BULLETIN

JANUARY 1962

Those who knew Dr. Alice Parker . . .
colleagues, students, teachers—
loved and respected her.
They write:

From Miss Lydna Gooding, a friend from Dr. Parker's years at Yale University, and ex-librarian of Brown University.

"It is trite to comment on how much she will be missed by her friends, associates and pupils. Hers was a rare personality, with a combination of intellectual vigor and natural kindness and sympathetic understanding of other people, which do not often go together. She was so thoughtful in keeping in touch with me, when she had such demands on her time and strength."

From Dr. Alice Gipson, Dean Emeritus of Lindenwood College, and former Chairman of the English Department:

"So passes a wonderful person—gentle, compassionate, generous, tolerant—a lovely character. With her gone—and this will be true of everyone who knew her well—a great vacancy has come into my life."

From Miss Edith Macauley, friend and former colleague at Lindenwood:

"Alice, who still could have communicated so much to so many, is blessedly released from her struggles to breathe. The six weeks I was with her in 1959 in the Junco I was amazed at her energy after her hours of leaning forward on her suitcase in the bed at night. Yes, that she could finish this second year of TV teaching must have been a real satisfaction to her. When I asked her once why she always pushed herself so hard, I'll never forget that she said simply, 'To labor is to pray'."

From F. L. McCluer, President of Lindenwood College:

"Lindenwood College has been blessed with the service of many men and women of great character and vision. One of the greatest of these was Dr. Alice Parker. Her death last summer was a shock and a grievous loss to the college community. She was a magnificent teacher, distinguished for the breadth of her learning and for her extraordinary power to communicate and to inspire. She was a woman of great integrity and faith, of gentleness and selflessness, and of unreserved dedication to her work.

"We shall continue to know pain in the separation that death has brought, as we rejoice in the immeasurable influence of her great life. The spiritual strength she has given the college will, we hope, endure in those of us who respected and loved her as a colleague and as a friend."

... "a sense of immeasurable loss" ...

Miss Barbara Napier, Dean of Women at Glasgow University, who held the British-American Associates lecture-fellowship to the United States in 1950:

"... Alice sometimes said to me, and I am sure to you, that distance does not matter. Nor does it, essentially. And death is just another form of distance: she is still and always with those who loved her and her strength, by God's grace, can still help and guide and inspire. It is the finality of physical disappearance that is so devastating to the earthbound ones. All of this I know you know: I comfort myself a little by writing it."

Miss Gladys Willison, General Secretary of British-American Associates, and the Chairman and Members of the Winifred Cullis Lecture-Fellowship, British-American Associates:

"It was with the deepest sorrow that the Winifred Cullis Committee learned of the death of Dr. Alice Parker. She was first appointed as holder of the Winifred Cullis Lecture-Fellowship in 1953, when she came to Great Britain and spent part of June and July and the three months from mid-September to mid-December in a highly successful speaking programme. She lectured in all parts of the country and before the widest possible variety of audiences.

"Her talks were so popular that we appointed her for a second time in 1956 for the summer months of June and July and part of September. In the 30 years during which we have sent lecturers back and forth between our two countries no one has better fulfilled our purpose: to interpret the one people to the other.

"Dr. Parker was always clear, forthright and objective. She was as quick to point out a shortcoming in American life as she was to extol a virtue. Through it all there shone forth a deep belief in her country and its people. Her British listeners—men, women, school boys and girls—caught the contagion of her belief and came to know America better.

"Perhaps her outstanding service to perplexed British audiences lay in her ability to put into perspective the difficult Negro problem, for she saw all sides of this baffling question and was scrupulously fair in her judgments. Thousands of people in all walks of life over here came to regard her as a valued friend. We shall greatly miss her."

Miss Patsy Price, graduate of Lindenwood College:

"News of Dr. Parker's death was a shock, and I am without the ability to express the depth of my sadness. She leaves a heritage which few can claim, and the range of those who loved her is wider than I suppose any of us knows. I thought she was getting along so well!—but then maybe she was. She had been so sick and yet I realized I never considered seriously the thought that she could die—and surely not so prematurely.

"However, in a very certain sense Dr. Parker's death would have been premature had she been 90—one always thinks of the dozens and hundreds of young women who will miss the experience the rest of us have had. Can we imagine how many lives she has influenced? How few of us can go too long without thinking of her?—something she might have said or a certain look for a certain situation? She very seldom spoke to us in class or out without giving us something to think about—her vitality, her love of life, and above all her search for wisdom became a part of every honest student.

"I owe her a great deal—perhaps even more than I am able to know now. How do you say good-bye to someone like Dr. Parker? But then I guess those of us who have gone on have really already said good-bye, though we have taken with us the things she gave so generously. My greatest sorrow is not even for those who will never know her, but for Dr. Parker herself—that she cannot continue to live and work and teach and do all the things she loved that made her life so rewarding. She would want us to trust that she has been taken care of, and to believe that she is content."

Miss Diane Stanley, former student of Lindenwood College:

"Although I am sure you know what countless other students and I feel, I would like in a very humble way to pay tribute to the greatest professor I ever had the privilege of studying under. But Dr. Parker was more than a magnificent teacher who fired her students with enthusiasm and understanding of English literature; she was also a great person—in every sense of the word.

"A sense of immeasurable loss" was brought to colleagues and other friends of Dr. Alice Parker following her death June 22 while en route to Colorado.

The following resolution has been recorded in the minutes of the faculty and in the minutes of the Board of Directors of Lindenwood College in appreciation of Dr. Parker:

"The sudden death of Dr. Alice Parker on June 22, 1961, brought to her colleagues and other friends a sense of immeasurable loss.

"Dr. Parker came to Lindenwood in 1928. She received her B.A. and M.A. degrees from the University of Missouri and studied in various graduate schools during summer sessions. In 1937 she became an Honorary Fellow of Yale University and was awarded the Ph.D. from Yale in 1939.

"Dr. Parker was widely travelled, for she was constantly enlarging the intellectual horizon of a truly inquiring mind. She lived for a year in Paris, teaching in the American High School, and later visited nearly all the European countries as well as South America. On two occasions she held the Winifred Cullis Lecture Fellowship of the British-American Associates and lectured extensively throughout Britain. It had been her hope that after retirement she might live and teach for a year in the Far East.

