Training Citizens and Homemakers

Reprinted from the education page of THE NEW YORK TIMES, Sunday, February 10, 1952

BECAUSE nine out of ten of its students will marry and become homemakers, Lindenwood College, St. Charles, Mo., offers its students a liberal arts program designed to prepare them for a career in homemaking and citizenship. This does not mean a course of study with emphasis in home economics and civics, says Dr. F. L. McCluer, president of the 125-year-old college for women. Rather, the curriculum is designed to give a broad cultural education to prepare young women to be successful homemakers and leaders in their communities.

Instead of choosing departmental majors and minors, students who elect this program take an interdepartmental major in human relations, with forty-eight hours of study distributed over five departments — economics; history and government; philosophy and religion; psychology, and sociology. The program leads to the Bachelor of Arts degree.

The college believes that in the five major departments in which a student builds her interdepartmental major, she may acquire intellectual training which also will be practical. In economics, for example, she may study business law, consumer and international economics, current economic problems and comparative economic systems.

Through the electives, the student who wants the assurance of being able to earn a livelihood may acquire some vocational training. Likewise, the woman who lacks competence in the mechanical skills of running a house may elect courses in home economics. Again the emphasis may be in cultural subjects.

Two major advantages of such a curriculum, according to Dr. McCluer, are the breadth of educational content and the motivation for study in the student who knows she is to become a homemaker, because the curriculum is a demonstrable preparation for her future.

There is no suggestion at Lindenwood, Dr. McCluer says, that the program should replace the traditional liberal arts training with concentration in major and minor fields. It is offered as an alternative for the student who has no clearly defined major interests. It is of particular value to the prospective homemaker. Since women do most of the spending of family incomes and set the tone and level of family morale, the college believes, they should accept civic, social and political responsibilities in their communities.

More or Less Personal

Miss Jane Morrissey, Class of '48, writes that she is now teaching at a college in Guatemala. Her address is: Colegio Americano de Guatemala, Apartado Postal 83, Guatemala, Guatemala, C.A. From her room at school, her letter states, "I can see the two volcanoes, Agua and Fuego. What a change from the gray skyline of Chicago. Almost all of my students speak Spanish and English, and many speak German. When I hear them rattling away, it makes me feel very humble."

Mrs. William Holland Voll (Virginia McIntyre) writes that she and her husband are now living at 1815 Stark St., Saginaw, Mich.

Mrs. Dudley P. Cook (Jean Ream, Class of '43) writes that she and her husband, with their son, Philip Allen, and their daughter, Carol Ann, returned to this country from Osaka, Japan last July. Capt. Cook was sent to Korea at the outbreak of the war there. The Cooks are now in San Antonio, Texas, but their permanent address is 1609 Eighth St., Peru, Ill.

Gen. Eisenhower and Gov. Stevenson Win Student Nominations

WITH delegates from forty-one colleges in twelve states in attendance, the student national political conventions held on the campus March 20-22, selected Gov. Adlai Stevenson of Illinois as the Democratic candidate for President and Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower as the Republican standard bearer. The conventions, which may have been a preview of the conventions in Chicago in July, attracted wide attention.

Gov. Stevenson won the nomination on the second ballot, with Senator Kefauver of Tennessee as his closest opponent. The delegates named Vice-President Alben Barkley as Gov. Stevenson's running mate. Under the two-thirds rule, the Republicans gave Gen. Eisenhower 184 votes on the fifth ballot and made the nomination unanimous on the sixth. Gov. Earl Warren of California, who was the General's closest opponent, was chosen as the candidate for Vice-President.

The keynote speeches at the conventions were given by U. S. Senator Hubert H. Humphrey of Minnesota for the Democrats and Congressman Charles B. Brownson of Indiana for the Republicans. Senator Humphrey defended the record of the Democratic Party, pointing out its leadership in foreign affairs and its progressive program at home. The Democrats, he said, must continue to work for the Fair Deal and for civil rights.

Congressman Brownson told the Republican delegates that "this is the year for hard-hitting partisanship." The Democrats, he said, have always been a "soft money" party and have proved their inability to deal intelligently with modern government financing. False prosperity, he declared, is the Democrats entire campaign.

The Republican platform, adopted at the closing session, pledges the party to economy in government and a return to the principles of private enterprise. Specifically, the platform calls for a balanced federal budget, economy in government spending, restoration of a sound currency, and revised labor laws. On the subject of foreign affairs, the party declared that "never again should our country blunder into an impossible military situation, reversing pre-existing plan and spending the blood of its men fighting the troops of Communist satellites."

