MUSEUM OPENS IN HISTORIC SIBLEY HALL

Volunteer efforts by four Lindenwood alumni have led to the completion of a museum in historic Sibley Hall. Occupying two rooms on the first floor of the 125-year-old structure, the museum contains a number of artifacts and memorabilia dealing with the early history of Lindenwood as well as personal belongings of Mary Sibley, its founder.

Plans to organize and establish the museum have taken nearly a year to complete. They have been spearheaded by Mary E. Ambler of Kirkwood, librarian emeritus, and three other Lindenwood alumni - Mrs. Elmer S. Ordelleide, Mrs. Robert W. Beste and Mrs. Robert H. Fuerhoff, all of St. Charles.

According to Miss Ambler, who served as head librarian from 1964-74, most of the artifacts contained in the museum have been collected and donated by Lindenwood alumni throughout the country. Some of the items include china and silverware from various class years and administrations, student handbooks, class rings, the program from the institution's second commencement, handwritten copies of the first student newspaper of 1845, a desk used by former president John L. Roemer, girls memory books, college catalogs and papers and diaries of Mrs. Sibley.

The museum, which opened officially for the recent Alumni Reunion Weekend, is available for individual and group tours. Appointments can be made by contacting Butler Library or Sibley Hall.

DIRECTOR OF ADMISSIONS APPOINTED

Sharon Stites of St. Louis, an educational consultant and former admissions director, has been named Director of Admissions, replacing Sarah Fulton who resigned August 31.

With 14 years of experience in admissions and educational administration, Ms. Stites has a B.S. in Education degree from the University of Missouri-Columbia. Currently accepted into the M.B.A program at Southern Illinois University-Edwardsville, she has taken postgraduate courses at Washington University in St. Louis and the Institute for Advanced Professional Studies in Higher Education, Kansas City.

For the past two years, she has served as an educational consultant in several programs, most recently at the Research College of Nursing in Kansas City. From 1973-79, she served as Vice-President for College Relations and Dean of Admissions at the Kansas City Art Institute. Prior to that, she was the Coordinator of Cooperative Admissions Programs for the Union of Independent Colleges of Art, Kansas City; assistant director of admissions at the Kansas City Art Institute; and an elementary and junior high school art instructor for the Ferguson-Florissant School District, St. Louis.

FACULTY FORUM SCHEDULED THURSDAY

Jean Fields, assistant professor of English and communications arts, will address the subject, "Mythology of Women on the American Frontier," during the second Faculty Forum, scheduled Thursday from 3:15-4:15 p.m. in the Young Lounge.

KCLC-FM RADIO PRESENTATIONS

Halloween safety tips will be presented in one-minute public service features during the noon news program today through Friday on KCLC-FM Radio, 89.0 on the dial. Emil Wilde, faculty member and KCLC station manager, reports the series of five broadcasts are designed for parents, motorists and homeowners as well as youngsters. Information was compiled from a variety of sources, such as the Missouri Highway Patrol, he said.

Arlene Taich, director of LCIE, will be featured in a series on LCIE which will be aired during the weekday 5 p.m. news, November 8-12, on KCLC. The daily three-minute interviews will explore the nontraditional, individualized approach LCIE has, its course offerings and degree programs, the diversity of its subjects and faculty expertise and the important role it performs for adults.

ETHNIC AMERICAN POETS FEATURED

Three of the major young ethnic poets in America will be on campus next month to read their works during the Sunday Concert Series. Appearing November 7 in the main reading room of Butler Library will be Maurice Kenny of New York and Wendy Rose and Lorna DeeCervantes, both of California. Open to all free-of-charge, the 3 p.m. poetry reading is part of the Sunday Concert Series sponsored by the Lectures & Concerts Committee.

Kenny is of Mohawk Indian descent and the editor of the poetry magazine, "Contact II," and the Strawberry Press poetry series which publishes the works of contemporary American Indian writers. His poems have appeared widely in periodicals, anthologies and several collections. He also has appeared in LCIE classes.

Ms. Rose's poems also have appeared in numerous periodicals and anthologies. A lecturer in the Anthropology Department at the University of California at Berkeley, she is of Hopi Indian descent. Her most recent books are "Academic Squaw" and "Lost Copper."

Ms. DeeCervantes' most recent book, "Emplumada," won the University of Pittsburgh's Poetry Award for 1981 and was published as part of this prestigious series. She often writes about her rich Mexican-American heritage.

The remaining performance in the four-part Sunday Concert Series will be November 21 when Djimo Kouyate, a player of the kora, presents a concert at 3 p.m. in the main reading room of Butler Library. The kora is a 21-string harp instrument of West African origin. This concert, too, is open to students, faculty and the general public free-of-charge.

FACULTY MEMBER AUTHORS 14TH, 15TH BOOKS

Nancy Polette, assistant professor of education and director of the Campus School, has authored her fourteenth and fifteenth books, "Picture Books for Gifted Programs" and "E Is for Everybody."

Published by Scarecrow Press, "Picture Books for Gifted Programs" details critical and productive thinking skills and activities and the promotion of these with the use of picture books for young children. "E Is for Everybody," also published by Scarecrow Press, covers the many uses of children's books in the elementary classroom.

