Remember~

Remember

REMEMBER THE DAYS YOU'VE SPENT HERE,
REMEMBER WHEN YOU'RE AWAY,
REMEMBER THE FRIENDS YOU'VE MADE HERE
AND DON'T FORGET TO COME BACK SOME DAY,
REMEMBER THE OLD TRADITIONS AND PROMISE TO BE TRUE,
FOR YOU ALL BELONG TO LINDENWOOD, AND LINDENWOOD BELONGS TO YOU!

Your Campus

Lindenwood of Yesteryear

DINK and blue bonnets parade to the church, Dignified teachers suppress eyes that search, Forty young ladies attend Bible Class, Etiquette's proper for each little lass, Sibley Society meets with "decor," Vital discussions are held from the floor— ("Could gentlemen come to visit us here?") This was our Lindenwood of yesteryear.

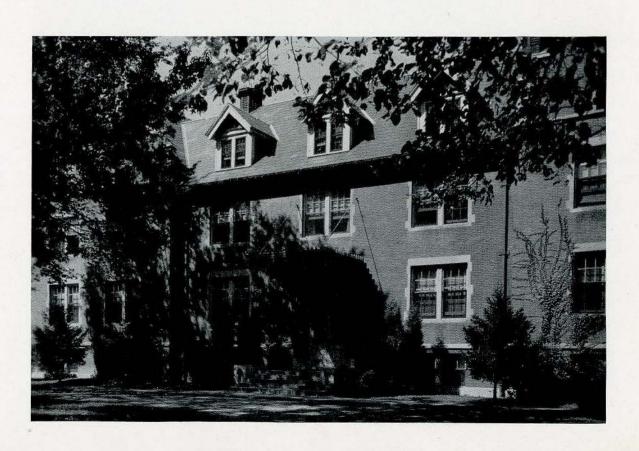

The old school . . . Art class . . . Sunday afternoon . . . The ${\tt gymnasium}$

Lindenwood of Today

Teas in the Club Room, with candles' bright flames,
Bonfires with smoke trailing up to the sky,
Trips to the city, week-ends that fly,
Cokes in the Tea Room, swings on the lawn,
Study all night, tests in the dawn,
Songs in the dining room, hard work and play—
This is our Lindenwood living today.

Your Leaders

With understanding day by day,
Who patiently and wisely guided,
As honest knowledge you provided,
We give our thanks for work well done,
For tolerant ideas won—
And comradeship we've had with you
Will be a cherished memory too.

elected classmates who tried us, judged us, sentenced us. We would have it no other way. For through them, we are judging and guiding ourselves; thus, Lindenwood is, more than ever, our own democratic institution.

The council contributes to our memory book the "checkers" at convoes and chapels, the "news" of the Tuesday Student-body Meetings with old-favorite school songs, Thanksgiving Day's "George White's Scandals" at the Strand, Christmas gifts to the L. C. family, and a "bangup" spring party.

We are grateful indeed to these cooperative members of our student body who provide representation for us in the official administration of Lindenwood. Their job is one which demands responsibility, tact, and intelligence; and we believe that they are well chosen for it.

nights have been gay because of the Council's Bingo Party and Treasure Hunt. The burden of finals was lightened by the daily fun hours sponsored by this group. Who could forget the free movies they provided, or the "Whipped Cream"—that miraculous all-school dance?

The Council is our very considerate "go-between." It is our means of mutual understanding with the Student Council and personnel office, and it provides house meetings which assist us with on-the-spot announcements of important campus activity.

Christian Association. The emphasis here is on religion in the student's life—how it may help her to find solutions to her problems and to the world's problems.

The Association chose the theme "A World to Build," and forums, lectures, and panels brought out such ideas as: "Can I make the personal adjustments required of me?", "What will my duties be in this post-war world as a student?", and "What must our relationship be with other nations in order to secure lasting peace?" Dr. Fred Mc-Kinney, Professor of Psychology at the University of Missouri, Dr. Charles Crowe of Centennial Methodist Church, St. Louis, Mr. Krishnayga from India, Judge Scott of the St. Louis Juvenile Court, and Rabbi Gorden of St. Louis spoke to us and helped to answer these questions.

Markham Memorial was again our special project, and at Christmas, dolls, clothing, and games were brought by students and placed around the tree in Roemer Hall. Offerings collected at Thanksgiving and Easter vespers were mailed to the World Student Service Fund.

