College Enrollments—Looking Ahead

THE DECREASE in enrollment in colleges and universities this year has been the subject of considerable discussion in college circles and recently outside of college circles. "Time" magazine carried a detailed analysis of the situation last fall and Benjamin Fine's survey of the situation in the "New York Times" has received wide spread attention.

The following is part of an editorial which appeared in the St. Louis "Globe-Democrat" December 17, 1950:

"... The decline in enrollment is attributed principally to the decreased number of GIs in school, and to the Korean war. For the first time since the war, veterans are in a minority on the campus. Two years ago there were 1,156,991 former GIs in college. This fall the number dropped to 601,753 and only one out of every 10 freshmen this fall is a veteran. The decline will continue, for the GI Bill of Rights provides that no federal assistance will be given to veterans of World War II after next July 25.

"College administrators anticipated the decline in veteran enrollments, but they could not foresee that another draft would take away many of their students—at least this soon. It had been predicted that college enrollment would gradually increase until it reached a permanent high level of about 3,000,000 students. The President's Commission on Higher Education fixed the figure of 4,600,000 as desirable. Expansion plans of many institutions were adopted on the basis of such predictions.

"Now all institutions of higher learning are faced with the pressing problem of diminishing income in a period when everything the institutions must buy has increased in cost. The Times survey reveals that at least one out of every four colleges in this country is now operating at a deficit, and it is estimated that within a year at least half of the liberal arts schools will be operating in the red.

"For both public and private institutions the problem is critical. . . . Private schools must depend upon the generosity of their supporters. For neither type of school can the problem be solved by increasing tuition, or beyond a certain point by lowering educational standards.

"Ultimately, enrollments will rise again. The increase in the birth rate during the war years will boost college enrollments beginning in about 1960. A new crop of veterans will be going to college after the present crisis is passed. But in the meantime, private universities and colleges will need the help of their friends more than ever before in their history."

The factors chiefly responsible for this decrease in enrollment in colleges and universities are the loss of GI students, the uncertainty with which young people may plan their education in view of the present world situation, and the decreased number of high school graduates due to the low birth rate in the 1930's. Near the end of this decade there will be a substantial increase in the number of high school graduates, but,

Lindenwood's Radio Graduates Find Place in Professional Field

Television Course Is Planned for Next Fall as College Expands Its Radio Department to Meet Increasing Demand for Radio Personnel

KCLC—the Voice of Lindenwood—now speaks with authority, not only on the campus but also in commercial radio stations. The professional training it provides is recognized, and its graduates are finding places in the radio field. Lindenwood was one of the pioneers in the Middle West, particularly among colleges for women, in preparing students for careers in radio. In maintaining its leadership, the college is now making plans to inaugurate courses in television next fall.

The initial step in the expanded curriculum will be the production of television "shorts" on 15 millimeter film. This step will require a minimum outlay for equipment, but it will make possible a study of the problems of lighting, continuity, acting and production which are inherent in television. The instruction to be offered will supplement the radio courses now offered under the direction of Miss Martha May Boyer, head of the Radio Department. They include courses in radio writing, announcing, production, programming, management and music in addition to the beginning course in the elements of radio, designed as an orientation course for those who wish to know more about radio as a social force as well as for students who plan to continue their study in radio.

Class room instruction is supplemented by practical experience on Station KCLC, which maintains regular daily broadcasting schedules during the college year. Senior students also receive experience under commercial station operating conditions through a system of apprenticeships in radio stations in the St. Louis area.

Station KCLC, a carrier current station, went on the air in October, 1948. In setting out the policy which should govern the station, two considerations were stressed in the first report made to the college administration. They were: "Such a station would provide students in radio courses with practical and varied experience in broadcasting," and "A campus station would provide the student with an opportunity to develop qualities of leadership and responsibility."

Since the radio program was expanded to include KCLC, eight Seniors who have been members of the station staff, or who have completed the course in radio management, have been graduated. They majored in such diverse subjects as speech, history, sociology, English and music. Of the eight, four are now engaged in professional radio work. Since the purpose of a liberal arts college is not primarily to give specialized training for careers, it is apparent that the Radio

Department has "provided practical and varied experience in broadcasting." Of the four graduates who are now employed in commercial radio stations, one is handling station publicity, one is writing news continuity, one women's programming and one is a music librarian.

