Annual Publication of the Students of Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Missouri

A college annual is a victor's accolade and a jester's cap. It is a history, a novel, a dictionary, and a photograph album. For its purpose—the capturing of the sight, the smell, the taste of college—for its value—the preservation of memories, friendships, experiences in learning—the annual seals fast with a lid of glass the box containing a college year.

With this definition before us, we, the editor and staff members of the Linden Leaves, present the year nineteen-hundred-forty-eight and forty-nine, reflected in the camera eye, recorded by a pencil, and bound by leather covers.

Since a college without any students can be no more than a plot of ground and a group of silent, empty buildings, since a teacher without students is only an unheeded guide to learning, it is to you, the students, who have given to Lindenwood its pulse and its function, that this annual is dedicated.

Student Council

The Student Council is the governing body of Lindenwood. It makes college life better by setting up rules and helping to secure new privileges and opportunities for the students. Each Monday-night meeting is held to study problems that must be solved, and it is here that each student may speak through her elected representative to the Council. On Tuesday, at Student Assembly, the announcements of activities to come and of actions decided upon by the Council are made. The first all-school dance was given by the Student Council, as well as an exciting bridge tournament between faculty and students. These were just two examples of the well-organized entertainment which the Council found time to provide while it also carried on its administrative duties.

Officers—President, Jo Ann O'Flynn; Vice-President, Roberta Walters; Secretary-Treasurer, Frances Bauer.

Residence Hall Staffs

With the new honor system at Lindenwood, the students have taken it upon themselves to instill an atmosphere of cooperation and thoughtfulness among the girls of each dormitory. Study hours remain quiet, and friendly relations continue because of the work of the Hall Staffs. Chosen by the residents of their halls, the staffs consist of three floor representatives and the hall president. Assisting the head resident, they meet to solve problems which involve the whole population of the dormitory. Rule-making and problem-solving was not the only work of the Hall Staffs. They planned hall parties at Christmas, picnics in the spring, and refreshments for lightening serious hall meetings. Serving in many capacities the members of the Hall Staffs have made life outside of the classroom orderly, but never dull.

Student Christian Association

Each student of Lindenwood is a member of S.C.A. and is invited to participate in its activities. In achieving its purpose, the promotion of Christian fellowship, thinking and interests, the Student Christian Association presented many opportunities to learn and to serve. During Religious Emphasis Week the club had for its guest Dr. George Sweazy, who spoke daily on the need for an understanding of Christian beliefs and ideals. The club also conducted an auction, which was held to raise money for the World

Student Service Fund, and sponsored an all-student Vesper Service.

The Student Christian Association is an important part of life at Lindenwood, not only because it provides an opportunity for discussion of basic truths, but also because its work helps students all over the world.

Who's Who in American Colleges

Here are the girls whose character, scholastic standing, and leadership abilities have elected them to the national publication Who's Who among Students in Colleges and Universities. Each of these girls is active in school functions, and each of them has earned her place of recognition by virtue of above-average and outstanding abilities in various fields.

This year the girls who represent Lindenwood as "Who's Who" girls are: Jane Foust, former secretary-treasurer of Student Council and present editor of Linden Leaves, Jo Ann O'Flynn, former president of the junior class and this year's student body president; Frances Claire Jones, advertising editor Linden Leaves, and freshman class adviser; Miriam Reilly, former president of El Circulo Espanol and Sigma Tau Delta; Barbara Wade, organization editor of Linden Leaves and president of Butler Hall; and Lorraine Peck, business manager of Peter Pan and outstanding Washington-semester student.

Alpha Epsilon Rho

Those afraid of a mike when becoming a member of Alpha Epsilon Rho soon learn that it won't bite. Down at KCLC, where the members of the club spent most of their time this year, they learned the intricacies of operating a radio station, from the operation of the turn-tables to the casting and production of radio shows. Speakers from the radio field were invited to address the club, and the club members represented KCLC at the radio conference in Springfield, Missouri.

During the Christmas season, Alpha Epsilon Rho sponsored an entertainment at the radio station complete with a performance of Hansel and Gretel, and this spring was hostess for colleges and universities of this area at their own radio conference.

Officers—President, Sally Joy; Vice-President, Gretchen Schnurr; Secretary-Treasurer, Mary Lou McNail; Sponsor, Miss Martha May Boyer.