Your Friendships

You and I as we sat on the grass,
And stared at the stars in a dark velvet sky
And kept asking each other the old question, "Why?"—
Remember the way that we loved and we hated,
The sorrows and joys that seemed equally fated?
As pages unfold, we'll remember and see
What Lindenwood meant to you and to me.

mentalize. We look forward eagerly to the new eras—marriage or careers—in an anything-can-happen post-war world. We want to take our place there as a responsible, concerned citizenry. Yet we are anxious to remember this brief past in which we struggled through adolescent trials into more maturity and more wisdom.

In our minds, we run the gamut of outstanding events of four years. We quaked with the usual Freshman fear at entrance exams. In the glow of our

Halloween Court we felt a new class pride at this our first "affair." With the accomplishment of a "top-the-goal" bond drive we experienced the excitement of practical achievement. We cheered real professionals when we saw the Giants play the Cardinals in St. Louis. The glamor and pageantry of the Ice Capades set us tingling. A new feeling of our own importance was acquired in our hobnobbing at the Soph-Senior picnic, but we were soon put in our proper places by the culture tests! With new eagerness and zest, born of our recent arrival into upperclassmen ranks, we planned the Junior-Senior banquet, and soon, conscious now that we were "near the top," we were hostesses at a

Freshman Theater party. The Junior-Senior test awed us, frightened us—but we made it. The dinner-dance given by the Juniors on the campus will be long remembered. Election of our own May Queen at our own May Fete was a Senior prerogative justly and earnestly won. The spring carnival revealed our ever-present sense of fun and frolic. The faculty party convinced us of the dignitaries' sense of humor. Our skip-day with its special 6:30 bus to St. Louis and a Park Plaza breakfast was a privileged diversion. Our Class Day told the whole story of past and present. Commencement brought the crowning glory—the beginning and the end.

The past has been good. We have, so far, "made the grade." Make way! We're ready for that next hurdle!

Ilke to be able to hang on to it. No longer are we underclass students struggling through our formative period, nor, on the other hand, have we attained that hallowed state of SENIOR when responsibilities fall "thick and fast." Yet, we bask in honors and prestige and enjoy the privileges of "near-Seniors."

Many ideas floated around concerning plans to entertain our freshmen sisters. We finally decided to go all out and have a fun-party to which the girls came dressed as "Surrey with the Fringe on the Top," "Into Each Life Some Rain Must Fall," and" Heigh-ho, Heigh-ho"—you guessed it, a song title masquerade!

This year we cast off the remnants of the influence of the war years at Lindenwood, and planned a successful Junior-Senior prom on campus with all the trimmings of pastel formals, men, and excellent food.

Class activities. These girls, who represent all class members, suggest the Sophomore action. Having emerged from the freshman year, the better for experience, the use of the council as a reflector of class opinion is increased.

Through the agency of the council, come the sprightly innovations—such as that gala St. Pat's dance, given in March for the sister Senior class—peculiar to the Sophomore student.

into the college routine in September. We looked around about us, discovered each other—a case of "the same boat"—and quickly made fast friends. Here we were "college gals" at last! The gay round of "get acquainted" activities the first week, the dawning light of understanding concerning classrooms and teachers, the Friday night frolics, the Strand, and St. Louis—all were challenges to Freshman vim and vigor.

The first outstanding event we sponsored was our sophisticated Halloween Party with its stage show and court of beauties. Then came our first dance—formals, decorations, and a new orchestra proved our delight. When our "adjustment period" was deemed sufficient, we were allowed to elect officers. Many good times together all through the year were climaxed with a gay picnic for our sister class, the Juniors.

After a year of bumps and knocks, good times and new friends, we feel that we have known the worst and the best, that we have adapted ourselves to the college environment, and that the next few years, in comparison, will be (to put it in undignified freshman lingo) a "cinch"!

Freshman Council

Third row: Bush, Gilliatt, Benjamin, M. Turner, F. C. Jones, B. Bland, Gross, Creamer

THAT all-important, impressionable, first year, the Freshmen strive for, and need a unity through leadership. Theirs is a new world, and an intelligent self-guidance is eagerly sought. The election of the Freshman Council is, therefore, the important time of decision.

These representatives of the Freshman Class, elected to the council to serve as executive officials, make the plans for the year's social program, work out class projects with the Freshman sponsor, and provide an important intermediary service between the class members and their officers.

definite choices yet to be made, no feeling of a need to conform as literally as Freshmen do. This has been our year of gay security, and we feel certain there will never be another quite like it—we shall always treasure our memories of this year.

