

Lindenwood College

BULLETIN

Dr. Siegmund A. E. Betz, professor of English, demonstrating a model of an Elizabethan theatre to a class in Shakespeare. (See page 3.)

NOVEMBER • 1954

On Education and World Affairs

Dear Lindenwood Alumnae:

This editorial brings you comment on two matters—the study of English language and literature, and the maintenance of a balance of power as the road to peace in the current international situation.

The first is suggested by the brief description of the English Department of Lindenwood College found in this Bulletin and the second by a lecture delivered at Lindenwood in October by Hanson Baldwin, Military Editor of the New York Times.

Perhaps the two may be appropriately mentioned in one statement in these paragraphs for one of the primary purposes of liberal education is to lead students to think for themselves, to acquire a notable independence of mind, and to express themselves about serious matters with clarity and effectiveness.

The Study of English

The ability to use one's native language effectively is so vital to the acquisition and use of an education that American college programs generally require the study of English composition and English literature—the composition for practice in handling language seriously, accurately, and graciously; and the reading of literature as models of expression embodying the content of our culture. Courses in English language and literature constitute the core of the liberal arts curriculum. There is no thinking except in language. Until one has some degree of mastery in her own language, she is hardly capable of sustained and significant thinking. Understanding of one's own language is essential to the ability to think, to effectiveness in communicating with others, and to capacity for understanding the thoughts of others.

In addition to skill in the use of a language, one may find in the study of literature understanding of one's self as a human being, of the society in which one lives, and of the world itself. The thoughts held by great men throughout human history are presented as a totality—as an unspecialized picture of human life. This is not to say that English as a subject presents the only approach to the understanding of life, but rather to say that it presents an approach that includes and may reconcile specialized points of view. All that one learns in other departments can be applied to one's study of literature; all that one learns in literature illustrates the relevance of other kinds of study. In the literature of the race, the ideas of philosophy and of history and of poetry and of religion are revealed as operating within the framework of human experience. Here is life as seen in the process of living it rather than as it appears in a laboratory or a philosopher's study.

In literature there is a supreme opportunity for the enlargement of experience. No one in his own personal experience may participate in all the variety of human thought and adventure, of suffering and joy, of pain and hope, of struggle and faith. Through literature one can vicariously have insight into this human experience and thus acquire the understanding whereby the educated person knows that no human experience is entirely unique and that the spiritual resources of the human race are manifold and wonderful. For the American student who wishes to become a thoughtful American citizen some skill in the use of the English language and some knowledge of the great literature of that language is imperative. Such a citizen, at home in his own culture and sensitive to its kinship with other cultures, will find literature an inspiration and a source of strength beyond his college days. The Department of English Language and Literature at Lindenwood is commended to students seeking skill and inspiration.

The Road to Peace

Hanson Baldwin, answering the question, "Where can we go from here?" listed three roads which we should not follow in the present international situation and asserted that the answer is the middle way—that is, through maintenance of a balance of power internationally. The three roads he warned us not to take are first, isolationism, which he termed impossible today; second, world order by conquest, which, he said, is inadvisable because a preventive war would solve no problems; and, third, world order by agreement (world government), which is impractical politically "in our life time."

Seeking a balance of power to prevent war means, he said, continuing United States military strength so organized that we can fight the cold war. It means, further, dealing with specific situations as they arise without expecting a perfect solution tomorrow. It means backing the United Nations and trying to strengthen it but not depending upon it for military security. It means limited economic aid to friends, and military aid to fill in the military vacuums of power. It means promoting a psychological program to make peoples confident of our aims.

"Russia's allies must know we are not aggressors, and that we are interested in peace," he said.

Mr. Baldwin left many feeling more optimistic than they had hitherto felt and their optimism has received added strength with the new accord between France and Germany. It seems clear that the United States must maintain strength militarily, but the idea of maintaining peace by a balance of power assumes the peaceful co-existence in one world of the communistic and free nations. The balance of power program needs to be corrected with the lesson of history that peace is not

(Continued on page 8)

LINDENWOOD COLLEGE BULLETIN

Vol. 128

NOVEMBER, 1954

No. 2

A monthly paper published by
LINDENWOOD COLLEGE

ST. CHARLES, MO.