Miss Lorraine Peck is employed in the Publicity and Public Relations Department of Station KWK in St. Louis. She has used her staff experience on KCLC, and her work at the college in Journalism, as her entre into radio. Mrs. Patricia Blades has her own 45-minute daily women's program on Station WLAC in Nashville, Tenn. She got her chance in radio through her skill in radio speech. Miss Ruth Ann Ball is the Record Librarian at Station KXLW in Clayton, Mo., and has recently completed cataloguing the station's large library of recordings. Miss Sally Joy, who was station manager of KCLC last year, is now writing two newscasts a day for Station WILL at the University of Illinois, in Urbana. In her task of editing and writing the news she uses her background in history and government as well as her radio and journalism training at Lindenwood.

In addition to these graduates, several other former students are now holding radio positions. Miss Marian Rattner, a student at Lindenwood in 1948-50, is now employed by the National Broadcasting Company in Chicago and has recently been assigned to the newly organized department of television sales. In a recent letter to the college she wrote that she is really in "on the ground floor" in television. Her opportunity was the result of the beginning courses in radio she had at Lindenwood, plus the confidence she gained from the campus station experience.

Mrs. Malcom Nygren, who attended Lindenwood in 1945-47, is a member of the staff of Station WSRK in Shelbyville, Ind., where she has 11 shows a week. In a letter to the college she wrote: "I could never do it, if it hadn't been for my experience at Lindenwood in the 'L. C. Theater of the Air'." Miss Barbara Hencke, who also attended Lindenwood in 1945-47, is a member of the staff of Station KGHl in Little Rock, Ark. Her duties include continuity writing, programming and public relations. Miss Hencke also participated in the "L. C. Theater of the Air" while at Lindenwood.

In the last two years the technical facilities of the Radio Department and KCLC have been steadily improved and expanded. The recent replacement of the tone arms on the playback tables has made it possible to produce shows of recorded music with complete fidelity. The cutting equipment is superior to that used by many commercial stations. Improved, now included in the budget and contracted for this year, will double the rehearsal facilities.

in the spring of 1949. Four members of the KCLC staff received two weeks of training that semester, three in the studios of Station KMOX in St. Louis, and one at Station KFuo, also in St. Louis. At the completion of the first apprenticeships, one of the officials wrote to Miss Boyer as follows: "Having had considerable contact with these students during their training period, I believe they will make a real contribution to the business world of radio if they follow their plans. They certainly reflect great credit upon you, your college, and the training they have received there."

The system of apprentice trainings is being expanded this year to include other stations in the area. A successful start was made in setting up apprenticeships in the neighborhood of the student's home community during the Christmas holidays when Miss Marilee Darnall, a Senior, received her apprentice training at Station WMAY in Springfield, Ill.

Lindenwood has been fortunate in enjoying close cooperation with all the commercial stations in the St. Louis area. The facilities of these stations have been made available for special broadcasts, officials of the stations have generously given advice on radio problems and have frequently visited the campus station. Their counsel is now being utilized in setting up the projected courses in television.

Mrs. James W. Clarke Dies After Long Illness

The deepest sympathy of Lindenwood's alumnae, faculty and student body is extended to the Rev. Dr. James W. Clarke, president of the college's Board of Directors, whose wife died on January 4 following an operation performed two weeks previously. Funeral services were held at the Second Presbyterian Church, of which her husband is pastor, on January 6.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Clarke is survived by a son, George C. Clark; two daughters, Mrs. Hugh Lennox and Miss Blanche Clarke; and two sisters, Mrs. Georgina T. Blair, of Glasgow, Scotland and Mrs. Annie Alderman, of East Hartland, Conn. A son, James Clarke, who served with the Canadian Air Force in the last war, was killed in action in 1943.

AAUW Accepts More Lindenwood Degrees for Membership

The American Association of University Women has notified Lindenwood that the college's degree of Bachelor of Science in Education, General Business, Home Economics, and Physical Education has been recognized as qualifying a graduate of the college with this degree for membership in the AAUW. The Bachelor of Arts degree was previously approved.

The association's action makes possible the participation of graduates of Lindenwood College with these degrees in the AAUW chapters throughout the country. Dr. Alice Parker, Chairman of the English Department, is now president of the Missouri Division of the AAUW. Dr. Agnes Sibley, a member of the English Department, is secretary and editor of the Bulletin of the Missouri Division.

Dr. McCluer Named to Education Board of Church Council

Dr. Franc L. McCluer, president of Lindenwood, was recently notified by the Board of Christian Education of the Presbyterian Church, U. S. A., of his appointment to the Assembly of the Division of Christian Education of the National Council of Churches of Christ in the U. S. A. The Assembly is the equivalent of the International Council of Religious Education, except that it takes in the whole field of Christian Education, it is explained in the announcement. The Assembly will meet biennially.

