TREES

I think that I shall never see
A poem lovely as a tree.
A tree whose hungry mouth is prest
Against the earth's sweet flowing breast;
A tree that looks at God all day,
And lifts her leafy arms to pray;
A tree that may in summer wear A nest of Robins in her hair;

Upon whose bosom snow has lain Who intimately lives with rain.

Poems are made by fools like me,
But only God can make a tree.

STUDENT GOVERNMENT

Virgina Sue Campeell

STUDENT GOVERNMENT in the present form is practically new in Lindenwood, for only in the spring of 1926 was a constitution adopted providing for a council elected by the student body. Formerly it was the custom for the Senior Class to elect the President of this board; now it is the privilege of the entire student body to elect the whole council. The President is chosen from the Senior Class, the Vice-President from the Junior Class, and the Secretary-Treasurer from the Sophomore Class. The Presidents of the five dormitories with the President of the Y. W. C. A. and the officers of the Student Government sit as a Student Board, which has under its control all matters of campus life not academic or under the jurisdiction of the administration.

There is also a House of Representatives, composed of two girls elected from each dormitory. Any suggestions or proposed bills are brought to the House for consideration. This body is presided over by the Vice-President of the Board.

This type of Student Government has for two years been very successful, for it tends to make each girl feel more responsibility to the Student Board and House which she has elected.

THAT WE MAY REMEMBER

A MEMORY BOOK! Filled with tokens of good times, and as in future years we turn the pages, snatches of songs float back, recalling the four happy years at Lindenwood.
"We are slaves you see
And we bend at waist and knee--'
Freshmen! Here's a page of pictures of lowly slaves, turbaned and salaaming before the Red Terror, the Sophs. These unhappy memories are mingled with others of barnyards and feeds, hikes and parties-and this is a ticket that bears the words "A. A. Musical Comedy 'Oh Girls!" How proud we were to claim its author.

"We are the Sophomore Class  The ones who're there until the very last-"

Sophomores! The class that took the lead in Lindenwood in '26. Those funny monkeys are what we made of the freshies-and see that baby cap, reminder of the Junior Clinic held for us. Here is a program of another musical comedy-that's right, a Soph did write the clever "Patricia, How Could You?" Among dance favors here's a cornhusk from the Halloween party when a Soph was crowned queen!-And this black and white bag-who could ever forget the checked walls at our party.
"And now she's reached Centennial's goal Is best of college girls."

Juniors! A wonderful year, ever striving to make the Centennial a perfect event. Athletics-here's a picture of that good old Junior baseball team, and a clipping giving highest honors as an all-round athlete to a girl of the Class of '28.-"You See It Was This Way," another musical comedy hit with lyrics and plot that came from two of our clever pens!-The world's biggest thrill lies between the covers of that tiny program from the Junior-Senior Prom, the first and best in L. C.
"The tumult and the shouting dies
The Seniors year by year depart-"
Seniors! We were ever musical. Remember the Prize Song? That in turn conjures up another Senior honor, the prize Christmas Story, and the plot and lyrics for a fourth musical comedy "So This Is College."-Here's our sweet old class President-can't you just see her as Student President and Popularity Queen too?-Another Prom!-Weren't those purple and white blazers darling? Here's a snap of the largest and best class ever graduated 'neath the Lindens.
"Ours just to take, not scar it, Ours just to make, not mar it, Dearest of all, Lindenwood!"'

The Book is closed! How sorry we were to part, yet glad we may still remember!

ON THE NEXT TO THE LAST LAP

THREE years we've grown in sun and shower, and now we're about to reach full bloom, and then it is possible that all these lovely flowers will be plucked and the petals scattered to the four winds. Let us hope for a soft summer breeze that will waft us only a short distance from the loving care of our Alma Mater.

Looking back three years seems such a long time, and yet to us how fast the years have sped. The vista down which we look, where in the distance we see ourselves as green young things in our teens, is lined with trees of noble deeds.

