J. A. BROWN BECOMES L.C.'S 15th PRESIDENT

by Linda Jinkerson and Nancy Nemece

Lindenwood College is centered in this term for liberal arts, began Dr. C. D. Linton, dean of The George Washington University. Dr. Linton was delivering an address at the presidential inauguration of John A. Brown, jr., Thurs., Oct. 20.

He went on to define this term by saying the purpose of liberal arts is to transmit from one generation to the next and to enrich and extend it. A liberal arts education not only deals with paintings, drama, and music, but is also concerned with the skill ability power to perform.

Keeping in mind the effect of a liberal arts education on the generation, Dr. Linton spoke next on civilization. He stated that civilization is a condition of the mind and that biological aims cannot carry culture. The primary concern of a liberal arts college is to civilize each generation, helped by the home and church.

Dr Linton felt that one must know what and how, before knowing why. He went on to quote Carl Sandburg as saying, "All of us are reaching out for lights beyond . . ."

The role of women is to maintain humane values and understand principles, said Dr. Linton at the conclusion of his speech. Lindenwood College, as a women's institution, is dedicated to producing a state of mind, for society is unified by common goals and ideals. The road will be rocky and difficult at times, but you will never set foot in a direction aimed straighter.

Induction of Pres.

Dr. Franc L. McCluer, president emeritus, presented Mr. Brown to the assembly: "We honor him for what he is, a liberating fever in higher education." John M. Black, president of board of directors, then asked, one by one, the presidential party, the faculty, the student body, the delegates from universities and colleges, and guests, to rise. Mr. Black installed Pres. Brown and presented him with a document, officially making him president of Lindenwood College.

Rev. W. D. McDowell, board of directors, said the prayer of dedication.

Inaugural Address

"We sense a mood of high hope and great expectations." Vast problems challenge us; at a liberal arts college we are concerned with the improvement of man's environment and particularly with man. These were Pres. Brown's opening remarks.

"A liberal arts college must be a place of action," he said. There must be a reviewing of old ideas and beliefs; youth is impatient and demanding. Mr. Brown suggested faculty and students step over the barriers of teaching and learning and teach each other.

The new president suggested the need for teachers who stimulate and are dedicated to the goals of the college. But they require a student body worth teaching.

Our program for action will be made clear for those who accept it. The college must be more than a high school revisited. Some questions may (Cont'd pg 3)

LINDENWOOD COLLEGE, St. Charles, Mo. Monday, October 24, 1966

MISSOURI - KANSAS NSA CONFERENCE HERE

The Missouri-Kansas region of the National Student Association is meeting on the L.C. campus Oct. 28-30 for their regional conference. Kati Ward, a junior in Sibley, is NSA regional chairman coordinating the conference, and Sandee Starr, a junior in Parker, is NSA coordinator handling L.C. participation in the conference. Approximately 100 delegates are expected on campus from such schools as Westminster, Washington University, and Tabor College.

Among these delegates will be some of the leaders of NSA. Rose Ann Alderson, former president of the student body at Maryville, is head of the Student Government Information Center of NSA. She will lead the seminar on student services which includes student education travel, student discounts, and Polback Papers (political background pamphlets).

Steve Parliament, past president of the student body at Redlands University in California, is in charge of the seminar on the Initiation of On-Campus Educational Reform Programs. This discussion deals with promoting reform in curriculum and student participation in college administration.

The topic of the third seminar is the Development of an Educational Reform Program. This seminar is designed to help those campuses which have already started a student-participation movement in curriculum and administrative policy.

A $2.50 fee is required from any girl who wishes to participate. When asked about the conference Sandee Starr said, "Some dynamic student leaders will be on campus, and a tremendous opportunity presents itself for every L.C. girl to get to meet them and find out what is happening on other campuses."

GHOST CHASE, MIXER PLANNED

An all-school Halloween mixer will be held Oct. 29, in Butler gym. The freshmen will decorate the gym for this occasion, and the band will be the Continentals. Invitations will go out to Washington University, St. Louis University, Rolla, and other area schools. Regional delegates to the N.S.A. conference have also been invited to attend the mixer. The dress will be school clothes.

