friend said it was a good start, but slicing
all the way down to the elbow is best.
He shopped a long time for his place,
Recently he selected it.
Today he made the purchase.

Anita Rodarte

Each time I go to watch my son
it brings back the memories that I once had I'd sit and watch his youthful body
do some things that I dare not try now
To see his joints carry out their designed tasks reminds me of those good aches I once got seeing the crowds go mad with joy
each time someone would score two points
The ref would bitch at someone's mistake
just like Mother when I did no work
My heart would pound when he received the ball
only to stop with some sort of deep disgust
I would watch the crowd and hear them say that my son's a goof if he blows an easy shot I could feel the praise they gave, as if it were I who was doing the work
He handles the ball as though it were worth a million bucks
When he runs it's like that of a titan missile
The moves he makes are so svelte that he leaves
the crowd gaping and in so fantastic a mood
But to my disgust he has to quit
because my likeness has just fouled out

I FEEL SO SWEET OH

When I heard your voice
I was
behind the door,
my arms with oranges.

The may silting its soft morning
on my feet barely with golden dust

Dust on the oranges
ruffle dust on my dust dress.

And darkness shining
under the doorsill
where you stand
and have called.

Thomas in New York City

Thomas sat alone in the bistro
Huddled round a black coffee
That looked up at him
From the small red table.

It was cold outside;
Yellow Cabs splashed by, and Thomas watched people in furs
And greatcoats walking briskly
Past, eyes down, collars up.

It was dark inside;
A smiling waitress counted money,
Other people sat at other small tables;
Obviously friends, they were talking.

Thomas sat alone in his place;
I'm not certain whether he was lonely,
He was certainly alone . . . sitting there,
His forehead propped up in a hand.

He did raise his head to smile
At every person coming in.

Object of mysticism,
let me rise to thee.
Let me elicit secrets trapped
beneath bronze and gold, your flesh.
My fingers, stained with acid,
slide across your back.
The metal loosens, falling into an abyss, forgotten. Forgiven?

I only wanted to have you, not hurt.
Fortitude said try, persist.
No wall (not even the 'Great Wall of China') could restrict me. But you tried.
I say, "Forget the wall,"
I'm leaving soon, you'll be alone again.

three recurring images,
in variance of styles,
i learn about you —
from watching a rainbow,
dissolving in the sky.

i move with you
as dust moves
through a golden landscape —
softly skimming.

i learn about us
by listening to the tide
the gentle roar —
of ebbing in and out.

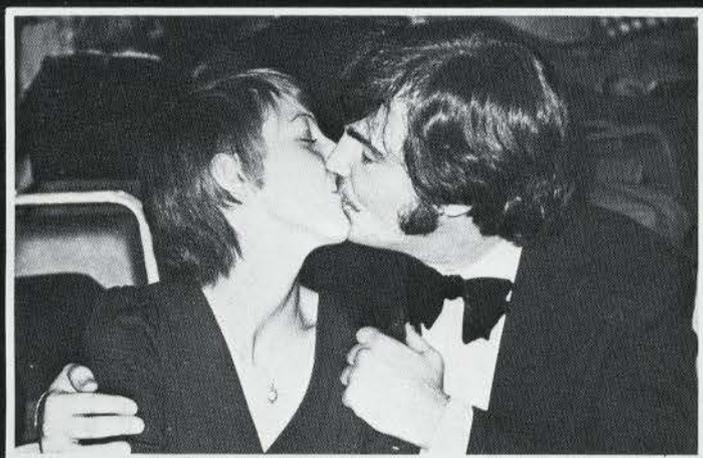

and we learn about each other,
the way the fog
learns about the sky —
covering up one another.

international week 1972

This year International Week began on Saturday, November 5. This is a time when American students have the opportunity to learn about the cultures of other countries. During the week international students of the Lindenwoods held events exhibiting various facets of their countries. One of the major events was a bazaar, held on both Saturday and Sunday nights. Various hand-crafted articles were on display and for sale.

international night

The highlight of International Week was International Night where students performed music, dance, and literature from their countries. A large crowd attended the performance on Sunday night, November 12. Among the performers were Midori Matauzawa (p. 70, far left) playing and singing a Japanese song. Liliana Perez (p. 70, left) danced in Costa Rican style, and Beyan Habtezghi (left) sang an Ethiopian song. After the performance a reception was held in the Fine Arts Building, bringing International Week 1972 to a close.

kclc: election coverage 1972

A very important service that KCLC gave to the community during the fall was coverage of the 1972 Presidential Election. All persons connected with KCLC were involved with this project which continued until early morning. In the control room Kenn Heinlein answers one of the many telephone calls received during the evening (right). Dave Gardner slyly escapes the flurry by doing a music show on KCLC-AM, the FM's sister station (below). In the studio Mark Poindexter and Martha Ackman (p. 75) await more statistics, while Gerry Vaillancourt pauses for a quiet moment with Carol Ann Campbell before the rush of the evening begins.

