AYERS COMES BACK TO LIFE

The building that Andrew Carnegie helped Lindenwood President George Ayres complete in 1907 is once again open to provide additional housing for a capacity student population. Ayres-Jubilee Hall was built because there were too many ladies, 117, to house in Sibley. The College was in desperate need of more space. George Ayres travelled east in 1906 and asked the famous Mr. Carnegie to help. Mr. Carnegie told Dr. Ayres that he would give the school $10,000 if he would raise the other $30,000 necessary to complete the project.

Ayres was used as the first all-male dorm on campus. It housed the "fabulous first fifteen" men when Lindenwood became a co-ed college in the late 60s. At that time, a male effigy was burned in front of the dorm. NBC Vice President, Frank Accarrino ('73) lived in Ayres in the 70s while courting his Lindenwood alumna wife, Leslie Volz ('72).

Eighty-five years after its construction, Lindenwood President Dennis Spellmann has rallied the Lindenwood family to renovate and reopen Ayres Hall to accommodate a record number of resident students. Ayres is a microcosm of Lindenwood. It represents the traditional all-female past, the co-educational present, and future growth.

AYRES-JUBILEE REVISITED

ALUMNI REUNION 1991 WILL BE A TIME WHEN ALUMS CAN REVISIT A CAMPUS THAT IS ONCE AGAIN COMPLETE. A dormitory is a place where dreams are made, friendships are created that last a lifetime, and where teenagers grow into adults. Revisit Ayres Hall and recapture those feelings of youth, excitement and friendship. Visit the room you shared with your best college friend, where you shared secrets, or perhaps played bridge in the parlor until 1 a.m. The memories are here to share, and we ask those of you who made them happen to be a part of Reunion 1991.

100 YEAR OLD ALUMNA REMEMBERS AYRES

The current effort to restore Ayres Hall has produced amazing results. Several hundred alums have already responded to the call for renovation funds, and a former Ayres Hall resident, Anne Hodges Pals ('65), has purchased a $10,000 suite. But the most exciting part of the campaign has been the many letters from alums who once shared the Ayres-Jubilee Hall experience. The Connection recently received a letter from Eva Malaby Morrison, Class of 1910, who wanted to know if we could help her find any of the 117 girls who attended Lindenwood in her day.

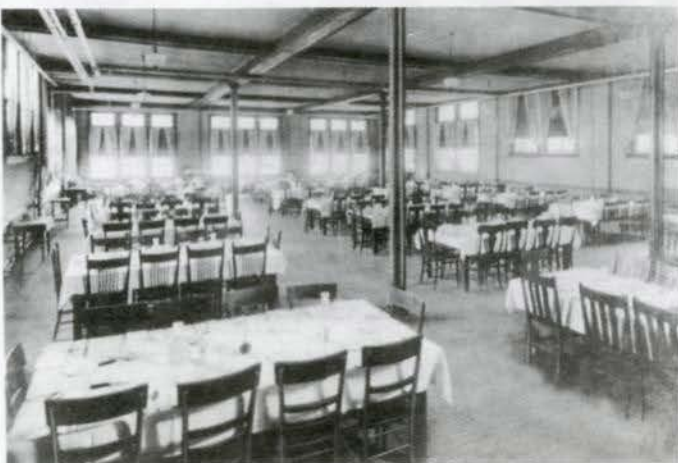

The Connection caught up with Mrs. Morrison and interviewed her just six days before she celebrated her 100th birthday. The following are excerpts from that visit.

Eva's Education

Eva came to Lindenwood in 1909 to study music under Professor James Quarles. Professor Quarles came to Lindenwood with Dr. Ayres in 1903 and was Dean of the Department of Arts until Ayres' death in 1913. Professor Quarles was a world famous musician. He was solo recitalist at the Louisiana Purchase Exposition, at the Panama-Pacific Exposition and at the first national convention of the American Guild of Organists. We asked Eva about the influence Professor Quarles and Lindenwood had on her life? "Well, I left Lindenwood and became the Presbyterian Church Organist in Ellsworth, Kansas, where I served for 35 years."