Now, those first trees away down there. See? They are just young sprouts, but how stately they hold their slim, unstable branches. Those monkeys that are climbing roguishly among the leaves will surely fall, but no, they are gone before a cry could stop them. And there, that lovely tree with the lavender and pink blossoms; just as if it had been plucked from an old-fashioned garden where a Queen had sat and celebrated her birthday. And that with the silver bark-could those be basket balls hanging like cocoanuts from her topmost branch?

Coming a little nearer I can see things much plainer. Another one of those silver trees adorned with basket balls! And there! Upon my word, the branches on that are growing like hurdles, and the bird that just flew over, looked like a high jumper. But the thing that predominates most among those trees are those beautiful blue and white blossoms. I do believe they are Forget-Me-Nots. And what is that Mocking Bird singing? "We're the Sophomore Class of '26."

And now, here right close to us, almost where it can be touched, there is a group of the loveliest flowers. Still blue and white, but much more mature in their bloom. Around them are humming bees of black and white who are just ready to sup their honey. We turn our faces away and look ahead instead of backward, preparing for that wind. Whether it will be the hoped-for summer one, or that of a storm, we do not know.

SOPHOMORES SAY

COMING back to Lindenwood in the fall is great, but oh what it is to come back a high and mighty Soph! A few weeks of misery for the Frosh, followed by a Sophomore Day that was too exciting and truly impressing for words, were the opening high spots of this year for the Class of 1930. Fact o' the matter is, we Sophs just never will be able to forget the planning and success of "Our Day" on the campus when we initiated the mass of Freshmen, and pronounced them fullfledged girls of Lindenwood.

The Spirit of 1930 has prevailed all year. On the hockey field no other class could "hold a candle" to the speed of our athletes. In tennis, basket ball, golf, and swimming, we have prospects for future contenders of Olympic titles.

This big "family" of Sophs has stuck through thick and thin and has won laurels for the class and their Alma Mater in every department of the college. Folks just have to "tip their hats" to this Sophomore class.

Freshmen

THEIR FIRST APPEARANCE

THE Freshmen entered Lindenwood College two hundred fifty strong. They were initiated into the activities of college life by the Almighty Sophomores who, by the way, became more admired every day, after the first three weeks of school. The big red " S " became a symbol for more than "Sophs" to the "Frosh," it meant "Sports." The Sophomores sent the Freshmen home after a glorious day and a jolly dance in the beautifully decorated gym, with resolutions to be bigger and better daughters of Lindenwood.

When the Freshmen had their day they chose to honor the college mother, Mrs. John L. Roemer, and on the night of November the eleventh, gave a beautiful birthday party for her.

They showed no hesitancy in entering school activities, acquiring honor after honor.

In Dramatics they were represented by having the principal part in the Thanksgiving Y. W. C. A. Play, and in the Athletic Association Musical Comedy, as well as minor parts in both.

There were many who won membership in the Athletic Association and Alpha Mu Mu, and served on the "Linden Leaves" staff and on the "Linden Bark."

LINDENWOOD ATHLETIC Association

MEMBER

National Athletic Conference of American College Women.

Women's Division, National Amateur Athletic Federation.

Miss Gene Gustavus

THE Athletic Association is the largest and most active organization on the campus. The purpose of the organization is to improve physical strength and instill a feeling of high sportsmanship among all girls. The requirements for membership include a triple posture test, a total of 125 points, and a maintenance of an M average.

Certain awards are presented by the association for the earning of specified points. For earning 350 points the L. A. A. pin is awarded; for 600 points an "LC;" and for 1,000 points a large "L." It is always an honor for an A. A. member to obtain her numeral. The girls below are some of the Athletic Association "letter girls."

LINDENWOOD HOCKEY TEAMS had one of the best seasons ever. The weather was cold, but for once there was little rain or snow. The field was in excellent condition. Miss Burr, the English Hockey Coach, said that the Lindenwood Field was the best she had seen in this part of the country.

The games were all very exciting and the Sophs won the tournament by defeating all other teams. The first game was the Senior-Sophomore which the Sophs captured 3-2. In the next game the Freshmen staged a thrilling come-back in the second half to tie the Juniors 4-4 when the whistle blew. When the Juniors met the Sophomores it was a different story for the Sophs won 4-3. The Sophs gained their final victory and the tournament by beating the Frosh 4-0. In the final game the Seniors beat the Frosh 7-1.