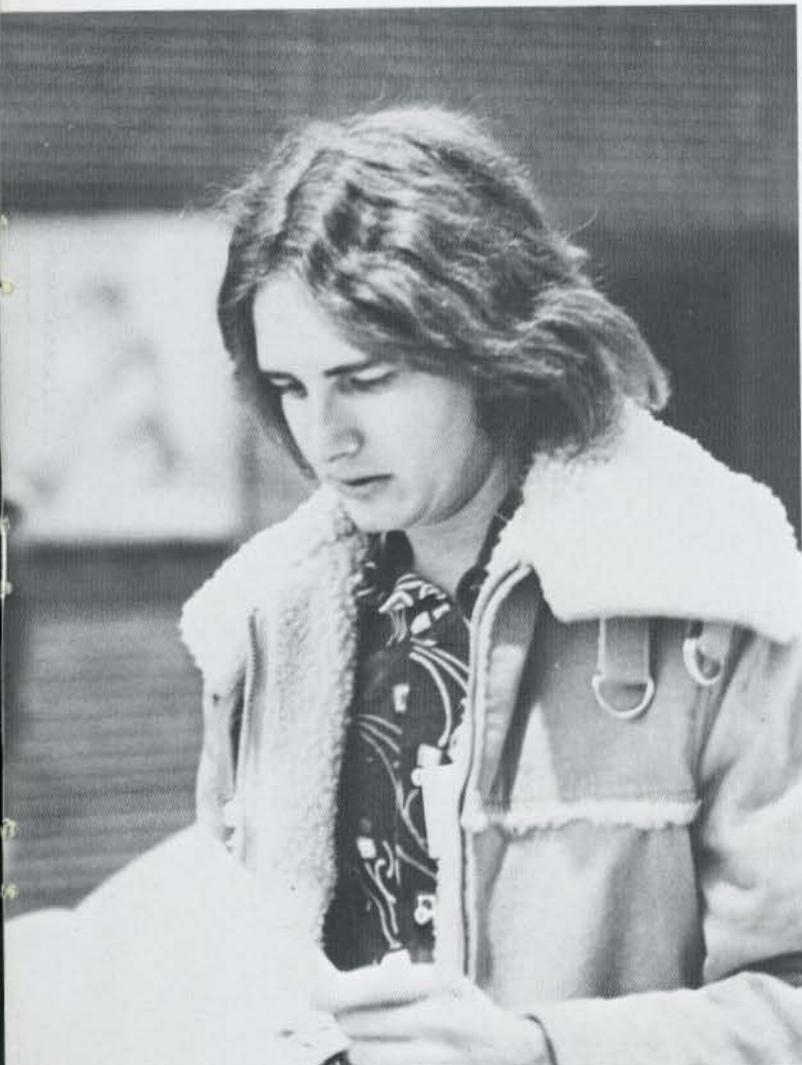

kclc: innovative radio station

KCLC-FM is an outstanding feature of the Communications Department at Lindenwood. The station blends music with community service; making the colleges more a part of the St. Charles and St. Louis communities, while aiding students towards a career in broadcasting. Within the station there are many areas in which to become involved. On page 76 Lisa Forstmann discusses station policy with General Manager Peggy VanDyke. Walter Franklin enjoys his music show, and Naomi Ferencz is caught up in the flurry of the 1972 election coverage. However, not all the learning is in the immediate station. During the fall semester several members of the KCLC staff traveled to Chicago to attend a convention where all facets of radio-life were presented. At the convention there is opportunity to meet people from promotion, for instance, as Kenn Heinlein, Linda Williams, and Chuck Lackner have done through their acquaintance with Mr. Paul Brown of New York. Representatives of the various record companies are at the convention also and Chuck Lackner appears to be in serious discussion with one; Dick Merkle of Warner, Electric, and Atlantic.