"Her wide interests are further revealed by the vast number of professional, civic, and philanthropic organizations in which she was active. For two years she was President of the Missouri Division of the American Association of University Women, and twice a delegate to I.F.U.W. conferences abroad. She was the first president of the Lindenwood College chapter of A.A.U.P. She was a contributing member of the Democratic Party and was once a candidate for the state legislature. She was a generous contributor to innumerable worthy causes.

"During the thirty-three years of her teaching at Lindenwood, she was deeply concerned for the welfare of both her colleagues and her students. Always available for consultation and advice, she helped endlessly in the wise solution of problems. As a teacher, she aroused the interest of her students, stirred their imagination, and gave them a real vision of the potentialities of life and scholarship. She was Acting Dean at Lindenwood for a semester and for many years was chairman of the English Department. During her last two years at the college she was engaged in an experiment in television teaching sponsored by the Ford Foundation.

"Dr. Parker's fine art of conversation, her love of people, her broad human understanding and tolerance were so exceptional that any statement concerning her personal influence on the Lindenwood campus must be inadequate."

"I recall her as a teacher whom we loved and studied hard for and, yet, when we got to class and Dr. Parker read and explained things for us, we realized how barely we had scratched the surface of our assignment and how completely she fulfilled our knowledge. Perhaps my most vivid memory was her beautiful reading, with compassion and understanding, of 'My love is like a red, red rose...'

"And I remember Dr. Parker as the wise and kindly philosopher, psychologist and humanitarian as when she told us that when we were married and had children, we should always strive to make the dinner table the center of stimulating, intelligent conversation. Or when she told us about a former student who would accept no responsibility, Dr. Parker had quietly thought to herself, 'The 2:00 a.m. feeding will make another person of that girl.' Lindenwood, her students and alumnae have lost much, but Dr. Parker's memory will endure."

Mildred Davis Jensen (Mrs. Jack E.), former student of Lindenwood:

"Today, in the Lindenwood College Bulletin, I read of the death on June 22 of Dr. Alice Parker. Tonight, as on many other occasions since I left Lindenwood fifteen years ago, I am stirred by memories of her keen perception and powerful personality. I am certain that all who came under Dr. Parker's compelling guidance still feel, as I do, the force of her wisdom and the 'Cleansing Sword' of her critical blue-pencil, as much in our daily appraisal of life as in our first groping attempts at literary expression.

"It is with deep personal sorrow that I now take temporal leave of my dear friend, but with joy and gratitude that I hold throughout my own life the treasures of spirit and mind which she gave to me at Lindenwood."

The Alice Parker Chair of English Literature

Alumnae have been urged to share in the establishment of an endowed Chair to be known as "The Alice Parker Chair of English Literature." Decision to make the appeal was voted at the annual meeting of the Lindenwood College Alumnae Association October 28.

Association officers have expressed hope that the endowment of this Chair will reach $250,000. Gifts to aid in its establishment will be held in the capital funds of the College and the income from the fund will be applied on the salary of the professor who holds this position at Lindenwood.

This professor, it was pointed out, will be identified in the roster of the faculty and in all catalogues as "The Alice Parker Professor of English Literature."

Arthur H. R. Fairchild, former teacher of Alice Parker.

"I sent Alice a Christmas card last year; but I have not seen her for many years, and then only on occasions when I lectured at Lindenwood. It was a privilege to know her and to have some small part in furthering her interests. Despite her modesty, it was easy to discern her merit, a rich and beautiful character, a brilliant mind richly endowed, sensibilities delicate and cultivated, a superior scale of values, an unobtrusive will and effort—all designed for the benefit and happiness of others . . . I can think of no other former student and friend who equalled her, not in ability alone, but in an indefinable gentleness and sweetness in character. I share with your group a sense of irreparable loss."

Miss Kathryn Hankins, Professor Emeritus of Lindenwood College:

"Others will extol the brilliance of her mind, her keen analysis and interpretation of events, her scholarship, and her teaching, but I wish to pay my tribute to her as a person. She was gentle, kind, and compassionate. I have seen her eyes fill with tears when talking about the troubles of a friend. With her gentleness there was great firmness of character. She had strong convictions and upheld them skillfully and vigorously. Whether defending a cause, explaining the beauty of a poem, or just conversing with friends, the words flowed from her lips in rhythmic beauty.

"She was exceedingly generous with her time and her money. No one will ever know how many friends were aided at the time of a financial crisis. No one will ever know how many young people wishing an education were given help and encouragement. She made staunch friends wherever she was, and one could almost trace her journeys, here and abroad, by the friends she left in each place. And these friendships endured.

"She was by nature deeply spiritual, and all her ways and her life seemed to accentuate this. She loved peace, and in sweet discourse always tried to heal the wounds of discord. All of these qualities with which she was so richly blessed, and which she cultivated, are the ones that endeared her to those who were fortunate enough to know her. The memories of them endure, reminding everyone of her gentle, but dynamic personality."

Dr. Elizabeth Dawson, Chairman of the Department of English:

"During all her years at Lindenwood, Alice Parker and I were colleagues and shared the same office as members of the English Department, of which for a number of years Alice served as Chairman. I can, therefore, testify from personal knowledge to her deep sense of responsibility and devotion as a teacher and counsellor of students, as well as her skill in organizing affairs which concerned the department and guiding us in the problems which arose there.

"But it is as a personal friend that I like especially to think of her. I remember our many excursions to plays and concerts and lectures; the books she lent me because she had enjoyed reading them and wanted me to share her pleasure in them; the arguments—often intense but always friendly—which made our dinners together so exciting; our tour through the Scandinavian countries and Switzerland, and southern France—her tremendous interest in all kinds of people and places made her a stimulating companion in our travels together.

"She had a deep concern for all her friends and was always ready to spend her time and energy to help them when they needed help. Time was not important to her when someone appealed to her, whether as student, colleague, or personal friend. We miss her more than we can say."