Goal-Helphenstein

The Hockey season at L. C. wound up with one of the best games of the year. From the very start the Sophomore-Senior Team seemed to have an edge on the less experienced Freshman-Junior Team. But what they lacked in experience they made up in enthusiasm and determination to win. As a result the play moved rapidly from one end of the field to the other. At the end of the first half the score stood $2-0$ in favor of the Senior-Sophomore Team.

Between halves the pep of the crowd was kept at a high pitch by the antics of the pep squads of all classes. The Freshman-Junior squad put on a clever boxing match in which the Senior-Soph Team was knocked out. Then the Soph-omore-Senior squad got going and did some very clever drills, ending with the formation of the letter S .

With the resumption of play both teams came back stronger than ever. Garnette Thompson broke through the " S " defense to score three goals in quick succession. In the meantime the " S " team scored three goals also. When the final whistle blew the score was $5-3$ with the Sophomore-Senior Team on the long end.

$\mathbb{H}$ROM the numbers enrolled in dancing classes Lindenwood girls should not fail to be graceful. Folk dancing and clogging are always popular and this year we have witnessed some of Miss Eschbach's carefully trained natural dancers. At the Spring party given by the Missouri Club, seven of these dancers presented a very beautiful dance before the new May Queen and her attendants. The Choral Club was assisted by some of our dancers at their Easter Concert.
"On with the dance! Let joy be unconfined!"

T'HERE is no place like the ole' swimmin' pool. In the fall it takes the place of those fine lakes and rivers at home. And after freezing through a hockey game-o-o-oh!-how it thaws a fella out to take a little plunge. In midwinter, when everything else is cold and uninviting, a peep into the pool room would bring a smile from anyone. But 'tis in the spring when we love it most. Through the open windows we hear the plunk of the board, the splash and swish of the water, the happy, lively voices of water-soaked girls. Water polo has been the Waterloo of many a lass, but she came up a-smilin' and full of revenge-and probably sent someone else to the bottom a second later. Advanced swimming tests and class swimming meets all add spice to the life of Lindenwood's "Gertrude Ederles."

BASKET BALL is Lindenwood's favorite winter sport, as seen by the interest manifested in all the games. There was more enthusiasm among the students this year because of tournaments between the five dormitories and day students in addition to those between college classes. After a month's practicing, teams were chosen and several games played each week until the victorious class and dormitory were pronounced winners for the year.

Each member of a class team was awarded her class numeral and one hundred points are accredited by the Athletic Association towards securing a letter.

In 1926 Dr. Roemer presented to the Physical Education Department a very beautiful loving cup which was to be awarded to the winning class basket ball team of that year. The cup was not to become the permanent possession of a class until it had been won three years in succession. This cup, the first year was presented to the Freshman class of 1929. Last year the Sophs worked nobly to retain the greatly prized cup and were successful in causing the cup to be a second time inscribed in favor of the Class of '29. The deciding year! Who would win? All teams were in good shape, but due to the exceptional work of the combined Junior-Senior team, the Class of 1929 is proud to claim ownership to the basket ball cup. We congratulate the Juniors on their excellent record for three years.

PEOPLE seem to hesitate when it comes to knocking a little white ball over a course of ground arranged especially for that purpose, but anyone who understands the correct way of playing golf doesn't hesitate and takes a great interest in the game. Classes are taught in the spring and fall to give enthusiastic wouldbe golfers the right start.

Fifty points toward membership in the Lindenwood Athletic Association may be gained through golfing, and those sufficiently up on the game take part in a spring tournament, in which the winner is given a silver trophy.

TENNIS is a sport that everyone can enjoy, especially at Lindenwood. There are plenty of splendid courts, due to the additional ones on the new athletic field, and anyone can take advantage of these on fine fall and spring days. Tennis points may be gained by passing the simple and advanced tests, which show skill and form.

Each spring a tournament is held, open to all, and the competition and enthusiasm it always arouses shows the true Lindenwood spirit among the girls.