Alpha Psi Omega

Everyone enjoys watching a play . . . but those in Alpha Psi Omega are the ones who prefer having an active part in its production. Grease paint . . . footlights . . . prompting . . . first-night tripping over the lamp cord . . . a taste of big-time theatre work in St. Louis . . . curtain calls . . . "You were just marvelous!" It gets in the blood, this stage business.

In co-operation with the drama classes, of which Alpha Psi Omega members are usually a part, the club helped in the presentation of "Brief Music" in the fall, giving it both here and in St.

Louis, and in the presentation of three one-act plays—"A Matter of Husbands," "Overtones," and "The Far-A-Way Princess," in the spring. Maybe the club doesn't foster future Broadway stars, but one can't say that for certain that it doesn't. Who knows when a talent scout might snatch an Alpha Psi member right from the Lindenwood stage?

Alpha Sigma Tau

Talk about honors! These are the girls whose grades are among the highest in the college, all of them made members of Alpha Sigma Tau as part of the reward for their hard work. It takes will power, or something, to keep away from the Tea Room, and if high scholastic standing means staying away from cokes and chatter, these girls had the will power to do it. But Alpha Sigma Tau members found time for everything, somehow, the Tea Room included.

This year the club sponsored a white elephant sale in order to raise money for a scholarship for a student at the School of the Ozarks, and they gave the Baccalaureate Tea for the seniors and their parents.

Officers—President, Patricia Schilb; Secretary-Treasurer, Loma Ostmann; Sponsor, Miss Kathryn Hankins.

Delta Phi Delta

Youngsters appreciative of harmony, scales, and such may well be a result of hard work and teaching on the part of Lindenwood's Public School Music Majors. Delta Phi Delta is the campus sorority for these students, as well as for all under-classmen who are majoring in music.

In the scale of events: The annual trip to Saint Louis for an opera or play . . . dinner afterward. Fall recital with Mu Phi Epsilon . . . Mid-winter initiation . . . pledges in white . . . Monthly meetings and the enjoyment of musical discussion together. The spring recital . . . last-minute jitters and good music. The members have joined together to share their common interest in developing in themselves and in others a discriminating taste in music and a lasting interest in this art.

Home Economics Club

She can bake a cherry pie quick as a cat can wink its eye . . . especially if she's in the Home Economics Club. The members must also be majors in this field. Almost every day luscious odors of baking cookies or broiling steaks fill the halls of Roemer . . . all the work of the Home Economics Association.

Found in these home-makers' scrapbooks: Helpful demonstrations—on frozen foods, and on flower arrangements . . . sponsoring of the career convocation by home economist Gertrude Kable . . . Annual breakfast given for Administration . . . Spring dinner honoring senior Home Ec. majors. Dyeing Easter eggs for Markham Memorial . . . contributing gifts for the needy.

Officers — President, Margery Marcellus; Vice-President, Dolores Thomas; Secretary, Muriel Jacobson; Treasurer, Ruth Wilke; Sponsor, Mrs. Marguerite Ahrens.

Kappa Pi

Art-conscious themselves, they gave some of their enthusiasm to Lindenwood with a flurry of club activity. Kappa Pi began the year with their play-day, which meant that non-art students and faculty members could go down to the Fine Arts Building and dabble in paint, clay, or water colors. Next came their collection of Daumier prints which were displayed to be looked at or bought. Then, having aroused an interest in painting, Kappa Pi members exhibited prints for potential art connoisseurs who might be interested in starting their collections right then. Finally, they gave a tea for art majors and faculty members at which they introduced the rental system. The plan allowed a student to rent and to keep in her room any picture owned by Kappa Pi.

Modern Language Club

"Bon jour!" . . . "Como esta usted?" . . . "Das ist sehr gut." United Nations meeting? No. One could be south of the border, in gay Paree, or somewhere near the Rhine, but that's not it either. This is only a sample of what a Modern Language Club meeting is like. It isn't necessary to do all three at once, but knowledge of at least one is necessary. And a student must be pretty good in whatever she parleys, too. An S average in either French, Spanish, or German is required for membership.

Activities: Sitting at special tables in the dining-room, club members gather to put their fluency to practical use. Singing songs of other lands . . . learning more about other cultures . . . all good neighbors.