Mrs. Don W. Pepoon (Marianne Metzger), former student of Lindenwood:

"Naturally it was a great shock to read in the bulletin this morning of her (Dr. Parker's) death. It is hard to associate death with Dr. Parker. She was more alive than any person I have ever known. Curiously enough, I cannot remember too much about the classes I had with Dr. Parker. What I do remember are the hours spent in her office as a student assistant in 1947-48, and the teas in her apartment when she was my student adviser. The atmosphere in both places seemed saturated with good books and love of learning.

"I had always loved to read, but under the influence of Dr. Parker and Dr. Betz this love was directed toward really good books. What they gave me I will have all my life. I know now that I will never write the great, American novel, as I once planned to do, but whether I am giving a book review at a church meeting or have the interest to join a Great Books discussion group this fall, it is because of what I learned at Lindenwood. How I wish I had written this to her instead!"

Lady Margaret d'Arcy, holder of a British American Associates lecture-fellowship to the United States:

"I cannot tell you what a shock your letter was to me and how much I grieve for the passing of our dear friend. She was for me, I think more than anyone I knew, the person who showed me the real heart of America, who taught me the real meaning of international love and friendship, and who taught me also so much about the selflessness of teaching. She was perhaps the most truly good human being I ever met . . . The work she did here (in England) on her various tours was infinitely more valuable than any other lecturer the organization ever had from America and she leaves hundreds of friends here who will never forget her."

Dr. Agnes Sibley, Professor, Department of English:

"Alice Parker looked at life in the manner of Geoffrey Chaucer, one of her great favorites in English literature. That is, she looked at it, even in its most disturbing aspects, without fear. She was truly sophisticated in the best sense of that word—at home in the world and not very much surprised or shocked by what she found there. She had, as Dryden said of Chaucer, 'a most wonderful comprehensive nature,' one that was able to enter imaginatively into the desires and motives of many kinds of people, understanding all of us as human and therefore, somehow, worthy to be loved. And I think that people loved her chiefly because she saw them, not only as they were—in their state of indecision, failure, or striving—but as what they might become. This is, of course, the way in which God sees us. Dr. Parker was one of those people whose lives and conversation reveal to a remarkable degree something of the nature of God."

Alumnae of Achievement

Marjorie Moehlenkamp Finlay's presentation was made by Virginia Ratcliff Trent '52. Nancy Montgomery Orr presented Mary K. Dewey's citation. They follow:

MARY K. DEWEY

"Mr. President, I have the honor to present my classmate, Miss Mary K. Dewey.

"While at Lindenwood Mary K. showed her capabilities as a leader of girls by being active in many phases of campus life, including membership in Alpha Sigma Tau, and being president of the student body. This interest in people and the desire to be an influence for the betterment of humankind is reflected in her profession today.

"She is Co-ordinator of Girls Activities at the four high schools in Blue Island, Illinois. Her work includes planning programs for 2500 girls in addition to serving as advisor to the girls in the junior and senior classes. Prior to this endeavor, she taught Social Science for ten years and was head of the department. She received her B.A. in History and Social Sciences in 1935 at Lindenwood and her M.A. from the University of Illinois in 1942.

"Mary K. has held to her high concept of desiring to help girls develop to their best potentials. She was as beloved by her own class here as she is now by her friends and associates in Illinois. This is clearly indicated by the telegram she has just received: 'You have been our candidate for Alumna of the Year every year. Students and faculty rejoice that Lindenwood College is now so honoring our Mary.' — signed, H. L. Richards, Superintendent of Community High School, Blue Island, Illinois.

"We certainly agree with her own professional colleagues in their estimation of this very warm, very real, and very human Lindenwood woman. This mold of young spirits is the embodiment of Lindenwood ideals.

"Dr. McCluer, it is my privilege to commend Mary Katherine Dewey to you for the Alumnae Certificate of Merit."

MARJORIE MOEHLKAMP FINLAY

"Mr. President, I have the honor to present my friend, Marjorie Moehlenkamp Finlay.

"There was magnificent potential in the 15-year-old vocal student, Marjorie Moehlenkamp, when she first walked into the studio of Miss Pearl Walker.

"Continuing her studies with Miss Walker, Marjorie received a Bachelor of Music Degree from Lindenwood in 1949. Her future training was to be at the Berkshire Music Center in Tanglewood, Mass., and in New York City.

FINLAY

"In the spring of 1952 Marjorie married Robert Finlay. He took his bride to live in Havana, Cuba, and later in several other Central American countries.

"Now in Puerto Rico, Margie Finlay, as she is known professionally, charms and entertains thousands of Puerto Ricans every night via television. She is mistress of ceremonies and singer on a bilingual variety program entitled 'The Pan-American Show.'

"The professional world of entertainment was not new to Margie when she entered television. Before her marriage she was featured soloist with the radio show 'Music With the Girls' heard on both NBC and CBS. She has sung with the Puerto Rico Symphony Orchestra; and in South America she did concert work and played leading roles in many musical productions and light opera.

"Indeed, Margie's brilliant career has brought her fame, success, and fans of all ages.

"In spite of her busy schedule, Margie can often be heard harmonizing with her two young daughters. However, her 'harmonizing' extends far beyond the warm circle of her family—for through her genuineness, warmth, and her 'girl-next-door' manner she is making an enduring contribution to the establishment of better relations between this country and our Central American neighbors.

"In this time of international crisis and world tension, we are especially indebted to Margie Finlay.

"Dr. McCluer, it is a privilege to commend her to you for the Alumnae Certificate of Merit."

The Big Weekend

Alumnae register for Alumnae Weekend activities at Lindenwood.

Unpacking waits while alums enjoy latest news and plans for weekend activities.

Mary K. Dewey, recipient of one of two alumnae awards, is shown in center.

Mary Katherine Dewey and Marjorie Moehlenkamp Finlay were awarded Alumnae Certificates of Merit at Founders' Day Convocation in the College Chapel October 28, held during Alumnae Weekend.

Weekend activities got under way at 10 o'clock Thursday morning, October 26, with the Alumnae Council meeting in the Library Club Room. The college's development program was discussed at that afternoon's session with President McCluer, Development Director Fred H. Doenges and Alumnae President Nancy Montgomery Orr participating.

Friday's activities included alumnae registration in Cobbs Hall lounge followed by luncheon in Ayres Hall. Three seminars were featured that afternoon.