LINDEN LEAVES $\rightarrow=1928$

$\mathbb{P}_{\text {ii }}^{\text {i }}$OSTURE is now an absolute requirement for membership in the Lindenwood Athletic Association. This has brought about a keener realization of the values of good posture among the girls. The triple posture test is used and is given once a month before the regular meeting of the Athletic Association. The first test given is to determine whether or not the girl can maintain good posture in the correct standing position. The "window pole" test is most frequently used. The second test is to determine whether or not the girl can maintain good posture while walking and running. The third and most difficult is to determine whether or not good posture can be maintained while doing various exercises, such as deep knee bending, various exercises in rhythm, trunk bending, etc.

A very marked improvement of posture in general is quite evident and very excellent results have been obtained. Those passing these tests are given fifty points towards the required one hundred and twenty-five necessary for membership in the Athletic Association.

LINDEN LEAVES STAFF

Harriet Liddle

THE staff of the "1928 Linden Leaves" presents this record of the school year for your inspection. It is our hope that the annual will be one that all will be proud to claim. Lindenwood is entering upon her second century of age and success and as we recognize that fact we look to the girls who are making up such a noble institution. Our aim has been to portray the life of the girls who are the present workers for our "better Lindenwood." We hope that the "Linden Leaves" meets with your approval.

THE purpose of the Latin Club is to give students of the classics an opportunity to study interesting topics connected with their work. Every two weeks the Club edits a newspaper "The Roman Tatler," which gives the student body some idea of the daily life of the Roman, the relation of Latin to English, and the present day use of classical material in literature.

CHOIR

THE Lindenwood Choir is one of the most active organizations on the campus. Not only does it sing every Sunday night in Vespers but at the request of various churches in St. Charles and St. Louis, it sends its members whe never fail to receive another invitation.

At Christmas a concert of old carols was given. The Easter music consisted of a Cantata and other appropriate selections. On Mothers' Day, the choir always gives a very impressive program and it greatly assists with the Commencement activities.

ROCKY MOUNTAIN CLUB

WITH ideals and aspirations as big and towering as the Rockies in which they live, come these girls to give to their Alma Mater the best that is in them. This they have done in their first year of organization and Lindenwood is proud to claim these representatives from Arizona, Canada, Colorado, Montana, New Mexico, Washington, and Wyoming.

EASTERN CLUB

YOU try to decide who is the best,
The girls from the South, from the North, East, or West;
When you count up the points your conclusions to test, You have to have all, North, South, East, and West.
So we represent one part of the whole
And the best for our college we make as our goal.

BETA PI THETA

National Honorary French Fraternity

TTHE charter for the Lindenwood chapter of Beta Pi Theta was granted in April, 1927. The headquarters of this organization are at Birmingham, Alabama, and it includes in its membership representatives from many of the leading colleges and universities of the country.

The monthly bulletin "What's Doing in Beta Pi Theta" reports the activities of the various chapters, and in the last issue we note the following concerning Theta Xi: "A very active and enthusiastic chapter, won second place in the Essay Contest last spring, and gives promise of being heard from again."

The Lindenwood chapter has already gained the distinction of having three articles published in this magazine, viz., those of Elizabeth Tracy, Rose Patten, and Pauline Davis. The latter was the winner of the prize scholarship at Middlebury College.

Meetings are held monthly and the programs this year have included a French play, original compositions by members, programs by initiates, and talks by faculty members.

The standards for membership in the Theta Xi chapter are high and the girls look forward with much eagerness to becoming members.

Miss E. Louise Stone, Faculty Advisor, Head of the Modern Language Department, was recently appointed to a position on the staff of the Grand Council.

ALPHA PSI OMEGA

IN THE spring of our Centennial year the old organization of Lindenwood Players was granted a charter to become the Psi Cast of the Alpha Psi Omega, National Dramatic Fraternity. Under this new name and charter the work of the Players was continued with increased enthusiasm, a work whose purpose was the stimulation of interest in the dramatic art at Lindenwood.