Entered at the St. Charles Post Office as Second Class Matter

Lindenwood's English Department Gives Excellent Training

Distinguished Faculty Plans Curriculum with Care; Graduates Profit from Superior Training

LINDENWOOD'S English faculty recently received from an alumna a letter of thanks for the excellent academic training she had received at Lindenwood. She had gone on to graduate study in English and had had the double satisfaction of discovering that she was better prepared for advanced work than many of her fellow students and of being told by her professors that her Lindenwood training had been superior.

The letter was gratifying, but it was not unique. The English faculty, and other departmental faculties, too, repeatedly are heartened by similar testimonials from former students.

The English faculty is tireless in its efforts to develop its students. Advanced students may do special research and writing projects. But the curriculum has been developed with care to serve all students—from those who need help in remedial reading and the mechanics of writing to those who take advanced courses in literature and in creative writing. Literature offerings vary from courses in Chaucer and Shakespeare to courses in modern fiction, poetry, and drama. Vocational offerings include the teaching of English, radio writing, and journalism. The department sponsors three publications: The Griffin (creative writing), Linden Leaves (yearbook), and Linden Bark (newspaper). It also sponsors the Poetry Society, a lively club whose members are chosen through an annual original poetry contest and who meet frequently throughout the year to read and criticize their writings.

Honor came to Lindenwood last June when Miss Jo June DeWeese (1954 B. A. with high honors in English) was granted a Woodrow Wilson Fellowship. She is studying this year at the University of North Carolina.

Miss Betty Jack Littleton (A. B. magna cum laude, 1951) took her master's degree at Stanford University in 1953. She taught at Lindenwood last year, spent last summer traveling abroad, and now is teaching at State College, Brookings, S. D.

Miss Marguerite Little (A. B. 1947, M. A. University of Iowa) and Miss Mary Ann Smith (A. B. magna cum laude, 1950) are teaching at Monticello College. Miss Carol Mahan (A. B. 1953) teaches at the Ferguson (Mo.) High School. Mrs. Patricia Underwood Carswell (A. B. magna cum laude 1951) has been studying law at Cornell University.

The department is headed by Dr. Alice Parker, who is as versatile as are the English offerings. A dynamic lecturer, she is in demand as a speaker at home, and in the summer and fall of 1953, she lectured throughout the British Isles on an exchange lecture fellowship. She has been a leader in Missouri in the American Association of University Women. Still she finds time for

(Continued on page 6)

Lindenwood's English faculty, left to right (front row), Dr. Dawson, Miss Ely, Dr. Parker; (second row), Dr. Sibley, Miss Littleton (on staff last year), and Dr. Betz.

REUNION OF CLASS OF '48

A reunion group from the class of 1948 are, left to right, (front row) Lois Schatzman, Jeane Sebastian Anderson, Louise Ritter Blackwood, Nancy Kern Peteler; (second row) Marthella Mayhall Crowder, Ann Wehmeyer Nichols, and Betty Meredith Coulter. Linda Blakey, also present, was not available when the photograph was taken.

'College Is a Privilege' Says Mrs. Stockstrom

By Margie Terrell, sophomore
(Reprinted from the Linden Bark)

"A college education is a privilege as well as a responsibility," Mrs. Arthur Stockstrom, member of the board of directors, Lindenwood College, said in her Founders' Day address Oct. 16, in Roemer Auditorium. Mrs. Stockstrom told the Lindenwood alumnae, faculty, and students that a person who has been to college is able to make a real contribution in educational living which "will go a long way toward making this a better world."

Developing the idea of the "privilege" of a college education, she said that a person who goes to college is "one of a chosen few," for approximately only one out of every four persons attends college. Students are privileged also, she said, because of possible sacrifices made in their homes to send them to college and because at Lindenwood, costs per student are about $700 a year more than the student pays in tuition. "Also," Mrs. Stockstrom continued, "you have chosen a church college, where learning will go on under Christian environment and influence. With such privileges, every girl should live richly after college, as a way of paying her debts."

Mrs. Stockstrom told the group that in return for this higher education, a person should "live a rich life, contributing to social and cultural forces wherever you may be."

To get the most out of college, the student must be an "active participant in college living—in the activities as well as in the classrooms." Mrs. Stockstrom emphasized the advantage of remaining in the same school for four years for "a person is unable to get continuous worthwhile learning unless she is in a continuous worthwhile environment."