The Democratic platform emphasizes a strong foreign policy and progressive domestic policies. The Democrats pledge support to NATO, urge expansion of the Point Four program, and call for military preparedness. Specific planks recommend statehood for Hawaii and Alaska, urge the repeal of the Taft-Hartley law, support civil rights, and indorse voluntary federal health insurance and federal aid to education.

George Morgan of the University of Missouri was named permanent chairman of the Democratic convention. Secretaries were Barbara Ebeling, Eva Pappas and Ann Frazier, all of Lindenwood. Conrad Joyner of Earlham College was elected permanent chairman of the Republican convention, and Bonnie Lou Holt of Lindenwood was named secretary.

One hundred and twenty Lindenwood students were named as delegates, alternates and workers for the two conventions. The general chairman on the campus for the Republicans was Miss Mary Beth Banta. Miss Nell Culver was general chairman for the Democrats.

What Lindenwood Alumnae Clubs Are Doing

By MRS. MARY BRYANT, Alumnae Secretary

THERE'S good news on the alumnae front — two new clubs have been formed, in Louisville and Houston, and almost before this Bulletin is off the press, there may be two more, in Wichita and Dallas.

LOUISVILLE: Organizers are Margaret Cannon, A. B. 1943, and Jeanne Gross Mudd (Mrs. Gordon), A. B. 1949. All alumnae in Louisville, New Albany and vicinity are urged to get in touch with Mrs. William M. Pennycock, Jr. (Billie Hobson Vance, A. B. 1940), 2307 Napoleon Blvd., telephone Highland 5442-W, about the next meeting at her home during the third week in June.

HOUSTON: Chief organizers were Mrs. Herbert Levy (Babs Wexner, 1943-45) and Mrs. John Horn, (Lenore Schierding, B. S. 1936) — with five other alumnae assisting. First meeting was a luncheon on April 10. For information about a May business meeting, area alumnae should get in touch with Mrs. Levy, 4410 Wheeler.

DALLAS: On March 29 a group of Dallas alumnae met at the home of Mrs. C. D. Bowlby, Lindenwood field representative, 3833 Amherst, and laid plans for a large luncheon on April 19, the day before the college's Vesper Choir sang in Dallas during its concert tour.

WICHITA: With Mrs. William H. Jenkins (Emaline Gumm, A. B. 1944), 1574 Gentry, and Mrs. Marcus Tower (Charlotte Williams, A. B., 1939), 925 N. Dellrose, taking the lead, six or more alumnae are at work forming a club. They're paging alumnae from nearby towns, too.

CENTRAL INDIANA: Husbands will be guests at a buffet supper May 3 at the home of the club treasurer, Mrs. William F. Bruenger (Marjory Carroll, 1937-39), 4041 E. Forty-Second St., Indianapolis. In June the group will meet in Terre Haute at the home of Mrs. Margaret Jane Hutchinson Adamson (1926-28), 2130 College Ave. New president of the club is Mrs. Earl Lynn (Kathryn Louise Mayer, 1936-39) of Greenwood.

CHICAGO: President and Mrs. F. L. McCluer of the college were honor guests at a club tea given at the Art Museum of Chicago on April 19. Other guests were Chicago area students home for the spring vacation and prospective Lindenwood students.

DENVER: New president is Mrs. Kirby Kistler (Mary Elaine Shadford, 1940-42), 3010 Hudson St. Other new officers: Mrs. John Galen Spencer (Ada Belle Files, 1922-23), 5070 Pinyon St., Littleton, vice-president; Mrs. Max Goldberg (Miriam Harris, 1934-

KANSAS CITY: A coke party for Lindenwood students home for the Easter holiday and for some prospective students was held April 12 at the home of Mrs. George C. McKee (Eugenia Bair, 1925-27). Assisting were Mrs. William W. Weeks (Frances Metzger, 1936-37), president of the Kansas City club, Mrs. Clarence McGuire (Virginia Hoover, A. B. 1927), and Mrs. A. M. Neilson (Sara Davis, 1934-36).

In June a white elephant sale (proceeds to the scholarship fund) will be held at the home of the president, Mrs. Conn Gertmenian (Doris Nahigian, A. B. 1942), 925 Columbia St., South Pasadena.

ST. CHARLES: Next regular meeting of the club will be on May 5 in the Library Club Room on the campus, and at 4 p.m. on May 6 the club will entertain at tea all senior girls of five high schools in the St. Charles area.
