HOMECOMING TO BRING 300 ALUMNAE

First Drama Goes on Stage Next Weekend

An elderly lady who carries a teddy bear about with her is the character Pat Payne will portray when she dons the name of Mrs. Savage in the play The Curious Savage by John Patrick, author of Teahouse of the August Moon and The Hasty Heart. Mr. Douglas Hume as Titus and Emily Smith as Lily Belle will play the supporting roles in the Roemer Hall presentation Oct. 28 at 8:30 p.m.

Other members of the cast receiving directions from producer Kenneth Cox are Julie Bottorff, Keith Hammel, Bob Hilliard, Steve Kardaleff, Barbara Kasper, Judy Letson, and Freda Miller.

A mental institution, The Cloisters, is the setting for the play; and seen wandering about there will be a man who thinks he is a violinist but cannot play a note, a woman who thinks she has a young son, but it is a doll, and a smooth faced young man who thinks he has a scar on his face. Actually, these people are not mentally ill; they have slight peculiarities.

Mrs. Savage, a wealthy widow, has been committed to The Cloisters by her step son and step daughter because she has been giving her money to charities. Once she is in the institution, her family undergoes many humorous attempts to find her money. "As one watches the play," says director Kenneth Cox, "One will begin to wonder if it is the people within the institution or those on the outside who are mentally ill."

Does Mrs. Savage succeed in her attempts to be released from the institution? Does her family succeed in their search for her money? The answers to these questions may be learned by attending either the actual performance or the dress rehearsal Oct. 27 at 8:00 p.m.

League of Voters Installs Officers

Wanda Wear, president of League of Women Voters, will be assisted this year by the following officers: Margaret Thiebes, vice president; Nancy Jo Van Gundy, secretary; and Linda Cox, treasurer.

The league sponsored a Nixon-Kennedy debate over KCLC in which two members of the organization took the side of the Democrats and two took the Republican side. Nancy Jo Van Gundy and Susan Hill, Democrats, debated the issues with Kay Klinker and Jane Adams, Republicans.

A league-sponsored mock election will be held Nov. 3; general discussions, re-runs of the Kennedy-Nixon TV debates, and a survey of Roberts' Rules of Order are on the agenda for the coming year.

'Tis a curious person this Mrs. Savage, portrayed by Pat Payne. Those watching her are Judy Letson, Steve Kardaloff, Barbara Kasper, Keith Hammel, and Freda Miller.

Democrats, Republicans Present Views on Most Important Issue

In the attempt to encourage more political interest in the 1960 presidential election the Linden Bark has asked the Young Republicans and Young Democrats to make a statement concerning the most important campaign issue. The questions asked were: What do you feel is the most important issue in this presidential election campaign and why? What is your party's stand on this issue?

Democrats

In this Presidential election campaign, as in all, the Young Democrats of Lindenwood College feel that all issues discussed by the two candidates are extremely important. All are interrelated and one cannot be discussed without taking into account the influence of the others upon it. However, we feel that, in view of the increasingly alarming influence of Communism throughout the free world, the United States' foreign policy has seriously deteriorated and definitely deserves a great deal of attention.

The present administration has continually exhibited a lax attitude when dealing with Communist spheres of influence. Cuba, only 90 miles off the coast of the continental United States, has been obviously the newest and most controversial of the Communist satellites, even though it has not officially declared itself so; but the present administration has nonchalantly ignored the possibility of tragic consequences due to the changing situation in this tiny, but significant nation.

Our prestige among the nations of Europe, Asia, and South America has declined tremendously. Due to our present means of communication, our world has become smaller and smaller. As a result, it is all the more important that we build up our prestige and use our influ-

Republicans

It is our belief that the most important issue in the 1960 presidential campaign is that of foreign policy. No one can deny that this is a crucial period in the history of the United States and the remaining free world. Neither can one deny that the outcome of this election may have an important influence on the future of the entire world. It is obvious, therefore, that our country should have an experienced leader, a leader who is confident in his duties and in the strength and prestige of the United States, and a leader who is firm in his belief that this and all other countries should be free.