"An organized mind is a real asset," she said, "and whether the individual marries or has a career, a college education is a part of her equipment which will be of

CAMPUS NEWS IN BRIEF

Lowell Sharpe, junior from Omaha, Neb., won the annual Poetry Society contest with two poems, "Golden Games" and "Prayer on Hearing Handel's Messiah." Sharing honorable mentions for their poems were Ellen Devlin of Pine Bluff, Ark., and Joan Le Claire of Richmond Heights, Mo., freshmen, and Mary Ann Thielecke, senior, of Little Rock, Ark. . . . Doris Beaumar, senior of LeRoy, Ill., played the lead in Anatole France's "Man Who Married a Dumb Wife" on Nov. 19. Scheduled for Friday, Dec. 3, is Ibsen's "A Doll's House," starring Patt Wilkerson Meisel, senior from St. Charles, and directed by Gloria Bursey, senior of Grand Rapids, Mich. . . . St. Louis radio station KMOX entertained the Lindenwood student body at a party at the Hotel Chase on Saturday afternoon, Oct. 30, which included an hour's broadcast featuring L. C. talent and interviews with campus leaders. . . . Lindenwood's Athletic Association was host on Oct. 22-23 to representatives from 11 colleges and universities for the state conference of the Athletic Foundation of College Women. . . . That same weekend chaplains of 43 Presbyterian colleges were on campus for the second annual Presbyterian Conference on Campus Christian Life. . . . The campus League of Women Voters held an election on Oct. 26, a week ahead of national elections, and the students favored a Republican Congress. . . . Three members of the International Relations Club represented the Brazilian delegation to the U. N. in a mock United Nations assembly held by 11 colleges and universities in the area during U. N. Week. . . . On campus U. N. Week was observed at a Vesper service at which Rabbi Ferdinand Isserman of Temple Israel, St. Louis, spoke and the College Choir sang a United Nations hymn.

inestimable value." Then she added, "All the learning that is going to be done in your life isn't going to be done here in four years."

Alumnae Renew Friendships During Alumnae Weekend

"Some of us were as thrilled to be on campus as any typical freshman. . . . If I ever get an oil well, I'll remember Lindenwood."

"The weekend was highly pleasant and satisfying. No experience is quite like being with friends of long standing."

"It was nice to come back to Lindenwood, see something of school life as it is today, meet old and new friends."

"I really had an awfully good time — the kind of time I'm going to remember always."

These excerpts from alumnae letters, written following the second mid-October alumnae weekend at Lindenwood, tell their own story. Returning alumnae numbered about 120, and they came from 12 states.

At the alumnae dinner which opened weekend activities on Oct. 15, alumnae heard short talks from seniors about what's going on at the college this fall and a talk from President McCluer about the McCluer summer in Europe and the alumnae whom he and Mrs. McCluer visited abroad.

Alumnae visited with the faculty at an open house at the McCluers' home. They visited with each other in Ayres Hall, alumnae headquarters for the weekend, and in the tea room, the dining room — everywhere on campus! They attended Founders' Day convocation on Saturday morning and heard Mrs. Arthur Stockstrom, member of the Board of Directors, talk of the responsibilities and privileges of college-educated women.

At the annual meeting of the alumnae association, the alumnae voted to give $500 out of the treasury to the chapel fund. IT WAS REQUESTED THAT

ALUMNAE BE ADVISED THROUGH THE BULLETIN THAT ALUMNAE DUES OF $1 PER PERSON ARE DUE FOR 1954-55. All former Lindenwooders are urged to send their dues to the association treasurer, Adelaide Wilke Huncker (B. S. 1941), 1046 Madison St., St. Charles, in order to build up the association treasury for future causes.

Virginia Porter Schreiber (A. B. 1953), the ever loyal president of the alumnae association, presided at the annual meeting and at the alumnae dinner. On duty, too, were Juanita Cook (B. S. 1943), secretary, and Adelaide Wilke Huncker. The vice-president, Ernestine Thro Magner (A. B. 1936), was not present because her fourth son had just been born.