Mu Phi Epsilon

Do-re-me-fa-sol-la-ti-do . . . shades of the Met and C.B.S.! Ambitious and able music majors aspire to membership in Mu Phi Epsilon, national music sorority. They are required to do more than merely aspire, however. Election to the sorority is based on scholarship, ability, character, and faculty approval.

Worth encores—Mu Phi's annual vesper program affords good listening . . . inspection and approval by a national officer . . . teas and monthly meetings . . . opportunities for faculty and students to exchange ideas . . . receptions at the Fine Arts Building for visiting artists on campus . . . This year we remember the Emile Renan Opera Company's "Barber of Seville." "Ars gratia artis."

Pi Alpha Delta

Dr. Parkinson speaking of his trip to Italy to the club members and their guests . . . nursery rhymes and ice-cream combined at a party honoring the foreign students . . . initiation ceremony followed by coffee and a story out of Roman mythology told by Miss Hankins . . . meetings at Miss Hankins' home to discuss plans for the Easter tea . . . the tea itself entertaining the faculty members and friends . . .

The small size of Pi Alpha Delta didn't hinder its activities, as a backward glance will prove. The club contains students of the classics—Virgil, Horace, Latin Poetry, classical mythology—whose high grades entitle them to its membership.

Officers—President, Carolyn Owen; Vice-President, Patricia Underwood; Secretary, Ramona Cooke; Treasurer, Kathryn Shaddock; Sponsor, Miss Kathryn Hankins.

Pi Gamma Mu

Having convinced the faculty that they were budding sociologists, historians, psychologists, educators, and philosophers, these students were recommended and invited to join Pi Gamma Mu, the national honorary social science fraternity. The group helped to present for colleges in the area a two-day workshop on community living which was sponsored by the community leadership class. In the spring, when new members were initiated, an open meeting was held in order that the other students on campus could hear the experiences of a social case worker.

Each year the club has followed the tradition of awarding a book to the girl doing the most outstanding work in social science, helping to further the interests and abilities of the students pursuing a goal in this field of learning.

Officers—President, Betty Keighley; Secretary-Treasurer, Lois Malone; Sponsors, Mr. and Mrs. John Machell.

Sigma Tau Delta

Interested in writing? Like to read and share ideas? For those who do, Sigma Tau Delta, national honorary English society, is on the "must join" list. Members are required to have at least an S average in all English courses and faculty approval.

Calendar memories: Candlelight and roses at the fall and spring initiations . . . mammoth stacks of manuscripts entered in the annual freshman medal contest . . . meetings with Poetry Society

. . . reading and criticizing members' creative efforts . . . conversation and coffee . . . spring tea for honor students in English . . . stimulating discussions among students and faculty . . . the informality of fellowship.

Triangle

"I'm safe except for . . . Oh, I wonder if I made it in Analyt. And what about chemistry?" Would-be science majors and minors quietly go mad while waiting the outcome of exams. For membership in Triangle Club is obtained only when a student has an S average in at least three science or mathematics courses. Gnashing of teeth and tearing of hair are often the result of this requirement. Any lucky member says it's worth the trouble.

Activities this year included sending delegates to the Missouri Academy of Science. Perhaps there were budding Curies in the midst. Then there was the trip through the American Car and Foundry Works, where members saw scientific and mechanical skill combined. And the picnics in the spring and fall . . . a triangle of food, fun, and science.

Athletic Association

Oooh, my aching back! Remember those practice hours put in to become a A. A. member? Competing for that precious plaque . . . what a riot the all-school barn dance was (swing your partner) . . . mock and formal initiations . . . Hard-fought intramural and school games . . . bruises and skinned shins proudly and painfully displayed . . . Fun, eh? And in spring there was the Play Day, the A.A. picnics, the award banquet. Work and play went together. Picnics, barn dances, initiations, hockey, basketball, softball—all these activities seem to prove that. Those hard-earned letters looked even more scrumptious for it at the end of the year, didn't they?

Officers—President, Eloise Macy; Vice-President, Betty Bishop; Secretary, Jody Viertel; Treasurer, Susie Martin; Sponsor, Miss Marguerite Ver Kruzen.

