

Daniel Definitions

Daniel Coker

Futility is:

Kidnapping your three-hundredth princess.
Slaying your three-hundred-first dragon.

Guessing at meanings in random numbers.
Submitting an empty paper.

Fear:

A woman who could feel no fear said, "Fear is a baby crawling."
No.
Fear is a wolf in your face, poised to tear out your jugular.
Fear is a spider or snake, poised to inject.
Fear is a perfectly good plane, you must throw yourself from.
Fear is fifty zombies, running for you.
Fear is threadlike worms, digging into your flesh.
Fear is a point of light in the sky – an ICBM.
Fear is your child, not answering the phone.
Fear is everyone you have ever known, hating you for your failure.
That is fear.

Fashion:

"Fashion is an excuse to shun people.
Useless; I can't believe the sheeple!"

But seriously, what is this passion you all call 'fashion?'
I must memorize what matches; I still know nearly nothing.

I knew not nice clothes,
Though I thought their wearer lovely;
They seemed "too formal."

Cynical Me:
I see the world too cynically –
Criminals don't really
Lurk in every alley.

"...protect the Universe, at all costs."
"Don't worry; humanity isn't that stupid."
I don't like that bet,
But my cynic's fears
Calm: Nuclears
For sixty years
No Global War yet.

