Food Availability at Lindenwood Starbucks

Due to an employee strike in the Starbucks supply chain, there may be disruptions in the availability of food items at the Lindenwood Starbucks in the Library and Academic Resources Center in the coming days. During this period, the availability of food items may be limited or completely absent at times. This situation will have no effect on the availability of beverages at the Lindenwood Starbucks. We hope that the matter will be resolved quickly.

Group Meditation

Group meditation times are now available in the Memorial Art Building lounge. Students, faculty, and staff are welcome. Join us on Mondays at 12:15 p.m. and Thursdays at 12:30 p.m. for 15-20 minutes using the Headspace app.

Please direct any questions to Colleen Biri.

Autism Exercise Workshop

Lindenwood is hosting an autism exercise workshop which will take place on Saturday, Sept. 28, from 7:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. in the Evans Commons 3020 Multipurpose Room. In this workshop, you will work with peers and like-minded professionals to build your knowledge of how to successfully teach exercise to those with autism. A light breakfast and lunch will be provided. See the full itinerary and register. Be sure to complete the online modules before attending the workshop.

MOMENTS

The Q2 team is thrilled to announce the Q2 Moments Campaign, which will kickoff for the fall 2019 semester. The objective is to obtain 2000 Q2 moments by Nov.22, 2019. Submissions can come from all employees and students across the university. If we reach the 2000 moment goal, all employees will be invited to a holiday luncheon in Evans Commons featuring turkey, dressing, and all of the fixings.

Q2 moments can include examples of employees demonstrating Q2 service excellence; they can include new process developments that improve the student or employee experience; or they can illustrate faculty and/or staff going the extra mile for students, colleagues, and other Lindenwood constituents. Individuals can submit Q2 moments through the Lindenwood Learning Academy webpage.

We are recognizing Dr. Rachel Ferguson today. Please see the message below from one of her former students:

Hi Dr. Ferguson,

I just wanted to reach out and touch base. I'm in my second semester here at SLU Law and it's amazing. We just started property law and I wanted to vindicate you in a few ways. (You know, in case you ever have a student wonder why all this stuff they're learning from you matters in law school). I've been thinking a lot over my time here and I can honestly say that the things I learned in Political Philosophy and Game Theory have been the most salient in regard to helping to understand law, it's origin, and its applications. I will admit, I struggled with game theory, it's very heady. But, the applications of it are also evident in the practice of law. As a matter of fact, I had stumbled on a torts attorney who uses game theory to assess judicial decisions in regard to proximal causation.

So, if you ever wonder, or the students ever approach you and wonder why they need to learn this "stuff" when they're going to be going to law school, tell them to shut up and listen and they can thank you for it after their first year.

Semper Fidelis,
XXX X. XXXXXX

Dr. Ferguson, thank you for the energy you bring both inside and outside of the classroom. Q2 Moments like this one, make lasting impressions.