At the conferences of Yalta and Potsdam agreements were made by Democratic Presidents which placed 80 million people of Eastern European nations under the totalitarian dictatorship of Communism. In addition, through the irresponsibility of Democratic leadership, the 600 million people of the Chinese mainland were allowed to fall into the grip of the Communists. However, from support given by the Eisenhower - Nixon administration the Chinese Nationalists have been able to successfully defend the offshore islands of Matsu and Quemoy from Red Chinese aggression. This in itself is a far cry from the present Democratic platform's announced intention of an obliging surrender

Freshman Board Appointed to Plan Activities for SCA

Eight students have been appointed to the Student Christian Association freshman board. Representing the day students is Jewell Mouser; Ayres, Patty Rinehart; Butler, Pam Johnson; Cobbs, Winifred Mauser; Irwin, Jacy Thomas; Niccolls, Anne Brightwell and Jean Mattern; Sibley, Jackie Hamilton.

This board will act as the coordinating body in the freshman class for the SCA. One of their primary responsibilities will be to help carry out the program of the senior cabinet.

In addition they will have their own program which will include the Asian book drive, Toys for Tots, work camps, and study groups. They will be guided in their program by Nancy Babb and Kathy Tuepker.

Mrs. Ostroff Addresses 21 Alumnae Presidents

"Sister, You've Got What It Takes. Use It!" was the title of the speech given by Mrs. Hellen Boyd Ostroff, public relations and alumnae director, on Oct. 12.

She spoke at the Women's College Division of the American Alumni Council meeting in St. Louis. Mrs. Ostroff remarked, "I was in good company for this group was composed of the alumnae club presidents of 21 colleges." Schools represented were Vassar, Wellesley, Bryn Mawr, Radcliff, Holyoke, Skidmore, Sweet Briar, Mills, Sarah Lawrence, Pine Manor, Finch, Hollins, Connecticut Jr., Sophie Newcomb, Agnes Scott, Goucher, Briarcliff, Randolph Macon, Stephens, Smith and Lindenwood.

E. Kimbrough Founders' Day Convo Speaker

Emily Kimbrough, author of Our Hearts Were Young and Gay, will be speaker for the Founders' Day Convocation at 11:00 a.m., Saturday, Oct. 29, during the Lindenwood Alumnae Weekend, Oct. 28, 29. Her topic is "Listen While You Look."

Dorm Winners

During lunch after the convocation the winners of the dorm decorations will be announced. The winning dorm will be awarded fifty dollars by the Alumnae Association. Judges are members of the Alumnae Council.

50th Reunion

Special recognition will be given to the members of the class of 1911, celebrating its fiftieth reunion, at the annual alumnae dinner Friday night, Oct. 28, in Fellowship Hall, Lindenwood Chapel. About fifteen members of this class are expected.

McCluer Hall

The cornerstone ceremony for McCluer Hall will be at 10:00 a.m. Saturday, at which Mr. Howard I. Young, President of the Board of Directors of Lindenwood College, will officiate. President and Mrs. McCluer will have their annual reception for alumnae and faculty Saturday afternoon in the Memorial Arts Building.

Outstanding Alumnae

The Alumnae Association, presided by Mrs. Ander K. Orr of Van Buren, Ark., will for the second year honor two alumnae who have been outstanding in their life work. They are Mrs. Beverly Wescott

Emily Kimbrough

Gabrio of Seattle, Wash., and Miss Frances E. Wherry of Kensington, Md., both biochemists.

SIBLEY'S GHOST TO HAUNT CAMPUS

Dorm Integration Causes Controversy

It Just Won't Work

It inhibits the upperclassmen and retards the freshmen. There is nothing more impractical than having upperclassmen and freshmen trying to live a happy, harmonious life together under the same roof.

In the first place it is not the function of normal human beings to go through life devoting every waking moment to being shining examples. No more than it is the function of normal human beings to go through life following the pattern of living set up by others.

People who have been in college three weeks have entirely different problems from people who have been in college three years. They also have entirely different interests. This is wonderful. It does not, however, make sense that strong healthy friendships can develop between people who have so little in common.