"The Pursuit of Excellence" led by Dr. Agnes Sibley and Dr. McCluer in McCluer Parlor; "What About TV," Martha M. Boyer, Niccolls Lounge; and "Economics for Women," Dr. John B. Moore, Cobbs Parlor.

A student-alumnae coke party in Cobbs Lounge followed the seminars, with the Alumnae Association Dinner at 6 p.m. in Fellowship Hall, Lindenwood Chapel. A musical program in Roemer Auditorium completed Friday's activities.

Saturday's program was begun with registration, followed by Founders' Day Convocation in the Chapel. Nancy Hanschman, CBS-TV news correspondent, delivered the principal address. Luncheon was in Ayres Hall.

Three seminars were held Saturday afternoon: "Trends in the Arts" led by Harry D. Hendren in Sibley Chapel; "International Issues and Problems," Dr. Homer Clevenger, Butler Lounge; and "Attitudes and Morals," Dr. C. Eugene Conover, McCluer Lounge.

Alumnae Association meeting followed the seminars. President and Mrs. McCluer held the President's Reception in McCluer Hall that afternoon. A social hour at the Albert Pick Motel from 7 to 8 p.m. was followed by the dinner dance at the International Room of the motel that evening.

The au revoir breakfast was held Sunday morning in Cobbs Tea Room.

Nancy Hanschman makes a point, but Dr. McCluer is ready with an answer as Nancy Montgomery Orr listens and joins the discussion. Miss Hanschman was principal speaker at Founders' Day Convocation.

The new and past presidents of Alumnae Association, Wilhemina Steinbeck Barton (Mrs. K. K.) and Nancy Montgomery Orr (Mrs. Ander), are shown.

Professor Moore's seminar was in progress when photograph at right was made.

Alumnae Association meeting was held Saturday afternoon of Alumnae Weekend following seminars. Nancy Montgomery Orr presided.

Frances Prill Niemeier, shown in dark dress, was one of 50-year alumnae on campus for weekend.

Professor Clevenger's seminar, "International Issues and Problems," was one of three featured on weekend program.

Patricia Ann Fowler Montross, '41, takes time out from weekend activities to enjoy a visit with her twin daughters, freshmen this year at Lindenwood.

Friday night of the Big Weekend featured the annual Alumnae Association Dinner in Fellowship Hall, Lindenwood Chapel.

WILHELMINA STEINBECK BARTON
(MRS. K.K.) '29, PRESIDENT

Loyalty, leadership, warmth, and wit, combined, spell "Dyke" Barton, more formally known as Mrs. Kenneth K. Barton, who is our new president of the Lindenwood Alumnae Association.

Born in Goderich, Ontario, Canada, March 11, 1908, she came to the United States at the age of two, received her early schooling in the public schools of Kansas City, Kansas, and Kansas City, Missouri. She graduated from Westport High School and continued her education at Lindenwood College.

She has five daughters, a son, and six grandchildren.

The activities filling her happy and productive life include work in various civic, religious, and charitable organizations.

Very dear to her heart are the years "Dyke" has been active in the Kansas City Lindenwood College Club, both as a member and as president. For the past four years she has served on the Lindenwood College Alumnae Council.

The College and the Association are fortunate, indeed, to have an Alumnae Association president whose experience is so varied and whose interest is so sincere.

MARY JEAN DuHADWAY CRAIG
(MRS. GILBERT F.) '41, SECRETARY

The new secretary for the National Alumnae Association is Mary Jean DuHadway Craig (B.A. 1941), who lives with her husband, three sons, and a daughter at 22 Countryside Lane, St. Louis 31, Mo.

Serving Lindenwood is no innovation to the DuHadway family, for Mary Jean was born in Jerseyville, Illinois, to an LC alumna, Cornelia Powell DuHadway, who not only sent her two daughters to her alma mater to graduate but spent several years teaching at Lindenwood after her graduation in 1914.

Active in her church and community, Mary Jean is president of the Board of Deaconesses of Ladue Chapel; vice-president of the St. Louis Lindenwood College Club; and a former member of the Board of Directors of the Ladue Chapel Nursery School.

introducing . . .

—THE NEW COUNCIL MEMBERS —THE NEW OFFICERS

HESTER HAYS CRAWFORD

(Mrs. Joseph H.) '29, term: 1962-64:

"I feel very honored and happy that I have been asked to serve as a Council member, and with our new president's ('Dyke' Barton) guidance in this venture, I will certainly do my very best.

"As for background, I think recalling some of the activities and organizations I have enjoyed through the years would serve the purpose: I am a member of the Second Presbyterian Church, and am active in circle and church work.

"I have enjoyed working in the various committees in the Women's City Club, such as the Women's Exchange, the Forum committee, Membership and Juvenile Court committees, and this year the House committee. Last, but never least, I've enjoyed more than I can say my active work and enduring friendships in our Kansas City Lindenwood College Club."

BARBARA RINGER HAMILL

(Mrs. James C.) '32, term: 1962-64:

"I am pleased and grateful to accept the responsibility of serving on the Alumnae Council of Lindenwood College.

"I am representative of that large group of graduates and former students who have devoted their years since graduation to their families. What success we have achieved in this field reflects upon Lindenwood.

"We are all aware of the changes taking place in our nation and in the world. It is vital to American family life that Christian principles continue to be the foundation in educating the coming generations of young women.

"I shall use the opportunity I have been given to encourage other alumnae to become interested in furthering the Christian concept in education at Lindenwood College."

GERTRUDE ANDERSON HOLM

(Mrs. Elmer C.) '40, term: 1962-64:

"I shall be very happy to serve on the Council of the Alumnae Association of Lindenwood College and will do my best to merit the confidence the nominating committee has in me.

"Not only am I interested in Lindenwood as an alumna, but my daughter, Julie, is in her third year at the college, majoring in Biology. Through her I have become reacquainted with the campus.

"The Alumnae Association has made great strides in the past several years, and I hope that it will continue its pace and that I may in some way help in its progress."

PEGGY CRANE MERIWETHER

(Mrs. John T.) '59, term: 1962-63:

"How thrilled I am with my appointment to the Lindenwood Alumnae Council!