Many alumnae, in addition to the officers, deserve credit for the success of the weekend. They are the women who wrote personal letters to their classmates to stimulate interest in reunions. They cannot all be mentioned here, but special tribute should be paid to Helen Weber Whalen (1931) whose untiring efforts resulted in the largest reunion (and a gift of $203 to the chapel fund from the 1931 reunion-ites), and to Donalee Wehrle Hood, 1945, and Ann Nichols Wehmeyer, 1948.

One of the longest treks back to the campus was taken by Mrs. Esther Anderson Burtner, class of 1900, who came from Osceola Mills, Pa. Earliest Lindenwood class represented was 1892 — with Miss Alma Stumberg of St. Charles in attendance. The newest class, 1954, was represented by eight members.

Why not start planning now to meet your college friends at Lindenwood in October, 1955?

Members of the class of 1931 who came for their class reunion are, left to right, (front row) Lena Lewis, Lorraine Robey O'Connor, Katherine Ann Disque Carter, Helen Weber Whalen; (second row) Melba Schaper Wilkinson, Elizabeth Thomas McCormack, Elizabeth Clark, and Elsie Priep Hey.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Zager (Ruth Painter, A. B. 1945), Apt. 10A, 180 Mercer St., Somerville, N. J.: a daughter, Mary Cynthia, born Oct. 11.

Mr. and Mrs. William Baxter Crowder (Marthella Mayhall, B. M. 1948), 439 Jackson Ave., University City, Mo.: a son, Charles Baxter, born Sept. 19. He has a sister, Elaine, 1½.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Weil Strauss (Jeanne Meyerhoff, 1947-49), 439 Jackson Ave., St. Louis, Mo.: a daughter, Meredith Gail, born Sept. 5.

Mr. and Mrs. Ora Collier, Jr. (Virginia Akers, 1949-51), R. R. No. 1, Albany, Mo.: a son, James Roger, born July 22.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lee Reid (Joyce Powell, B. S. 1951), 4609 Summit, Kansas City, Mo.: a son, Richard Thomas, born Sept. 23. He has a brother, 2.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack R. Mills (Earleen Simon, 1944-45), 5009 N. Woodward Ave., Oklahoma City, Okla.: a daughter, Nancy Leigh, born Aug. 17. She has a brother, James Russell, 3.

2/Lt. and Mrs. Thomas F. Neher (Rose Marie Danz, 1951-53), 104 N. Oak St., Union, Mo.: a daughter, Beverly Ann, born Aug. 9.

Mr. and Mrs. James Cadle (Doris Fay, 1945-47), 910 N. Pine, Pittsburg, Kan.: a son, Douglas Lee, born July 25. He has two sisters, Judy, 7, and Margaret, 6, and a brother, Andy, 3.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack H. Vestal (Mary Medora Swilley, A. B. 1947), 516 N. Parkway Drive, El Dorado, Ark.: a daughter, Martha Caroline, born June 16. She has a brother, John Harrison, 3½.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Handren, Jr. (Doris Vanecsek, 1942-44), 105½ Franklin St., Valparaiso, Ind.: a daughter, Marcia Ann, born Oct. 6. She has two sisters, Sharon, 7½, and Debra, 2½.

ENGLISH DEPARTMENT

(Continued from page 3)

individual work with Lindenwood students and for continued study and writing.

The department boasts four Ph. D.'s. Dr. Parker's is from Yale University. The others are Dr. Elizabeth Dawson, University of Iowa; Dr. Siegmund A. E. Betz, University of Cincinnati; and Dr. Agnes Sibley, Columbia University. Dr. Sibley recently had a two-year exchange professorship at Bishop Otter College, Chichester, England. Dr. Dawson and Dr. Betz recently did summer teaching at Missouri State College at Warrensburg, and Dr. Betz, who is a captain in the Air Force Reserve, teaches an evening course at Washington University.

Other members of the department are Miss Dorothy Ely, Lindenwood alumna with an M. A. from the University of Wisconsin, and Mrs. Mary Bryant, M. A., University of Pennsylvania. Miss Ely sponsors the Linden Leaves, and Mrs. Bryant teaches journalism and sponsors the Linden Bark.

WEDDINGS

Nancy Dana (A. B. 1948) was married to Roger Cleveland III on Oct. 16 at the Congregational Church in Winnetka, Ill. They are living at 915 Western Ave., Northbrook, Ill.