Beta Chi

No mantelpieces for these girls—they know how to sit a horse all day long without batting an eyelash or having to stand up to eat their suppers. This year, with new horses in the stables, Beta Chi members found more than usual pleasure in working hard to perfect their horsemanship. Down at the stables on sunny Saturdays . . . trot . . . walk your horses, please . . . canter, please . . . get the right lead . . . the riding team practicing for meets with other schools . . .

Tau Sigma

Tau Sigma, the honorary dance fraternity, carried an enchanted audience into recollections of childhood with the presentation of their Christmas program, "Once Upon a Time!" Their interpretation of "The Three Bears," "Snow White," "The Eight Brothers," and "Cinderella," won for them the praise that more than compensated for the weeks of preparation and stiff muscles from dancing, dancing, dancing.

Swathed in the colors of spring, the club members appeared again to dance in the honor of Her Royal Highness, the May Queen. And after seeing the results of practice, no one could deny that hard work produced the finished product—a group of dancing damsels, daughters of Terpsichore.

Officers—President, Eleanor Serkes; Vice-President, Dorothy Hall; Secretary, Evelyn Zane; Treasurer, Betty Bishop; Sponsor, Miss Virginia Krautheim.

Terrapin

With bloodshot eyes and wet, stringy hair, the members of Terrapin emerged from the pool every Wednesday afternoon. But this club isn't just a big splash—the members tried their best to create a whole pool full of Esther Williamses, and those who saw the spring water pageant believed the attempt a successful one. Displaying beautiful costumes, intricate water formations, and excellent swimming, the girls of Terrapin put on a show well worth the hours of practice.

Each week they devoted part of their time to guarding and managing an open pool for the rest of the students on campus, and most of the club members swam long hours to gain a coveted senior life-saving rating.

The honor of being in Terrapin is given to those who pass a test in swimming skills, skills that are practiced and presented in swimming meets with other schools and in the spring water pageant.

Choir

Off they went on a Greyhound bus, singing their way across Missouri and Oklahoma, only part of a busy year for the choir. Holding weekly practices . . . joint concerts with Rolla and Westminster . . . Vesper service devotional music . . . Christmas Oratorio . . . holiday music around the campus Christmas tree . . . trips to St. Louis to present programs of music . . . concerts for Lindenwood . . .

With spring close at hand and their tour completed, the Choir began to prepare the songs they sang for the Queen on May Day. And now it's over; they've sung their last song for Lindenwood this year—yet, the "melody lingers on."

Officers—President, Kay Pemberton; Sponsor, Mr. Milton Rehg.

Commercial Club

All those who are willing to sacrifice long finger nails for an office career, please take note. The student experts in the art of typing and shorthand have formed an organization which meets once a month to delve into the problems of the "white collar" girl.

This year all Lindenwood's prospective geniuses of the commercial world were called together for a social meeting; then, after nine weeks' grades provided the proof, they were initiated.

Business, as usual, was mixed with pleasure at Commercial Club meetings this year. A Gregg Company representative gave a lecture and demonstration of shorthand . . . A St. Charles businessman explained what was expected of an office worker . . . a movie party . . . Christmas celebration . . . tea in March . . . a picnic at the very end of the year.

Why cry over broken fingernails if you belong to the Commercial Club?

Day Students

It must be nice to hop on a bus and be home in ten minutes . . . home-cooked meals . . . families . . . peace and quiet. The day students are the only ones who can have their cake and eat it too.

On the ground floor of Roemer we find the sixth "dorm," the hang-out of the day students. They are famous for their beauty, brains, and college spirit. With their hard work and congenial attitudes, they have won some of the most coveted honors on the campus—the President's Scholarship Cup, the May Queen, and offices in their clubs and classes. Somehow they still found time this year to see "Oklahoma," attend a few parties, and have a picnic at the end of the year.

You shouldn't have allowed the daily bridge games or the screeching of the phonograph in the day-room to fool you, because behind the scenes they were probably planning another activity.

Officers—President, Ruth Schafer; Vice-President, Betty Bishop; Secretary, Jeanne Gross; Sponsor, Mrs. Marguerite Ahrens.

Encore Club

The Encore Club emphasizes the fact that Lindenwood is not merely an institution in which students spend four years. It is a home to which its daughters return. Members of the club are those students whose relatives have attended Lindenwood. This year, carrying on a tradition of many years' standing, the club members acted as hostesses to campus guests on Founders' Day. At Christmas time they collected many gifts and sent them to a needy family in St. Charles. Along with festivities, such as the "Honky Tonk" party in February, the club worked seriously throughout the year to help the college community and to further campus traditions, making Lindenwood in spirit and in word the "School of our Mothers."

