

L.C. WELCOMES 330 FRESHMEN

Parents help daughters unpack overstuffed cars.

Lindenwood College began its 138th academic year with a total enrollment of 693 students, the largest student body in the history of the college. Orientation activities for freshmen and transfer students opened on September 12 with a reception for new students and their parents. Placement tests and registration took up the first part of the week, with classes beginning on September 17.

There are 330 students enrolled as freshmen—the greatest number of freshmen to ever have entered. The sophomore class numbers 170; there are a total of 94 juniors; and the senior class is the smallest, with 80 members.

Thirty-nine states and 10 foreign countries are represented at Lindenwood. Missouri comes first with 206 students from that state enrolled; Illinois is second with 99; and Texas is third with 32.

The record enrollment has produced some crowding, and several classes have been rearranged to accommodate the increased number of students. One interesting example is the riding classes, which have been opened to 105 students first semester and 125 second semester. Four new horses will be added to the stables this weekend, bringing the number of riding horses owned by the college stables to 18. The art department has an especially large number of new students enrolled as art majors, and several courses were filled to capacity early in the registration process.

Housing conditions have been adjusted due to the greater number of resident students, and Dr. McCluer commented on this early in the week. "The tremendous high school enrollment this year has made eligible for college more students than ever before," President McCluer said. "Lindenwood has endeavored to make an education available for as many qualified students as possible.

"We are asking the cooperation of the student body during these early weeks. Housing conditions, while crowded, have provided space for (approximately) 575 students. There will be a normal attrition during the early fall which will somewhat relieve any conditions which should be corrected," he said.

"It is my opinion," President McCluer stated, "that we have one of the finest student bodies in Lindenwood's history. I know all of our students are pleased with the excitement promised by the months ahead."

*Editor's Note: The above statistics were accurate as of September 21 and are subject to readjustment and change.

Honor Code Presents New Approach to New Standards

Campus Living on the Lindenwood campus today is a new approach to the same basic standards and traditions, except the administration has inaugurated a new approach to the Honor System. Our Honor Code isn't new to other colleges. The basic idea of the Honor Code is, according to Miss Lichliter, "Expectations rather than a proliferation of rules to cover every contingency." The basic Honor Code has been outlined, and each student received one in her room on her arrival on campus. The Code will be further discussed in House meetings. Miss Lichliter stated that she would be glad to discuss the Honor Code further with small groups.

The Honor Code is not a matter of automatic penalties with no meaning. It will be a matter of record so that if a student persists in offending, she will be reported and either the house staff or house president's council will hold a hearing to review the offender's case. There will be penalties, but they will be decided upon to fit the situation. The penalty may be a loss of privilege, or if serious, a letter home and administrative action.

The absolute basis of the Honor Code is the honor system. Honesty in signing in and out is vital to the effectiveness of the Code.

The Honor Code is a way of living together so that 573 students don't have to be watched and checked and threatened. It is to be hoped that each student will abide by our Honor Code—for her own good and for the good of those around her.

Ten Members Join Faculty

Ten new faculty members have been added to the Lindenwood staff this year. They are: Mrs. Dorothy Butzow, assistant professor, Department of Economics and Business; Robert A. Kitterer, instructor, Political Science; Dr. F. Rand Morton, Chairman, Dept. of Modern Languages and professor of Spanish; David Mulbury, assistant professor, Music Dept., Dr. Harold W. Richey, associate professor, psychology, and chairman of Psychology Dept., Humberto Rizzo-Diaz, instructor, Modern Languages Dept., Dr. Robert G. Schmidt, professor, sociology, and Chairman of Sociology Dept., James A. Vinson, assistant professor, English Dept., Mrs. John W. Huntman, part-time instructor, Department of English, and Dr. Donald E. Willis, assistant professor, Chemistry Department, also part-time.

A series of personal interviews with these new faculty people is scheduled to begin with the next issue of the Bark.

Parents' Day Scheduled for October 10th

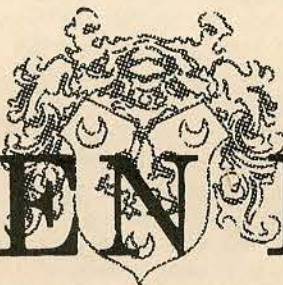

Mothers and fathers of Lindenwood ladies will be encouraged to visit their daughter and her professors on Parents' Day, October 10.