The requirements for membership in Alpha Psi are high and difficult to attain. To be eligible a girl must meet the required grade standard, and must have taken one leading part or several minor parts in the college productions, or have written a play which was presented here. Each member co-operates with her individual talents in the combined efforts of the group.

The activities of Alpha Psi Omega have been numerous during '27 and '28. A large tea was given in the fall and each initiation ceremony was accompanied by a social function. Alpha Psi presented the Christmas play, "The Patsy," and sponsored the presentation of "Adam and Eva." The final climax was reached in the commencement play whose entire cast consisted of Alpha Psi Omega members. The play was "As You Like It," presented with a very lovely outdoor setting. This was probably the greatest achievement of Alpha Psi Omega at Lindenwood.

MEMORIES: A TRIBUTE TO SIBLEY CHAPEL

WHEN I return as a tired alumna to visit the haunts of my long-departed college days, there will be many little spots and nooks at which I shall pause and smile at the follies of my youth. But there is one place where I shall pause a little longer, smile a little more sadly, and maybe shed a few tears. It is the musty old chapel of Sibley, with its queer old seats and narrow windows whose dusty panes emit long shafts of golden sunlight into the mouldy dusk of the high-ceilinged chapel. It is around the organ that most of my memories are wovenmemories of a stormy Halloween night when two trembling impersonators of ghosts entered the haunted chapel and played strange weird music while the wind howled in the creaky boards and a door swung on rusty hinges; memories of happy evenings with the great windows flung wide open and the balmy spring breezes reflecting the joy of the little group of singing girls; memories of nights when the old chapel assumed an air of festivity while among bright lights and gay flowers prettily dressed girls sang and played in never-to-be-forgotten recitals.

Even now, everything in that lonely deserted chapel is to me symbolic of beautiful memories of the past. Its rows and rows of quaint old seats stand as if with out-stretched arms calling to the ruffled girls of yesterday. Its high narrow windows look wonderingly into the vacant hall, as if finding something amiss in its emptiness, and wondering where the happy, laughing girls have gone.

In those future years when I chance to return, I shall pause in the deserted, musty chapel of Sibley and I too shall wonder-wondermany, many things about Youth, its unstable ideals and its fleeting happiness.
-B. B.

LOVE DIES

Love dies as the day at eve When shadows darken the earth; As the light from the glowing coals That dies upon the hearth; Or a yellow candle flame Blown out by a bitter wind;
The sudden opening of a door On a room that's bare within.
-R. B.

KNOWLEDGE

There was a time when life held out to me
Two hands as rosy as the dawn;
Two hands that pointed out the smooth, worn path That all youth travels ere it dies-
The path that leads to life-the end of dreams.
And I, with youth's young strength and fire,
Reached out and grasped the rosy hands of Life
And from her shining form I tore
The robes that give to Life its rosy glow.

And now I know Life's hands to be
Not rose but grey. The grey that comes of tears
That burn but are not shed.
-Unknown.

GARDEN OF LOVE

When dawn steals through the walls of my heart
And walks in my garden of love,
My mind begins to question and wonder
Of the thoughts of a hidden yesterday.
It plays at some old college fancy,
And the friends that meant joy to me
Come back 'mid those broken old memories,
And we live and we laugh again:
How light and happy my mind is
When dawn steals through the walls of my heart
And walks in my garden of love.

> —J. H.

MY DIARY

To another, just words, meaningless, often foolish. But to me, happy thoughts, sad thoughts, thoughts that express those inmost longings that the world has never known-never will know. For they lie written, black on white, in the pages of my diary-my book of hopes -my book of dreams. To another, just words; but to me the tears of vain regret-the sighs of future longing.

THE LAVENDER IN THE AUTUMN

THE rattle of the tea things has just died away. The opaque October shadows sink into a darker mauve background. The birds remember the hour of nesting. Those weary with the toils of the day are at rest, and there is nothing but meditation to disturb the quiet of this mauve of the year. The laborer lays aside his tools; the housewife finishes clearing away the tea things, and the little children nestle themselves for a story before the sandman comes.