"Since graduation I have worked with a Family Service Agency, studied at the Brown School of Social Work at Washington University in St. Louis, and married John Meriwether (whom I met while at Lindenwood), who is Assistant City Manager of Little Rock. Daniel Crane Meriwether arrived in August, 1961.

"I have always been interested in everything that concerns Lindenwood. Now I am looking forward to taking an active part in the affairs of the College and want to be helpful in every way possible."

MARY KIRCHHERR SHOQUIST

Mary Kirchherr Shoquist, who resides at 7607 Nicollet, Minneapolis, Minn., was unable to respond with letter of acceptance prior to Bulletin publication deadline.

She has accepted her term on the council.

...“very deep appreciation”

Expressing “very deep appreciation” for the honor of naming Lindenwood’s newest building McCluer Hall, Dr. Franc L. McCluer told the record-breaking dedication audience of the “great pride” the occasion brought to him and Mrs. McCluer. Dedication services were held Sunday afternoon, September 24, at 3 p.m. A reception followed in McCluer Hall.

“We are proud that you have given our name to this building, and we are proud to have this name thus associated with the names of those who have done so much for Lindenwood — Sibley and Nicolls, Butler and Roemer, Cobbs and Irwin, Ayres and Stumberg,” he said.

“It also gives us a sense of humility, for we understand thoroughly that any achievement that may make this occasion appropriate is an achievement in which many have shared.

“Members of the Board, colleagues of the faculty and administration, co-workers in varied responsibilities on this campus, students who have been happy, enthusiastic, and serious in their study here—all have contributed greatly to the progress of Lindenwood College.”

Dedication of McCluer Hall marked the first step in Lindenwood’s long-range program of planning for the future, and President McCluer acknowledged the College’s three primary obligations: to see that inquiry is free and unafraid; to maintain high standards of excellence; and to reach for understanding of truth in the context of Christian faith and hope, but not in terms of the creed of a particular group.

“In loyalty to our faith in the usefulness of all knowledge and in the redemptive power of truth, we shall strive to tend the ‘monuments of the spirit.’”

“This is our duty as patriots, our delight as human beings, our reward as worshipers of the Eternal.”

Russell L. Dearmont, chairman of the board of Missouri Pacific Railroad and a member of the board of directors of the College, earlier in the program emphasized the need for strong moral fiber for the preservation of democracy.

Noting the growing number of women entering the work-a-day world, Mr. Dearmont acknowledged the role of women trained for a career yet aware of the necessity of seeing that the influence of the home is not diluted and that moral principles and religious convictions are constantly strengthened.

In addition to President McCluer and Mr. Dearmont, those participating included: Howard I. Young, president of the board of directors; the Rev. W. Davidson McDowell, minister of Ladue Chapel and a member of the board; Dean Donald M. Mackenzie of Lindenwood; Robert R. Wright, contractor; Kenneth E. Wischmeyer, architect; the Rev. W. Sherman Skinner, minister of Second Presbyterian Church and a member of the board; Arthur S. Goodall, a member of the board; Professor Mary Terhune; Robert C. Colson, business manager; Miss Mary F. The new dormitory honors President and Mrs. McCluer “for distinguished service to Lindenwood College beginning August, 1947.” Accommodating 88 students, it was built at a cost of $600,000.

RESTDY OF CURRICULUM

At its regular meeting in December, the Lindenwood College faculty took action calling for a thorough restudy of the curriculum of the College. This action was a formalization of a growing conviction among the faculty that the time has come to take a critical look at the educational program in the light of the tremendous advances that have taken place in the world of scholarship in recent years, as well as the needs of the student in the contemporary world. The last major revision of the Lindenwood curriculum occurred in the 1940's; since then some adjustments have been made from time to time, but the basic pattern has remained the same.

The restudy of the program will get under way at the beginning of the second semester in February and is expected to take about two years to complete. Innovations, however, may be introduced on an experimental basis from time to time in the course of the study so that an improved program will not have to wait until its completion.

Carrying the heavy work of the project will be a small study committee under the leadership of Dean Mackenzie. All members of the faculty, however, will be involved in the work. The College has engaged the services of Dr. Morris Keeton, Associate Dean of Faculty of Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Ohio, who will serve as consultant to the faculty for the project.

Alumnae will be kept informed of progress through the Bulletin.

DEAN MACKENZIE'S READING LIST

Have you longed for a reading list to fill the gap between THEN and NOW???

Dr. Donald M. Mackenzie has made available a Reading List for Lindenwood Alumnae especially prepared by a faculty committee with alumnae interests in mind. The list includes titles of current books, or ones that have come into prominence within the last twenty years, in the areas of the humanities, natural sciences, social sciences, and professional education. They are books the faculty of the College considers important for keeping abreast of modern life and thought. Paperback editions are indicated if they are known to be available.

Please address your request for copies of Dean Mackenzie's Reading List to the Alumnae Office of the College.

Gerald R. Gifford

GIFFORD JOINS ADMINISTRATION

Gerald R. Gifford has joined the administrative staff of Lindenwood College as director of admissions and public relations.

Prior to coming to Lindenwood, Mr. Gifford was midwestern representative for the Tuition Plan, Inc., of New York with offices in Kansas City.

A graduate of Kansas State College of Pittsburg, he holds the bachelor of science and master of science degrees. Prior to his association with Tuition Plan, Inc., he was director of admissions at Colorado Women's College in Denver.

LINDENWOOD APPROVED FOR TRAINING OF RELIGIOUS EDUCATORS

Lindenwood has been notified that its program of preparation for Certified Church Educators has been approved by the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. Graduates in the program were formerly called Assistants in Christian Education.

Lindenwood, therefore, continues to be one of the Presbyterian colleges, now totaling 15, whose programs are approved for the preparation of church educators. Students of various denominations enrolled in this program do field work in churches in St. Charles and in the St. Louis area.

Lindenwood offers scholarships to students needing assistance in preparation for professional work in churches. The course leads to a Bachelor of Arts degree with an interdepartmental major in religious education.

One of the members of the Department of Philosophy and Religion, Assistant Professor Mary Jean Bartholomew, is a professionally trained Director of Christian Education. Many openings for graduates trained to work in churches exist and there are opportunities for further professional preparation in seminaries and universities.