Sally Snelling (1951-52) and Dr. Ray E. Howell, Jr., were married Oct. 24 at the First Presbyterian Church in Wahoo, Neb. Patricia Gleeson (B. A. 1954) was a bridesmaid in the wedding. The Howells will live in Denver.

Elizabeth Biddle Young (1953-54) became the bride of Jack Dwayne Hopper on July 10. They will make their home in Jackson, Tenn.

Valerie Mark (1953-54) was married to Ronald Lee Farra on Sept. 30 in the Lutheran Church in Grand Rapids, Mich. They will make their home in Grand Rapids.

Carolyn Lovett (1951-54) was married in October in Star City, Ark., to Everett Lee Netzger of Steamboat Springs, Colo.

Dolores Thomure (1942-44) and Richard Irwin Mallen were married on July 24 at the First Congregational Church in Bonne Terre, Mo.

Nancy Whiteside (1953-54) was married to George Ralph Van Winkle at the First Presbyterian Church in Sapulpa, Okla., this fall.

Belatedly we report the marriage of Rosemary Boles (1950-51) to Arthur Martin Frank in Dodge City, Kan., on Dec. 27. They are living in the Town House Apartments in Topeka, Kan.

Mary Frances Elliott (1950-51) was married to Lt. George W. Moser in Brunswick, Mo., on Oct. 5. They are making their home in Houston, Texas, where Lt. Moser is with the U. S. A. F.

13 Lindenwood Students Have Lindenwood Mothers

Thirteen students at Lindenwood this year are daughters of former L. C. students. Six are freshmen, four are sophomores, and three are seniors. Daughters and mothers are:

Freshmen—Paula Chaffin (Zoeme Morrell Chaffin, 1932-34), Moscow, Kan.; Sally Cox (Helen Henderson Cox, 1928-30), Morrilton, Ark.; Bettina Nemecek (Martha Scroggin Nemecek, 1917-19), Little Rock, Ark.; Marilyn Perry (Clea Gard Perry, 1921-22), Lawrence, Kan.; Sharmion Simpson (Margaret Janeway Simpson, 1928-29), Eufaula, Okla.; Marilyn Tainter (Lavelle Danneegger Tainter, 1929-30), St. Charles.

Sophomores — Helen Callison (Katherine Myers Callison, 1928-29), Smithville, Mo.; Barbara Carter (Katherine Ann Disque Carter, 1929-31), McMinnville, Tenn.; Nancy Graves (Kathryn Hull Graves, 1930-32), Corinth, Mass.; Pattilou Puckett (Lela McVean Wolfen Puckett, 1922-23), Amarillo, Tex.

Seniors—Judith Anderson (Nellie Ruth Don Carlos Anderson, 1924-26), Liberty, Mo.; Jenny Barton (Artrude Strange Barton Ball, 1920-21), Van Nuys, Calif., and Riley Graves (Kathryn Hull Graves).

ALUMNAE NOTES

Major and Mrs. Bob Roark (Bonnie Gee Lumpkins, B. S. 1947) and Cathie Lynn, 2, now live at 216 Bonview Drive, Sumter, S. C., where Major Roark is stationed at Shaw Air Force Base.

Since last January Patricia Tuttle Thompson (1945-47) has been living in Caracas, Venezuela, where her husband, William, is with the overseas division of Proctor & Gamble. Her address is c/o Proctor & Gamble, Apartado 2745, Caracas.

Jeane Rice Kuisman (B. S. 1952) and her husband, Ted, live in Paris, Mo., where Jeane teaches third grade and plays the organ in the Methodist Church.

Two alumnae who spend their days on the main floor of Roemer Hall are Judith Damhorst (1948-50), who is secretary to Dean Paulena Nickell, and Jean Knox Barklage (A. B. 1953), who is secretary to Miss Lula Clayton Beale, registrar.

Along with her chapel contribution, Margaret Caroline Sandoe Westray (1937-41) sends information that she and her lieutenant-commander husband and their children, Richard 13, Barbara, 9, and Kenneth, 7, are living at 2908 Harris Ave., Key West, Fla., where Sandy's outside activity is craft work as a Red Cross Gray Lady.

Mrs. Alice Ripley Andrews (class of 1909), 196 Highland Ave., Winchester, Mass., is president of The Doll Collectors of America, Inc.