The annual tradition of chasing Mrs. Sibley's ghost will be held Monday, Oct. 31, at 7:30. A bonfire will be built on back campus at 7:00. The students will then wait for Mrs. Sibley's ghost to appear from the graveyard on back campus, and chase her to Sibley's chapel, where she will play the organ.

Halloween refreshments will be served after the chase in Butler gym. A Jean-supper will precede the ghost chase.

Tornado Hits Lindenwood Campus

The tornado that hit the Lindenwood College campus Oct. 14 at 10 p.m. damaged two buildings and several trees and caused a three-hour electrical power failure. The path of the storm was from the south to the southeast. Damage extended from the Alumni Gates to the hockey field. No one was reported injured.

Two glass doors on the south side of Parker Hall's recreation room were blown in and broken. Rain covered most of the floor area and the furniture was blown to the north side of the room.

The utility building, housing nursery equipment, was torn from its foundation and shattered, though none of the equipment was harmed.

The electricity went off at 10:10 p.m. All four sub-stations on campus were disconnected, checked, and reconnected. After torn limbs were removed from power lines, the electricity was turned back on at 1:10 a.m.

Two large trees, one behind Irwin Hall and another on Butler Way, were uprooted. Nineteen more were damaged. They will be trimmed and the wounds painted with pine tar.

The ladder on the water reservoir tower was demolished and an archery target was pulled from the ground.

One of Lindenwood's largest Linden trees was uprooted Friday night, October 14, by tornadic winds.

Immediately following the storm, Mr. Charles Bushnell, Supervisor of Plant Operations and Maintenance, the campus firemen, an auxiliary policeman, and the two night watchmen were joined by 30-40 students who helped them clear the streets of debris and open down spouts on the buildings.

TIGER IN OUR TANK

We have put a tiger in our tank, as Dr. Linton would say, and with this tiger has come a surge of power and ideas which, when Lindenwood's student body arrived in September, was unleashed and has been growing throughout this college community, ever since.

John A. Brown, who was inaugurated as Lindenwood's president, Thursday, has influenced the entire college with his ability and eagerness to improve; with his know how as a tiger.

We, as students, have begun to surge. Everywhere we turn, a new outgrowth of ideas has begun, a new love for Lindenwood has started.

Several campus clubs have undergone changes and improvements. SCA's cabinet voted to change the organization's name to SEA (Student Ecumenical Association). NSA is offering more opportunities, both in financial matters and in club help, for Lindenwood. KCLC is going FM. The French Club has regular lunch tables during the school week where students converse in French with their professors.

Students individually have initiated new happenings on campus. The sculpture house behind Sibley will soon be a small coffee house where students may watch and present short plays, recitations, and songs. This was suggested by some of the drama students. When the dining service was not up to par, students formed a committee to discuss the matter—and many changes came about as a result of it.

Faculty members too, have been influenced and are surging. They have become more involved with the outside teaching of students. They have given after-school lectures and participated on panels organized by student clubs. They have begun to communicate with the students, just as the students have begun to communicate with Lindenwood.

President Brown has told us time and again, "This is your school." And since it IS our school, we should be responsible for it and for what happens to it. An administrator said this year, "You are adults, and have a voice . . ." So let's shout. If not for ourselves, for those young women who will come to LC in later years.

Lindenwood has a new president—and with him a new look. This new look can be cut and shaped to style only, by those who truly want to make it Lindenwood.

To the Sophomore Class:

What will the Sophomore Class do? It will be itself. With a cabinet to give it form and life (one elected, one appointed member from each dorm) it will pull itself together to be sensitive to its environment — Lindenwood College. As a strong group it will carry out its responsibility to itself, the other classes, and the administration. It must give — discriminating, constructive "Go-Go"; examining our curriculum, working with NSA and contributing to the new Drama Workshop and Coffee House. Dr. Brown captured our spirit — "Come Alive!" As president of our class, I ask you one question: Shall we?