Remember, we say remember, the Sophomore Snow Ball in December with Dick Radford's Band and that intriguing snow ball glittering in the center of the floor—and how we trudged through the falling snow to carol Christmas cheer to the halls—the warm, contented feeling after the cocoa and companionship in the tea room. Remember the party we gave in the spring for our sister class, the Seniors. And don't forget the holding of the daisy chain for the May Queen, traditional duty of Sophomores. The end of the year left memories of two happy years at Lindenwood, and anticipation of two more.

Your Organizations

To solve weighty problems our ambition reaches,
Creative endeavor and practical arts—
In organizations we all take our parts.
Our triumph is reached when we're given a pin
To an honor society that we would win:
For Lindenwood girls the clubs point a way
To serious thinking and frolicsome play.

EINDENWOOD recognizes proudly ten seniors, selected on the basis of character, scholarship, leadership in extracurricular activities, potential usefulness to business and society as new members of the national WHO'S WHO AMONG STUDENTS IN AMERICAN UNIVERSITIES AND COLLEGES. This publication serves as an incentive to students, as a compensation, as a standard of measurement, and as a recommendation to the business world.

The busy lives of these students include extracurricular activities that range from membership and leadership in departmental, and social, and honorary organizations to lone speech making, special project work, and the winning of awards and scholarships.

This year's Who's Who members are: Joan Emons, Caroline Gillette, Harriet Hudson, Peggy King, Montelle Moore, Emma Lee Morgan, Eileen Murphy, Virginia Moehlenkamp, Mary Ann Parker, Virginia Rozyskie.

TLPHA PSI OMEGA, the National Honor Dramatic Sorority, enlarged its ranks during the year by two initiation ceremonies. This sorority is responsible for the general interest in dramatic activities on our campus, and it sponsors plays that are cast from the entire student body as well as those acted by the members themselves. Such recent productions as "And Then Came Spring" and "Icebound" are reminders of our dramatic department's capabilities.

The members investigated the new picnic grounds behind the tea room soon after school opened. Here, in informal manner, they laughed over happy summer experiences and outlined plans for the year's new plays and Little Theatre activities. In April, the sorority gave a tea for the faculty and for all girls enrolled in the speech courses or in private speech lessons. After each initiation program, the new members were given a special dinner party in their honor.

SLPHA SIGMA TAU offers to students the highest scholastic honor of the college—Lindenwood's reward for high accomplishment and purpose. Students eligible for membership in this organization are recognized as leaders in creative academic pursuits on campus. Students and faculty alike are proud of them.

The Alpha Sigma Tau members were privileged this year to hear stimulating talks by Dr. Alice Gipson, who spoke on the current production of The Winter's Tale; Miss Juliet McCrory, who told us of current Broadway productions coming to the St. Louis stage; and Mr. Henry C. Turk, who discussed the importance of foreign language teaching in the modern world. The annual Christmas box was sent to the School of the Ozarks; an inspiring vesper program was presented; and the Commencement season was highlighted by AST's Baccalaureate Tea.

Dinner in St. Louis and a picnic at the ovens provided interesting social occasions for the club members.

In addition to the national honorary fraternity, there is Delta Phi Delta, local and honorary, for freshmen and sophomore applied music majors, and for all students majoring in Public School Music. Our Christmas party was a gay round of piñatas, Mexican Christmas carols, and fritos. The spring's Pan American celebration brought a speaker from the Pan American Council.

The program for the second semester initiation featured two interesting personalities. Señor Ricardo Juliao, Spanish instructor from Colombia, South America, gave an interesting speech in which he pointed out the similarities of people and customs in Colombia and the United States. FEW OF us will forget the intriguing odors rising to class rooms from Roemer's Kitchens, ably "sponsored" by members of the Home "Ec" Club.

In pursuit of the culinary arts, these members started their year with a candle light initiatory ceremony and a tea; soon came the gala Christmas breakfast decorated and prepared to a chef's perfection; the Valentine party provided another occasion for a display of artistic cookery; Easter eggs were dyed brightly and artistically for the Markham Memorial children. At the close of the year there was a dinner in honor of graduating majors.