Full information concerning this program can be secured from the Director of Admissions or from the Department of Philosophy and Religion.

'MESSIAH' DECEMBER HIGHLIGHT

Lindenwood College Choir and the male choruses of St. Charles and Missouri School of Mines presented Handel's "Messiah" December 10 in the chapel. Judith Engelhardt, soprano, Nancy McMahan, soprano, and Diane Duncan, contralto, all Lindenwood students, were among the five featured soloists.

EIGHT JOIN FACULTY

Expanding the academic program offered by Lindenwood and replacing personnel who left at the end of last year, eight new faculty members began the academic session last fall.

Churl Suk Kim is teaching primarily advanced math courses; Dr. James F. Hood, four sections of history of civilization plus a series course in modern European history; Mrs. C. H. Alexander, a course in elementary Russian; Miss Darlene J. Bidgley, team sports, golf, tennis, swimming, and trampoline courses; Groff S. Bittner, music; Irving Kaplan, sociology, temporarily replacing Dr. Helen P. Gouldner, on leave this year; Mrs. Marion P. Tyte, creative writing; and Dr. David F. Cox, ethics.

Mrs. Edith Everist, a native of Marshalltown, Ia., has assumed duties as new head resident of Cobbs Hall. Prior to coming to Lindenwood, Mrs. Everist served as hostess at White Sands, a Presbyterian home in La Jolla, California.

MATHEMATICS SYMPOSIUM HELD

Through the courtesy of McDonnell Aircraft Corporation and Monsanto Chemical Company, a Mathematics Symposium was held in Roemer Auditorium on November 2. The general theme of the mathematics in industry." In addition to information presented by the engineers of the company, a film produced by IBM on "The Information Machine" was shown. The increased interest in the study of mathematics at Lindenwood is revealed by an enrollment in math classes of 339 as compared with 54 ten years ago.

'A WEE BIT OF IRELAND'

"A wee bit of Ireland" came to Lindenwood's Library Club Room in December as Marjorie Faeth '61 related her experiences of the last six months as a delegate of the International Farm Youth Exchange.

Dressed in native garb, Margie showed colored slides while she told of Ireland and the many farm families who were her hosts while she hopscotched the country.

I.F.Y.E. sent 100 delegates, most of whom were home economics, agriculture, or education majors, to other parts of the world to help promote international understanding.

"Before we left," Margie said, "we studied hard and took many notes; but on our return, when we stopped at the United Nations, we did the talking."

She observed that the Irish people have many religious and class differences; but after her close association with the youth of the country, she feels that much of this feeling will be alleviated with the passing of another generation. Margie is the second Lindenwood student in the last four years to have the honor of being chosen an I.F.Y.E. delegate.

BETTY ANN COLE VISITS

In early October the students of the Speech Department had the pleasure of visiting with Betty Ann Cole (LC 1945-46) when she was the guest of Miss Martha Boyer, professor in the department. Betty is associate producer of the NBC television program "MEET THE PRESS." She spoke to several classes and met informally for coffee with students for discussion of her activities.

Students considered it a rare privilege to have questions about the nation's and world's outstanding men answered by one who has met them personally.

McCLUER CHAIRMAN OF COUNCIL

Dr. Franc L. McCluer was elected to the newly reorganized Council to The National Presbyterian Church and Center by the General Assembly of the United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A.

Dr. McCluer has since been elected chairman of the Council, thereby making him a member of the Long Range Planning Committee of the General Council of the General Assembly.

Honored at 92nd Birthday Reception

Two are great-granddaughters.

Mrs. Houston W. Johnston, a member of the class of 1889, was honored by the St. Louis Alumnae Club in Clayton Sunday afternoon, November 19, at the home of Gale Faulconer Johnston, her son. The reception was in celebration of her recent 92nd birthday.

Mrs. Johnston, who as Miss Willie Honey attended Lindenwood from 1885 through 1889 when it consisted of a preparatory school and junior college, was presented an Alumnae Award by Virginia Ratcliff Trent, '52. A gold medallion was presented by Dr. F. L. McCluer.

Guests were Lindenwood alumnae, members of the board of directors, faculty, and administrative officers. They were received by Mrs. Johnston, Dr. and Mrs. Franc L. McCluer, Mr. and Mrs. Howard I. Young, and Mrs. John W. Root.

Among those present were six little girls. Two, Emily Rand Johnston and Miriam Rand Johnston, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Gale F. Johnston, Jr., are great-granddaughters of Mrs. Johnston. The others, all daughters of alumnae, were: Deborah Ratcliff Trent, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William F. Trent; Sarah Powel Craig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert F. Craig; Lisa Louise Ritter, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Hubert A. Ritter, and Elizabeth Lynn Root, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John W. Root.

Mrs. Clifford Drozda, Jr., pianist, provided music during the tea. Three alumnae, Mrs. Vera H. Schneider, Mrs. Robert H. Pecha, and Mrs. William M. Whitmire, dressed in costumes fashionable in Mrs. Johnston's school days, formed a tableau. The Choralaires, a singing group of 12 Lindenwood students, gave a vocal program.

Graduating with a diploma in Music, Mrs. Johnston has enjoyed a rich and varied experience, having twice served as enrolling clerk of the Senate of the Arkansas Legislature and later as Dean of Women at Cox College, Atlanta, Ga. After her marriage to Judge Houston Johnston, she lived for many years in Montgomery City, Mo., but enjoyed extensive travel in Europe.

At the refreshment table were Mrs. Robert R. Wright, Mrs. Horton Watkins, Mrs. Arthur Stockstrom, and Mrs. John F. Lilly, members of the board of directors at the college, and Mrs. R. Wesley Mellow and Mrs. Sidney M. Studt, whose husbands are on the board.

