SOCCER TEAM CAPTURES FIRST-ROUND NAIA PLAYOFF

Take your hats off to the men's soccer team which finished a record season this year and captured its first playoff spot in the district tournament of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA). Under the direction of Coach C. C. Lowry, the Lions last Wednesday defeated Rockhurst College, ranked eighth in the nation, by a score of 2-1 in the first round of the NAIA playoffs.

(At press time, the team's victory allows it to travel to Kansas City on November 6 to compete against Avila College, ranked second in the nation in NAIA soccer.)

The NAIA playoff berth is the first in the four-year history of Lindenwood's soccer team. The Lions finished the regular season with a record of 13-3 (11-5 in NAIA competition) to tie the school record - set last year - in men's soccer. Coaches and officials say experience in the NAIA playoffs for the soccer team, which consists mainly of freshmen, will prove invaluable in upcoming season games.

FACULTY MEMBER WINS AUDITOR'S SEAT

Put your hats back on and tip them again to John Nichols, associate professor of mathematics, who was elected St. Charles County Auditor in last week's general election.

A newcomer to politics, Nichols, a Democrat, defeated the Republican challenger, John K. Hedeman, by an unofficial vote count of 19,895 to 16,913 to capture the four-year position. The incumbent auditor, Democrat James Schipper, did not seek reelection.

Community active, Nichols has been a faculty member at Lindenwood since 1969. He holds a B.S. degree from Hampden Sydney College and an M.A. degree from the University of Virginia.

Entertainment will be provided by the Lindenwood Madrigal Singers, a group under the direction of Kenneth G. Greenlaw, chairman of the Department of Music, that recreates the sights and sounds of Elizabethan England.

At the alumni and student gathering, brief remarks will be made by Esther Muench of Leawood, KS, president of the Kansas City alumni chapter, and several officials of Lindenwood - Aaron Miller, dean of faculty; Lawrence Elam, chief business officer; Rick Scott, director of financial services; Terrie Rollings, alumni director; and Sharon Stites, newly-named admissions director.

GRANT RECEIVED FOR ENVIRONMENTAL LECTURES

Lindenwood is one of 29 institutions of higher learning in the United States to receive a leadership grant from the S&H Foundation, a charitable division of the Sperry & Hutchinson (S&H) Co. of Cincinnati, OH.

The $2,500 grant is being used to fund a series of four environmental lectures, entitled "Environmental Issues for the 1980s," taking place this semester and next on campus. Speakers in the series will discuss environmental issues from varying points of view, including those of the federal government, business and industry, the medical profession and the wildlife preservation.

The purpose of the four-part series is to encourage productive discussions among students and faculty as well as residents and community, ecological and environmental groups. "The program is designed to bring prominent and thoughtful speakers to campuses across the country and to help strengthen college and community ties by making the lectures available to the public without cost," said Thomas J. Kelso of Springfield, IL, area manager for S&H Promotional Services. Kelso was on campus recently to present the $2,500 check to Drs. Aaron Miller, dean of faculty, and Ann Canile, assistant professor of English and a member of the Lectures & Concerts Committee.

The first lecture last month attracted more than 75 persons and featured Thomas F. Williams of Arlington, VA, a consultant to the Office of Public Awareness, U.S. Environmental Protection Agency in Washington, DC. The next lecture will be presented Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the Fine Arts Building Auditorium. Two remaining lectures will be scheduled next semester.

Wednesday evening's lecture will be presented by Edward H. Ziegler, associate professor of environmental law at the University of Dayton. An author whose writings have been cited by federal and state appellate courts, Ziegler has written numerous articles on land use, environmental law and constitutional and administrative legal matters. He is a former attorney with the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission in Washington, DC.

Since the S&H Foundation's grant program began in 1960, nearly 800 grants totaling more than $1.51 million have been made to 600 colleges and universities throughout the United States. In the 1982-83 competition, Lindenwood is one of 29 institutions to receive a grant out of nearly 260 entries.

