Player Reacts to Coach's Resignation

By Earl Austin

Two years ago, Bob Benben was hired as men's basketball coach. Knowing Benben's reputation and contacts, in the St. Louis area, the move could be equated with a commitment to bring respectability to a downtrodden program.

Well, just last week, something I thought I would never have to report happened. Coach Benben has resigned from his post at Lindenwood.

As much adversity as our team has faced, I never thought it would wind up in such an occurrence. Then again, I thought Keith Hernandez would be a St. Louis Cardinal forever, and Mike Liut would wear no other jersey than the blue note.

These three were all popular and important people in their respective communities. Athletically, Benben was the best thing ever to stem into the Lindenwood community.

After taking the job last year, friends and opposing coaches alike, thought he had taken leave from his senses. However, he is not known for stepping into an already great, or stable situation. He is a coach who loves the challenge or rolling up his sleeves, and getting his hands dirty, while starting a new program from scratch.

Benben's two year record at Lindenwood was 24-37. But that does not begin to show the competitive spirit of his teams.

"The same people who thought Benben should have his head examined, marveled at the job he was doing here."

We found ourselves doing well against teams that would have laughed us out of the gym three years ago. We lost to Blackburn College 78-76 at the final buzzer. Blackburn went on to win the National Little College Championship. We came within six points of beating rising Division II power SIU Edwardsville on its own court. Even national junior college powers Jefferson and East Central, had its hands full trying to contend with us. Two of our players, Kevin Kiner and myself, were chosen to the All-District teams the past two years. Never before has a Lindenwood basketball player been considered for such an honor before Benben's arrival. No longer was Lindenwood considered a patsy on the schedule. The same people who thought Benben should have his head examined, marvelled at the job he was doing here.

Next year figured to be our best yet. All of our players were returning, and the prospects for recruiting looked bright. We were on the verge of making some big waves in the NAIA District 16.

Now our ship has been knocked off course again. It is a tragedy to see a man put his heart and soul into a product, fighting all obstacles, only not to be around to see how it turns out. It's like Martin Luther King not being able to see today what he fought for twenty years ago. Or a great novelist dying before his masterpiece was published.

"He is a coach who loves the challenge of rolling up his sleeves and getting his hands dirty, while starting a new program from scratch."

It also hurts to see the futures of several of my teammates changing drastically. We've all become real close over the year, and now many of them are uncertain of what to do next. If they leave, not only would we be losing great players, but great students as well.

Benben's slogan for the team this past season was "on the right track". Who knows, next year, it may have been "Ain't no stopping us now". I'm hoping we can go back to the old motto of "coming back" again. But as the way things stand now, I hope taps isn't the appropriate tune.

Chaplain plans fast, blood drive

A campus wide Red Cross blood drive, sponsored by the Religious Life Council, will be held in the McClure Hall Main Floor lounge on Tuesday, April 23, 1985 from 11 a.m.-4:00 p.m. . All students, faculty, and staff are encouraged to donate blood. For more information, contact Jeri Westerhold in the College Life office. Share the gift of life-donate blood!

VOLUNTARY FAST SLATED FOR APRIL 25TH-- Lindenwood students, faculty, and staff are urged to give up lunch on Thursday April 25, 1985. Registered board students may sign up to skip lunch on that day, with the understanding that the estimated cost of their lunch (@ 2.00) will be donated to Hunger Relief. The money will be channeled through the food service to a special account designated for Hunger Relief. Faculty, staff, and commuter students are encouraged to forego lunch and contribute a cash donation equivalent to the cost of a lunch at the cafeteria. All money raised by the Hunger Awareness Fast will be earmarked for OXFAM (an international Hunger Relief Agency) and FISH (a local emergency good program). The "Fast Day" is sponsored by the Religious Life Council in conjunction with colleges and universities across the United States.

The idea of a fast on April 25th was originally proposed by David Steinberg and Brett Matthews-two Dartmouth College students concerned about the extended famine crisis in Africa. Steinberg and Matthews have mobilized a nationwide campaign to involve college students on 3,000 campuses in direct famine relief.

I received a mailing from Steinberg and Matthews, appealing for Lindenwood's participation in the Fast on April 25th. I presented the Fast proposal to the Religious Life Council and the Council voted to designate proceeds from the Fast for both international (50%) and local (50%) hunger relief agencies. More information about the Fast can be obtained from George Wilcox, Campus Chaplain, Niccolls Hall.

The L.C. Legends Part II

by John Lindstrom

Two weeks ago, we took a look at the Lindenwood female walk of fame, which featured the girls who have been the nicest, and who have tolerated my teasing the most during the last four years. So much for the lovely women, now it's time to name the all time Lindenwood male legend list, (at least during the last four years).

These are the five guys who have been the wildest between September 1981, and today. How many of these "legends" do you remember? Now let's meet them.

1. ANDY RUBIN; (1981-1984). This man's list of wild achievements is endless, but there's one in particular that I'd like to share with you. Back in April of 1982, Lindenwood held its annual Cotillion. Andy Rubin, of course, attended. At the time, Andy was dating a girl named Lori Hosselkaus. Just before the event, he decided he would ask another girl instead of his steady, Lori (her name was Maureen Mayer). So Andy took Maureen, whom he labeled a "big date". Andy and Maureen attended the dance, and naturally that didn't sit well with Lori. As Andy was dancing and having fun with Maureen all night, Lori was drowning in her tears wondering why Andy was doing this.

Finally the dance was over, and it was time to leave. After Maureen had a great night with Andy, her heart was broken when he decided not only to take her home, but his real girlfriend, Lori, in the same car. When I asked several other people who would be there number one legend, each and everyone said "Chicago's Andy Rubin."

2. GARY FEY; (1979-1984). This guy always let me use his car when I needed to. His sense of humor has been cracking me up for four years. His famed "Hank Siesel" joke is legendary in itself. Can any of us forget his legendary "Le Chez Fey" setting of two years ago? At least 400 people passed through it.

3. ADAM STILL; (1981-1985). Like Andy, he has always included people in his activity, never left anybody out. Whenever he's thrown a party, it's always been a memorable spectacle. This guy has tolerated much teasing from me in recent years. Will never hesitate to share a personal experience with anyone, whether that be Joe Blow on the street, a professor, or a fellow student.

Adam now shares an apartment on 3rd street with another of our top five legends, (who we'll get to later). Suffice it to say there thinking of making it a national monument. "In the mud"...Adam "BF" Still.

4. RON MARTIN; (1981-1983). Even though he was only here for two years, he deserves recognition. The San Diego native was my roommate for two months (believe it or not) during our first semester here, fall 1981. His voice could be heard campus wide; in other words, his voice traveled, (I shouldn't talk). I tell you, the two years this guy was here, he was a huge hit with the women. It was nice to see him come back and visit this past December. It appears that he'll marry former LC student Krista Magnuson.

5. JERRY ELAM; (1981-1984). One of the friendliest guys I've met since I came here. He always invited not only me, but anyone else who wanted to come to his famous parties, either in Cobbs, Parker, or his current apartment, (he is Adam's roommate).

It seemed that every Friday night last year, his room was full of people who just flat out wanted to have fun. Even though Jerry graduated last year, he still remains very popular. I've never seen him get mad at anyone.

Trying to narrow the male legend list down to five was tough, but it got accomplished. As you can see, Lindenwood has somebody for everybody. Of course some of the "Off The Wall" things these guys have done can not be put in print or I would be facing mucho libel suits.
