COMMUNIQUE

Vol. Three, No. #24; Feb. 26, 1985

STUDENTS, STAFF VOLUNTEERS SOUGHT - Students as well as faculty and staff volunteers are being sought to assist alumni taking part in Lindenwood's Alumni Phone-a-Thon, taking place now through March 13. Volunteers are needed Sunday through Wednesday evenings.

In addition to prizes throughout the first and second phase of the phone-a-thon, a grand prize of a weekend at the Lodge of the Four Seasons will be awarded to the volunteer securing the most in fund raising. The grand prize is for accommodations for two at the Lodge of the Four Seasons.

The current phone-a-thon is concentrated in southern states where organizers hope to reach 2,500 alumni. After a one-month "rest" for volunteers, the second phase will be conducted April 23-May 30, concentrated on alumni in northern states. A goal of $100,000 in cash and contributions is sought during the two-phase event.

If you would like to help Lindenwood and can donate a few hours during an evening or two, give Jim Thompson a call at extension #320, or let Esther Fenning know that you'd like to volunteer. Call her at extension #317.

WILSON AIDS IN NEW HEART SERIES - KCLC-FM is one of 20 radio stations in the metro area airing a six-month-long series produced by the St. Louis Heart Association (SLHA). The series of 60-second segments of heart health education feature the voice of Robert R. Lynn, a well-known media personality and announcer. The series, which airs at 7:33 a.m. on KCLC Monday-Friday, is offered through the 20 stations' public affairs and commercial programming, according to Jim Wilson, KCLC general manager who created the series with the help of SLHA committee members.

Wilson has recorded a number of interviews with health professionals and residents for materials used in the series. The messages serve as reminders to fight becoming victimized by cardiovascular disease. Called "Heartbeat," the series covers such preventive measures as weight control, regular exercise, not smoking and having blood pressure checked. It also tells of the importance of being able to save a life by knowing basic life-support techniques, such as cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR), Wilson said.

BLACK REPERTORY COMPANY TO PERFORM - The St. Louis Black Repertory Company will bring the realism of writer Phillip Hayes-Dean to campus March 3 with its production of "Sty of the Blind Pig." To be performed at 3 p.m. in Jelkyl Theatre, the presentation is part of this year's Visiting Artists Series, sponsored Lectures & Concerts Committee and funded in part by a grant from the Missouri Arts Council. Tickets are $5 each and available at the Box Office, 946-2004, from noon to 5 p.m. daily.

The "Sty of the Blind Pig" centers on the activities of the Warren clan, a poor Black family struggling to survive on the south side of Chicago in the mid-1950s. The drama, directed by Ron Himes, is part of Lindenwood's month-long celebration of Black cultural history highlighted during this month's observance of "Black History Month."

Founded in 1976 and incorporated as a nonprofit theatre organization the following year, the St. Louis Black Repertory Company presents a variety of experimental one-act plays, touring programs and childrens' theatre productions throughout the metro St. Louis area.

For Your Info...

STUDENTS SOUGHT FOR YIN WORK - Youth in Need, Inc., (YIN) is a group shelter home in St. Charles for those 12-18 years of age. Young people in distress are provided shelter until appropriate housing or other placement is diagnosed or recommended. YIN is in need of counseling assistants and students to admit clients initially, provide counseling and to train high school students in the development of a "youth advisory."

If you're interested and want further information, contact Sue Snyder at the YIN, 724-7171, or Marigay Sheble, director of cooperative education, at extension #307. If you qualify, you may be able to receive academic credit as well as valuable experience.

STUDY SKILLS WORKSHOPS - "The 'Write' Stuff" is the title of workshops on writing techniques that will be presented this week by the CAP Center and peer tutors. Sessions are scheduled today from 11:30 a.m.-12:30 p.m. in the Legacy Room of Ayres Cafeteria and again on Wednesday from 7-8 p.m. in the Cobbs Hall Lounge. All students are invited to attend the workshop.

BREAKFAST MEETING SLATED - The Mid-Rivers Association for Counseling & Development (MRACD) will hold its winter meeting at 8 a.m. March 7 at Noah's Ark in St. Charles, reports Marilyn Morris, MRACD member. The organization is open to any person whose primary work-related responsibilities or interests are in the area of human services, such as guidance, counseling, social work or personnel work. Anyone interested in finding out more about the MRACD, in becoming a member or in attending the March 7 breakfast session, contact Morris at extension #214.

LINDENWOOD TAKES TO THE AIR WAVES - Two 60-second spots were recorded recently and are being aired this week on KY98, KHTR, KMJM, KWK and KGLD Radio as part of a spring advertising program by the Admissions and Public Relations offices. Featuring Barry Freese of the Admissions Office as the announcer, the spots are directed to traditional and nontraditional students. To supplement the radio advertising, print insertions have been made in the ST. LOUIS BUSINESS JOURNAL, ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH, RIVERFRONT TIMES, ST. LOUIS MANAGER MAGAZINE and the ST. CHARLES JOURNAL.

STUDIO PRESENTATION MARCH 5-7 - "Appalachia, My Sorrow," a play of hopes, dreams, poetry and music by Kentuckian Lee Pennington, will be presented by the college's Performing Arts Dept. March 5-7 at 8 p.m. in the FAB. Pennington writes exclusively about the people and the lifestyles of his favorite region, Appalachia. The college's studio presentation of his play, with its ensemble of eight performers, continues this literary tradition. Call the Performing Arts Dept. at extension #218 for further details, and make it a point to see one of the three showings in March.