Gladys Campbell Billings (B. S. 1924) went with her husband to California for a vacation last summer, despite the fact that she had to go in a wheel chair. She is still recovering from a broken hip caused by a fall last April.

Joanne Buck Goudie (A. B. 1952) is living at 663 N. Prairie, Galesburg, Ill., where her husband Harland is a Ford Fellowship instructor in art at Knox College and Joanne is teaching elementary art.

Word comes from Jessica Hill Stringfield (1926-27) of 4726 Albemarle St., NW., Washington 16, D. C., that her daughters Barbara and Beverly, both college honor graduates, studied in the Middlebury College French School this summer and are studying this winter at the University of Clermont-Ferand in France.

Betty Jack Littleton (A. B. 1951) traveled in Europe last summer and this year is teaching at State College, Brookings, S. D.

Helen Weber Whalen (A. B. 1931), who is a "wheel" in her husband's St. Louis law office, has contributed the following news about members of her class. . . . Helen Davis Yeager, her husband Eugene, and their daughter, Susan Pauline, 5½, live at Nowata, Okla., where both senior Yeagers are employed at the Phillips Petroleum Co. After graduating from Lindenwood, Helen took an M. S. at Peabody College. . . . Dorothy Joslyn Campbell, 401 Ocean View Ave., Whittier, Calif., has a daughter, Dorothy Kay, 12, and a son, Bobby, 7. . . . Allene Horton Dueringer, 600

1905 Classmates

Mrs. Martha Miller Gray of Kansas City and Mrs. Florence Bloebaum Null of St. Charles, members of the class of 1905, photographed during the October alumnae weekend.

* * *

Lindenwood, St. Charles, has two children, Henry and Mary. . . . Margaret Cobb, 230 Second Ave., Leavenworth, Kan., has a master's from the University of Chicago and teaches in Leavenworth. . . . Margaret Bell Doyle, Weimar, Tex., did graduate work at the U. of Texas, U. of California, and Northwestern, and now has two children, Elizabeth and Charles. . . . Dorothea Lange Hawes, home from Europe with her Army Colonel husband, lives at 63 Rossi Ave., San Francisco. . . . Betty Hosmer Mossman, 4412 S. Harvard, Tulsa, is president of the Tulsa Lindenwood Club. . . . Johnnie Riner, 429 E. McCarty, Jefferson City, is librarian for the Missouri Supreme Court. . . . Pauline Brown Vossen is a registered nurse and lives with her daughter, Suzanne Elizabeth, at 927 S. Broadway, Leavenworth, Kan. . . . Mary Louise Wardley, 1113 LaMorr Ave., Joliet, Ill., is doing free lance publicity and public relations work.

News of 1931 grads here for the reunion, in addition to Mrs. Whalen, follows. Elizabeth Clark, 1122 Randolph, Topeka, Kan., a Washington U. master in social work, is a social worker at Kansas State Hospital. From her sister, Margaretha (A. B. 1929), who teaches in McFarland, Calif., and herself, Elizabeth presented to the college the 1890 Lindenwood class pin of their mother, Mrs. Sophie Roth Clark. . . . Elsie Prip Hey, 2655 Salem, Brentwood, Mo., has a daughter and a five-month grandson. . . . Dr. Lena Lewis, Ohio State Ph. D. and Lindenwood LL. D., is engaged in scientific research in Cleveland, where she lives at 1511 Lyndhurst Rd. . . . Elizabeth Thomas McCormack, 701 Mill St., Mound City, Mo., has four children, Carson, III, Betsy, Janet, and Bruce. . . . Lorraine Robie O'Connor, who did graduate work at the U. of Chicago, is a secretary at Franklin Life Insurance Co., Springfield, Ill., where she lives at 1912 N. Fifth St. . . . Melba Schaper Wilkinson, 1021 W. Rollins Rd., Columbia, has two sons, John Dean and Samuel Peters.

Chapel Gifts Continue

Contributions to the chapel still are coming in and still are welcome! Reaching the goal still is in the future!

Pledges and contributions have been made by alumnae clubs in Southern California, Denver, Des Moines, Central Indiana, St. Charles, and Tulsa.

Alumnae who have contributed since the listing in the October Bulletin (and prior to November 2) are listed in date groups.