Virginia Wolf,
Sophomore Class President

No BB & CS

In answer to the letter to the editor printed in the October 10 issue, we would like to give our reasons for dropping "Bangles and Beaus" and "Campus Scenes."

We feel "Bangles and Beaus" was unnecessary, for friends and acquaintances of a lavaliered student would eventually learn of it, and those who did not know the student would care less. "Campus Scenes" was strictly gossip, and only the very well aware could catch the humor of it.

Also, both of these columns were marked as trivia when the BARK was rated by ACP (American College Press).

However, we welcome any suggestions and ideas from the student body.

To the Junior Class:

I am very happy and proud to have been elected president of the Junior Class.

A Junior Cabinet has been organized. The cabinet consists of the officers of the Junior Class and representatives from each dormitory and from the Day Students. Its purpose is to provide greater communication with all students of our class. We plan a year of greater communication with the members of our sister class, the freshmen. Also, at the top of the list, is raising money to build up our treasury.

With the help and support of the entire junior class, I am sure we can make this year one to remember.

be answered sooner than you think. Planning will lead to new structures and we will be deliberate and hopefully not slow.

If we extend to young men in the upper division the opportunity to study at Lindenwood as science majors, we would make certain no young woman equally qualified would be denied.

Pres. Brown also commented on Lindenwood as affiliated with the Presbyterian Church. As a church related college, the church is with us to inspire and motivate, not to restrict.

In the concluding portion of his address Mr. Brown said, "It is a thrilling thing to work with youth."

290 Delegates

The academic procession, consisting of 290 delegates from universities and colleges, of learned societies and associations, of the Lindenwood College faculty, and the president's party, was led by the Lindenwood College Choir. Members of the president's party were John A. Brown, John M. Black, Calvin D. Linton, Franc L. McCluer, Rev. W. Sherman Skinner, Rev. George E. Sweazey, Susan Burns, and Rev. W. Davidson McDowell.

Other members of the president's party were Mrs. James C. Hamill, Homer Clevenger, Rev. Theodore A. Gill, Rev. C. Eugene Conover, Rev. Edward J. Drummond, Henry Vogt, William L. Hungate, and Arthur S. Goodall.

Following the invocation and the welcome by Mr. Black, the Lindenwood College Choir, under the direction of Mr. David Mulbury, Lindenwood's music director, sang "Jubilate Deo, in C," the text coming from Psalm 100.

After the inaugural ceremonies and recessional, a reception was held in McCluer Hall.

Student Role Discussed

Rev. T. A. Gill, World Council of Churches, compared European, Latin American, and American educational systems as to who was "IT," at the universities and colleges. He was speaking on "The Role of the Student," at a faculty student convocation held inauguration day morning.

In Europe the professors are held in highest regards; in Latin America the students practically govern themselves, while in the U.S. the administration is the institution.

"You hail a new president who will take a new whack at what he has," Rev. Gill said. New orders will feature commonality; everyone involved is responsible for the whole shebang.

He continued by saying there must be mutuality: no one side choosing responsibility for the whole enterprise. An ideal president has academic instincts and no academic ambition.

As his final point, Rev. Gill said, "The world is where you have to be. You have to see what's going on; you can't stay in the dorm."

Following Rev. Gill's speech, four student leaders from Lindenwood and three area schools also spoke on "The Role of the Student."

Guerin Walsh, from St. Louis U., told the students to get a sense of identity. "See what is worthwhile in ourselves." We must strive to be excellent as an individual.

Eldon Silverman, from Washington U., spoke to the faculty and the adults in the audience by saying we have enthusiasm, but lack maturity to act. "You are our guide, be our light and you will be our legacy. Let us be citizens of today."

The third student speaker was James Morton, from Westminster College. He stated that at his school, each year they are given more voice and an opportunity to assume leadership roles. "The opportunity to mature is possible only through participation."

Susan Burns, Lindenwood's student body president, began, "Students today are alive. They have the right to speak out and must be heard." Students learn through experience; but they must be able to experiment with their ideas. "If given adult responsibilities, students will act mature."