The day will open with a coffee in Cobbs Hall and proceed through a convocation, mother-daughter luncheon, Fathers Club luncheon, open house in Roemer Hall, open house in residence halls, and end with an elaborate smorgasbord in the evening. Details of the day will be announced later.

RESERVATION NOTICE

Reservations for transportation home for Thanksgiving and Christmas cannot be made until after October 25th due to time change.

Contact Miss Odell's office after that date.

Martha Bledsoe Speaks on Peace Corps Experiences

Miss Marthlu Bledsoe, a returned Peace Corps Volunteer to the Philippines, will be on the Lindenwood campus Tuesday, October 6. Miss Bledsoe began her Peace Corps assignment in September, 1961. She trained for three months at Pennsylvania State University and for five weeks at the University of the Philippines Agricultural College in Los Banos. After completion of training in January of 1962, Miss Bledsoe was assigned as a Teacher's Aide to the Buntog Elementary School on the island of Panay.

As a Teacher's Aide, Miss Bledsoe assisted local teachers of English, science and history in preparation of lesson plans which emphasized the use of indigenous materials and examples. During the daily siesta hour, Miss Bledsoe conducted classes for Philippine teachers in the English language and methods of teaching English.

While in the Philippines, Miss Bledsoe set up a lending library of books supplied by the Peace Corps and books donated by the ward schools in her home town, Kirksville, Missouri. She also was involved in a project which entailed borrowing from CARE a hollow block machine which was used for putting floors in the barrio schools.

Her visit should prove to be an interesting experience, particularly to those who are considering work in the Peace Corps.

The Linden Bark begins its 40th year of publication with this first issue of the 64-65 academic year. The editors hope to bring you a newspaper which will be informative and interesting, and which will establish itself as an active force on our campus. It is your newspaper—and your ideas, opinions, and suggestions will help to keep it alive and alert to the needs and wishes of the college community. A "suggestion box" is located on the terrace level of Roemer Hall and we welcome your comments, along with the thoughts you may wish to voice in letters to the editors. The spirit motivating the Bark cannot help but be a vital and exciting one when it is a real part of the people it serves.

Conover Lists Speakers of First Vesper, Chapel

Dr. Conover has given us a sneak preview of some of the chapel and vespers speakers for this year.

According to tradition, Dr. McCluer was the first vespers speaker of the year last Sunday. Dr. Thomas will speak September 27, and the Rev. W. Sherman Skinner will follow on October 4.

COKE PARTY IN COBBS LOUNGE FOLLOWING VESPER TOMORROW EVENING. THOSE WHO ARE INTERESTED IN JOINING THE BARK STAFF, AS WELL AS RETURNING STAFF MEMBERS, ARE INVITED TO ATTEND

Patters and Halestones

THE BARK NEEDS YOU!!

The Linden Bark invites all interested students to join its staff. A coke party will be held in Cobbs Lounge tomorrow evening following vespers for the purpose of organizing a new staff for the coming year. We need reporters to cover the campus and interview visiting guests, faculty members, and fellow students. We need feature writers with an eye to creativity and human interest. We need people who are interested in the advertising and business aspects of a campus periodical. We need shutterbugs and artists and cartoonists and lay-out artists. In short, we need and want people with ideas and interest and a desire to help make the Linden Bark all that a college newspaper should be. We need YOU!!!

The twelve million freshmen (and the few select upperclassmen) were greeted upon their arrival by several new "landmarks." Most noticeable, at first glance, of these is the new flag pole. No institution of learning in our country is truly complete without the traditional sight of our country's flag. Despite the "intellectuals" name calling, using such words as "trite" or "glow-glow," we feel that our flag is, or can be, indicative of our country as a whole in both happy and sad times. We wish to express our gratitude to the administration and board for giving us this symbol of our country's greatness.

A very sincere "Thank You" to those who helped us put out this first issue. Without a regular staff we had to call upon many of our old staff members and friends—and they did a wonderful job, offering ideas and suggestions and writing features and news stories for the Bark. Orchids to them all!!!

It's strange how upperclassmen, upon observing the frantic and fantastic activities of the new freshmen, will begin to recall their own earlier experiences. That first night away from home when you wanted to cry but you knew that you were the only one in the dormitory who was homesick . . . Your first turn at being hostess in the dining room and you dumped the bowl of spaghetti in your lap . . . The boy you met at the mixer who had enormous ears and was only 5'2" and liked to read "Tarzan" comics and who, unfortunately, had your name in his little black book . . . The boy you met on a blind date who had enormous baby-blue eyes and was 6'4" and liked to read "Esquire" and who, unfortunately, had your roommate's name in his little black book.