But let us no longer waste the evening over the lives of others, but pursue the solitary walk where Beauty, lovelier than ever but a few days past, walked before me and now, like Middle Age, has stopped to look back and reflect upon the happinesses and the purple patches of Youth.

What enchantment is over everything! Mauve shades predominate these autumn days; the summer sun has departed for other fields and hillsides, leaving the city to the cooler, more tranquil beauty of the hazy air. All the bustle of the day is forgotten and the hour is full of reflections and memories.

There will come a time when this lavender of Autumn evenings will continue and the night shall set in. It is then that we shall drop from this life as the leaves drop from the trees, perhaps to be covered by the Winter snows and obscured forever, or to cover the earth with a blanket gorgeously designed with the amethystine leaves.

What autumns as beautiful as these have not caused great victories and unbounded joys? Perhaps joy and gladness alone have not been the results of such Autumn evenings, but sadness, too, might have drifted from the turquoise haze. There may be some who shall stroll in sad and solemn meditation beneath the tall trees that are ready to receive winter with the open arms of its bare branches.

How many people loiter in the lilac lanes at this hour of the day and year no longer wearing masks of worry! All misery is gone from their faces, or is it that the softness of the autumn shades just blots it out? They walk alone with their thoughts-in the lovely light of this Autumn lavender which hides all but the glittering leaves and the worth-while things of a man's life.

How glad I am that I was born a person capable of enjoying the mauve of this hour and year-and see that men are happy when the purple patches are all that can be seen of lives that may be full of blackness.

I hope that I shall die as maples do, In robes of red and bronze and golden hue. I hope that I shall die in autumn life, When work is done, but when there is no knife Of hopeless, aged winter in my soul; Rebirth shall come-in spring I shall be whole. It is not death to sleep the winter through: I hope that I shall die as maples do.
-R. B.

UNDER THE STARS

Under the stars, You, and I,
Watching the moon, Loving the sky;
Tracing the shadows Under the trees;
Smelling the flowers Kissed by the breeze;
Finding our souls, While moments fly; Under the stars, You, and I.
-J. P.

FINALITY
You said you loved me
And I laughed
And said I doubted Because I feared loveFeared its hurt.
You heard my laugh Then you, too, doubted And fled the ghastly mask Of my false mirth.
But now I do not laugh, For I who doubted, Fearing love and hurt, Have found,
Since you departed, No cause for doubtingAnd no heart for mirth.
-E. K.

LONELINESS

Awakening thus in the misty dawn, Finding, my Love, that you are gone, I pace the floor in my dull despair, Crying because you have left me there.
My brain responds with little questions,
My heart answers and makes suggestions.
Had you left me there alone for good?
You warned me once, and said that you would.
And there in the early misty dawn, I cried at being left all alone.
$-R . B$.

MY PRAYER

I want my life to be a life of living,
Not the drab existence of a life-tired soul.
I want my life to be a life of doing,
With a shining star set for a far-off goal.
I want my life to be a life of laughter-
Though some of heartbreak I would not shun,
If from that heartbreak there can rise a friendship
That in the dark shall be my life's bright sun.

Then, when death comes,
Swift on the heels of life's
Dear day of sun and shadow,
I hope to meet it with a fearless heart-
A heart that looks on man with love and kindness,
And on God as that dear companion of life's better part.
-Kuyk.

THE "BARK". REPORTER CONFUSES HER KNOWLEDGE OF JOURNALISM

1. The Sophomore-Freshman Game.

On Tuesday afternoon the Freshmen and Sophomores entertained jointly with a charmingly appointed basket ball game in the artistic gymnasium of Butler Hall. The delicate little red and white frocks worn by the pretty Sophs blended pleasingly with the vivid green of the Frosh. Miss Lucile Kelly was charming in the well-fitting knickers furnished by the Alice Buffet Co., while the slender gracefulness of Miss Mary Bacharach was accentuated by several dainty sweat shirts. The Misses Purdy, Gardner, Craven, Black, Palmer, and others, flitted gayly from place to place, while the stately figure of Miss Eschbach moved with dignity among them. She wore an attractive black so-and-so trimmed with one lone and lovely Beta pin. She blew her pretty whistle very frequently in order to dazzle the guests with the flash of diamonds as she threw the toss-up with her left hand. It is reported that a good time was had by all-that is, all the Sophomores.