An elaborate buffet luncheon was served in Butler Gym and Ayres dining room for students, faculty, delegates, and guests, following the convocation.

J. A. Brown Speaks to Parents

Parents' Day Buffet Candid

At the conclusion of his speech Parents' Day, Pres. Brown stifled the rumor of a men's college on back campus in co-ordination with Lindenwood, by saying a committee has been formed which is now studying such possibilities, but at present, no definite decision has been made.

Pres. John A. Brown, introduced by Susan Burns, president of the student body, as "the dynamic force on our campus," was the main speaker at the Parents' Day convocation, Sat. Oct. 15. He dwelled on the purpose of the college and the student. Mr. Brown said we are here to learn, regardless of color, age, political and religious beliefs and that "we need young people yearning for action."

Mr. Brown feels that in a college this size, students need to be dealt with individually and motivated to work their full capacity. He went on to say that, "As president of this college, I intend to try and find a new role for the faculty and students."

A word of appreciation to both the parents and students of Lindenwood College concluded Pres. Brown's address.

Susan Burns gave the welcome at the convocation, followed by Dr. Howard A. Barnett, chairman of the English dept., who expressed greetings from the faculty. The Lindenwood College Choralaires then sang three love songs, under the direction of Mr. David Mulbury, Lindenwood's music director.

Parents' Day began with registration and a coffee hour in the residence halls and day student room.

A luncheon for mothers and daughters and women of the faculty, administration, and staff was then held in Ayres dining room, while the fathers of students, and men of the faculty, administration and staff had a luncheon and Fathers' Club meeting in Fellowship Hall.

The academic departments and administrative offices were open for parents to meet both faculty and administrative members. Tours of the Science Hall were conducted.

A buffet dinner was held in Butler gym and Ayres dining room. After the dinner, the president held an open house in his home for parents and students.

Beta Chi, Lindenwood's riding club, presented a horse show at the stables on Oct. 15 at 2:30 p.m. as part of Parents' Day activities. The exhibitions included demonstrations of hunt seat, saddle seat, and stock seat and a square dance on horseback.

The girls who participated in the horse show were Amy Beckett, Barbara Clausen, Cooky DeLott, Sherri Dennis, Kathy Drake, Sally Gordon, Betty Gwinner, Sally Heyer, and Jean Kirts.

Other participants were Karen Mueller, Sally Nield, Sally Quillian, Lynn Russell, Elizabeth Smith, Vickie Smith, and Molly Twyman. Mrs. Edith Everist, Cobbs head resident, did the calling for the square dance.

CAMPUS CLUBS

GOP Forming Workshop

Lindenwood's Young Republican Club will organize a Missouri College Young Republican Summer Workshop. Pat Ruth is in charge of the project which was adopted at the club's meeting Oct. 12 at 7 p.m.

Lindenwood had the largest delegation present at the 13-state-wide CYR Midwest Executive Board Meeting Oct. 7-8 at the Chase - Park Plaza Hotel. Those attending were Linda Firestone, Kay Kirkland, Mary Boyer, Pat Ruth, Polly Sowa, Paige Graening, Vicki Schulz, and Gail Slemmer.

Eight members attended a banquet for Oklahoma Governor Henry Bellman and polled and canvassed areas in Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 14-16. They are Sandy Proskovec, Terry Shumate, Vicki Schulz, Polly Sowa, Kathy Swiers, Val Sanford, Karen Kunkle, and Liliane Meier.

Beta Chi members have attended three horse shows this fall. Those who have won ribbons are Cookie DeLott, Kathy Drake, Jean Kirts, Lynn Russell and Sara Russell. Sally Quillian won first place in the 13-17 Novice Equitation in the Diabetic Show and second place in the same class in Palmer's Show. Mrs. Fern Bittner, the club's sponsor and equitation instructor at Lindenwood, won a second and third place in the Ladies' Five-Gaited class.

Thirty-five Beta Chi members and riding class members attended the American Royal Horse Show in Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 21-23. Martha Law, Sally Quillian and Jan Warden showed their own horses.