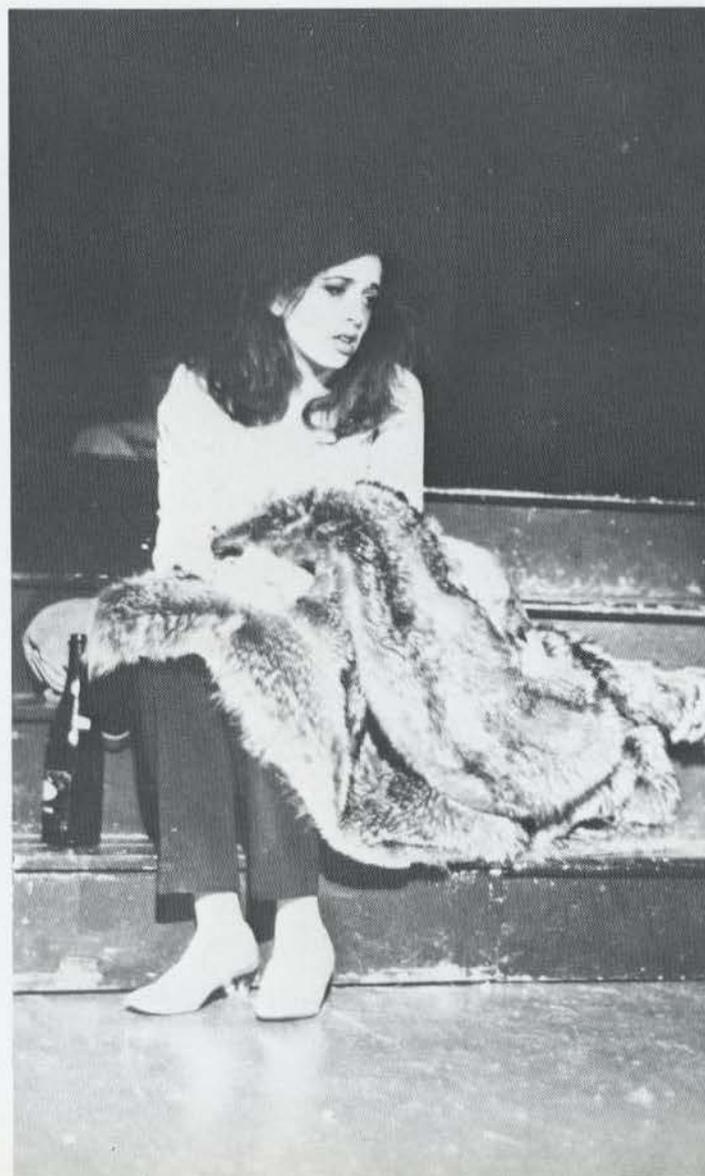

ex miss copper queen on a set of pills

The one act play, "Ex Miss Copper Queen on a Set of Pills," written by Megan Terry, was presented in the coffee house on December 1 and 2, 1972. Director was Linda Piper, a senior communication arts major at Lindenwood who trained as an apprentice with the Negro Ensemble Theatrical Co. in New York City.

"Ex Miss Copper Queen on a Set of Pills" is about three lonely women trying to live with rejection. Copper Queen (Kay Ferneding, below right) is an ex-beauty queen with no more contests to win, a child who doesn't know her, an exploiting boy friend, and parents who refuse to acknowledge her.

The two other women, "B.A." (Laurel Swartzenberg, below) and Crissie (Debbie Hembree, right), are little old women who are scavengers but live in a fantasy that makes them respectable women.

The action takes place at 5 a.m. on a street in the Lower East Side of New York where garbage cans are ready for the sanitation department.

turkey shoot

On November 18, 1972 a turkey shoot, sponsored by the Student Service Center under the direction of Mike Halloran, was held on the archery field.

Originally, the turkey shoot weapon was a rifle but this was not used, instead bows and arrows were. After three rounds of 'shooting' the beginning eleven contestants were narrowed to only three. These finalists were, Dave Levy, John Taylor, and Scott Hoelscher. The winner, John Taylor, (pictured above, to the left is contestant Marilyn Moore) received all the makings of a Thanksgiving dinner as his prize. The only drawback was that John did not receive a cook to prepare the meal for him!

On February 28 the Proposition, an improvisational theatre group from Boston, performed in Fellowship Hall. The players (Shelly Burns, Suzanne Eckmann, John Jutkowitz, and John Moteith) worked from audience suggestions to produce an opera about spaghetti, jail scenes, and numerous other dramatic improvisations.

The group also held a theatre workshop during the afternoon for interested students in which various techniques were explored and tested.

