TELEVISION COVERAGE PROMPTS PHONE CALLS

Barbara Ludwig's telephone in the Leisure Learning Office began ringing moments after the conclusion of KSDK-TV's "Midday A.M." program on September 21. The half-hour television show featured an interview by host Clif St. James with Jean Walters, an instructor for the Leisure Learning course, "Becoming a Winner - the Best You Can Be," which begins tomorrow night on campus.

The Channel 5 interview informed viewers about the six-week Lindenwood course and provided background information on Ms. Walters, a private counselor and business consultant who specializes in human development training for leading businesses and professional organizations throughout the area.

More than a dozen telephone inquiries were received following the television broadcast. Offered on Tuesday evenings until November 9, the noncredit course is designed to help participants help themselves, focusing in the areas of communications, building self-esteem and motivation. It is one of nearly 30 continuing educational courses and workshops being presented this fall in St. Charles and Lake St. Louis by the Lindenwood Colleges.

FACULTY COUNCIL MEMBERS FOR 1982-83

Newly-elected members of the Lindenwood Faculty Council are Patricia Kupferer and Moheb Seif El-Nasr, elected by the Natural Sciences Division for two and one-year terms, respectively; Hans Levi and Alan H. Shiller, elected by the Humanities Division for one and two-year terms, respectively; Robert W. King and Raymond Scupin, elected by the Social Sciences Division for one and two-year terms, respectively; and James H. Feely, Susan Fitzpatrick, Anthony Perrone and Solon Chervitz, elected by the faculty-at-large for one-year terms.

ST. LOUIS BRASS QUINTET TO PERFORM

The St. Louis Brass Quintet will perform in concert October 17 as part of Lindenwood's Sunday Concert Series. Sponsored by the colleges' Lectures & Concerts Committee, the two-hour concert will begin at 7 p.m. in the main reading room of Butler Library. It is open to the public free-of-charge.

The second in a series of Sunday performances, the concert is funded in part by the Missouri Arts Council and the Musicians Association of St. Louis.

Inspired by the rebirth of chamber music for brass, the St. Louis Brass Quintet was formed in 1964. Since then, it has played concerts for audiences of all ages at public performances, colleges, universities and community groups across the country.

The quintet will bring to Butler Library the vital energy of brass music. It will perform, on a high artistic level, the music of major composers from the Renaissance and Baroque to the 20th century.

A highlight of the October 17 concert will be a demonstration of how each of the instruments - trumpets, French Horn, bass trombone and tuba - work, including a lighthearted presentation that will feature solo performances by quintet members.

The remaining performance in the Sunday Concert Series will be November 21 when Djimo Kouyate, a player of the kora, presents a concert at 3 p.m. in the Butler Library. The kora is a 21-string harp instrument of West African origin.

GRANT AWARDED FOR ENVIRONMENTAL SERIES

"Environment - the Central Issue of Our Time" is the title of a presentation to be given October 13 on campus by Thomas F. Williams, a consultant with the Office of Public Awareness, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), in Washington, DC.

The address, scheduled at 8 p.m. in the Fine Arts Building Auditorium, is the first of four presentations partially funded by a grant from the Sperry & Hutchinson (S&H) Foundation. The series, called "Environmental Issues of the '80s," will feature a keynote address November 11 by Edward H. Ziegler, associate professor of environmental law at the University of Dayton, entitled "Environmental Regulations of the 1980s - Costs and Benefits." The remaining two presentations in the four-part series will be scheduled during the second semester.

With more than 23 years of experience in environmental education, Williams has created and managed a series of pioneering, innovative and successful citizen education programs dedicated to the mission of making responsible public policy on environmental issues.

As early as 1958, he had the vision to see that air pollution was far more than a technical problem but was a public education problem as well; as a result, he created an education program leading to a sound and coherent public posture with regard to air pollution.

In 1968, he became director of the Office of Public Information & Education, Consumer Protection & Environmental Health Service, where he was responsible for a national program espousing the ecological view of environmental issues. In 1970, shortly after the formation of the EPA, Williams joined the Office of Solid Waste Management where he was responsible for public education and changing public attitudes toward solid waste management and resource recovery.

In 1977, he became deputy director of the EPA's Office of Public Awareness and established public education and citizen participation as an integral function of every program area of the EPA. The brother of Delores J. Williams of the Political Science Department, he retired from the EPA in 1980 and has served as a consultant since.

Following Williams' presentation on October 13, which is open to the public free-of-charge, there will be a question-and-answer period with the audience.

FACULTY FORUM SERIES BEGINS THURSDAY

John A. Bornmann, chairman of the Chemistry Department, kicks off this semester's Faculty Forum with a discussion Thursday from 3:15-4:15 p.m. in the Memorial Arts Building Parlor. He will present a research report, entitled "The Search for Ways To Predict the Flying Life of McDonnell-Douglas Harriers." It is open for all.