Patricia Cravens was elected as president of the Philosophy Club. Other officers are Sandra Starr, vice president; Jean Cameron, secretary; Judy Wycoff and Carol Bollinger, publicity chairmen.

The next club meeting will be Nov. 7, at 7 p.m. Place and type of program will be announced later on posters and in bulletins.

A "French table" has been reserved in Ayres Dining Room every Monday through Friday for luncheon. Only French is spoken during the meal. Students with above elementary proficiency signed up to participate. This practice began Oct. 3 and will continue through the year.

Dr. Thomas Doherty is host at the table on Tuesdays and Mrs. Rosemary Thomas is hostess on Thursdays. Both Dr. Doherty and Mrs. Thomas are instructors in the Modern Language Department. Evelyn Rey and Erna Schumacher, both teachers' aides in the department, serve as hostesses on the remaining days.

A sign-up chart for November will be posted outside the Modern Languages offices in the terrace level of Roemer Hall.

PAC Political Rally Slated for Oct. 25

by Diane Carithers

PAC

HURRY, HURRY — sample the PAC products for Oct/Nov while they last! A big herd of L.C. elephants and mules will rally Oct. 25, 7:30 p.m. in Young auditorium. Distinguished Missouri representatives of both major parties will define the county offices up for election this November. This rally is to educate and stimulate interest in the coming vote. A reception held in Young Lounge afterwards will be sponsored by the Young Republicans. Are you working to support your party? Drop a note to Sue Emmick (D), or Vicki Schulz (R) — they need your help!

In advance of the November Vietnam Forum to which everyone is invited to come and participate, PAC has "adopted" Company D, of the U.S. Army's 84th Engineers Battalion stationed in Vietnam. The members of Company D are from the St. Charles area and would like very much to hear from you. Introductory letters are being assembled for bulk shipment. If you would like to write a serviceman and do your part to keep up his morale please contact your dorm representative NOW. 200 MEN NEED YOU! And remember for your own special serviceman: Christmas packages overseas should be mailed by Nov. 10.

Because public reflection is always needed to improve a community, PAC here introduces its COMMENDS, DE-

PLORES, AND ALERT bulletin, in hopes that it will serve to measure how far from or towards our goals we, as a community, travel.

PAC COMMENDS

- * the spirited entries of campus thought on the Opinion Board each week.
- * the positive compliance with honorary, required attendance at student assemblies.
- * the progressive decision on the part of the Fathers' Club concerning the stables.
- * the enthusiasm for all WRA activities and sporting events — let's see even more!

PAC DEPLORES

- * the thoughtless messes left at T-hole tables.
- * the juvenile noise preceding chapels and vespers.
- * students who "study" all day behind closed minds.
- * the great campus thinkers who refuse to share their "mental treasures" and solutions with the rest of this community.

PAC ALERTS

- * If you were jostled and ignored at the Oct. 20 inauguration, please understand it was only a result of the limited facilities.
- * Look into your week's schedule — is there not just one or two hours free SOMEWHERE that you could donate to the honorable work of the Salvation Army? Or would you prefer to shirk the "painful" responsibilities of civic pride? If not, contact Linda Mandeville.

SEA PANEL PRESENTS 'ROLE OF THE STUDENT'

"The Role of the Student" was the topic of the SEA discussion session Oct. 13 at 7:30 p.m. in Young Lounge. Our visiting play director, Karen Johnson; sociology professor, Robert G. Schmidt; and Reverend William Myers of Trinity Episcopal Church made up the panel moderated by Linda Mandeville, president of SEA.

The opening comments were directed to the change in student attitude from that of the forties. The panel felt that today's students are much more demanding of their professors. Since it is becoming easier to obtain a college education, the panelists indicated that the role of the student seems to be defining the role of the student.

Dr. Schmidt brought out the necessity of student-teacher cooperation if education is to be really successful. Students commented on their own experiences in the classroom where this situation did not exist.

Every student has to make some adjustment to a teacher's methods of communication.