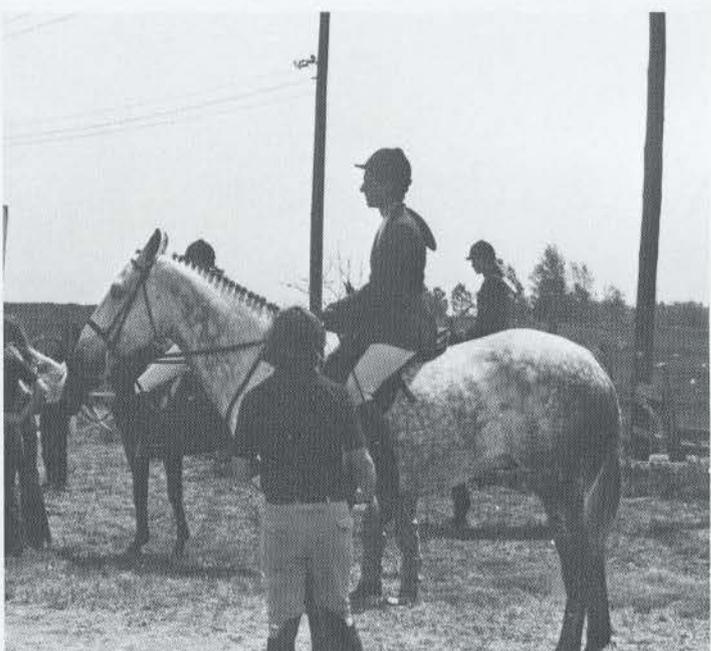

The St. Louis Jazz Quartet provided an enjoyable evening of entertainment for the Lindenwood community on December 6 in Fellowship Hall. Members of the quartet are Jeanne Trevor — vocalist, David Schrage — pianist and vocalist, Charles Payne — drums, and Terrence Kippenberger — string bass.

jenkins on display

Paul Jenkins, a Missouri-born painter, displayed his works in the fine arts gallery from February 11 until March 4 of this past spring semester.

Jenkins received art training at the Kansas City Art Institute and also attended the Arts Student League in New York. Upon leaving the League he settled in Paris for a few years and responded quite favorably to the work of three European painters.

While at Lindenwood, Mr. Jenkins spoke to students and faculty about his works. He stressed the importance of remaining open and free to impulses and ideas that arise during the creative process.

Jenkins titles his works as PHENOMENA. Some of his paintings on display from this series included SHOOTING THE HEN (1955), WATER CRANE (1956), PHENOMENA-AFTER IMAGE (1960), PHENOMENA-WING OFF (1961), PHENOMENA-GRISAILLE (1969), and others.

the new roemer auditorium

A large sum of money donated to the colleges made the renovation of Roemer Auditorium a plausible delight. Architects for the project are Manske-Dieckmann and the general contractor is Robert R. Wright, Inc.

The theatre itself is patterned after the Stratford Theatre in Ontario and the Tyrone Guthrie Theatre in Minneapolis. The auditorium includes a multi-leveled performing platform and is equipped with modern lighting and an air conditioning system. Though an early completion date was originally set for February of 1973, the auditorium was opened during the summer of 1973.

After seventy-five days, hours of sandbagging by hundreds of people, broken dykes, gallons of sweat released, and tons of gushing water, the spring flooding of the Missouri and Mississippi Rivers finally ended.

A large, stylized white graphic of a tree with a thick trunk and many thin, branching limbs, set against a black background. The tree is positioned on the right side of the page, extending from the top to the bottom. At the base of the tree, there are some stylized white lines representing grass or foliage.

ST. LOUIS LINDENWOOD COLLEGE CLUB

A mere 'thank-you' or a pat on the back is such a trite means of expressing gratitude. But how else can we do it? Certainly there are many, many people not listed below who deserve to be recognized, and, to be sure, their help and assistance has been invaluablely appreciated. Many thanks to members of the staff who managed to survive during the entire year (how did we do it?); especially to Gail Uchman and Andrea Rosenthal who provided most of the photographs in this book. Also, our deepest appreciation is extended to Dr. B. Richard Berg who offered moral support and also provided the staff with many innovative ideas.

Our representative at the American Yearbook Co., Mrs. Helene Wachtcher, and art consultant Mr. Dave Harmes, have guided us throughout the year and their time and effort are sincerely acknowledged. Mr. Jim Combs, our direct contact with the plant in Topeka, Kansas, is the one man whom we can never fully thank. Jim has done so much this year to help us design and organize this book. For Jim we can only smile and let our silent tears say 'thank-you.'

Other persons who we feel should be recognized are: Ms. Patricia Cronin, Mr. Lou Florimonte, Dr. Howard Barnett, and Ms. Carol Ann Campbell. Finally, we love all of you who have provided us with undaunted moral support. We love you because you were concerned and interested. But most of all, we love you because you believed, as we did, that a yearbook was necessary and that it could be done. Your faith was our backbone.
