BOARD OF DIRECTORS CITES GOODALL FOR SERVICE

In recognition of his 46 years of service as a member of the Lindenwood College Board of Directors, Arthur S. Goodall of St. Louis has been honored with the adoption of a board resolution proclaiming his accomplishments. It declares that the two Victorian-style lounges on the main floor of the Roemer Memorial Arts Building be known as the Arthur S. Goodall Lounges.

The resolution also cites his contributions as a member of the Fund-Raising Committee and as chairman of the Buildings & Grounds Committee for many years; his financial gifts through the establishment of the Nannie S. Goodall Memorial Scholarship fund "from which many students have benefited through his generosity"; his influence upon others to make contributions and gifts to Lindenwood; and his refurbishment of the two lounges in the Memorial Arts Building which now bear his name. By his own estimates, Goodall has personally presented or has been instrumental in garnering more than $700,000 for the benefit of Lindenwood from his long tenure as a member of the board of directors.

NEWSLETTER BEGINS SECOND YEAR OF PUBLICATION

This issue of "Communique" begins the second year of publication of "your communicative link with the Lindenwood College." In addition to a recent layout change, the newsletter has increased its circulation to nearly 500. Added to the mailing list this week are more than 150 civic, business and community leaders in the greater St. Charles area who have expressed a supportive interest in the future of Lindenwood. Published by the Office of News & Public Information, "Communique" is sent to all faculty and staff members, the board of directors, select students and alumni, emeriti and Lindenwood supporters. The newsletter resumes weekly publication this fall.

LINDENWOOD TO HOST PHOTO CONFERENCE

This year's regional conference of the Midwest Society for Photographic Education will be held on campus October 14-15. This year's theme is "Tricks of the Trade - Trade of the Tricks." For further information as well as details on presenting papers or participating in the regional meet, contact Hans Levi, assistant professor of photography.

ADMISSIONS OFFICE REORGANIZED

As a means of housing admissions resources under one roof and increasing efficiency, the Admissions Office has been reorganized to include both undergraduate and graduate programs. Under the direction of Sharon W. Stites, dean of admissions and financial aid, Donna Herington continues in her role as director of financial aid while added responsibilities have been delegated to Miriam King-Watts, director of adult admissions; Marilyn Morris, assistant director of admissions for residential programs; and Maggie Kracke, admissions marketing coordinator. JoAnn Massmann has been relocated from the Fashion Marketing Department to serve as secretary in the Admissions Office.

McDONNELL-DOUGLAS SUMMER APPOINTMENT

John A. Bornmann, Ph.D., professor and chairman of chemistry, has received a summer appointment at McDonnell-Douglas Research Laboratories in St. Louis for conducting research on the chemiluminescence of epoxy resins. "In absolute darkness with very sensitive equipment it is possible to detect the emission of light from epoxy resins, called chemiluminescence," Dr. Bornmann said. "The chemical reaction affects the aging of the resin and, therefore, chemiluminescence might be used to predict aging. Since McDonnell-Douglas uses epoxy resins and carbon fibers to make strong, lightweight components for aircraft, the ability to monitor and predict aging is very important."

ROLLINGS, SCOTT HONORED BY FACULTY, STAFF

For several years of lengthy service to Lindenwood, Terrie Rollings, alumni director, and Rick Scott, former director of financial resources, recently were honored at a luncheon by faculty and staff members. A staff member since 1979, Mrs. Rollings has resigned her Lindenwood position to form her own company, Terri Tours, Inc., a personalized tour service that specializes in the historic St. Charles area. Scott, who recently earned his doctorate, has been a staff member since 1978. He leaves this month to assume a vice-president's position at Agnes Scott College in Atlanta, GA, where he will be in charge of alumni affairs, financial resources and public relations. Lindenwood expresses gratitude for their service and wishes both good fortune in their respective careers.

WATKINS TO PARTICIPATE IN WHITE HOUSE CONFERENCE

Edward D. Watkins, vice-president for institutional development and president of the national Career Productivity Institute, has been asked to participate in the White House Conference on Productivity, scheduled in the nation's capital September 22-23. Formed by President Reagan, the two-day meet will summarize recommendations from preparatory conferences being held this summer in St. Louis, Pittsburgh, San Diego and Durham, NC, and will develop proposals for stimulating productivity growth in the United States.

A national career development authority, Watkins also will serve as a panelist at the St. Louis preparatory conference, being held this week at St. Louis University. Watkins will discuss training and retraining at the local conference, which will focus on the human resources aspects of productivity. Prior to joining Lindenwood, Watkins served as director of the National Institute for Career Development at Doane College where he was a consultant to more than 100 institutions in the areas of cooperative education, retention and admissions, career planning and placement and planning and evaluation.

CASTRO CONDUCTS NYC POETRY READING

Michael Castro, Ph.D., LCIE faculty advisor, recently returned from New York City where he presented a reading of his own poetry at the American Indian House Gallery. Sharing the program with Dr. Castro was Quincy Troupe, associate professor at the College of Staten Island and a recent recipient of the American Book Award for Poetry.

CAMPUS TO HOST PRESBYTERIAN COUNCIL

Lindenwood has been selected as the location for the June 28-July 1 meeting of the governing body of the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.), the newly-formed denomination that has merged the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. and the Presbyterian Church of the U.S. Representing both denominations, nearly 60 members of the General Assembly Council are expected to attend the four-day meeting, which church officials call a session to acquaint members of each denomination and to formulate governing policies from the recent merger.