Their conclusion was that since the role of the student must be discovered by each student individually, it is found in the search for identity through education. This, then, is the role of the student, and it is an ever-active process.

Name Change

The cabinet of SCA announced that Student Ecumenical Association (SEA) would become its new name. The reason for the change is based on a realistic view of the religious representation on campus which spans most faiths and denominations on an organizational basis and a varied format of beliefs on an individual basis. The change of name is intended to express a concern that SEA can serve more effectively to provide an opportunity for dialogue between students of all religious commitments.

'ALBA' NOV. 11-12

guest director Karen Johnson

The House of Bernarda Alba by Federico Garcia Lorca, a Spanish poet and playwright, will be the only play presented by the drama department this semester.

Miss Karen Johnson, the guest director for this production, is an actress and playwright whose play, The Indiscretion of the Meatpacker's Daughter, recently opened at the Playwright's Place in New York.

The main theme of The House of Bernarda Alba centers around the frustrations of a family of women without men trying to uphold the aristocratic conception of honor of a dying era. "The play is one of unusual power and poetic imagery, and is the culmination of Lorca's folk tragedies." Miss Johnson has already had several rehearsals with the cast of 23, and many more are being planned before the open dress rehearsal on Thursday, Nov.

10 and the presentation of the play on Nov. 11 and 12 at 8:30 in Roemer Auditorium.

When asked how she thought the play was coming along Miss Johnson stated, "just fine, and we should be getting into the second act before long." Work has already begun on the "fantastic set," and the actual costume making will begin soon. Both the set and costumes are being made by L.C. girls not in the play.

The cast for the play is:

Dorms, DS Elect Officers

Election of Dorm Officers was held three weeks ago. Nicolls did not elect officers.

Ayres Hall chose Jean Cameron, president; Diane Carithers, vice president; Jill Simmons, secretary; Pat Bartock, treasurer; Louise Hallworth and Polly Sowa, Student Council representatives; Joy Kruse, Sounding Board representative; and Kathleen Gaffney, Social Council representative.

Cobbs Hall elected Pat Junegers, president; Jane Weigang, vice-president; Paige Schroeder, secretary; Mary Lou Tyne, treasurer; Carol Schaffner and Sally Kettlekamp, Student Council; Jane Seck, Sounding Board; and Molly Hazen, Social Council.

Butler Hall elected Cooky Ewing, president; Linda Beall, vice-president; Candy Buss, secretary; Penny Harrison, treasurer; Stephanie Missel and Vicki Lowe, Student Council; Kay Anderson, Sounding Board; and Loretta Thompson, Social Council.

McCluer Hall officers are Jane Winkelman, president; Susie Garrigues, vice-president; Jane Atwood, secretary; Nancy Lawson, treasurer; Molly Twyman and Rebecca Thaler, Student Council; and Charlotte

Carter, Social Council.

Parker Hall elected Diane Kennedy, president; Sandy Proskovec, vice-president; Val Steinbock, secretary; Cissy Swearingen, treasurer; Winslow Fairleigh and Wendy Poole, Student Council; Anne Miller, Sounding Board; and Joyce Baxley, Social Council.

Officers of Sibley Hall are Judy Prowse, president; Kay Geithman, vice-president; Elaine Frankton, secretary; Sara Henryson, treasurer; Jane Campbell and Paula Yount, Student Council; Susan Emmick, Sounding Board; and Donna Burgess, Social Council.

Ursula Oeri & Jane Passage Compare U.S. to Home

by Susan Matlock

Basel is a small village in the north of Switzerland and the home of 20-year-old Ursula Oeri, presently a student at Lindenwood. She intends to major in either art or journalism and is a member of the LINDEN BARK photography staff.

Ursula enjoys skiing. Her eyes lit up with enthusiasm when describing her pleasure in skimming down a steep mountain side. Ursula is no stranger to mountain climbing, either, and believes that getting up there is half the fun.

The Swiss, says Ursula, are very individualistic people. Unlike the average American who tends to conform to an urban way of life, the natives of Switzerland take pride in their differences. In fact, the population is so heterogeneous that all written instructions directed toward the public are translated into three different languages.