Is it fair for freshmen to be placed in a position where they have virtually no opportunity for originality or development of leadership? Or is it better for them to live with people of their own age and experience where they have vast opportunities for developing their creativeness and their ability to think and reason for themselves?

Is it fair to expect upperclassmen to assume the role of circuit rider for the local "Come up and let me counsel you society"? Or is it better for them to realize that they can't relive their freshman year by doing the thinking for those who need an opportunity to "learn it the hard way"?

Certainly not every freshman in this school is bursting with leadership potential; and certainly most upperclassmen want to help the freshmen in any way they can. But for freshman to have a chance to develop into real individuals and for upperclassmen to avoid becoming deeply involved in situations they cannot help, they must not attempt to live together.

The freshmen must learn what the upperclassmen already know—the upperclassmen must learn what the freshmen aren't ready to know. This can be done much more easily when the two groups are not living side by side trying to understand one another.

IT WILL NOT WORK! YOU CAN ONLY LIVE ONE LIFE AT A TIME.

It Will Work Because It Must

Between the ages of eighteen and twenty one an individual probably undergoes more emotional changes than he will in the rest of his life. In this four year span an individual develops from a child with certain adult qualities to an adult with certain child-like qualities. There is a vast difference between these two people.

The one in his final stages and the other in his new found life is completely consumed with himself and his problems. There is little room for mature understanding of others. What then are the advantages of freshmen and upperclassmen living together?

First and foremost, this combination is life in its most realistic sense and certainly there is no better way to learn of life than to live it.

How very neat it would be if we could maintain forever the youthful quality of each year having a new set of problems—forgetting the past and ignoring the future. Life, realistic life, however, does not work this way. The older we get the more aware we must be of having traumatic problems and living anyway.

True, there is little in an objective or obvious sense that can be gained by having freshmen and upperclassmen living together. Perhaps there are certain very bad disadvantages to this living situation but if it helps at all to maintain even the semblance of a practical and realistic approach to life then its good point far outweighs the bad ones.

For the freshmen to be in a fairly close living association with people who have experienced the same thing and come out of it relatively mature and tranquil it will be ultimately a far more rewarding than frustrating experience. For the upperclassmen, it is good that they are constantly reminded of what they once were and what life can be.

Rather than worry about inhibitions and retardations why not concentrate on living life as it must be lived—wholly and fully.

IT WILL WORK BECAUSE IT MUST WORK!

Linden Leaves Whisper

'Catchy' Colds Grab Campus; Sign Stays Off

Notice: All faculty members would appreciate it if LC students set aside one day for catching and recovering from bad colds. Please give warning in advance, as there'll be a teachers' gathering in the "tea hole" that day.

We certainly had a lovely representation at the VP ball. I vote they add a special division for only LC ladies.

Have you heard about the latest disease floating around campus? It's South African flu. The United States is really going all out to promote friendly relations by naming our diseases after them. Next it'll be the Parisian pink eye.

The Irwinites rolled out the carpet for the Democratic demonstration with a cheery tune — "We Want Nixon." Other than the use of a broom and a waste basket, they don't seem to be making much noise this year.

Everyone ought to follow Cobbs' example in fire drill procedure. They can turn the confusion into a first-rate party in the parking lot. All that was lacking was some refreshments.

Wouldn't it be nice if there was a special session given on song-learning for freshmen? It's taking up so much valuable time, and after all, this is an important part of being a social success at parties.

Please take note that the electric sign above the tower isn't being used. I think this calls for a big thank you from all interested parties.

Have you been feeling blue, homesick, or even bored? The best advice is to go see the social council. Their remedy has been proven to work best of any other. And this is by no means a fantastic claim.

After a month of school I'd say we had "better than the average group of young lades" to quote a favorite cartoon character. Now let's prove it!

Dr. Franc L. McCluer Attends Two Meetings

Today Dr. Franc L. McCluer travels to Chicago for an Executive Committee Meeting of the Presbyterian Union, made up of Presbyterian College Presidents.

A New York City meeting of the Independent College Fund Association was attended last week by Dr. Franc L. McCluer. The purpose of the meet was to solicit for corporation funds for the Missouri College Fund Association.