Hostesses were: Mrs. Otto C. Hanser, Jr., Mrs. Judd B. Presley, Mrs. J. Richard Young, Mrs. Rufus K. Barton, Jr., Mrs. Joseph W. White, Mrs. Thomas O. Tarrant, Mrs. Raymond A. Rittner, Jr., Mrs. J. M. Magner, Mrs. J. Knox Nimock, Mrs. Robert Gordon Ross, Mrs. J. G. Schreiber, Mrs. Richard W. Cary, Mrs. J. J. Milligan, Mrs. S. Albert Hanser, Mrs. William J. Hey, Mrs. K. B. Coldwater, Mrs. E. M. Wilson, Mrs. Kenneth C. Marshall, Mrs. George C. Queich, Mrs. Cornelius Stueck and Mrs. Hubert A. Ritter.

Two hostesses with Board Chairman Howard I. Young.

Assisting Mrs. Trent with the party were several alumnae: Mrs. John W. Root, president; Mrs. Gilbert F. Craig, first vice-president; Mrs. Carl F. Kottmeier, second vice-president; Mrs. Ritter, recording secretary; Mrs. Schneider, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Stueck, treasurer; and Miss Dorothy Trump.

During the afternoon, Mrs. Johnston took her turn at entertaining the guests. She played the piano and sang "Little Brown Jug."

In costumes of Mrs. Johnston's college days.

CINCINNATI ALUMNAE PARTY

Cincinnati's patio-swim-luncheon, held in the summer at the Hotel Alms, was a delightful event for the alumnae and students who attended and a marvelous testimonial to what 'reactivated' interest and enthusiasm can accomplish. There are eight students from the Cincinnati area at Lindenwood this fall.

The girls now on campus as freshmen especially enjoyed having Mrs. Eve Maile, Admissions Counselor, present at the party.

Alumnae present: Left to right: (seated) Mrs. Howard Sproull—Dorothea Sode-man '15-'19; Mrs. Thomas T. Ware—Elizabeth E. Deming '22; Mrs. Wm. Hutcheson—Vera Langenbacher '45; Miss Eleanor Mansfield '60; Mrs. M. T. Kauman—Franc Irene Coleman '20-'21; Mrs. Earl Solomon—Barbara J. Goldenberg '40-'42.

Back row: (standing) Mrs. Eve Maile—Admissions Counselor; Miss Kathryn Klinker '59-'61; Miss Zilpha Curtin '51-'55.

Theo Dodson Ryan, 602 S. State St., Jerseyville, Ill., was unable to return for the Weekend but wishes to share news of herself with her classmates. She writes, "I read the Lindenwood Bulletin faithfully and am always happy when I see the name of someone from way back when—. I am active in charity and club work, having served as president of our Jerseyville Woman's Club for a two-year term. I was a member of the 20th District Board of the Illinois Federation of Women's Clubs for the past ten years. I am a director on the board of Boys' Town of Illinois. This work I dearly love because it is so worthwhile.

"A few months ago I was made honorary life member of the Junior Woman's Club of Jerseyville and the year before was made Club Mother of Junior Women's Clubs of the 20th District I.F.W.C. Last month I was presented a 50-year membership pin in the Order of Eastern Star Chapter, Jerseyville.

"I often think of my dear classmates and of Lindenwood and have many fond memories which I cherish."

Marguerite Urban Krueger and husband, Arthur, 229 Kerruish Pl., Webster Groves 19, Mo., recently celebrated their golden wedding with a reception at the Henry Shaw residence in Missouri Botanical (Shaw's) garden. They have one daughter and son-in-law and a grandson who is a senior in Kirkwood High School. Marguerite's sister, Lillian Straszer, lives at 1818 E. Robinson St., Orlando, Fla.

Mary E. Barton Ferguson, 25 S. Brunswick, Marshall, Mo., lost her only son January 3. We offer our sympathy.

Lillian Smith Clark, P.O. Box 458, Hesperia, Calif., makes us envious when she writes, "We are moving to the High Desert, among the Joshua trees where the brilliant star-studded sky is so quiet we can hear the tiny flames close for the night. Just semi-retiring—business still in L.A."

1912

Frances Prill Niemeier, 2355 S. Hickory St., Centralia, Ill., was on campus for the Weekend in October. Being the only member of her class present, she sat at the head table and was presented a corsage and an engraved silver tray as a remembrance of the occasion. The following are excerpts from letters written to Frances from her classmates who couldn't be present.

Elizabeth Christy Klossner: "We have recently moved to 154 E. Main Dr., Lansdale, Pa., from New York. I live with my brother, who is retired, and my sister-in-law. I love New York and have such wonderful friends there, but I am near so can go back frequently. I visited the campus in 1957 and was delighted with all the wonderful buildings and the great progress Lindenwood has made."

Leora Davis Davis, 2111 Hyde St., San Francisco 9, Calif.: "Had I realized we were celebrating this year, I would have planned to join you at this time. I went to St. Louis this past July and do not want to make that long trip again so soon. The 34 years my husband was in the Navy, we lived in many interesting parts, Manila, Philippine Islands, Shanghai, and Chefoo, China, Honolulu, and in 1930 we came home around the world.

"Dalton retired from the Navy in 1951 to be appointed as Medical Consultant to the California Disaster Program. In 1959 he retired from the State and we decided to make San Francisco our permanent home. Any time any of my classmates or Lindenwood friends come this way, do look us up. Mary Helen Bar McMullen and I found we were living in the same apartment building, and I recognized her after 40 years.

"We travel each year for several months. We spent seven months in Europe and the Middle East in 1959. In 1960 we went to Mexico for four months, and this past winter we went to Honolulu for Christmas with our son's family, and to meet our first grandson. In January we went to Manila, Hong Kong, and Tokyo, returning home in March. I regret not being among you and wishing each one love and good wishes."

Florence Finger Hamilton, Marissan, Ill.: "We take our vacation in October, and at this time I couldn't say what I can do about going to Lindenwood at the end of the month."

Agnes Adams, 4100 Flad Ave., St. Louis, Mo.: "Thank you so much for your letter reminding me of our class reunion. I really do want so much to go, as ours was such a small class. However, I have missed so many Lindenwood events these last years, as I have had arthritis these last 11 years, and travel is difficult for me. So, God willing, I'll be there. It will be wonderful to see all our old friends once more."

Ruth Parr Grimes, 404 Althea Rd., Clearwater, Fla.: "Doctor and I returned yesterday after having been away almost five months and without our mail for three weeks. I am sorry I cannot be with you all, but we are a bit travel-weary. Please give all the girls my love and best wishes.