The young people marry much later than Americans. The typical Swiss miss isn't nearly as obsessed with visions of matrimonial security as her American counterpart. An engagement is considered almost as final as the marriage itself, and, once announced, an engagement is rarely broken.

On leaving Switzerland she was supplied with numerous bits of advice. For example: The best way to learn English is to speak with a wad of chewing gum in your mouth. After all, that's the way the Americans do it.

"I'm sorry to disillusion you, but the only snakes I ever saw were in cages," confessed Jane Passage, who comes to L.C. from her temporary home in Grahamstown, South Africa.

When Mr. Passage, employed by General Motors, learned that he and his family would be moving to South Africa, Jane, who was born in Buffalo, N.Y., and her mother eagerly pored over an outdated travel pamphlet on the country. It mentioned that nylons could not be purchased there. So, they left the States with enough nylons to outfit a centipede.

There is no television, but everyone listens to the radio and records instead. Cricket and Rugby take the place of baseball and football for there is a strong English influence throughout the country.

People of Jane's age often hold what is called a Kaif Krawl (the first word probably taken from the word cafe) these parties take place at the local answer to our Tea Hole, where everyone can eat and dance as they wish.

Still Africa is Africa. In the parks one watches bands of monkeys being fed, and a fat Boa Bab tree spreads its branches in the open landscape.

Jane came to the United States in order to study Spanish which isn't taught in South Africa. When she graduates she would like to teach or work as an interpreter in another country.

Susan Brown 'Seventeen Model'

Susan Brown, a freshman, has been selected by "Seventeen" magazine's fashion board to model Thermo-Jac sportswear in its Dec., 1966 issue. Susan's picture was entered in the Thermo-Jac modeling contest when she was a sales clerk at Farris-Fremont, a women's specialty shop in her home town, Fremont, Neb.

The week of Sept. 26, she modeled ski outfits at the Grove Co. in St. Louis for the "Seventeen" assignment. During the week, Susan and two other models were given a tour of the company, attended sales meetings, and were asked to design a Thermo-Jac hotline department. The girls designed a small department which could be installed easily in any store. After this idea comes out the girls will be taken to several states to help promote the sales of Thermo-Jac sportswear.

"It was a great opportunity," said Susan, who is considering majoring in merchandising. She is sure that this experience will help her in future years.

classes choose '66-'67 officers

Pam Reynolds was elected president of the junior class and Virginia Wolf was elected president of the sophomore class on Oct. 12.

Pam, an elementary education major, wants the junior class to sponsor a mixer and, perhaps, adopt a class ring or stationery. Other junior class officers are Mary Ann Perkowski, vice-president; Linda Van Landingham, secretary; Carol Schaffner, treasurer; and Marti Connolly, Student Council representative.

Virginia (Ginny) is an English and business administration major who wants to see the sophomore class help the entire school through its activities. Other sophomore class officers are Kathleen Gaffney, vice-president; Sally Cranstoun, secretary; Suzanne Johnson, treasurer; and Lauren Ewing, Student Council representative.

Faculty Recital Nov. 2

On Wednesday, Nov. 2, a faculty recital will be presented by the members of the Music Department. The "Sonata in F Major, Opus 24" by Beethoven and the "Sonata in A Major, Opus 13" by Faure will be performed by Mrs. Christine C. Conover on the violin and Dr. John B. Little, chairman of the department, at the piano. Mr. Joseph C. Robbins will sing four arias from "The Seasons" by Hayden. He will be accompanied by Mr. Weber.

The performance will be in the Fine Arts Parlor at 8:15 p.m.

Parker Hall is opening its doors on Tuesday, Nov. 8, to the faculty, administration, and their families for an Open House. There will be guided tours through the dorm from 7 to 8 p.m. and following this there will be entertainment in the form of skits. Refreshments will be served.

Miss Mary Lichliter, Dean of Students, was Lindenwood's representative to the inauguration of Dr. Ruth Adams, as president of Wellesley Womens College in Wellesley, Massachusetts, on Oct. 14. Miss Lichliter is a graduate of Wellesley.