Dr. Roberts Named to Executive Committee of Academic Deans

Dr. Eunice C. Roberts, dean of the faculty of Lindenwood, was elected to membership on the Executive Committee of the Association of Academic Deans at the meeting of the association in Atlantic City, N. J., held on January 8-10 in conjunction with the annual meeting of the Association of American Colleges. Dr. Roberts and Dr. Franc L. McCluer, president of the college, represented Lindenwood at the Association of American Colleges meeting and Dr. McCluer also attended the meeting of the Presbyterian College Union.

Dr. George H. Vick to Be Religious Week Speaker

The week beginning February 4 will be Religious Emphasis Week at Lindenwood. This year the Rev. Dr. George H. Vick, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church in Charleston, W. Va., will be the guest speaker. Dr. Vick has been pastor of this church, the second largest in the General Assembly, since 1945. He received his Master of Theology degree from the University of Edinburgh and his Doctor of Theology degree from Union Theological Seminary, Richmond, Va. Dr. Vick will speak each day during the week and will hold student conferences throughout the week.

More News From and About The Class of 1942

By KATHRYN HANKINS, Alumnae Secretary

THIS month we continue the roll call of the Class of 1942. The following members have sent news about themselves:

Mary Sue Tallman (Mrs. E. F. Waggoner), 1-B Stillwell, Fort Leavenworth, Kan.: "1944-45 was an interesting year which I spent with the Red Cross in Australia, and New Guinea. Living in grass shacks, and wearing out-size GI clothes was surely a far cry from the amenities of civilization, yet we of the Red Cross did our best to bring a little of civilization to the fighting men. Australia was a most interesting country, much like our own, and strangely close yet seemingly untouched by the impacts of war. Marriage at home in July, 1946, was followed by a honeymoon in Wisconsin, New York, and then on to a new home in Washington, D. C. My husband is an Army Major and is now attending the Command and General Staff College here on the post. School is out in July, and we expect to go to a new duty at Fort Eustis, Va., after a vacation trip to Alaska. David, our 7-month-old son, has kept me busy for the past months, but life here is very pleasant.

Dorothy Keyes (Mrs. Ramsey Lammers, Jr.), 132 N. Second St., St. Charles: "After graduation, I worked for a year and a half as a research technician at Washington University Medical School Laboratories in Barnes Hospital. Ramsey and I were married in September, 1941. We have two sons, Ramsey III, who is 7, and Michael, 3. I still keep in contact with Lindenwood by helping Miss Lear in the Chemistry Department."

Mary Jean DuHadway (Mrs. Gilbert Craig), Rural Route 2, Chesterfield, Mo.: "In July of 1941, I was married to Gilbert Craig. Soon after, he went into the Navy; and I was fortunate enough to be with him for more than four years at various bases in this country. After his discharge, we lived for three years in Mexico, Mo., but we now live in St. Louis County. We have three very good reasons for making our home in the country—all boys: James DuHadway, 6; Gilbert, Jr., 4; and Gary Davis, 7 months. Then there is Rusty, the collie, who will not be overlooked. Gil and I enjoy the boys, gardening, company, church and school activities, square dancing, home decoration, and canasta."

Mary James (Mrs. Jack Winfrey), 708 O'Farrell St., Boise, Idaho: "Jack and I were married in September of 1941. Besides the usual trials all young couples have, we had the added heartbreak of losing our first baby when she was just 10-months-old. We left Missouri in 1944 and moved to Boise. In 1946, we moved back to the midwest, but after one year of it we could stay away from the northwest no longer so we moved back to Boise. Our activities are much the same as any other couple who love their family, home and friends. Jack and I both have one main interest in our hearts—our 5½-year-old daughter, Judy. And Judy divides her attention between her parents and her Springer Spaniel, Ginger!"

Margaret Duff (Mrs. Preston Hallman, Jr.), 3712 Hilltop Rd., Fort Worth, Tex.: "After graduation I did secretarial work at Goodfellow Field in San Angelo for over a year and then I married. My husband was a pilot in the Air Corps and we were stationed in Kansas and Texas during the war. After separation from the Army in Wisconsin, we returned to Texas to make our home. We are very happy in Fort Worth. I am enjoying the usual church and school activities and my children, Preston III, who is 6, and Martha Ann, 10-months-old."

