Annual Dance Concert Presented
April 17-18

A variety of new, nontypical and diverse contemporary movement and dance will be featured when the college presents its Annual Dance Concert April 17-18 at 8:00 p.m. in Jelkyl Theatre. The concert will feature college and guest artists presenting selections to appeal to all the senses, including several serious and satirical pieces, some of which have been in development for three years. One of the highlights of the program will be a piece produced in collaboration with the college's Art Department. A nominal donation is requested at the door.

'Club Jitterbur '86' Scheduled for April 29

"Club Jitterbug '86," a benefit for Lindenwood's Downstage Studio Theatre, is scheduled for April 29 at 8:00 p.m. in Ayres Hall. The theme this year is "Broadway Time Machine" and the night will feature the big band music of the St. Louis group. "The Hot Docs." Admission is $5.00 per person at the door. Call or stop by the college's Box Office in Roemer Hall, 946-2004, between noon and 5:00 p.m. daily for reservations or further information.

'Slave Day' Set for April 25

Students, staff and faculty are urged to "buy" their favorite person or their worst enemy during "slave auctions" at lunch on April 23 and all day April 24 in Ayres Cafeteria. The annual senior activity, "Slave Day," is scheduled April 25. Auctions are open to anyone who wants to buy or sell. For further information, contact John Powers at Campus Box 391.

Butler Pool Circa 1915

“HISTORICAL SERIES”

—Butler Pool—

Picture if you will, low rolling hills mostly cleared for farming but with a few scattered groups of small saplings. In the distance is the shimmer of the great Missouri River. Such was the view in 1914 Col. Butler would have seen from the crest of the hill on which Butler Hall now stands.

Because of the increase in growth of the student population at Lindenwood College, Col. Butler, being the benefactor and visionary that he was, proposed and funded the construction of Butler Hall.

On June 9th, 1914, ground was broken for “the great hall” — Butler. It was to be a thoroughly modern and up-to-date facility. Housed in Butler were to be dormitory rooms for 55 girls, the Dean’s office, a modern gymnasium and an in-door swimming pool.

Back in 1915, the construction of swimming pools was not an everyday occurrence, and this one was even more remarkable because it was an indoor heated pool. (The Butler pool is believed to be the first indoor swimming pool west of the Mississippi River).

In a 1914 Globe-Democrat article, before construction began, the pool was referred to as a “natatorium with tiled tank”. The Butler facilities were dedicated on February 18th, 1915, at which time a swimming exhibition was performed as part of the festivities. The pool measured 40x20 feet, was 3-9 feet deep and contained 35,000 gallons of water. Heating for the pool was provided by pumping cold water from the bottom of the pool into a stream system located in a separate grantitoid building. The water was then pumped back into the pool and kept constantly circulating with a temperature of between 78 and 80 degrees.

The pool was also fitted with diving boards, cable, trolley, galvanized ladder and two granite showers.

In the May 1915 catalog for Lindenwood the new swimming pool was listed under the Physical Education Department in the following manner:

"A swimming instructor is always present when the pool is in use. Twenty-two private dressing rooms, four shower baths have been placed in a long corridor approaching the pool. 'Rest rooms' with sanitary couch and equipment adjoins the dressing rooms. An electric hair dryer is at the disposal of students in this room, who are urged to use it to prevent taking cold after a plunge in the pool."

During the years after Butler's dedication the pool was utilized by the Physical Education department for swimming classes, life-saving classes and competitive swimming meets between dorms and individuals.

In the same 1915 Lindenwood catalog swimming was considered more than just a form of exercise:

"Swimming is an art superior to all others in the promotion and preservation of health. It's practice, besides producing most beneficial results on the respiratory organs, facilitates the circulation and purification of the blood, and strengthens the muscular and mental capacity.

Apart from these considerations, the knowledge is invaluable, not only as a means of preserving one's life, but also for rendering assistance to others in danger of drowning. A great proportion of this loss would be prevented were the art of swimming more generally known. Everyone should therefore consider it a duty to learn to swim.

The course of instruction consists of training in scientific swimming; breast-stroke, side-stroke, over-arm, trudgeon, and crawl strokes; plunging, diving and floating; methods of rescue and release in life-saving; polo and other water games."

An annual event labeled as a swimming pageant featured students performing water ballet. From 1943 until 1962 a swim club was formed called the "Lindenwood College Terrapin Swimming Club". After 1962, the Recreation Board was in charge of swimming as well as other forms of athletics.

During the first years that the swimming pool was open church groups held Sunday afternoon picnics on the campus and swam in the indoor pool, according to Arlene Taich, Dean of Evening College/LCIE. Dr. Howard Barnett, states that Lindenwood also made the pool available for people to receive water therapy. The students provided assistance for these sessions.

Currently Butler pool is unuseable because of needed repairs. As of this publication date estimates are being sought for renovation of the pool by the Vice-President of Administration, Jerry Rufkahr.

KWIK-KLIPS by Burma Wilkins

This week's choices for review fall under two different categories; one is another in a string of teen flicks and the other is a sequel to one of the most rented videos in the market today.

First off let's start with "Jewel of the Nile" which is the sequel to "Romancing the Stone". Currently showing in most of the $1.00 theatres in the area the price should make it attractive. The film itself is a weak follow-up to the first film but it is still funny, witty and full of adventure. Set in the desert, it is a far cry from the jungle setting of "Romancing". It comes complete with a middle-east fanatic who's into rock 'n roll pyro-technics. The original cast including Michael Douglas and Danny DiVito, put in sterling performances. Well worth the buck.

Don't let my snide remark on teen films throw you, because "Pretty in Pink" is definately not a turn-off. A good portion of the film is predictable, but some surprises are in store for the film-goer. The best part of the film involves a blues lipsinc in a record store. Molly Ringwald puts in an "okay" performance but her character doesn't look or act much different then the one in "Sixteen Candles". The storyline is about a teenage girl from the wrong side of the tracks meeting and falling in love with a rich boy. Not a waste of your money but not a great investment either.

As you can see the "Oscars" got just the space it deserved - ZILCH.

Vote for "Year of the Professor" Faculty Lecturer.

A vote will be held by ballot from now until April 30th, for Faculty Lecturer who will be the presenter of a faculty Lecture April of 1987. This must be a full-time professor who will also receive a generous honorary stipend as part of the award. The Committee is Co-Chaired by Dean Arlene Taich, Dean of Evening College/LCIE and Ray Harmon who is a member of the Board of Directors of Lindenwood College. Lindenwood Student Government President Amy McCracken is secretary. Along with the awards the committee will chair year-long events such as the Faculty symposium next fall, refurbishing the new Faculty Lounge, and securing faculty development grants. This encompasses a year-long celebration that recognizes and promotes excellence in teaching. Staff, Students and Faculty may vote on the Faculty Lecturer, so use the ballot at the end of this article for the teacher that you feel best expresses excellence at Lindenwood College.
