LINDENWOOD COLLEGE

St. Charles, Missouri

A Program for the Continuing
Education of Women

Fall Semester - Sept. 14, 1961

LINDENWOOD COLLEGE recognizes

1. That early marriages have brought about the interruption of the educational programs of women.
2. That with the last child in school, many young married women wish to be able to pick up the threads of their education dropped either at the end of high school or sometime during the college years.
3. That these young married women have between 25 and 40 productive years ahead of them in the labor market.
4. That we must anticipate continuing shortages in the fields of teaching, nursing, social work, library service and all the scientific careers.
5. That many women wish courses to extend their minds and to provide cultural and intellectual stimulation which in turn will bring enrichment to the family.
6. That others will need retraining or specialized education to help them reenter the labor market.

EXPENSES

Day students are admitted at a special tuition rate of $460.00 for the college year plus $40.00 student activity fee. A charge of $25 per semester hour is made for all those not attending on a full-time basis.

LINDENWOOD COLLEGE offers

1. A strong liberal arts program for the enrichment of one's leisure time activities and community responsibilities.
2. A Division of Professional Education which provides degree work in Teacher Education, Office Management, Home Economics, Physical Education and Nursing Education beyond the R. N.
3. Preprofessional work, among others, toward social service, law, medical fields, library science and religious education.

LINDENWOOD COLLEGE can provide

1. Flexibility in scheduling of classes and curricular planning.
2. A program of testing.
3. An evaluation of credits and high school or college achievement.
4. Vocational counseling for occupational competence.