Sara Jefferson (Mrs. F. C. Stukenbroeker), 3110 Wellington Rd., Alexandria, Va.: "After graduation I taught high school English a year in LaBelle, Mo. In June, '42, I married Fern Stukenbroeker of St. Charles. Since 1942 he has been an F. B. I. Agent and we have lived in Baltimore, Washington, Cleveland, and now Alexandria. We have two daughters: Ann Louise, 3, and Sally, 5. With young children I find myself busy at home, but I also manage to work in some story telling, Sunday School teaching, sewing, P. T. A. activities, and amateur dramatics."

Mary Jane Steinmann (Mrs. Luis A. Morales), Ponce, Puerto Rico: "After receiving my B. S. in Nursing Education in 1944, I was married in that year to Luis A. Morales, who was a student in medical school in St. Louis. Shortly thereafter, Lu entered the Army and we traveled together during the war. After my husband's release from the Army, we visited his family in San Juan, Puerto Rico. Since that time, Lu did his graduate studies in the special field of ophthalmology and has established his practice and our home here in Ponce, Puerto Rico."

Jeane Osborn (Mrs. Harry R. Hathaway), 3019 Eshcol Ave., Zion, Ill.: "After graduation from Lindenwood I worked as an industrial dietitian. I enlisted in the WAVES in 1943 and was discharged after three years in the U. S. Navy. For the past two and one-half years I have been in San Francisco, Calif., but I returned to my home in Culver, Ind. in March of this

Girl of the Month

THIS month we present Dr. June Schatzmann of St. Louis. Following her graduation in June, 1946, she fulfilled her ambition by beginning the study of medicine in September. For the next three full years she studied on an accelerated program at the Kansas City College of Osteopathy and Surgery in Kansas City, Mo. There was one other woman in the class besides June. The two women found the competition keen.

She received her Doctor of Osteopathy degree in September, 1949. Then, after a month's vacation, she began her internship at Normandy Hospital in St. Louis. The internship offered experience in many fields, such as assisting in surgical and obstetrical cases, doing laboratory work, and giving surgical treatment in emergency cases.

In October, 1950, she entered the general practice of medicine and became associated with Dr. L. V. Rosell in St. Louis. Her practice includes surgical, obstetrical, and medical cases. In addition to private practice she is on the staff of the Normandy Hospital in St. Louis.

College Enrollment

in the meantime, unless a higher percentage of high school graduates go on to colleges and universities, the total enrollment will be short of what it has been in the last few years.

It is equally clear that for most young people sound education is the best preparation for effective citizenship that one can secure. It is to be hoped that the stamina and calm faith of the community in a time of uncertainty will lead youth to pursue their education with new enthusiasm and sincere appreciation of one's duty to develop capacities to their utmost.

In some measure the future of our democratic society depends upon the way in which young women accept this duty. Practically all the young men who are being graduated from high schools will be given some military training and some of them likely will be sent on for college training in particular fields, but the responsibility for keeping the cultural heritage of America alive in this generation will be largely in the hands of women. The relationship of this heritage to a sound and healthful democratic community is clear to the historian and perhaps to every thoughtful citizen. The way of life which we love must be defended sometimes by force and it must be nurtured. When young men are being called into military service because of danger that we must defend our way of life by force, patriotic young women will not retreat to the fireside to worry about their brothers and sweethearts, but will enter colleges and universities in increasing numbers and keep alive the cultural heritage that is ours, as well as prepare themselves for an effective responsibility in the community.

One could hardly justify a prediction that there will be an increase in college enrollments next year, but one can justify the hope that a college that is adequately equipped, alert to its responsibilities to youth and ready to go forward without limiting its offerings, may escape the trend and have an increase in the number of students on its campus in the fall of 1951. Lindenwood is such a college. We are not reducing the number of teachers on the staff or the number of courses that are being offered. Indeed in some areas we are expanding the course offerings in line with the well considered and enthusiastically accepted program of the college. The old tea room, for example, is being remodeled and we are providing an attractive, adequate house in which to give a course in home management.

Former students of Lindenwood are in a position to be of great help to the college. They can not only serve as representatives of the college in locating high school seniors whom they will recommend to us, but they can themselves speak to these young women about the advantages offered at Lindenwood. I urge all of you who are interested in your college to give us this help at this time.

year to make preparation for my wedding which was April 22. My husband, Lt. Hathaway, is in the Regular Navy, and we will be stationed here at Great Lakes for a couple of years."