2-The Junior-Senior Prom.

On Saturday night at eight o'clock the bell clanged sharply, the gym floor was cleared and all the participants prepared for action. The St. Charles band boomed forth its warning of the coming event. The side-lines were filled with enthusiastic spectators (flat-footed upperclassmen, curious Sophs, and jealous Frosh), who were unable to participate but were there to watch the fury of the struggle and criticize the technique and tactics of the players. Each member of the All-Lindenwood Prom Team eyed her man carefully and the play was on! The struggle was indeed a worthy one. The visiting team was kept constantly on the defensive against the timely, well-planned advances of the home team. The casualties among the opposition consisted of the loss of innumerable fraternity pins (misplaced or stolen), and several badly injured hearts. Some of the winning stars were Liddle, Campbell, Walker, and Wisdom. The BrownHenney combine was in its usual good form and, of course Lily was rolling up the score.

Baker: Did Jakie get that lesson for you?
Sharon: No, I got it wrong myself.

Lamb: Correct this sentence for me: There are an awful lot of Freshmen in this college.

Ruth Lindsay: There are a lot of awful Freshmen in this college.

LINDENWOOD A LA HAMLET

Soph to Frosh-"You speak like a green girl."
Andy, the Watchman-"Doomed for a certain term to walk the night." Date Night-"Never make known what you have seen tonight."
Before the Exam-"My hour is almost come."
After the Exam-"Why, what an ass am I!"
Alpha Psi-"The play's the thing."
To the Arkansas Girls-"I have heard of your paintings, too, well enough; God has given you one face and make yourself another."

Lily-"You jig, you amble, and you lisp."
Friday's Fish-"O, my offence is rank; it smells to heaven."
A Midnight Feed-"Let them guard the door."
Stumberg to Web in Hockey Game - "Let's follow, Gertrude."
Rudolph, When There is Noise on Third Floor Butler-"In the dark grop'd I to find out them."

WHY I DON'T HAVE DATES AT LINDENWOOD

1-I hate to be conspicuous.
$2-\mathrm{I}$ can't take the time from my lessons.
3 -I don't like to sit in the balcony at vespers.
4-It makes the other girls feel bad.
5 -The chairs in the parlors are so uncomfortable.
6-I am trying to be true to a boy at home.
7-It's so much trouble to remember to sign up.
8 -Nobody ever asks me (obsolete).

TRUE STORIES

Dear Mother: I am writing to tell you that I am very griped. Lucy.
Dear Daughter: I am sorry to hear of your condition. Try hot pads and ginger tea.

Mrs. Seaman.

Birch (in chapel): Anyone who wants ideas for jokes or cartoons may see me.

Ruthie: What was the name of the song that always reminded me of that girl?

Margie: What girl?
Ruthie-I don't know, but whatever the name of the song was it reminded me of her.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT... IT'S SO!

Jake: Want to have a date Friday?
Fran Stone: Oh, my dear, haven't you heard, I'm being married Friday. Jake: That right? Well how about Saturday?

Janet: I hear that some college profs lead a very fast life.
Marie: Oh, I don't know about that. None of them have ever passed me yet.

Barns: I live in Ifornia.
Brown: What do you mean by Ifornia?
Barns: The Cal is silent as in Coolidge.

Kuyk: Who wrote that Rhapsody?
Roper: Liszt.
Kuyk (after patiently waiting): Well, go ahead, I'm listening.
Garnett (in tennis class): Any other absentees here?
Liddle: Did you know that Miss Walters, the dietitian, gets paid more than the Dean?
Campbell: Why is that?
Liddle: Her courses are more popular.
Beta Phi Theta is rivaling Lindbergh in the use of the expression "Oui."

Stokes: I had such a nice date tonight.
Murdock: Hard luck, honey, hard luck.

Whitney: What d'you mean you're gonna turn your room into a "ring?" Kelso: The room-o and I are going to try to commercialize on some of our fights.