The 130 delegates and others who attended the inauguration, heard Howard Jones speak, and also listened to a speech by tape, given by the past president of Wellesley, Margaret Clapp. Miss Clapp is now in India at the Lady Doak College.

Miss Lichliter describes the event as being a perfect day. She had the opportunity to visit former professors, and to have lunch in the dormitory where she lived for three years.

Lindenwood will host the Oct. 29 meeting of Pi Mu Epsilon National Honor Mathematics Fraternity. Members of the fraternity from Lindenwood are Barbara Blackmore, Diana Wittenborn Keys, Kathleen Kirby, and Pamela Koehl.

Besides Lindenwood, Fontbonne, Maryville, Parks, St. Louis U., and Webster will be represented. Lindenwood does not have a separate chapter but belongs through the Missouri Gamma chapter at St. Louis University.

Mrs. Jack Brizius and some of her staff attended the national conference of the Association of College Admissions Counselors at the Washington Hilton Hotel, Washington D. C. on October 5-8. 1800 colleges and high school admissions officials met.

Featured speakers were Sister Jacqueline Grennan, president of Webster College and Dr. Richard T. Frost, director of the Upward Bound program of the Office of Economic Opportunity.

Future trips by Mrs. Brizius include the annual meeting of the College Entrance Examination Board and College Scholarship Service Assembly October 25, 26 in New York. This will include a visit and tour of the Educational Testing Service Conference Center facilities in Princeton, N. J.

The Home Economics department will be discontinued after this year. This decision was made by the administration and faculty at an Oct. 5 faculty meeting. An estimation to see if the department could be upgraded was made. $125,000 would be necessary to bring it up to the accepted level of Missouri, besides the need of two more teachers.

Dr. Marion Dawson and the members of her Trees and Shrubs class took a field trip to Pere Marquette in Alton, Illinois, Sat., Oct. 22. This trip is taken each year as a requirement for the course. Dr. Mary Talbot and several biology majors were invited to join them. After a picnic lunch on the bluffs overlooking the Illinois River, the group split up. Dr. Dawson's class observed the variety of trees and shrubs in the area while those accompanied by Dr. Talbot searched for wildlife. The group left Lindenwood immediately after breakfast and returned in time for dinner.

Probability and Stastics and Complex Variables are the new mathematical courses being offered this year. Also, a mathematical proficiency examination is given to incoming students. A passing grade on this exam will fulfill the six hour requirement. Mr. Robert Murdock, head of the mathematics department, included that this exam is given to encourage independent study.

Schultz - Ewing Give Recital

Lindenwood's first student recital of the year featured two piano students, Lyn K. Schultz and Lauren Ewing. Lauren, a sophomore, began the program with "Intermezzo in A major" by Brahms. Lyn, a junior, performed Beethoven's "Concerto No. 3 in C minor." Dr. John B. Little, chairman of the Music Department, accompanied Lyn at the second piano. Both girls are students in Dr. Little's piano class.

The recital was held in Sibley Chapel Tuesday, Oct. 18.

The English department has decided to dedicate fifty-two books from the library of Dr. Alice Parker, former English professor, to the Lindenwood library. These books are being given to benefit the students of Lindenwood. Nine of these books are The Annotator, Alan Keen; The Court and The Castle, Rebecca West; Shakespeare's Problem Plays, E.M.W. Tillyard; Razzle Dazzle, William Saroyan; The Shaping Spirit, William Van O'Connor; Swindlers and Rogues in French Drama, Hilda Norman; English Printed Books, Francis Meynell; Chaucer's Troilus, Thomas Kirby; The Tragic Drama of the Greeks, A.E. Haigh.

There is a clock now hanging in the Book Store.

The Educational Policies Committee instructed the Dean and the Registrar to experiment with a six-day, rather than a five-day, final exam period. This was precipitated by a number of girls who could not take the exams at the scheduled time because doing so would give them three exams in one day. This was reported at the Faculty Meeting on Oct. 5.
