Dr. McCluer Announces Establishment of Art Fund

The establishment of a Memorial Art Fund has been announced by President F. L. McCluer. The fund which has been set up to purchase art work, is made available to those who wish to make donations in honor of someone. These art purchases will be originals when possible.

At present Lindenwood is in the process of purchasing Mr. Kanak's "Ozark Landscape in Three Panels" which is in the Library Club Room.

"Painting will play its part in this vitalization of art if we will but cease buying pictures—originals or reproductions—simply to cover bare spots on our walls, then to be quickly ignored and forgotten. If we will, instead, select them as objects of contemplation and so regard them, opening our eyes to them in moments of relaxation, they will assert their presence. A work of art speaks silently and often slowly. At best it speaks with great personal intimacy. But its message is universal." This statement by Kenneth E. Hudson very well expresses Lindenwood's views about the importance of good art work.

Those wishing to making a contribution in the name of a relative or friend may do so by directing it to the Lindenwood Memorial Fund. A notice of the thoughtfulness will be sent to the person or their relatives telling about the memorial. Students may make contributions through the book store.

LC School Movie Made

Shooting a movie of daily activities of the eleven members of the Lindenwood nursery school began Tuesday. The children, ranging from three to five years of age, meet every weekday morning for "school" which is held in the LC chapel.

E. Bohn, Organist, To Star on KFUE

Elizabeth Bohn, organist, will star on KFUE, the Concordia radio station, at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Her program which will be presented live includes the music of Bach, Brahms, Purcell and Langlais.

McMurray College, Washington University, and Lindenwood College are the only schools which have been sponsored on this half hour program by the American Guild of Organists.

A senior, Elizabeth will receive her AB in English and a minor in music. She has given her diploma recital in organ.

Elizabeth has served as chapel organist and as the accompanist for the choir and Chorales. She is a member of Mu Phi Epsilon, the Griffin staff, and the poetry society. Last year she was president of the Lindenwood student guild chapter which is affiliated with the St. Louis chapter of the American Guild of Organists.

Heads Summer Program

Frank T. Armstrong, professor of history, will be in charge of a summer recreation program for retarded children of St. Charles County. The program will be held on the Lindenwood campus.

HONORS AWARDED TODAY

Students to be Honored Today

Scholarship and special works by students of Lindenwood College will be honored at the annual Honors' Day Convocation today.

An academic procession will begin the convocation. After the speaker, Mrs. Oswald B. Lord, has addressed the students, she will be presented an honorary Doctor of Laws Degree.

Students with 3.50 cumulative averages over a two semester period will receive recognition. Traditional honors and awards, and a special Bible award will highlight the program.

Mrs. O. B. Lord

Mrs. O. B. Lord To Speak at Honor's Convo

Today at 11 a.m. Mrs. Oswald B. Lord, United States Representative to the Commission on Human Rights to the United Nations, will address students of Lindenwood College at the annual Honors' Day Convocation. At that time the college, represented by Dr. Franc McCluer, will confer upon her the honorary Degree of Doctor of Laws. This will be the first time Lindenwood has bestowed such an honorary degree.

Mrs. Lord was an alternate United States Representative to the eighth, ninth, tenth, eleventh, and twelfth regular sessions of the General Assembly. Her first official connection with the United Nations occurred when she was named a member of the U. S. Committee for UNICEF. Since joining the United States Missions to the United Nations, Mrs. Lord has traveled widely in an effort to meet and know people of other countries. She has visited countries of Asia, the Middle East, and Europe.

She was graduated cum laude from Smith College and holds honorary degrees from Smith, Wheaton College, Syracuse University, Russell Sage College and Temple University.

Hume Awarded

Robert Douglas Hume, associate professor of speech and director of theatre, has been granted a five-week scholarship at the Church Divinity School of the Pacific, Episcopal Theological Seminary in Berkeley, Calif.

Professor Hume will study some phase of theology and its relation to his own special academic discipline. He plans to do research with reference to drama suitable for chancel presentation and which properly expresses the faith of the Anglican Church.

The session will be held during the latter part of the summer.

Frosh to Give Show

The Freshman Variety Show which had been temporarily postponed is re-scheduled for May 14, announced "Cindy" Powell, chairman of the planning committee.

The show is still to be held at 7 p.m. in Roemer Auditorium.

Members of the planning committee, Molly Maze, Melanie McAfee, and Charlotte McRee, promise good entertainment and fun for everyone.