But eventually foolish freshmen become sophisticated sophomores and sophisticated sophomores develop into jolly, jaunty juniors and the jolly, jaunty juniors emerge into the world of the so very special seniors—and the seniors become absolutely petrified and terribly foolish graduates

Mostly we're happy and eager about the new year and its possibilities right now. There is a real feeling of excitement and inspiration sizzling across campus — and it feels like some of that long-neglected "spirit" may just begin catching hold at Lindenwood. Let's don't lose it—it's so easy to become apathetic and careless as the weeks go by. We've got to do much more than just take up dormitory and classroom space and meet the minimum requirements and be satisfied with second-best and chide ourselves into complacency. It is important that we learn what it means "to be something ever minute of every hour of our lives." There has been far too much of this criticism and complaint which amounts to nothing more than endless, empty words—if we are angry or frustrated or unhappy with a situation then the only way to bring about change is to ACT. Every one of us needs to take just a moment to feel pride and love and respect for the college which is so vital a part of our lives. Without our support and interest it will starve and die—with our active concern and loyalty it will grow and thrive. There is a whole world right here, if we will only recognize it—and then take action to make it a better and more meaningful place in which to live and work and learn.

When driving to St. Louis, or even downtown St. Charles, it is wise to remember that the driver next to you, or even three cars ahead, may be a maniac behind the wheel.

Honor Board Holds Meetings in Dorms

The Honor Code this year is presented as a one-page list in an attempt to keep up with the many changes and simplifications taking place on campus. It is hoped that this will help both upperclassmen and Freshmen, giving them ready access to the fundamentals of the Honor Code.

Next week there will be orientation meetings concerning the Honor System for the Freshmen in each dorm, led by Pat Sharpe, Honor Board Chairman, and the dorm Honor Board Representative. Discussions will center on the Honor System as one part of a two-fold influence fostering the spirit of Lindenwood. Working side by side with the Student Council, the Honor System stresses individual and community responsibility, which leads to a mature student and active student body.

Set Your Goal

Learn how to set your goal. It is important for you to understand this. Few people, even when they realize its importance, really understand how to set a goal. Learn how to set your goal. There are four important things to keep in mind.

1. Write down your goal. You will crystallize your thinking. The very act of thinking as you write will create an indelible impression in your mind.
2. Give yourself a deadline. Specify a time for achieving your objective. This is important in motivating you to set out in the direction of your goal and keep moving towards it.
3. Set your standards high. And the higher you set your major goal, generally speaking, the more concentrated will be the effort you make to achieve it.
4. Aim High. While it is exceedingly desirable that you blueprint your program from beginning to end, this is not always feasible. One doesn't always know all the answers from the beginning of a journey and its ending. But if you know where you are and where you want to be and you start from where you are to get to where you want to be, you will, if you keep properly motivated, move forward step by step until you get there.

College Awards Construction Contract to R. Wright, Inc.

A construction contract for the new Science Teaching Center at Lindenwood College was awarded recently to Robert R. Wright, Inc., for a sum of $1,126,000 by a committee of the Board of Directors, according to an announcement made by President F. L. McCluer. Construction of the building commenced in mid-July, with completion scheduled for Jan. 1, 1966. The building will be located east of the Margaret Leggat Butler Memorial Library.

Having 62,000 square feet, the building will include classrooms and laboratories for biology on the first floor, for physics and mathematics on the second floor, and for chemistry on the third floor. In addition, the terrace level will include space for mechanical equipment, heating, air conditioning, and adequate storage space. A horticultural laboratory will adjoin the greenhouse. A memorial lounge, to be located at the entrance, will be an additional feature. Another needed facility will be provided in the large lecture room on the first floor with a seating capacity of 254. This building will provide the college with much needed space and with adequate facilities for under-graduate instruction in the natural sciences and in mathematics.

As work on the building progresses, the campaign for capital funds to meet the cost of the building, which when equipped will be approximately $1,500,000, will be continued.

John M. Black, Executive Vice-President of Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., St. Louis, is chairman of the campaign committee. Dr. Russell J. Crider of St. Charles, a newly elected member of the Board of Directors, is a member of this committee.

Kenneth E. Wischmeyer is the architect; Neal J. Campbell, structural engineer; and Crawford & Witte, Inc., the mechanical engineers.