A frequent lecturer and consultant to school districts throughout the country, Ms. Polette is a nationally-recognized authority on the education of gifted children. She recently was the keynote speaker at the annual national conference of the American Association of School Librarians, held October 22 in Houston, TX.

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT SERIES BEGINS NOVEMBER 2

"Indian-White Political and Cultural Relations in the 20th Century" is the title of a presentation to be given November 2 by Aaron Miller, dean of faculty, and Michael Castro, faculty advisor for LCIE. It will be held from noon to 1:30 p.m. in the English Department Lounge on the second floor of Butler Hall.

The 90-minute lecture and discussion are part of the English Department's Colloquy Series. Organized last year as a campus and community service, the series are informal get-togethers featuring discussions on a variety of subjects of interest to students and faculty members as well as the general public. The November 2 lecture is free-of-charge, and refreshments will be served.

'JAZZEROBICS' BEGINS THIS EVENING

If you act quickly and call Barbara Ludwig at extension #346, you still can get into the first class of Jazzerobics which begins tonight at Lindenwood.

Offered on Mondays and Wednesdays from 8:30-9:30 p.m., the course is open to all faculty and staff members as well as students. Jazzerobics is one of the newest ways to burn off calories for weight loss and have fun at the same time. It is a vigorous blend of exercise and jazz movements set to music.

Offered by the Leisure Learning Center, the course is designed to help participants firm up in all the right places while they sweat, dance and smile their way to a more perfect body. It will be taught by Anne McGormley of St. Charles, a dance and exercise instructor and the owner of a St. Charles dance studio.

The fee for the 12 sessions is $25. A limited number of openings remain for tonight's first class, so if you would like to enroll, call the Leisure Learning Center at once.

COMEDY FILM FESTIVAL FRIDAY NIGHT

The 1950 film classic, "Born Yesterday," will be shown Friday as part of Lindenwood's Comedy Film Festival in the Young Auditorium beginning at 7 p.m. The comedy features Judy Holliday, William Holden and Broderick Crawford. It is free to all Lindenwood students; for nonstudents, a $1 general admission is charged.

The fall comedy series is presented by the Lectures & Concerts Committee in conjunction with the English Department's course, "Comedy: Its Origins and Developments."

COEDS SOUGHT FOR NATIONAL COMPETITION

Lindenwood coeds are invited to participate in "Glamour" magazine's 1983 Top Ten College Women Competition, a national contest to select 10 outstanding coeds from colleges and universities throughout the country. A panel of the magazine's editors will select winners on the basis of their records of achievement in academic studies and/or in extracurricular activities on campus or within the community.

The 10 winners will be featured in the August, 1983, issue of the magazine and will each receive a $1,000 cash prize. Applications may be obtained at the Office of News & Public Information, 109 Butler Hall. The deadline for submitting an application is December 1st.

OOPS, WE GOOFED . . .

The second presentation in Lindenwood's "Environmental Issues of the '80s" will be made November 10, not the 11th as incorrectly reported last week. It will be made by Edward H. Ziegler, associate professor of environmental law at the University of Dayton, at 8 p.m. in the Fine Arts Building Auditorium.

John Nichols is an associate professor of mathematics, not an assistant professor as was reported erroneously in last week's issue of "Communique."

SPORTS STROBOSCOPIC PHOTOGRAPHY

"Stroboscopic Photography as a Medium for Analyzing Human Movement" is the title of a presentation delivered before the Department of Physical Education recently by Sarah L. Smith, professor of biomechanics and physical education at Rutgers University.

During the presentation and follow-up discussion, physical education students had the opportunity to view a series of stroboscopic (multi-image) slides that enhanced the scientific value as well as the aesthetic impact and commercial appeal of stroboscopic photography in sports, reports Donna J. Scheeter, assistant professor and department chairman.

LINDENWOOD SPORTS HIGHLIGHTS

The men's soccer team, now 11-2 for the season, last week defeated Missouri Southern State College by a score of 2-1 and Westminster College by a score of 8-1. This week, it is on the road with games Tuesday against Harris-Stowe State College and Saturday with Rockhurst College.

The volleyball team's remaining home game is Thursday at 6:30 p.m. against St. Louis Christian College. It will be played at St. Charles Senior High School, Kingshighway and Waverly streets.

After a successful trip to Colorado Springs, CO, to participate in the Colorado College Invitational Tournament, the women's soccer team came home with a third-place finish. Its last home game this season is Wednesday against MacMurray College. It ends the season Saturday with a game at the University of Missouri-Rolla.

DATES FOR UPCOMING EVENTS SOUGHT

A listing of all scheduled events for 1982-83 is being sought by the Office of News & Public Information for a master calendar to be published later this year. Submissions should include the name of the event, date and time, other pertinent information and a contact person for further information. Information should be sent to Randy Wallick at the Office of News & Public Information, 109 Butler Hall.

- COMMUNIQUE #30 -

"COMMUNIQUE" is published each Monday by The Lindenwood Colleges. Comments concerning the publication, as well as the submission of information, should be sent to Randy L. Wallick, Editor, Office of News & Public Information, The Lindenwood Colleges, St. Charles, Missouri 63301.