Betty Carleton (Mrs. Cornelius G. Lee), 2600 Poplar Dr., Sunny Crest, Sioux Falls, S. D.: "I arrived in Germany in July, 1947, with our two children: Gregg, then 2, and Martha, then 7 months. We came here to join my husband who is overseas with the Counter Intelligence Corps. Our first station was in the small town of Ludwigsburg. Life was not the easiest thing in the European Command in those days, but inconveniences seem trivial when we recall all the interesting things we have seen and the wonderful berg. Our home was on the famous Bergstrasse, where the winters are most mild, and the springs most beautiful. The university with its old buildings is a 'must' places we have been. In late 1947 we moved to Heidelberg on the tourist list. I managed to work in a few hours a week of sketching under the direction of one of the professors there. The first of May, 1948, my mother and father came to Heidelberg to spend a month with us. The first of June found my parents, husband and myself driving to the French Riviera, spending ten days at Cannes, and visiting the surrounding cities of Nice, Grasse, and the famous Monte Carlo, then continuing to Rome, Florence and Venice. We returned to Germany through Switzerland, then traveled to Liege, Brussels, Reims, and Paris, spending a week in the latter. We spent the summer of 1949 in the beautiful Scandanavian countries and we have spent some time in Vienna. The children, Gregg, now 5, and Martha, now over 3, attend an Army sponsored Nursery school every morning where they are taught both English and German. On the first of July we will be leaving for home. There is a tremendous feeling of happiness to be going home once more, and yet there is a bit of sadness in leaving Europe."

Genevieve Kniese, Hotel California, 16 rue de Berri, Paris, France: "From 1941 to 1943 I attended The College of Music of Cincinnati and received my M. M. degree in cello. In 1943 I won a fellowship at the Juilliard Graduate School of Music, in New York City, in the class of Felix Salmond. I held this fellowship for three years and was graduated in 1946. May, 1945, I was on my way to the Pacific War Area, as a member of a string quartet, all Julliard Girls. We played only in hospital wards, and on small ships, where often we took over the "chow line" to give a new appearance to the ship. We were on Hawaii, Tinian, Siapan, Iwo Jima, Pelliu, Guam, the Philippines, Okinawa, and Japan. We arrived home in January of 1946 to continue our work at Julliard. By the way, I met my roommate, Evelyn Bradley, on the island of Guam. The next year I was with the Charleston, W.

Va. symphony, and 1947-48 I was first 'cellist with the Burrall Symphony, of Stephens College. 1948-49 I spent in Europe studying in Fountainbleau and Paris with M. Paul Bazelaire and, on the side, teaching a bit of geography and history to some sixth graders at the American School in Paris."

Radio Department

The inauguration of television courses, however, does not mean that AM radio is declining in influence or popularity. The number of new AM stations now being licensed refutes such an implication. It merely means that the college recognizes that television is here, and that in line with the progressive policy of the college administration, provision must be made to meet the new demand.

Other activities of the Radio Department deserve notice. Lindenwood for several years sponsored an annual college radio conference, attended by students from many schools in the Middle West as well as by professionals from commercial stations in the area. Last fall, the first radio clinic for campus stations ever held in the Middle West was held on the campus with Station KCLC as host. Sponsored by Region Seven of the Intercollegiate Broadcasting System, of which KCLC is a member, the clinic was attended by representatives of campus stations in seven states.

Lindenwood also continues one of its early radio activities, the "L. C. Theater of the Air," which presents a special story program for children every other Saturday morning over Station KFUE in St. Louis. This program is written and produced by Lindenwood students under Miss Boyer's direction. Lindenwood also has an active chapter of Alpha Epsilon Rho, professional radio fraternity. The chapter numbers among its members many officials and members of the staffs of St. Louis radio stations.

Since radio is peculiarly a medium in which time is a basic dimension, this summary of the work of the Radio Department is not complete without a look at the events outside the college—and their probable effect on the Radio Department. Recent events all point toward a marked upward demand for radio personnel. Television alone requires seven or eight times as many persons as AM radio. War industries and the armed services will draw heavily upon manpower for an indefinite period. This means there will be an increasing demand—and opportunity—for women in radio.

Colleges engaged in the education of young women must accept this as a challenge, an opportunity and an obligation. In the years ahead radio will be called upon to inform, to indoctrinate and to build morale. It is unthinkable that Lindenwood, with its long history of service and its awareness of its responsibilities and opportunities, will fail to do its share in preparing young women for radio.