"Do I remember correctly in that you, Bess Christie, and I gave our graduating recitals together? Mercedes Weber called on us this past winter and I loved that! Doctor Grimes and I have had a lovely 47 years together—he retired almost 11 years ago, and we came to this lovely spot to live.

"We have traveled quite a bit during these retirement years—we play golf, attend concerts, gamble a bit on the dogs, and play a lot of bridge. I am 50 years older and 25 pounds heavier than in 1912, but I still play the piano, but nothing as difficult as 50 years ago."

Eleanor Asdale Maclay, 3633 Overbrook, Dallas, Texas.: "I regret that because of health reasons I will be unable to attend the Alumnae Weekend. My memories of the Lindenwood I knew almost 50 years ago are among my most treasured ones. To see the progress Lindenwood has made would be so satisfying."

M. Helen West, 209 State St., Quincy, Ill., was retired in June 1960 by the Veterans Administration. She and her sister, who is the mother of Margaret Aloise Bartholomew, '37, returned to Quincy and bought a home in the old part of the city near the Mississippi River.

1915

Elizabeth McCoy Barshfield, Lake of the Forest, Bonner Springs, Kans., is retiring this fall from the Railroad Board in Kansas City. She writes that it is timely for she has eight grandchildren and will welcome some time with them. She has fond memories of the wonderful four years at L.C.!

Mary Dunwoody Dennis (B.M.), 946 E. Delmar, Springfield, Mo., is an active member in the Mental Health Association and Missouri Association for Social Welfare and a case worker since 1937. She writes that she has not been in a position to carry on in the musical field herself but that her only daughter, Joan, is the 2nd Principal of the violin section in the Springfield Symphony. Her four grandchildren are also musically talented.

Marian Titus Ellis (B.M.), 295 Junipero Ave., Long Beach, is a grandmother again. Her son, Bill, and his wife presented her with her sixth granddaughter, Jenifer Anne, May 22. About two weeks earlier her husband, Paul, luckily escaped serious injury in an automobile accident.

1924

Gladys Campbell Billings (B.S.), since her husband's death last year, continues to live at 1809 N. Flagler Dr., Apt. 141, West Palm Beach, Fla., where she finds it pleasant and friendly. This summer she spent two months visiting friends in Frankfort, Germany. She visited the campus last spring.

1926

Irene Wilson Drake, 140½ S. Diamond, Mercer, Pa., writes, "Every girl should have a career to go back to—if necessary." After the sudden death of her husband in 1956, Irene began her present career as Librarian in the Commodore Perry Joint Area School, 16 miles from where she lives. "My college degree and library training came in handy for me when I was left alone," she said.

Eleanor Brown Simpson (B. A.), 319 Reamer Pl., Oberlin, Ohio, visited Trinidad last summer and fall with her professor husband while he was on sabbatical leave. Two of the Simpsons' four children received their Ph.D.'s this year, their daughter in psychology and their son in sociology. Their youngest daughter is a graduate student, and they also have a son who is a freshman in college.

Virginia Walton Brooks (1922-24) and her husband, Berry, spent six weeks last spring traveling around the world. Starting from Seattle March 1, Berry set out for jungle hunting at Saigon, South Vietnam. He had some harrowing experiences with the Vietcongs who were terrorizing the country at that time, in a futile attempt to prevent the re-election of the incumbent President.

Ceylon S. Lewis, M.D., was one of five physicians from First Presbyterian Church of Tulsa, Oklahoma, who volunteered to give six weeks of their time to work and teach in the Miraj Medical Center, at Miraj, India, a rural community 300 miles southeast of Bombay.

The hospital at Miraj was established in 1890 by a Presbyterian medical missionary. It is composed of three units, totaling about 800 beds, and has four medical missionaries and twenty-five Indian physicians serving a widespread area around Miraj.

Dr. Lewis and the others who volunteered worked with the medical missionaries and the medical doctors in working with Indian patients and taught up-to-date techniques. Dr. Lewis' chief responsibility was in the field of heart catheterization, a process by which blood is taken from different parts of the heart and tested. It is essential to all open heart surgery and is new in India. The equipment was sent over to the hospital from this country, and Dr. Lewis set up the laboratory.

Mrs. Lewis (Marguerite Dearmont, former President of the Lindenwood College Alumnae Association) accompanied Dr. Lewis to India as a "working wife." She studied for several months at St. John's Hospital in Tulsa, learning to operate the equipment necessary for the testing process. Mrs. Lewis assisted her husband in training assistants in the hospital.

Dr. and Mrs. Lewis are to be congratulated as good will ambassadors of the United States and as Christians, who are devoted to the welfare of the "children of men."

Mrs. Lewis writes with enthusiasm about their experiences:

"Our experiences here in India are wonderful! Each day brings new sights and new knowledge to us. Burr's medical teaching is being very well received (they call him 'The Famous Heart Specialist from the States!') and our reasons for coming are well understood by the Indian people. We have learned to love the people here. In spite of their terrible poverty, the filth, and the lack of sanitation, they have an innate kindness and goodness which Americans could well copy. Their pride in their new nation is tremendous, and we are constantly on guard to praise, not criticize, them.

"Rather than teaching Christianity by our work, we are learning vivid lessons of faith from the Indian Christians who face great discrimination here. Along with the first doctor who preceded us here, we feel we are accomplishing our mission. We have brought renewed courage to the missionaries, and not only medical knowledge but Christian witness and the spirit of America to the Indians. We are both busy speaking before various groups in this area and in conducting morning chapel and church services. For the next week we will tour mission hospitals in a 100 mile area."

Virginia, who traveled the globe last year with her daughter and also is a veteran of two African Big Game Hunting and Photographic Expeditions, went on to Bangkok, followed by a number of firsts for her travel log of all 50 states and 80 countries of the world. They returned in April to Epping Forest Manor, 3661 James Rd., Memphis 8, Tenn.

Minnie Seip Christensen (1924-26), 1375 W. 2nd Ave., Columbus, O., is a busy homemaker with many outside activities and interests. Her daughter Carol is married and lives in Worcester, Mass. Her son John won a scholarship to Harvard and is a junior there this year.