Along with these gastronomic feats, came speakers telling of opportunities in the Home Economics fields, and the fostering of international goodwill by contacts with students of other nations through the Foreign Fellowship Fund.

in paint, clay, chalk, and charcoal to our heart's content under the casual direction of these honorary art students? With a cupcake in one hand and charcoal in the other, students and professors from every department were found in deepest discussion over the highlights on an eggplant. Often, while sipping a coke in the Tea Room, we glanced and noticed an interesting still life or a vivid portrait provided by members of Kappa Pi. Teapots glistened in the candlelight as faculty members chatted with the artists at an early spring tea. Description of the position of the national music society, is the highest honor that a Lindenwood music student can achieve. The fall tea in combination with Delta Phi Delta inaugurated the society's program for the year. The De Soto Hotel in St. Louis was the scene of a November meeting with the St. Louis chapters, celebrating Founder's Day. An enjoyable program included a speech by Harriette Hudson and violin solos by Miss Isidor. Guest artists on campus this year were informally entertained by Mu Phi Epsilon after their programs. These occasions provided Lindenwood's music students with interesting opportunities to know famous artists as real people instead of merely admiring their professional abilities. The entire student body appreciated the annual Vesper program in April at which Mu Phi members established a real mood of worship through their artistic performances.

THE MEMBERS of Pi Alpha Delta are actively interested in the lives of the ancient Greeks and Romans. They love to dwell upon the days of circuses and forums—to delve into the tales of Cicero, Homer, and Horace. Their interesting discussions at the club meetings helped to bring about an understanding of the classics—and provide a chance for those who love the tales of the ancients to meet others similarly interested. All those who have made three hours of S in Latin, and those who have five hours of S in the classics are eligible for this society of classicists. Students find that the cultural and historical background available through this organization's activities provides valuable correlation with many of their courses.

Remember that lively party at the beginning of the year when everyone took the names of characters from various books? All the students of mythology, Greek civilization, Latin poetry and prose came and grouped themselves around the tables according to their books. Our annual tea held in May—or Maius, as the Romans would have called it—was attended by the members and their friends.

THE DIGNIFIED purpose of Pi Gamma Mu, national social science fraternity, is the promotion of understanding of the social sciences and their application to human problems.

This year the organization waived its annual tea and used the funds so acquired to send food to a French family whose husband and father had died in a German prison camp. In return came many enlightening letters describing conditions in Paris.

Illuminating talks were given by Dr. Schaper on the Navy, by Mr. Clayton on the United Nations Organization, by Dr. L. L. Bernard on the role of the social sciences in promoting peace, and an impressive display of war trophies from Europe and the Orient was presented.

dents to the campus community post war activities. Remember how these girls carried on after peace came by sending gifts to the wounded and continuing classes in first aid, camp and hospital counseling, and water safety? Nurses aides, capped last year, went right on working in the St. Charles hospital, and here at Lindenwood, when the flu epidemic appeared, Dr. Schaper said they were invaluable. In this emergency they rose to meet the crisis and showed their techniques as professionals to the credit of their instructors. We recall, too, all the grateful letters from the U. S. S. Lindenwood, the gifts prepared for Jefferson Barracks, and finally the spring drive when every girl donated to the Red Cross—making Lindenwood again one-hundred per cent active! Lindenwood realizes again in peace time that Red Cross can never diminish its efforts.

CGIDDIAP! Remember those early morning rides in the crisp air with eyes still blinking away the sleep, those wispy moonlight rides making horse and rider feel as one in a unity of beauty?

Lindenwood's young equestrians experience their first thrills of horsemanship in "the ring" and then are graduated to cross-country jaunts and the real business of practicing for intramurals, and exciting horse shows. L. C. top-notch form was in evidence again this year and the college was proud of Beta Chi's participation in the St. Louis Spring Horse Show and of their good showing in intercollegiate competition. In the spring, the different halls have a chance to compete in riding intramurals and ended the year with our own College Horse Show.

EIPPING the radio dial to KFUO on Saturday mornings has become a regular habit with Lindenwood, as well as with the children of this area. Not a fan dares miss the exciting and amusing adventures in "Flowerland" or of the "Bunnies of Flufftail Town" which we L. C. air-wave artists produce. Radio memories include for us not only our mental gymnastics as we tried to make the plots come out right in script-writing, but also our more active broadcasting rehearsals for just the right character, voice or sound effect.

Remember that mad Saturday morning dash to Clayton—(how huge the studio seemed at first!) icy fingers fumble with fluttering script pages—tense moments—the red light flicks—our own theme song—we're on the air!

After the Christmas holidays our radio department moved into its new studio in the Fine Arts Building. In this authentic atmosphere we proudly learned to monitor an entire program, manipulate the new-mixing panel, and cut records.