All Bark No Bite

New Dorm Spruces Campus; Bedecked Troupe Climb on Bus

"I wonder what that part is going to be?" I'll bet that's the new union. "Gosh, those windows sure are cute." Just some comments overheard concerning the new dorm. The busy workmen seem to have made more headway since school began than was done during the summer. Sleeping on the job—er? Applications for rooms in the new dorm are already beginning. Wonder what the corner stone will say? Be around for the unveiling and see.

The biggest news of the year society-wise comes from the upperclassmen who went to the V.P. ball. One energetic upperclassman even "built" herself a new dress, properly called gown, for the grand occasion. Wanda Wear is the only person I know who would sit up nights sewing thousands of bronze beads on a dress. Will we ever forget the audience who appeared and sang when the "troupe" picked up their long skirts and loaded into the schoolbus. Yes, we will! Ginny Vanice' boyfriend broke up the Irwin dorm meeting when he appeared in tails and gloves to escort her to the gala affair.

Emmy Simmons, Ayres sophomore, claims she'll do practically anything for money—wash, iron, clean rooms and bathrooms, sew, mend, and type. She's intent on visiting a certain boy in Wisconsin and her plan for attaining this goal is fine. Unless, of course, Mr.

Colson doesn't nab her for soliciting on campus.

Alum weekend, always a jolly good affair for ole' L.Cer's comes again next week. Freshmen won't like the required convo, but seniors are looking forward to the return of so many '60 graduates. Dorm decorators will begin their vigil for the coveted prize—$50. Who can't use that at a time like this.

When Young Democrats formed a brigade and rallied through all the dorms last week they got some opposition from some strong-armed Republicans but also from a lesser known party—the Theocrats. Maybe this is the answer to some independents who just can't decide even with the "great debates" and Patty Perkins' yells. Thank heavens we've got Patty.

I guess the rules test practically "snowed" some seniors. The curve had to be raised so more could pass. I must say—whoever wrote that test had a real sense of humor mixed with old-fashioned satire. Student assembly will never be like that again.

By next issue we'll be trying to predict the election outcome. I'm going to jump out on a frail and early limb to say—I'm absolutely positive that the victor will win.

Navy Fires Successful Polaris; Hungarian Question Before UN; Candidates Still Debate Issues

A featured appearance of Soviet Premier Khrushchev caused a New York brokerage firm to cancel its sponsorship of the television program, "Open End." The firm of Sutro Bros. and Co. stated that unless their disapproval of Khrushchev's appearance was made public the two year sponsorship would be dropped.

A Navy Polaris missile was successfully fired 700 miles landing in the target area less than 15 minutes after firing.

A future series of underwater shots from a nuclear submarine will be conducted in secrecy. If this plan is carried out it will mark the first time in nearly three years that reporters have been barred from reporting a U. S. ballistic missile firing.

Headless of Soviet protest, the UN General Assembly voted to take up the Hungarian question again this year. The question was put on the agenda of the Assembly's 15th session by a vote of 54-12 with 13 abstentions.

The action, proposed by the U. S. and recommended by the 21-nation steering committee, concerns aggression in Hungary.

Edgar Eisenhower, brother of the President, has been invited to testify Tuesday at a House inquiry into government grain storage policies, it was disclosed. However, no word has been received as to whether he will accept the invitation.

Vice-President Richard Nixon and Senator John Kennedy talked at a rate of 185 words a minute during the debate held Oct. 7. A rough count showed that during the 60 minute period the two men spoke 11,000 words.

Fifteen men convicted of conspiracy against the Castro regime escaped from ancient Morro Castle prison which guards Havana Bay. The counter-revolutionaries were aided in their escape by five navy men charged with guarding the prisoners.

Age Old Tradition of Halloween Spooks Still Being Kept Alive, Even at Lindenwood

"Hold still you stupid apple. All I want is one bite."

Nancy Hisey

Miniature goblins in the night

With thoughts on food and not on fright

Laughing, sing out Trick or Treat

Goodies, candies, things to eat!