Future Teachers of America

"Patience and Fortitude" will probably be the motto for the Future Teachers during the coming years. Once each month those who were planning a career in teaching met to hear professional speakers and to participate in panel discussions about the educational problems they would face. Taking the teacher-shortage problem to heart, they set about organizing Future-Teacher chapters in the St. Charles high schools. Later in the year a tea was given in honor of the St. Charles teachers. In April, at the annual Teaching Institute held on the campus, the college faculty and former Lindenwood students conducted discussion meetings that gave the prospective teachers fuller understanding of their problems and responsibilities.

Officers—President, Betty Keighley; Vice-President, Ruth Schaefer; Treasurer, Barbara Wade; Secretary, Joyce Garrison; Sponsor, Dr. Ray Garnett.

Instrumental Association

They lift their instruments, tune up, and make music for the pleasure of Lindenwood. During the year the Instrumental Association, under the direction of Kauko Lustig, presented three concerts in Roemer Auditorium. Concertos, bits of symphonies, and solos by guest artists made up the programs. Stage fright was an experience common to all the performers, and new members sat anxiously glancing out into the shadowed faces of the audience, waiting for the director's signal and trying not to feel excited. When the concert was over, the long hours of practice were rewarded by the praise given the performers and the memory of a responsive and interested audience.

International Relations

Certainly this club had a special importance on the campus this year, since Lindenwood was hostess to a number of exchange students from France, Greece, Denmark, the Philippine Islands, Hawaii, Bolivia, Lebanon, China, Chile, Korea, Costa Rica, and Cuba. Members of the club did their research first hand this year, instead of relying on encyclopedias and newspapers.

The purposes of the International Relations Club are to promote a better understanding of practical foreign relations as well as to further an interest in them. Through the club, students have an opportunity to learn about other countries and to express their opinions on world affairs. And with foreign students in their midst, the club has had an unusually successful year with open panels, discussions, and guest speakers.

League of Women Voters

Prepare your ballot! Vote a straight ticket! Support your candidate! Learn about Roberts' Rules of Order. Parliamentary procedure and governmental processes are made simple through explanations put into practice.

The League of Women Voters helped acquaint the entire student body with the intricacies of party politics through our campus, mock Presidential election this year. Republicans, Democrats, and Dixiecrats held forth with the assumed merits of their respective parties. Loyalty to party lines and to the national party platform ruled the campus. And even though the League didn't sponsor "watch-parties" on the night of November 9, they did inspire us to sit up waiting for the returns. Furthermore, they've inspired us to take interest in all things political.

Poetry Society

Maybe they aren't fated for the publication of best-selling books of verse, but certainly Poetry Society members were fated for a year of stimulating meetings. How original can you get? . . . Everyone worked on a chain poem that started with the Sphinx and ended with a cold hand on the back of a neck . . . one night of T. S. Eliot . . . coffee . . . last lingering groups in the club room . . . What if a serious discussion, and sometimes there were serious discussions, did end in a burst of laughter? What if the faculty members' opinions were not always agreed with? Things like that made the Poetry Society fun.

Poetry Society joined with Sigma Tau Delta to send books by American authors through UNESCO to parts of Europe, and these two clubs gave a tea in the spring for the faculty and English honor students. The year ended in a poetic way with a picnic—hot dogs, mustard, and ants.

Officers—President, Patricia Underwood; Vice-President, Marilyn Maddux; Secretary, Jennifer Sullivan; Treasurer, Rita Baker; Sponsor, Dr. Elizabeth Dawson.

Press Club

Staff members of the Linden Leaves and the Linden Bark compose the quorum when the Press Club meets.

The vote was both negative and affirmative during the year, but the trip through the St. Louis Globe-Democrat plant after dinner at Rosie's received an enthusiastic "aye" from all the student journalists.

The club members' talents for communicating ideas gave the Lindenwood Community a particular evening of amusement at the annual club-sponsored Gridiron dinner. The purpose of that clambake is to "roast" the faculty.

Then there was the annual Press Club picnic with the special edition of the Bark for Press Club members only . . . Rather personal, but full of fun and laughs!

