Large in Achievement, But Small Enough for the Best Individual Attention

“a Young Woman of TODAY

v v

UNDENIABLY smart in appearance . . .
thoroughly self-reliant and with a definite objective ahead of her, she takes her purposeful way
. . . the Young Woman of Today. True, she bears resemblance to those who have gone before her in bygone years but only slightly. Her ideas of style
. . . her knowledge of the world in general and above all her potential value in the world of this day are distinctly of a new and wonderful generation ”

Lindenwood College Begins Her Second Century

Orientation Course Will Help All Freshmen with Vocational Advice

By Alice E. Gipson, Ph. D.

A hundred years have passed since a school for girls—a strange thing in those days—was founded in St. Charles. For a century this school has stood, a really potent influence in the education of women in the Middle West. It has had periods of prosperity and periods of depression. Once a great war closed its doors for a few years, but always it has kept its standard of contributing to the highest type of education which could be given to the girls of its time. It has been a boarding school for girls of all ages; it has been a Junior College and now for almost a decade, it has been a Senior College for women—the only one of its size in the entire State of Missouri. Here and there, scattered all over the country, are girls intimately acquainted with the college, are women who are living broader and finer lives because of what Lindenwood College has, at some time, done for them.

With this record in mind, it is fitting that at the beginning of its second century of existence we should plan to make a still greater and finer Lindenwood. Greater not in the sense of vying with other schools for numbers, regardless of standards or the type of the student which the college admits, but greater in the sense of an appreciation of the value of each girl as an individual and her right to realize through her college experience the best that is in her, spiritually, intellectually, socially, physically. With this in mind Lindenwood College this coming year is going to offer increased opportunities to girls to enable them to do this very thing.

An orientation course is to be given to the Freshmen in the first semester, which should be of great value to each girl in enabling her to adjust herself to the life of the college. She will be given that instruction in the best methods of study which far too many students leaving the secondary school are ignorant of; will be shown the use of the college library, knowledge that will be of value to her through all her college life; she will be given a series of lectures on the question of personal hygiene so that if she does not follow the way to physical health it will not be because she is ignorant of it; she will be given a series of lectures by specialists in each field in regard to vocations that are open to women and the present day opportunities in them; she will be given a broad course in contemporary civilization, which will acquaint her with the best that has been thought and done in the past and in the present, and which should, therefore, give her some sense of values for the future.

The plan for Lindenwood College in this next year also includes more formal attention to vocational advice to students. The college recognizes that a student should not merely gain knowledge in education, but that her native abilities should be uncovered, and direction given to them so that when she leaves college she will be enabled to take in the society of her time the highest place possible for her. A record will be kept of each girl's achievements before she came to college and of what she accomplishes while she is in college. Interviews will be held with each girl, her course of study carefully reviewed to see that she is taking the work for which she seems best fitted, and advice will be given her in regard to the opportunities in any field in which she declares herself to be interested. A permanent record can thus be kept of each student throughout her college life, and this should be of real value to her when she completes her college course.

Psychological tests are also to be given to each new student in order that there may be revealed by this means, native ability which does not always appear in the classroom. This is especially valuable in the case of the somewhat shy girl who takes a longer period of time to adapt herself to the new life which is hers when she comes to college.

These are some of the things which should make Lindenwood College the type of school which parents are looking for if they wish their daughters really to be educated—in the truest sense of the word. Here each girl will be an entity—not submerged in numbers, as so often happens in schools of great size. She will receive classroom instruction in comparatively small classes with personal aid from her instructors; she will have unusual opportunities to show her ability in athletics; she will have the chance to belong to several honor societies, some of them national, which Lindenwood College has on its campus; she will be instructed in the best methods of adjusting herself to college life; she will be advised as to the work for which she is best fitted when she leaves the college.

A school which endeavors to do these things for girls should not be considered a luxury, for it affords to parents an opportunity to place their daughter in an institution where there will be offered to her, if she will take it, a chance to realize the finest and broadest possibilities which she possesses.

Sports

Perhaps one of the most interesting phases of college life is recreation.

Students at Lindenwood engage heartily in hockey, swimming, basket ball, posture, golf, tennis, hiking, all indoor gymnasium sports and dancing.

Student Activities at Lindenwood

Alpha Sigma Tau —