From small toddlers to Lindenwood Ladies the 20th century American is keeping alive the age old tradition of goblins and spooks on Halloween. Rooted in ancient Roman pagan beliefs Halloween has changed through the centuries from a feared and wicked night to a time of frivolity and mischief.

Equally important to the Latin countries is the religious significance of the date. Commonly known as Allhallows Eve or All Saints Day in the Roman Catholic and Anglican Church, the day was set aside by Pope Gregory III for feasting after consecrating a chapel to all saints.

Druid belief continued to flourish even after the spread of Christianity as cults began worship of Satan and held frequent gatherings called witches' Sabbaths. Thus originated the witch and black cat folklore.

Although the Protestant church rejected the religious side of the holiday, there remained many superstitious beliefs and celebrations in Ireland, Scotland, Wales, and parts of England. Bonfires were lit, nuts roasted, and shoes thrown over roofs.

Halloween immigrated to the U. S. with the Irish and English but it didn't become popular until the latter 19th century. Witches, black-cats, death's head cut from a pumpkin, candles, bobbing apples, "trick or treat" masks, and parties gained significance.

As the celebration caught on with the Americans it began to be synonymous with vandalism. Windows and doors were soaped among the numerous list of property destroyed. In order to combat the malicious mischief, civic organizations held masquerade parties for the children.

Today's Halloween is primarily a child's night but numerous other age groups join the festivities making the holiday eagerly anticipated and long enjoyed.

League to Hold Mock Election Artists Begin Big Weekend

Lindenwood students will be given a chance to express their political preference in a mock presidential election Nov. 3. The mock election, sponsored by the League of Woman Voters is open to everyone, has become a tradition on LC's campus.

Because of the Republican majority on campus, the accuracy of the students usually depends upon the outcome of the Republican candidate in the actual national election. In 1936, 1940, 1944, and 1948 when a Democrat was elected to office, the student vote failed to coincide with that of the majority of the nation. But in the 1952 and 1956 elections, the students agreed with the majority of the nation's electorate.

There appears to be little doubt on campus that Mr. Nixon will receive the majority of the student body votes; but whether or not the students will be accurate in predicting the new president this year cannot be determined until election returns are tabulated.

Art majors and minors will join in a week-end of study and fun during the semi-annual Art Week-end beginning tomorrow at Mound Ridge Camp, St. James, Mo.

Under the direction of the Student Artists' Guild and limited to upperclassmen, the fall trip will center around drawing, sketching, and concentrated activity in art. Discussion groups will cover subjects not brought up in class work.

Approximately 24 students and faculty members will attend the art outing including Dr. and Mrs. Franc McCluer, Miss Mary Lichliter, Miss Lula Clayton Beal, Mr. Harry Hendren, Mr. John Wehmer, and Mr. Arthur Kanak.

Also on the agenda of activities is the initiation of Judy Beard into the Student Artists' Guild, according to Sandra Schmidt, Guild president.

The other week-end trip, to be held in the spring, is to be open to freshman art majors and minors.

During the weekend students will cook their own food assisted by Dr. McCluer and Mr. Wehmer, who specialize in the culinary arts.

Lindenwood Remembrances Fill Cornerstone of New Hall; Unveiling Alumnae Weekend

None of you reading this will live to see the destruction and decaying of McCluer Hall, but we imagine that probably 3 centuries from now a puzzled and curious crowd will open the cornerstone of the new-not-yet-completed dorm and be surprised at Lindenwood's state in 1960.

A busy and fun summer of collecting items for the box was spent by members of the administration. The question they attempted to answer with the articles was: "What things about Lindenwood and Dr. and Mrs. McCluer would educators and onlookers be most interested three centuries from now?"

The openers will have to have a big imagination to conceive of leotards, tennis shoes, and quiet hour rules when they look at the Lindenwood viewbook, a copy of the 1959 Linden Leaves, dedicated to Dr. and Mrs. McCluer; the March 24, 1960 issue of the Linden Bark, announcing plans for the new dorm; and a copy of the 1960-61 Rules and Regulations for Community Living.

A letter from Dr. McCluer is included in the box stating: To those who open this box: We hope that the articles which we have put in the box for the cornerstone of McCluer Hall will be of interest to those who open it."