'SOUTHERN FOLK IMAGES' TO OPEN - An exhibit featuring works by David Butler, Henry Speller and Bill Traylor opens March 3 in the Harry D. Hendren Gallery in the FAB. As part of this month's celebration of Black history, the exhibit will continue through March 27. An opening reception, sponsored by the Associates of the Fine Arts, will be held from 4-6 p.m. March 3.

As the title of the exhibit suggests, "Southern Folk Images" will honor the three artists who are natives of Alabama, Louisiana and Mississippi. The sculptures of Butler are fashioned from weathered tin and then painted with enamels. For their two-dimensional work, Speller and Traylor employ pencil, crayons and showcard pigments on cardboard and assorted papers.

The exhibit originated as a traveling show by the Fine Arts Gallery at the University of New Orleans. The exhibited works are on loan from private collectors, the Gasperi Folk Art Gallery in New Orleans and the Luise Ross Gallery in New York City. Exhibition hours are from 9 a.m.-5 p.m. weekdays and from 1-4 p.m. on weekends.

MARCH 9 WELLNESS SYMPOSIUM - Lindenwood faculty members and graduate students will participate in "Wellness: Taking Charge," the second annual symposium sponsored by the Holistic Health Center of St. Louis. Scheduled from 9 a.m.-4:30 p.m., March 9, the symposium will be held at the J.C. Penney Bldg. at the University of Missouri-St. Louis campus. Open to the public, the event will provide information on how to take charge of personal health and wellness. Registration fees are $20 for the full day and $10 for the half-day session.

Representing the college from the LCIE will be John Shaffer, D.Min., a certified pastoral counselor and an adjunct faculty member, and Sam Zibit, M.P.H., an instructor in health administration and a specialist in gerontology. Also taking part in the symposium are several LCIE graduate students and Richard Rickert, Ph.D., associate professor and LCIE faculty advisor. For further information and registration procedures, contact Rickert at extension #227, or the Holistic Health Center, 968-0131.

Faculty/Staff...

FACULTY FORUMS RETURN - All community members are welcome and invited to bring refreshments to this semester's Faculty Forum series. John Dooley of the Math and Computer Science departments will be the featured speaker in this semester's return of the popular forums. His presentation, "What Is Computer Science Anyway?," will be at 4 p.m. March 1 in the MAB Lounge. A social hour begins at 3:15 p.m. Other programs in the series are slated March 22 and April 12 and 26.

PRESIDENT RECEIVES BOARD APPOINTMENTS - President James I. Spainhower has received separate appointments on the boards of directors of the St. Charles YMCA and St. Joseph Health Center in St. Charles. Both are for three-year terms.

AND, BABY MAKES THREE - Stephanie Christine is the name given to a daughter born February 7 to Men's Soccer Coach Joe Olwig and his wife. The baby weighed eight pounds, eight ounces, and was 21 inches long at birth. Stephanie is the Florissant couple's first child.

Inter-Departmental...

OOPS, WE GOOFED . . . - Last week's Inter-Departmental Memo concerning Post Office Regulations omitted one important policy - All out-going mail must be received by 4 p.m. Any mail received after 4 p.m. will be dated and sent the following day - no exceptions!

Also, item "6" in last week's "Communique" applies only to student mail. All on-campus mail for students must have (1) the name and (2) the box number.

ASSISTANCE SOUGHT BY SWITCHBOARD - Faculty and staff assistance is requested to help eliminate problems with internal and external phone calls.

First, departments are asked to notify the Switchboard when no one will be in the office and whether calls are to be forwarded to another person. Also, let operators know if you want them to take messages for you. With a little cooperation from faculty and staff, we can a more efficient and effective telephone service.

Second, there have been a few complaints about departments receiving the wrong calls. It must be remembered that this isn't always the Switchboard's fault. Others make calls on campus, and frequently dial the wrong extension. If your telephone rings twice, it is from an outside source; if it rings once, it is coming from the Switchboard.

Student News...

STUDENT SUPERVISORS WANTED - Responsible students interested in earning extra money on an occasional basis should contact Carol Haukap about positions as student event supervisors. To find out more about these openings, call her in the CAP Center, extension #237, between 2:30-5:30 p.m. Monday-Friday.

PRINCE IS COMING TO CAMPUS - Well, on film that is. Albert Magnoli's film, "Purple Rain," starring rock star Prince along with Morris Day and Jerome Benton is the March 1st presentation for the Spring Film Series sponsored by the Lindenwood Student Government. It will be shown at 7:30 p.m. in Young Hall Auditorium. Admission is free to Lindenwood students; for others, it is $1. Rated R, "Purple Rain" is about a young musician stuggling to make it on the Minneapolis rock club circuit. It is a story of love, survival and triumph. As part of "Black History Month," a film about the history of black music will be shown before "Purple Rain" at 6 p.m. Refreshments will be served afterwards.

A MEASLES WARNING - Jane Henthorn, R.N., campus health director, reports that an outbreak of measles (the two-week variety also known as "red" or "hard" measles) has been reported at Principia College. "If anyone has had contact recently with persons from Principia, please contact the Student Health Center at extension #270," she states. Reports of measles also have come from Ohio State University. The college-age population currently is the highest-risk group for contacting measles.