CSOME OF our loveliest hours at Lindenwood have been spent listening to our robed choir at our Vespers.

In keeping with the Christmas spirit the choir presented the traditional carols and Handel's "Messiah". In the early spring these singers were featured in a broadcast on KFUO. During the second semester, the choir participated in the services of various churches in St. Louis. Our own Easter season here at Lindenwood was celebrated by the choir's cantata. Then, of course, there was the St. Patrick's Day tea for faculty and administration, and as a fitting climax to a full year's work, the exhibarating trip to Forest Park Highlands.

THESE sisters, daughters, nieces, and cousins of past students carry forward the pattern of yesterday's Lindenwood, remembering its cherished traditions, bringing the old dignity to the new.

SEHOLD in your mind's eye the Future Teachers—those ambitious, serious young ladies who set out joyously in busses one crisp autumn morning for the state teachers' convention in St. Louis, where they were fascinated by exhibits and pertinent speeches by famous men; these are the girls whose faces we see huddled behind the N. E. A. magazine; they who discuss seriously at their meetings how to individualize the curriculum and how to treat the problem child; who, this year did substitute work in the local public schools when regular teachers were absent; who sponsored two prominent educators on campus as speakers.

Each of the fifty-three girls is a member of the National Education Association and the Missouri State Teachers Association which keeps them in touch with their future occupation. Through this organization the students benefit from practical experience in teaching and learn to work together in a democratic way on the problems of American education in these times.

As we look back, we again feel the school spirit aroused by the band at the first hockey game of the season; its martial music that helped build up the War Bond Rally; and the big thrill that was in store for the student body when the dance orchestra with an entertaining floor show sponsored the Punch Bowl, a "night club" dance given November 30. The dance orchestra melodies provide smooth background for many cherished memories: the Halloween dance, the Thanksgiving Dinner, the Junior-Freshman party; while the symphonic band performed impressive processionals and recessionals at the May Fete. The four major concerts of the year presented both the symphony orchestra and band with featured soloists chosen by competition from students of music.

The Instrumental Association with its sixty members has the necessary verve, dash, and aplomb to keep campus musical activities in a high key.

the problems arising between nations. This year, especially, it was concerned with the far-reaching problem of permanent world peace. With the U. N. O. in its initial stages, we of Lindenwood's first "atomic year" found ourselves vitally involved with the responsibilities of alert citizens of the world.

We listened with interest to Mr. Turk's account of his business experiences in Latin America. We pondered over the discussion led by Dr. Clevenger or problems facing the U. N. O. Panels brought to us by the international relations and Latin America history classes were stimulating experiences. A highlight in the club's program was its sponsorship of Miss Claire Lindgren of the University of Minnesota, president of the National Federalist Association, who spoke to us on the part students can play in promoting world federation. International Relations programs helped us realize at each meeting the vision needed for a life beyond the secure confines of Lindenwood's campus.

OUR YEAR began with the League's introducing itself to new students at an autumn tea for the Lindenwood Family. The year's program included panel discussions that brought forth excellent audience participation on the problems of the poll tax, the United States and the atomic bomb, the development of the United Nations Organization, and the relationship between voter and legislator.

Remember National Citizenship Day when all twenty-one-year-olds took the oath at the League vespers? Remember how freshmen swelled the ranks of the League and how its membership excelled every other voluntary organization? The League, with its theme of more efficient participatation of women in national and world affairs, did its part locally in the extracurricular campus life.

Linden Bark

Sponsor MR. CHARLES CLAYTON

THE LINDEN BARK went to press in its 1945-46 editions with a first-class rating from the American Collegiate Association. A new face was achieved by a shift in the size of type to provide for more space and better reading.

Those stimulating features: "Hall of Fame," "All Bark and No Bite," "Freshman Diary," "Bark Barometer"—the "campus informers"—still carried the Bark appeal for campus readers.

Spring brought the Romeo contest in which the absent male stole the show. April Fool's Day, with its Linden Bark Extra, gave the startling "inside dope" on faculty members. With the war over, the Bark's editorial policy is now directed toward the lasting peace.

Which will present through years your pleasant recollections of campus life. We would offer you not only memories of inspiring lectures, serious volumes, philosophic discussions, but also of your coke and cigarette in the Tea Room, the snowbanks, the campus' green reaches, the extracurricular honors, fun parties, and creative projects. We want this book to bring you happy hours, re-living the Lindenwood scene in its entirety.

