"Your Communicative Link with the Lindenwood College"

Vol. 2, No. #25; Feb. 13, 1984

FACULTY, STAFF CONTRIBUTIONS SOUGHT

"The only time that is right for a fund-raising campaign which is essential to the well-being of the college is immediately," said Howard A. Barnett, English Dept. chairman and faculty representative for Lindenwood's faculty/staff aspect of the $10 million major funds drive. All employees are being asked to make tax-deductible contributions to the campaign. The faculty and staff goal is $22,000 this year.

In an address to faculty members recently, Barnett said, "We have needed a major fund-raising campaign for the past 15 years. Every small, privately-funded and solvent college that I know of has had two or three of these in the period in which we have had none.

"The secret of success for these campaigns is wide participation. Big gifts from corporations, foundations and individuals only come when there is a large number of small gifts from people who believe in the institution. Most critical of all the small gifts is that of the constituency which is most directly affected by the well-being of the college - the faculty and staff.

"If we put ourselves in the place of a potentially generous giver, we can understand that he or she would be reluctant to support a college where the internal commitment is unclear or partial. What we need to remember is that a gift to an established and valuable college is not charity - and no donor responds to it in that way. The gift to Lindenwood is an expression of one's sense of what is important to our society and our culture."

Continuing, Barnett told the group, "At the level of the small gifts, every gift counts. The categories of gifts are part of what is necessary for the campaign to achieve the levels of giving which reach the established goals. From where we are sitting, however, every gift - no matter how small - counts!

"Since this is true, and the $5 or $10 gift counts in the percentage as much as the $160, $300 or $500 gift, I think there is no reason why this campaign should not start off with 100 percent participation from the faculty and staff," Barnett said.

REFERENCE LIBRARIAN APPOINTED AT BUTLER

Jane R. McLaughlin of St. Charles, former professional librarian at Butler Library, has been appointed adjunct reference librarian, replacing David A. Van Mierlo who recently was named Director of Financial Aid.

A 1972 graduate of the University of Missouri-Columbia, Mrs. McLaughlin also holds a master's degree in library science from the institution. She served as reference librarian at Lindenwood from 1980-81 and, prior to that, in various librarian positions at the University of Missouri-St. Louis. Married with three children, Mrs. McLaughlin is a member of the American Library Association and Beta Phi Mu and a former member of the Special Library Association.

BOOK ORDERS DUE BY MARCH 1ST

A reminder from Gene Goldstein, manager of the Book Store, that faculty members must place their book orders by March 1 for both the May and summer terms.

KING-WATTS NAMED DEAN OF ADMISSIONS

Miriam E. King-Watts, former director of adult admissions, has been named Dean of Admissions at Lindenwood College. She joined the administrative staff in 1976 as assistant director of admissions for the LCIE and, in 1980, was named director. Ms. King-Watts is a 1966 graduate of Pennsylvania State University and holds a master's degree from Lindenwood, graduating in 1982 with a major in adult studies and an emphasis in educational/career counseling.

PRESIDENT'S BOOK OFFERED AT REDUCED PRICE

Gene Goldstein, manager of the Book Store, has made arrangements with Bethany Press to offer President Spainhower's book, PULPIT, PEW & POLITICS, at a below-cost price of nearly $9 off the publisher's price. Printed in 1979 when Dr. Spainhower served as treasurer of Missouri, the 142-page book concerns his philosophy of "practicing what you preach," or his belief in the merit of linking religious faith and political involvement in order to produce opportunities for people. Copies of the book are available at the Book Store for $1 each.

COMMUNIQUÉ

'ART OF APPLIQUE' EXHIBIT OPENS FEBRUARY 20

"The Art of Applique," an exhibition of more than 40 applique needlework pieces from throughout the world, opens February 20 at the Harry D. Hendren Gallery of the FAB. Free of charge to the community as well as students, faculty and staff, the exhibit runs through March 16. Gallery hours are from 9 a.m.-10 p.m. daily and from 1-4 p.m. on weekends.

"Applique is generally taken to mean the joining of one fabric shape to another by stitching the edges," said John H. Wehmer, associate professor of art. "Among traditional benchmarks of the quality of applique are the smallness of the shapes and the finess of the stitches. Some examples in the Lindenwood exhibit use pieces less than ¼-inch in diameter," he said.

Sponsored by the college's Art Dept., the exhibit has been arranged by joint funding grants of the college and the Missouri Arts Council. It has been assembled mostly from private collectors and needleworkers from throughout the world.

A highlight of the three-week exhibit is an opening reception scheduled from 2-5 p.m. February 26 at the Hendren Gallery. It is open free-of-charge to all.

LCIE COLLOQUIUM SCHEDULED SATURDAY

"Nuclear Arms - Freeze or Build-Up?" is the title of an LCIE colloquium to be presented at 9 a.m. this Saturday at Young Hall. Part of an ongoing series of community events, the colloquium will feature a panel presentation on an overview of the history of the arms build-up and the nuclear freeze movement, along with pro-and-con discussion. Taking part in the discussion will be William McNeilly, a design section manager for weapons systems integration in McDonnell-Douglas' Tomahawk Cruise Missile program; William Ramsey, education director of the St. Louis Freeze Campaign; and Richard A. Wier, Ph.D., assistant professor of political science who will present an overview of issues surrounding the nuclear arms situation.

A film on the effects of nuclear warfare - "Race to Oblivion" by Physicians for Social Responsibility - will be shown following the panel discussion. The event is open free of charge to all students, faculty and staff as well as the area community. For further information on the colloquium, contact Richard Rickert, Ph.D., LCIE faculty advisor, at extension #227.