Life on Campus

Eva attended classes in Sibley Hall and ate her meals in the basement of Ayres-Jubilee. After dinner, the girls went to the auditorium in Sibley where they received a lecture on etiquette from Dr. Ayres' mother-in-law, Mrs. Laura Herron. Mrs. Herron was the lady Principal of

Ayres Dining Hall 1908

Dean Lucinda Templin and students,
Ayres Parlor, 1910

Lindenwood from 1903 until her death in 1911. Eva remembers her strict and proper demeanor. Following the lecture from Mrs. Herron, the girls were allowed to dance and participate in other recreational activities.

All students were required to attend the church of their choice on Sundays. She "marched with the other Presbyterians" to downtown St. Charles for Sunday services. Eva said, "I just hope the girls at Lindenwood are having as good a time as we did when we were young."

In October of 1910, Dr. A.D. Morrison came to Lindenwood from Kansas to present Eva with a diamond. She said this was a big event on campus, and prior permission was needed. Her friends spent their time peeking and staring at her future husband. Eva left Lindenwood at the end of Fall Semester, 1910, and married Dr. Morrison in 1911.

About her Relationship with the Ayres

Eva shocked the Connection when she said "I lived with Dr. Ayres for five months." She went on to explain that she and four other girls moved in with George and Charlia Ayres right after the Christmas of 1909 because "they had the room and we asked them." Eva remembers Dr. Ayres as being thin and not particularly handsome. The Ayres had no children and often told the girls that they moved to Lindenwood so that they could adopt all the girls as their own. She found Dr. Ayres to be "warm and affectionate and beloved by the students."

Eva is delighted that Ayres Hall has been revived and she promised the Connection that she would share all her memorabilia. Happy Birthday, Eva, and many thanks for the memories.

COMMENCEMENT 636 NEW ALUMS!

May 18, 1991 was a glorious day at Lindenwood. As the St. Louis Invera'an Pipe Band played, College Marshal James Feely led the distinguished group of faculty, staff, boards and graduates to their places on the lawn in front of Sibley.

Chairman of the Board of Directors, Robert Hyland, introduced the commencement speaker, Ted C. Wetterau, Chairman of the Board, President and Chief Executive Officer of Wetterau Inc.

Dr. Daniel N. Keck, Vice-President, presented the Honorary Doctor of Laws degree to Mr. Wetterau. Dr. Daryl Anderson, Professor of Biology, presented the Honorary Doctor of Humane Letters degree to Edith Irby Jones, M.D., clinical Assistant Professor of Medicine at the Baylor College of Medicine and the University of Texas School of Medicine. She had been Baccalaureate speaker the night before. Jan Czaplá, Head Librarian, presented the Honorary Doctor of Humane Letters to Mary Elizabeth Ambler, Librarian emeritus and Lindenwood Archivist.

Nancy Calvert, President of the Alumni Board, awarded the Alumni Merit winners their medallions: Sally Miller Perdue ('60) the honor for Professional Accomplishment, Sarah Hall Fandey ('49) the honor for Volunteer Accomplishment, and Maurita Estes Stueck ('43) the honor for Service to Lindenwood.

President Spellmann conferred the title of Professor Emeritus upon Dr. Dean Eckert, Professor of Art. Glen Cerny, Communications Professor, received the Sears-Roebuck Foundation Teaching Excellence & Campus Leadership Award.

President Spellmann, Vice-President Keck, Provost Arlene Taich and Dean of Academic Services David Williams then conferred degrees on about 555 students. A total of 636 students became alumni, including: 191 BAs, 4 BFAs, 66 BSs, 59 MAs, 186 MBAs, 2 MFAs, 18 MSs, 5 MVSSs, approximately 100 summer graduates and assorted certifications.

Dr. James Hood presented his wife Jane with her masters' hood and a kiss to resounding applause.

SEARS-ROEBUCK AWARD TO CERNY

The Sears-Roebuck Foundation Teaching Excellence and Campus Leadership Award was presented to Glen Cerny ('74), General Manager of KCLC and Communications Professor.

"I was stunned by the announcement," Cerny stated. "Instructors like Jean Fields, John Nichols, James Feely and James Hood are the type of teachers that have made Lindenwood a great place to learn. Marching in commencement as Faculty with this group was a privilege. Thankfully, Martha Boyer and many other great Lindenwood teachers contributed to my attaining this honor."