We sponsored our Popularity Court in February and elected Joan Emons as our queen, Mary Swilley and Caroline Gillette as maids of honor, and ten attending upperclassmen.

The Staff of Linden Leaves extends its appreciation to Mr. Bassman of Mid-State Printing Co., to Mr. McClarey of Jahn & Ollier Engraving Co., to Mr. Kister of Kister Studio, to Murillo Studio, and last, but far from least, to Miss Isaacs, our sponsor, and to Miss Albrecht and Miss Davis for their practical advice.

THE POETRY SOCIETY memories recall first an unusual chapel skit in verse to recruit members. This resulted in a general hum of minds and pens busily at work with inspirations; excellent poems were turned in, and the judges announced the best of all—"Autumn," by Jane Morrisey.

Meeting hours were spent in reading student poetry with interesting discussion of verse technicalities. The spring tea, attended by students and faculty, celebrated that season of unfailing inspiration for the poetic genius, and the picnic at Blanchette Park held in true poet's fashion, brought to a conclusion our happy, fruitful year.

berserk members of the Press Club. The scribblers, artists, and flash-bulb fanatics who labor to meet deadlines on the Linden Bark and Linden Leaves, get together to pool opinions, swap journalistic yarns, and to learn new techniques from experienced journalists. The Lindenwood student who best applies the techniques is awarded a prize at the end of the year. There is a zest and flavor about this group that is distinctly individual. It revealed itself again in the club's annual Gridiron Dinner—by now a Lindenwood classic—with its theme, "Slime Slides On", uncovering secret idiosyncrasies of faculty members and students. In its inquisitive "behind the scenes" tour of the working of the St. Louis Globe Democrat, members stared in awe at the giant presses and saw the complicated mechanism of a large newspaper.

TEMORIES of Tau Sigma present a fantasy of graceful rippling forms, rapid whirls, and flying leaps of dancers who have held the attention of Lindenwood audiences throughout the year. These girls are furthering their interest in ballet, tap, toe, and modern dance and have banded together to perfect their technique and create new dance compositions. Remember that first wonderful recital—"Twas the Night before Christmas"—when dolls, clowns, and jack-in-the-boxes came to life and the Spirit of Christmas danced before our eyes? Many parties during the year were honored to include members of this organization on their programs. Long, grueling rehearsals every Tuesday were justified by the climax of Tau Sigma's achievement—the dances dedicated to the May Queen, when filmy figures frolicked before her majesty and the court.

FTEN envious land-lubbers have watched the members of this honorary aquatic society knife the water in eel-like movements, but never so eagerly as during Terrapin's Hit Parade of 1946, an original water ballet of synchronized swimming to the hit tunes of "Fishing for the Moon," "Blue Danube," "Night and Day," "Moonlight Becomes You." A novel feature was an underwater formation of electrically lighted swimmers.

Other activities of Terrapin this year included attendance at the N. S. W. A. Telegraphic Meet at Washington University and at a local meet sponsored by Monticello College. It was Terrapin, also, who provided us with lifeguards and instructors for "open pool," who sponsored the Athletic Association's swimming intramurals by planning events, preparing rules, acting as judges. Through this kind of program, Terrapin's members gain sportsmanship, fellowship, and high swimming efficiency.

THE LINDEN LEAVES STAFF

Do You Know a Better Way TO PRODUCE YEARBOOKS?

 $I_{\rm N}$ most cases the yearbook staff is entirely new to the work ahead of it. Yet the part-time editorial and business staff has a more technical and complicated task than most full-time publication organizations.

To meet this problem, can you think of a better way to aid a yearbook staff in its work than by our service program, as outlined below?

- (1) Let the staff take the leadership and give full play to its own ideas, thus developing journalistic and business initiative.
- (2) Provide the necessary technical advice on printing and binding (and secondarily on photography and engraving).
- (3) Give guidance on planning and maintaining a budget, and on editorial policy and practice.
- (4) Provide a forthright informational service for faculty and student committee, including frequent personal conferences.
- (5) Let the staff benefit from our experience of more than a quarter of a century of printing, binding and production of college yearbooks.

GIVE YOUR YEARBOOK the advantage of our services. Many of the same individuals who handled the yearbooks of your fathers' and mothers' college years are still here to give your book the benefit of their experience. Above all, however, we appreciate the importance of keeping "out in front" of the trends and developments of the present.