1900's

Mrs. Nell Quinlan Reed and Miss Minnie Sweeney.

1920's

Mrs. Frances Elliott Green, Mrs. Josephine Stewart Hall, Mrs. Helen Hook Hume, and Mrs. Margaret Janeway Simpson.

1930's

Mrs. Margaret Holland Armstrong, Mrs. Joan Marie Spangler Bancel, Mrs. Marjory Carroll Bruenger, Mrs. Dorothy Joslyn Campbell, Mrs. Katherine Ann Disque Carter, Miss Elizabeth Clark, Miss Margaret Cobb, Mrs. Alice Reid Guedelhoefer, Mrs. Elsie Prip Hey, Miss Lena A. Lewis, Mrs. Elizabeth Thomas McCormack, Miss Johnnie Riner, Mrs. Marie Christensen Robb, Mrs. Pauline Brown Vossen, Mrs. Helen Weber Whalen, and Mrs. Melba Schaper Wilkinson.

1940's

Mrs. Doris Vanecek Handren, Mrs. Marilyn Mangum Heilman, Mrs. Donna Wehrle Hood, Mrs. Jacqueline Schwab Hunt, Mrs. Sonya Goulden Jacobs, and Mrs. Virginia Gilreath Wehrle.

1950's

Miss Joyce Omohundro.

PRESIDENT'S LETTER

(Continued from page 2)

maintained indefinitely by fear. And hope that "peaceful co-existence" is possible must not lead to blindness to the aggressive purposes of the communists to establish their system throughout the world.

That we need allies goes without saying. That we must not treat them as satellites is equally obvious. Our recognition of the necessity of great physical power must not lead us to place our sole trust in armies and bombs. The conflict before us is not in the area of the physical; it is the realm of ideas and ideals. Such a conflict requires patience and stamina, moral courage as great as demanded by physical warfare. The preservation of freedom of thought and of conscience and of freedom of enterprise at home must be accompanied by sustained efforts in international cooperation that will bring hope to the children of men throughout the earth as well as protection against attack.

Peace is not only the absence of war. Means to solve inevitable conflicts of nations without recourse to force must be available and these means are available in the United Nations. Perhaps as important in the long run as the means for settling disputes or bringing the nations of the world together to resist aggression are specialized agencies of the United Nations—such as the Economic and Social Council, the International Children's Emergency Fund, the Technical Assistance Administration Fund, and the various agencies set up to fight disease, starvation, illiteracy, lack of opportunity for education, etc. These are literally the shock troops of the United Nations dispersed throughout the world working on problems at the community level.

Yours sincerely,

F. L. McCLUER, President

Lindenwood College Bulletin

St. Charles, Mo.

Return Postage Guaranteed

Entered as Second Class Matter at the Post Office at St. Charles, Mo., under the Act of August 12, 1912.

Scholarship Bazaar

The St. Charles Lindenwood Club will hold a Christmas Bazaar on Dec. 2 at the American Legion Club to build up its scholarship fund. This year two St. Charles freshmen, Nina Jones and Audrey Bishop, received St. Charles Club scholarships.

For a "packages from all over the country" booth, the club seeks items of fifty-cent value from its friends. They are to be sent to Mrs. Marie Mayfield, 304 N. Kingshighway, St. Charles.

At the club's November meeting, Nancy Armitage (A. B. 1951), language teacher in St. Charles High School, showed slides from her European trips of the past two summers. At the October meeting Cordelia Buck Stumberg (B. M. 1940) gave a musical program entitled "Ozark Folk Songs."

IN MEMORIAM

The condolences of Lindenwood's alumnae and faculty are extended to:

Miss Rachel Morris, former professor of psychology, in the loss of her mother, Mrs. Mary Jones Morris, who died on Oct. 23 in Allerton, Ill.

Juanita Cook (B. S. 1943) in the loss of her father, DeWitt T. Cook, of Fredericktown, Mo., who died April 3.

Mary Margaret Hatcher (1938-39) whose father, Mr. Joe Hatcher, died April 3 in Custer City, Okla.

Mrs. Frank S. Miller (Rosamond Milde, 1933-34) in the death of her husband this summer. She is now teaching in Jackson, Mo., where she and her two sons are living with her mother.