Other articles placed in the box include: a Revised Edition of the Holy Bible signed by Dr. McCluer, a copy of the act to incorporate Lindenwood Female College, biographical material about Dr. and Mrs. McCluer, excerpts from minutes of the meeting of the Board of Directors when McCluer Hall was first considered, and several other reminiscences of the College.

Services for the unveiling of the cornerstone, now covered with canvas will be a part of Alumnae Weekend festivities. The engraving on the stone will be made public at that time.

Callahan 'Girls' Compare Notes at Home; Mother-Daughter Team in Frosh Class

How's the dating situation at Lindenwood seems to be the favorite question asked by Mrs. Albert Callahan's classmates lately. Her answer is always the same, "I haven't been to any of the mixers lately, and any way I'm still dating Mr. Callahan."

The reason for these questions is that both Mrs. Callahan and her 17 year-old daughter Cathy are freshmen this fall at LC. Mrs. Callahan began school last spring and Cathy, who completed high school in three years, is a first semester freshman.

"Last spring I had some extra time so I decided to go to school," said Mrs. Callahan with a smile. "I don't have any time at all now." She went on to explain that although she had gone to a business school for a year after high school, she had always wanted to go to college but never had the opportunity. Since her four children ages 17, 12, 11, and 7 were in school, it just happened to work out that she could start now.

"It doesn't seem at all funny or odd to me to see Mother come walking down the hall with an armload of books," said Cathy. "It might for some girls, but I think it is nice to have her here." They only have two of the same courses but they like to compare notes on the classes even though they have different teachers.

Since starting college, Mrs. Callahan has had to abandon almost all of the social activities in Bridgeton where they live. The only activities she has time for now are church affiliated, but as she said, "That's what I always wanted."

Republicans Elect Officers; Members Fill Several Jobs

The following girls were recently elected officers of Young Republicans: Kay Klinker, chairman; Ann Donnahue, vice chairman; Mary Speer, secretary; Judy Guthrie, treasurer; and Nancy Babb, correspondent.

The organization is filling several jobs for the St. Charles County Republican Headquarters, including writing the county's Republican newsletter. They also are working with the headquarters in Clayton. Various members of the club are on committees for a Republican rally at Blanchette Park Nov. 3 for Edward G. Farmer Jr., Republican candidate for governor of Missouri.

Mr. Farmer visited LC Oct. 17 during a tour of colleges and universities in the St. Louis area. He was greeted at the gate by members of Young Republicans and was guest at a coke party held in his honor in Cobbs recreation room.

"No, Mother. Here, it's like this," says Cathy Callahan to her mother Mrs. Albert Callahan. Both are freshmen this year at Lindenwood. Mrs. Callahan started last semester and Cathy, who completed high school in three years, began this fall.

Glee Club, 'Political' Dance Fill LC Social Calendar

After a performance by the Rolla glee club Oct. 22, a "political" get-acquainted dance will be held in the Butler gymnasium; the decorations will have political overtones. This dance along with other activities fill the social calendar for the next few weeks.

A Rolla party weekend, which

- Oct. 22—Political Dance
- Nov. 5—Rolla Weekend
- Oct. 25-27—The Music Man
- Nov. 9—The Flower Drum Song
- Nov. 14—The Best Man
- Oct. 26—Shelley Berman
- Dec. 3—The sophomore class dance

150 to 200 Lindenwood girls will attend, is Nov. 5 and 6; the boys will entertain the girls at dinner, a tour of the campus, a dance Saturday night, and breakfast Sunday morning. Other events include the following: Plays at the American theatre for the next few weeks are The Music Man, The Flower Drum

Song, and The Best Man; Shelley Berman at the Kiel Auditorium; and the sophomore class dance.

Miss Marguerite Odell, social director, also says that it isn't too soon to start making plans for spring vacation trips to Florida, New York, Mexico, or wherever the students want to go. She feels that these trips require much planning and is willing to discuss the subject with any interested student.

of these islands.