Peter Pan

Emerging in fanciful green, and heralded by the pert figure of Peter Pan himself on its cover, the newest literary venture of our college appeared for the first time in April of this year.

Peter Pan is a creative writing magazine, publishing the best writing of the school year, from poems to term papers. In the meetings held to select the material submitted by the talented of Lindenwood, the staff members challenged each other with, "Have you read this?" and "Oh! We've just got to put this in!" But at last the narrowing down process was completed, the art work was finished, and the newest tribute to Lindenwood's accomplishments was born—bound neatly between the covers of Peter Pan.

Linden Leaves Board

When will the clubs have their pictures taken?
. . . Who hasn't turned in their proofs? . . .
What will the annual do to startle this year? . . .
How can one book hold all the memories of a whole year at Lindenwood? . . .

The Linden Leaves staff withheld the answers to these questions until they had the riddles solved and presented their findings in the annual. Deadlines, rearing their ugly heads around corners, and sunny afternoons spent in the tower room —such was the life of a staff member. Miraculously at the end of school the annual appeared, last exclamation point inserted, final line drawn, and the Linden Leaves staff collapsed gratefully on their laurels.

The editor and the board members extend their thanks to everyone—staff members, sponsors, photographers, advertisers, printers, engravers, and students—who helped make the 1949 annual a success.

Harvest Court

Shine on, shine on, Harvest moon! Shine on the Freshman Class beauties—the Queen of the Harvest Ball and her Court. Thirteen new Lindenwood beauties made their formal bow as campus lovelies early in November. The autumn leaf decorations and a glitter-dusted tree provided a background for the rich colors of the attendants' chrysanthemum bouquets and fall taffetas and satins.

The secret of Queen Sherrill Armijo's election was revealed to the student body by a fanfare from the orchestra as Patti Parkinson carried a circlet of flowers to the throne. First Maid Arlee Johnson placed the crown on the head of Queen "Sherry" while an imitation harvest moon twinkled overhead.

A friendly "hi," a cheery smile, and good Tea-Room patter can't gain the cherished honor for each student on campus, but the girls left holding the spotlight and the flowers on Pop Court night are those who have the highest personality scores and the biggest individual Hooper ratings on campus. These are the vivacious faces long remembered, for they belong to the girls voted most popular.

May Court

April showers had passed; fresh, sun-splashed days had become permanent as Lindenwood prepared for the social event on the year's calendar—the presentation of the May Court on May Day. Every week of the whole month was packed with last-minute madness.

The coronation ceremony, preceding the May Day dance, climaxed a full week-end of campus activity. Recreating all the charm of the old South, the Court walked from the columned steps of Sibley Hall to their flower-decked dais on the lawn. Attendants in pastel yellow, blue, and pink formals preceded the May Queen and provided an appropriate setting for the coronation of the girl chosen to reign over the festivities.

Arriving on campus during the week-end to witness the crowning of the May Queen, parents and visitors came from all parts of the country. Many of them were here early enough for the Lindenwood Spring Horse Show and stayed to enjoy the dance following the coronation.

Although many occasions during the year created an atmosphere of anticipatory tension, May Day with its Court was outstanding in gaiety, lightness, and beauty.

Do You Know a Better Way TO PRODUCE YEARBOOKS?

IN MOST CASES the yearbook staff is entirely new to the work ahead of it. Yet the part-time editorial and business staff has a relatively more technical and complicated task than most full-time publication organizations.

To meet this problem, can you think of a better way to aid a college yearbook staff in its work than by our service program, as outlined below?

- (1) Let the staff take the leadership and give full play to its own ideas, thus developing journalistic and business initiative.
- (2) Provide the necessary technical advice on printing and binding (and secondarily on photography and engraving).
- (3) Offer guidance on planning and maintaining a budget, and on editorial policy and practice.
- (4) Provide a forthright informational service for faculty and student committee, including frequent personal conferences.
- (5) Let the staff benefit from our experience of more than thirty years of printing, binding, and production of college yearbooks.

GIVE YOUR YEARBOOK the advantage of our services. Many of the same individuals who produced the yearbooks of your fathers' and mothers' college years are still here to give your book the benefit of their experience. Above all, however, we appreciate the importance of keeping "out in front" of the trends and developments of the present