Public Affairs Club

Plans Year's Activities

November 22-25, millions of Americans were glued to radio and television sets tearfully mourning the death of their President. In any other country the streets throughout the nation would have been crowded with mourners publicly weeping, but in the United States the news media brought people closer to what was happening than intermediate public announcements.

Because the American public is so dependent on journalists to acquaint them with events, people, and new discoveries, the Public Affairs Club brought former Congressional and White House correspondent, Howard Streeter, to the campus for the first convocation of the year.

The Public Affairs Club, which is a merger of League of Women Voters and the International Relations Club, also includes as semi-independent committees Young Republicans and Young Democrats. Anyone interested in helping with the campaigns for the coming election should contact one of these two committees.

Secretary Judy Prowse informed the Bark that five area study groups are being established within the organization: American government, Europe, the Soviet Bloc, Latin America, and the Near East and South Asia.

Further plans for the year include bringing national Congressman Thomas Curtis and Congresswoman Lenore Sullivan to the campus and sending delegates to six regional and national meetings on national and international affairs.

- NOTICE -WUS Campaign Starts to Roll

We would like to suggest that each campus organization appoint someone in their group to serve as a special news reporter for the Linden Bark. In this way you will receive accurate and complete coverage of all activities and announcements. A general news coordinator will be appointed as soon as the staff is selected and your group reporter may turn the news in to her. As soon as you have selected your Bark representative please notify one of the editors. This should be done at your first meeting.

Music Notes

Fran Huber, president of the L.C. choir, held a rousing "getting-to-know-you" party in honor of the new freshman warblers and our new choir director and brilliant organist, Mr. David Mulbury, whom we warmly welcome to the music department . . . Mr. Franklin Perkins, our former director, has accepted a scholarship offer to begin work on his doctorate at Wash. U. . . Bonnie Zummo, president of Mu Phi Epsilon, professional music sorority, was business delegate to its international convention held in Lincoln, Nebraska, this August. She and Gail Mackenzie, the two members of the world's smallest chapter of Mu Phi, certainly hope to interest many of the 21 freshman music majors into joining with their annual "Hello Party" . . . Mr. Groff Bittner, professor of piano, is hard at work, preparing to open the season of recitals on October 12. Give your ears a treat by coming to hear our famous virtuoso . . . Won't be long before our beloved leader, Mr. John Little, can change the sign above his office door to read Dr. instead of Mr. He has completed the requirements set by Eastman School of Music and is now taking a few measures' rest . . . Mrs. Virginia House, professor of piano, is wallowing in wonderful memories of her recent trip to Europe . . . On a sadder note, gratitude and appreciation are sent to the makeshift theory staff, headed by Mr. Mulbury, Mr. Bittner, and Mr. Little, as they anxiously await the return of Miss Isidor, who is speedily recovering from a recent illness.

Sibley's silly, silly sophomores need some livening up at the moment. Must be my cue to go down to the organ and tickle their toes with a Bach toccata! B.Z.

provides assistance for students around the world who, without this help, would be unable to continue their education. The aid given by W.U.S. helps students to obtain books, to have medical care, and have other needs fulfilled.

Dean Pixler has recently returned from travels this summer in Asia, where he has gained a first-hand acquaintance with the work and officers of W.U.S. in that continent. He should have an interesting report of his experiences.

Lindenwood has, for years, been one of the many colleges in Missouri to participate in the nationwide drive. Lindenwood has also ranked as one of the contributors. In 1963 the total given by L.C. was $1213.30. In 1964, with a drop in enrollment, our contribution was $947.15. In 1965, we expect to have a good increase again, and this will be achieved with the cooperation of each of you.

An auction early in the second semester has traditionally been a major part in our campaign, the planning of which will soon be underway. Now is the time to decide what you will give to W.U.S.!

Two Lindenwood College students won first and second place awards in the Horse Show sponsored by the Univ. City Kiwanis Club, Sept. 19, at the St. Charles Fairgrounds, according to Mrs. Fern Palmer Bittner, instructor in horsemanship at the college.

Jean Kirts, riding "Mister L" won first place in the American Saddlebred Pleasure Class; Cookie DeLott, on "Beautiful Miss" received second place award in this class.

Jean is a sophomore and vice-president of Beta Chi, the col-

Snyder Attends National Student Congress, August

August 16-27 Bylle Snyder attended the 17th National Student Congress of the United States National Student Association as Lindenwood's representative. This twelve day conference was held on the University of Minnesota campus.