CHICAGO PROFESSOR TO SPEAK NEXT WEEK

Ahmed Sakar, Ph.D., a faculty member at the University of Chicago and a noted authority on Islam, will present a lecture, "Jesus - a Prophet of Islam," November 19 at 3 p.m. in the Memorial Arts Bldg. Hosted by Lindenwood's international students, the lecture is open to all students as well as faculty and staff members. A reception at the International Center will follow Dr. Sakar's presentation.

SHILLER ADDRESSES TELEPHONE LABOR LEADERS

Alan H. Shiller of the Communications Department recently presented a three-day seminar, "Advanced Public Communications Strategies," to nearly two dozen members of the Communications Workers of America who were attending a conference at the Georgia Center for Continuing Education in Athens, GA. The seminar pinpointed ways of dealing with hostile audiences and presented arguments, persuasion techniques and presentation skills. Shiller frequently conducts business and professional speaking courses and communications workshops to groups throughout the country.

The LCIE has relocated to new facilities at 6214 Forsyth in Clayton. Located in the Unity Christ Church Educational Building across from Washington University, the regional center replaces former offices at 100 S. Hanley Rd. in Clayton. The expanded LCIE facility contains an admissions office, classroom and instructional space and offices for faculty advisors, reports Carol Lark, LCIE admissions counselor. The center's phone number, (314) 725-3441, remains the same.

ALUMNI CLUB MEETING CORRECTION

The receipt of inaccurate information in last week's "Communique" indicated the St. Charles Alumni Club will meet November 13. The club will meet November 15 at 7:30 p.m. in the Memorial Arts Building Parlor. The session will feature Jean Fields, assistant professor of English and communications arts, who will discuss "Mythology of Women on the American Frontier." The meeting is open to all area Lindenwood alumni and friends. Refreshments will be served.

ACTING ASSOCIATE DEAN OF FACULTY NAMED

James F. Hood, professor and chairman of the Department of History, has been appointed acting associate dean of faculty, a new position effective in January with the start of the spring semester. He also has been named acting director of the Evening College, replacing Darlene Anderson who will assume the assistant director's position.

A 21-year veteran of the Lindenwood faculty, Hood holds bachelor's, master's and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Illinois.

TELEVISION DIRECTOR TO SPEAK THURSDAY

The subject of how to program noncommercial television stations will be presented this Thursday evening by Jim Barnes, former program director of KETC-TV, Channel 9, and current program director of the area's newest television station, KNLC-TV, Channel 24. Barnes' talk will be delivered from 7-8 p.m. in the Memorial Arts Building as part of a course in communications. Faculty, staff and students are invited to attend the one-hour address.

LCIE ORIENTATIONS SET WEDNESDAY NIGHT

The LCIE will host orientation sessions November 10 for persons interested in returning to college or for those wanting to pursue a bachelor's or master's degree in business administration. Orientations are scheduled from 7:30-8:30 p.m. at LCIE offices on the main campus as well as in Clayton and Lake St. Louis.

According to Carol Lark, admissions counselor, the purpose of the sessions is to provide information about LCIE's non-traditional format that offers full-time studies leading to degrees for working adults. Faculty advisors, admissions counselors and LCIE students will be present to provide information on admission requirements, tuition costs, course and degree offerings and financial aid assistance, she said.

For further information on the orientation sessions, contact an LCIE representative at any one of the college's three locations.

'COPING WITH HOLIDAY STRESS' SERIES TO BEGIN

Traditionally, the upcoming Thanksgiving and Christmas holiday seasons are periods of high suicide rates among individuals and families. Coupled with the nation's current economic situation and the period of high unemployment, November and December are months that often can lead to emotional instability, physical abuse and mental anxiety among many Americans.

To combat these problems locally, Lindenwood's radio station, KCLC-FM, plans a five-part special series, entitled "Coping with Holiday Stress." The 90-second features will be broadcast November 15-19 during the station's daily 5 p.m. news program. The series will provide tips from professionals on how to cope with holiday stress caused by numerous activities and expectations, reports Emil Wilde, station manager.