1982 COLLEGE FAIR SET FOR CHECKERDOME

Counselor Marilyn Morris of the Admissions Office will be representing Lindenwood at the 1982 College Fair, an annual event scheduled October 10-11 at the Checkerdome in St. Louis cosponsored by the National Association of College Admissions Counselors (NACAC) and the Missouri Association of College Admissions Counselors (MOACAC).

Lindenwood will join more than 150 other colleges and institutions of higher learning during the two-day event to provide information to prospective students and parents. Nursing schools, career institutions and educational branches of the military also will be represented as well as officials of the College Board and the American College Testing Program.

Admissions and financial aid counselors will be on hand to assist students with career information, to discuss options for those students undecided about college majors, to explore available avenues of financial assistance programs and scholarship grants and to provide general resource information helpful in the college selection and decision-making process.

Last year, more than 8,000 students and parents attended the St. Louis event. Times of the event are from 1-6 p.m. on Sunday and from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. on Monday. Admission and parking for the 1982 College Fair are free.

The NACAC is a nonprofit organization of high school counselors and college admissions officers from throughout the United States who work together to provide students and their families with useful information regarding college selection and admission requirements. The state association, MOACAC, strives to achieve these same goals throughout Missouri.

PSYCHOLOGY INTEREST GROUP FORMED

Lindenwood's Psychology Interest Group, referred to as PIG for short, has been formed to increase student awareness and understanding. The purpose of the group is to facilitate student interest and involvement in psychology as a science. It also hopes to stimulate an appreciation of the broad application of psychology to daily living endeavors.

Not limited solely to psychology majors, PIG is open to all Lindenwood students. The club reports its activities are diversified enough to appeal and enhance any field of academic study. For further information on the newly-formed organization, contact a representative of the Psychology Department in Roemer Hall.

SENIOR CLASS ELECTIONS SET TUESDAY

Lindenwood seniors are invited to attend a 12:30 p.m. meeting tomorrow for the election of class officers for the 1982-83 academic year. The session is scheduled in the Cardinal Room of Ayers Cafeteria.

AAUP CHAPTER MEETING OCTOBER 12

All Lindenwood faculty members are invited to attend the October 12th meeting of the St. Charles Chapter of the American Association of University Professors (AAUP). The 90-minute session will be held in the Cardinal Room of the Ayers Cafeteria.

According to Wanita A. Zumbrunnen of the English Department, newly-elected chapter secretary, the meeting will feature a recap of the AAUP National Conventions held recently in Washington, DC, by W. Dean Eckert of the Art Department. The 25-member chapter also will provide information for Lindenwood faculty members interested in joining the local AAUP affiliate.

EMPLOYMENT OPPORTUNITIES FOR SENIORS

J. A. Baer, retired executive of Stix, Baer & Fuller Co. in St. Louis and a consultant to Lindenwood's Consolidating Advising Plan (CAP), will meet October 11 with all Lindenwood seniors interested in discussing early employment opportunities. The session will be at 12:30 p.m. in the Cardinal Room of Ayers Cafeteria.

'FOR WHOM THE (WEDDING) BELLS TOLL'

Walter M. Hundley, Lindenwood director of development, married Suzanne Staley Clifford during a recent private ceremony in Gainesville, FL.

Diane M. Denney, assistant professor of education, will become the wife of Daniel E. Myers during ceremonies October 16 at the Central Presbyterian Church in Clayton.

SPORTS ACTIVITIES THIS WEEK

Basking in the glory of winning the Governor's Cup Tournament last weekend on campus, the women's soccer team is on the road this week with games tomorrow against Quincy College and Wednesday against Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville.

Not basking in glory is the men's soccer team which was defeated 3-0 September 24 by Avila College and by 1-0 in overtime September 27 by the University of Missouri-St. Louis. Home games this week include a 7 p.m. match today against Parks College, a 7 p.m. game Thursday against Maryville College and a 1:30 p.m. contest Saturday against Southwestern at Memphis.

On September 25, the volleyball team defeated Maryville College at Lindenwood. But, it was not the victory September 27 in a match against William Woods College. This week, it hosts Maryville College on Thursday and then travels to Canton, MO, on Saturday for a tournament with Culver Stockton College.

PARTICIPANTS NEEDED FOR RACQUETBALL

John A. Bornmann, chairman of the Chemistry Department, is interested in forming a racquetball league for Lindenwood faculty and staff members. If you are interested, contact Bornmann at extension #235 so an organizational meeting can be arranged.

DON'T PITCH IT, PASS IT!

A limited budget prohibits the publication and circulation of "Communique" to everyone on campus. If you don't retain issues for future reference, pass your copy of the newsletter on to a friend, colleague or student so that "Communique" can receive the maximum readership benefit for its cost.

- COMMUNIQUE #30 -

"COMMUNIQUE" is published each Monday by The Lindenwood Colleges. Comments concerning the publication, as well as the submission of information, should be sent to Randy L. Wallick, Editor, Office of News & Public Information, The Lindenwood Colleges, St. Charles, Missouri 63301.