Student body presidents, college editors and other student leaders came together for this conference to exchange ideas, develop programs for their campuses, and take action on campus national and international issues which affect students. The Congress began with educational seminars. Bylle's seminars were "The Role and Structure of Student Government" and "Academic Freedom and Freedom of Expression."

The annual Congress of USNSA continues as the largest national forum for the expression of the opinions and ideas for the American student community. Bylle said that 1200 students were present representing 250 colleges and universities from the United States.

In relation to other schools our size Bylle found that our student government has a very good and workable system. We lege's riding club. Cookie is a sophomore art major, and also a member of Beta Chi.

Mrs. Bittner announced that the college horses will appear in a benefit show for diabetic children at the Missouri stables, St. Louis, Sept. 26, 27, and again at the Weldon Springs Horse Show, Oct. 3, 4.

Stewart Bittner, 3-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Bittner, won first place trophy and blue ribbon in the Lead Line class at the Boone County Fair and Horse Show in Columbia, Mo., in August. He was riding Roxie from the college stables.

The Campus Scene

The upperclassmen duck for cover as troops of lovely, laughing freshmen gallop across campus . . . Best wishes to the radiant Mrs. (Dillon) Buck . . . And Mr. Hendren declares that freshman registration has taken on the characteristics of the "country club" set . . . The new men on campus offer something of a coed atmosphere—perhaps it's a secret plan to infiltrate L.C. . . . So many new contraptions appear that one scarcely knows whether to entertain himself by building igloos or counterfeiting bills or baking cookies in the tea hole oven . . . And along with the new language lab and spanking new paint job and redecoration in the Little Theater and bunk beds for freshmen there is at last some light thrown on the subject of Terrace Level Roemer—at last we can see what kind of cigarettes we buy.

Bangles and Beaus

They said goodbye in early June—
It nearly broke her heart,
For her the summer held no joy,
Since they would be apart.
She kissed him, vowing to be true,
With letters every day,
She'd see him when September came—
And so she went away.
But summer yields some lovely fruits—
She had to taste a few;
And when he phoned her back at school,
Her reply was "Tommy WHO?"

Summer brings new romances to some, and strengthens existing ones for others. Our next issue will bring the first installment of "Bangles and Beaus," and we're looking forward to a diamond-studded, solid-gold-pearl-and-sapphire-sparkled column of happiness!!

First Mixer UsesTheme 'Discotheque'

The first mixer of the year was held in Butler gym last Saturday night. Invited guests came from Parks Air College, Eden Theological Seminary, St. Louis University, Washington University, Missouri University, and the University of Missouri at Rolla.

The unique theme, "Discotheque," was beautifully carried out in the table and wall decorations. Refreshments were served by the Social Council members, who had sponsored the mixer.

"The Pacemakers," a popular St. Louis area dance band, performed and were extremely well-received. They will also furnish the music for the second mixer which has been scheduled for October 17.

Beta Chi Plans Year

Lindenwood's honorary riding club, Beta Chi, is one of the most active groups on our campus. Its membership is open to all students who are able to pass three tests in horsemanship. Students who are interested in trying out for Beta Chi can receive information on these tests, which are given in October, from Mrs. Bittner, the riding instructor.

Among Beta Chi's activities are the Open Show and the Lindenwood Horse Show in the spring. A style show is annually presented in mid-winter. The group also plans a trip to the American Royal in Kansas City during October.

Jim Butler of KMOXHighlights LCLC Open House

The annual KCLC Open House was highlighted this year by a visit from Jim Butler, talent on KMOX-radio and a fashion show featuring freshman models. Judy Forstmann planned and executed the evening's activities and did a sparkling job. About 200 people attended the Open House.

Plans for fall programming are now being made. The campus station should be broadcasting by the 18th of September. The fall season will include a jazz program, documentaries on current issues, a Broadway music festival, and hopes for a book review program. During the year students and faculty will join in quorum to discuss current affairs.

Station Manager, Kay Cushing, has hopes for this year being one of the best for KCLC in its history. Miss Cushing said, "We hope all students will take an active interest in KCLC. We're working toward making KCLC the station with the pulsebeat of the campus."

Freshmen and Returning Students Get Settled

Lynn Kirkland begins the long process of unpacking.

Getting all the luggage from the car up to third floor can be a problem.

Parents try to assist their daughters, but often just stand in the middle of the room looking confused—and amused.

Poetry Society Begins Year with Contest

The Poetry Society will begin its year with a poetry contest. The poetry submitted will be considered by the group and new members selected. The deadline for entries has not yet been set. Further information will be put in the mail boxes.