THE GRAPEVINE

Eva Dessert retired after 26 years of work in the Fine Arts Building. She will miss her Lindenwood friends. "The teachers were great and I learned a lot about art and the love for them comes from the bottom of my heart...all the nice people I met will always be on my mind. Come and visit and have a cup of coffee. I love you all."

Mary Louise Whiteley ('35) received a proclamation from Rodger A. Randle, Mayor of Tulsa, Oklahoma. The proclamation thanks her for "her outstanding contribution to the education system." She taught speech in Tulsa schools and worked in children's and adult theaters. Her credits include many teaching and civic awards including two "Teacher of the Year" citations.

Dear St. Charles Alumni Club,

I graduated this past May from Lindenwood with a Bachelor of Arts in Mass Communication.

Lindenwood provided some great opportunities for experience in my major field. I directed, produced and edited a training video which teaches operators how to answer and direct 911 emergency calls. I worked with KSDK's Bob Richards on this tape which can be used all over the country. I also worked on Lindenwood's sports video crew for all of the home football games and for St. Charles Headline News which airs daily on St. Charles Cable.

As a freelance professional, I've co-produced and edited a video for St. Charles' 911 system which teaches hearing impaired children how to use 911 in an emergency. I also co-produced a video of the 1990 Missouri's Woman of the Year competition.

I'd like to thank the Alumni Club for all the scholarships you've given me. Your assistance was always a major part of my ability to continue attending Lindenwood. It won't be too long before my name is on the screens at the theaters and, when you see it there, I hope you'll know you've had a major hand in my success and I'll always be grateful.

RECORD BREAKING FALL RESIDENTIAL NUMBERS

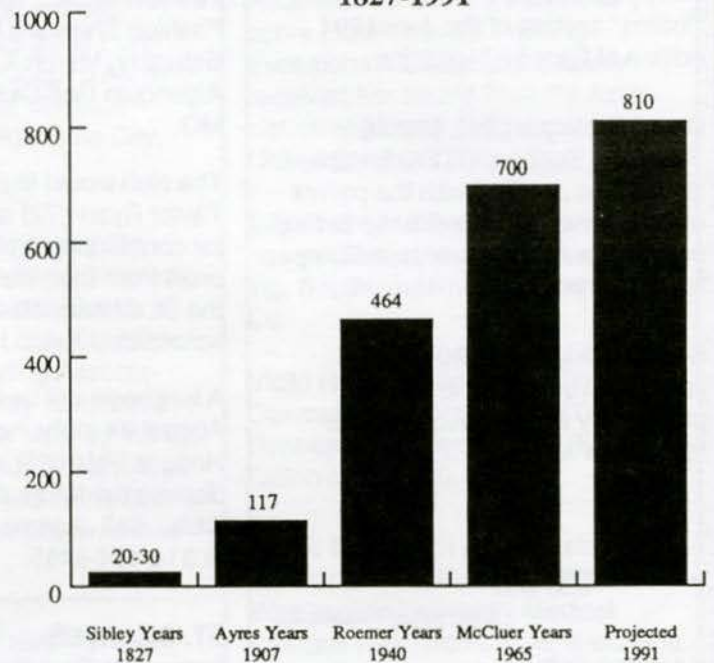

It might be, it could be, it is!! Lindenwood College will hit a home run this fall when the College becomes virtually filled with residential students! WILL THERE BE ROOM FOR MARY SIBLEY'S GHOST?

Students are once again flocking to Lindenwood College as residential enrollment is projected to go over 800 students in the fall. And the quality of the students? The ACT level of last year's entering residents was well over the national average and the best scores since the College began using the ACT.

Are today's students finding Lindenwood the kind of place where they want to continue their education? Ninety-one per cent of last year's fall residents enrolled for classes in the spring. The school will have more returning upper-class residents in the fall than were enrolled as residents just two years ago!

The overall enrollment at Lindenwood will be nearly 3,000. This is a testament to the College's current strength. Students are proud to call Lindenwood their academic home and are telling their friends that Lindenwood is the place to be. The tradition is growing because the College has faith in her mission.