In the second television debate held Oct. 7 this issue was brought to the fore. In answer to a questioning newspaperman, Senator Kennedy stated, in effect, that attempts should be made to draw a line at Formosa, thus leaving this island defenseless. And Nixon's answer, "The question is not these two little pieces of real estate . . . It isn't the few people who live on them . . . It is the principle involved. These two islands are the idea of freedom."

It should be obvious to everyone that the relinquishing of these islands might start a chain reaction of retreats which would eventually lead to the fall of the free world. Are we to be intimidated by the aggression of the Communists? This is the most important question to be asked before the coming election.

Camping Excursion To Pere Marquette Coming Up Soon

"Don't worry about the cold. Just bring plenty of blankets for the WRA camping trip on Nov. 4 and 5," announces Linda Gillespie, president. The Women's Recreation Association is planning to leave for their annual weekend of fun Friday, Nov. 1, at 4:30 p.m. Pere Marquette State Park is their point of destination.

Heading the various committees are Sharon Hartman, selection of food; Marty Radford and Cathy Baldus, cooking; Kathy Taylor, publicity; Margaret Robinson, transportation; Judy Guthrie and Jean Brown, entertainment.

If anyone will be able to drive this weekend she is asked to see Margaret Robinson. Gas expense will be taken care of.

SEA Presents Movie to 100

The film "Not by Chance" was shown at the first meeting of the Student Education Association on Oct. 5.

Approximately 100 students saw the film which explained exactly what kind of training a teacher must have and the various steps of the training from the beginning of college work to practice teaching.

The meeting began with a tea at 4:10 followed by Mr. Bremen Van Bibber's talk giving the history and purposes of the Lindenwood SEA chapter.

SEA expects to have about 150 or more members this year. All interested are to turn in applications for membership to Sharon Worley, treasurer. Other officers are Nell McGee, president; Sally Siefert, vice president; and Jane Barnard, secretary.

Buzz Sessions Begin Nov. 1

"Happy talk, keep talkin happy talk, Talk about things that puzzle you. If thoughts can't be revealed Then how do you expect To stay happy at dear Lindenwood."

These words from "SCA Terrific in South Pacific" describe Lindenwood's buzz sessions sponsored by the Student Christian Association. Tuesday, Nov. 1, is the first of four buzz sessions to be held this year in faculty homes.

There is no specific topic, but rather students may discuss whatever is most important to them. This activity will begin at 7:30 p.m. and last about an hour. Students interested in attending are asked to contact Sandy Allen or Bev Bohne.

biochemistry from the University of Rochester, N. Y. She has held many positions as research assistant in medical and chemical labs. Her present positions are director of research at King County Blood Bank in Seattle and research assistant professor in the department of biochemistry, and lecturer in the department of medicine, at the University of Washington in Seattle.

Currently Mrs. Gabrio is doing research in the biochemical differences between normal and leukemic white blood cells, and red blood cell metabolism and blood preservation.

Miss Wheary

Miss Wheary attended graduate school at Georgetown University after receiving her A.B. in chemistry from Lindenwood in 1945. She has held positions as biochemist, vitamin division, in the food and drug administration in Washington, D.C., and in the research division at the National Bureau of Standards, studying particularly Vitamins B and B-1. Since 1957 she has been at the research laboratories in the National Institute of Health in Bethesda, Md., studying metabolic diseases.

Helen Ostroff, alumnae secretary, reports that she is expecting over three hundred alumnae during the weekend, who will stay in Cobbs Hall.

5 Students Enrolled In TV Math Class

Five Lindenwood students are enrolled for credit this year in the Continental Classroom Contemporary Math course. This course, math 390, is shown each morning on television channel 5 from 6:30 to 7:00 o'clock.

Lectures are presented on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays by Dr. John Kelley, a professor at the University of California. Dr. Julius H. Hlavaty, director of the Mathematics Commission Program of the College Entrance Examination program, presents discussions on Tuesdays and Thursdays.

Other class enrollments of the math department are theory of equation, with 6 students; calculus II, 7; analytic geometry, 26; 20 of whom are freshmen entering with sufficient high school mathematics and satisfactory test scores; advanced freshman mathematics, 37; college algebra, 65; and basic mathematics.