Aside from the regular meetings where poetry is discussed and occasional guest speakers are present, the society publishes a collection of poems called "Sense & Essence." This collection of poems is limited to members of Poetry Society. Anyone who would like a poem printed may place it in a box outside Mr. Feeley's office and it will be considered.

The officers of the group this year are: Peggy Duffy, President; Cindy Bogman, Vice President; Bertita Trabert, Treasurer.

An Open Letter From ALD

Freshman, now that you've started classes and have begun to get settled, you can make plans for the future. First on your list of things to do should be to become a member of Alpha Lambda Delta.

It takes a 3.5 grade point at either the end of the semester or the end of the year. So it's up to you to do your best; I'm sure we will have the largest pledge class ever this year.

Alpha Lambda Delta has a few things planned to get you better acquainted with us. We are sponsoring the Freshman Tea on September 27, in Nicolls Lounge. This will give you a chance to meet the Alpha Lambda members and the faculty who are also invited. Do be sure and come.

Then after mid-term grades

Linden Scroll Raises Money For Scholarship

Linden Scroll is an honorary senior service organization. Every Spring juniors who meet the requirements of "good citizenship, good scholarship, and effective leadership in the college community" are tapped into the organization by the present members. This past spring 12 juniors, Barbara Widman Badgett, Imogene Elrod (chaplain), Mary Ferrell (treasurer), Glenda Gerred, Vivian Lane (secretary), Pat Merrill, Mary Ann Messer, Cheryl Ranchino, Marianne Sawyer, Pat Sharpe (historian), Bylle Snyder and Martha Sparke (president) were chosen. A breakfast initiation was held at Dr. Rechtern's home on May 9, 1964. Since Barbara Widman Badgett was in England at that time a supper meeting was held at Dr. Rechtern's home on September 23, 1964, to officially initiate Barbara.

Scroll has several traditional activities which will be continued this year. The selling of calendars takes place in the fall of each year. At Christmas Scroll members undertake to sell booklets containing the address of each student and faculty member. The money earned is used to award one or two scholarships each spring to a deserving student. To supplement the calendar and address book money, there is a rummage sale each fall. Rummage is collected for this sale in the spring.

As a service organization, Scroll is striving to be effective in another area. Since many clubs and organizations are represented in the Scroll membership, it is hoped that the monthly Scroll meetings can serve as a place for discussion of topics of current interest to all students. Not only will this give the students an opportunity to know the feeling of other students, but it will point out to the administration student opinion.

Philosophy Club Has First Meeting

Renaissance philosophy, phenomenology, existentialism, and Dr. Thomas's doctoral thesis were among the topics on the program for last year.

The topics for this year have not yet been announced, but the program should be just as interesting and varied.

The first meeting has been scheduled for Wednesday, October 7, at 7 p.m. Election of officers will be held at that time and the program for that night will be announced soon.

Students who have had or are currently enrolled in at least one philosophy course are eligible for membership. Visitors are always welcome. We hope to see you this year.

Linden Leaves Starts Work On Yearbook; Asks for Staff

Linden Leaves editors have announced that work on the 64-65 yearbook began this past week. Sophomore and Junior pictures are being scheduled and lay-out work is being done at the present time.

Students who are interested in joining the Leaves staff should contact either Sandy Reynolds in Butler Hall or Barbara Brunsmann in Irwin. Typists and "busy workers" are particularly needed, so anyone who is qualified may get in touch with the editors before October 5.

Candid shots are needed, and those who would like to contribute pictures for the yearbook are requested to turn them in to their dorm photographer.

Student Artist Guild Plans Field Trips

Student Artist Guild is an organization open to all art majors and minors. This year the guild plans to have Saturday drawing sessions, and field trips to the Museum, Shaw's Garden, and lots of other interesting little places! Also we'll be having guest speakers, exhibits, and exchange programs with the art departments of other schools in the St. Louis area. Interested freshmen and upperclassmen please contact Judy Wycoff, 328 Nicolls or Box 19, by Sept. 30.

Drama Dept. Holds Tryouts

Monday and Tuesday nights, September 21 and 22, open tryouts were held for the first play of the year, "The Winter's Tale" by William Shakespeare. "The Winter's Tale" will be directed by Professor Robert Douglas Hume, Director of Theatre. The cast has been announced, and rehearsals will begin immediately.

Mr. Hendren registers one of the record-enrollment students, Jane Eddy.