KADY Appoints Alumna

Bettie Miller Harris, a '58 graduate of Lindenwood has recently been appointed as Director of Traffic and Continuity at KADY, St. Charles radio station.

Before her present job in St. Charles, Mrs. Harris worked for KSD, a St. Louis radio station.

While attending Lindenwood, she was a member of Linden Scroll and a freshman counselor.

Scroll Taps 8 in Annual Ceremony

Tension filled Lindenwood's Chapel last Tuesday as eleven Linden Scroll members clothed in blue robes were ushered down the center aisle to take their places before the student body. The occasion was the Scroll's Tapping Ceremony. Suspense mounted as students of the junior class holding a .4 above the all school average were seated in the first few rows and the ceremony began.

Jan Cooper, Chaplain of Linden Scroll, offered a prayer before the actual tapping. Eight members of this year's Scroll then, singly, tapped a junior for membership next year and presented her to the Scroll's president, Betty Layton.

Juniors tapped were: Mary Fletcher Cox, Carol Davidson, Karen Glaser, Ellie Mansfield, Connie Milliken, Peggy Newell, Marjorie Ward, and Judy Winburn.

After the ceremony a luncheon was given in honor of the new members by this year's Linden Scroll. Sue Freegard is treasurer of Scroll, and Julie Orr is the secretary. Initiation of new members will be held in Mrs. Charles Rechtern's home, May 23. Sponsors of the Scroll are Mrs. Charles Rechtern, Miss Mary Lichtler, and Mrs. Van Bibber.

This year's Scroll has been very active. Besides sponsoring the symposium, "Dynamics of Courtship and Marriage," they gave a White Elephant Sale. They also sold Lindenwood Calendars at the first of the year, and gave a Scroll Tea for sophomores last March. From funds acquired during the year, the Scroll donated $150 as a scholarship for a student next year.

The aims of Linden Scroll are to promote scholarship, loyalty, service to the community, and leadership.

Transportation to be Improved For Future Lindenwood Students

By Ann Beadle

Since the early '20s Lindenwood ladies have been customers of the Terminal Cab Company in St. Charles. The owner for the past 13 years, Thorley Alderson, says that three to four per cent of his present business comes from LC's campus.

Nine cabs and the city and school buses make up the company. Friday afternoon from three until four o'clock is the busiest hour of the week. The busiest afternoon and night hours are from three until eight o'clock on Friday. Even then Mr. Alderson says that a taxi will arrive for a passenger no later than 10 minutes after the call is made except in bad weather.

This year for the first time in eight years an increase in the taxi fare amounting to 10 cents was made to cover the rising costs of the company. Mr. Alderson remarked that there seemed to be a misunderstanding about the collection of fares. If two calls on campus are made to the taxi station, two fares must be paid even if the same taxi takes both customers to the same destination. But if one call is canceled, the riders may divide the expense of one call. He explained that because of a city ordinance, the company is unable to lower rates or give special prices to anyone.

The Bark suggests that a designated place on campus be the "waiting place" for cabs in nice weather. This way students may know if others wish to go to town at the same time, and they may spare expenses of one call. It is very important to cancel one call if two are made.

The Terminal Cab Company offers special services to Lindenwood students. A taxi list is made for transportation to the airport and train station at vacation time. A cab may be called collect from St. Louis, or the cost of the call be deducted from the caller's fare.

Many LC students are unaware that a city bus passes by the campus. This is a more inexpensive way to ride to town. The fare is 15 cents or three tokens for 40 cents. The bus stops just south of the main entrance at 7:05 each morning and makes stops every half hour until 6:05 in the evening. By bus, it takes approximately 10 minutes to get down town. Buses from town also come in front of the campus, but take longer to get here. Improvements for the bus schedule are underway, but will not go into effect this year

New Appliances in Laundry Room

The laundry room in Niccolls hall is no longer a place to avoid taking impressive prospective students and scrutinizing parents. The three new washers and two dryers recently installed have brought forth numerous compliments, especially from the residents of this dormitory.

Among the advantages they mentioned were more rinses and the longer driving cycles that last from 45 minutes to an hour. These machines can be considered ultra modern in comparison with the old ones, especially in appearance. They no longer must be watched to note any "sickness" that might suddenly develop and cause them to "die" halfway through the job. Also pleasing to the students is the location of these new appliances, for a well-lighted, spacious room now houses them. It is more convenient and certainly easier on one's eyes.

(It is considered to be almost a pleasure to wash one's clothes now.)

Students Want Guest Rule Changed

For many years there has been a rule at Lindenwood stating that a student can entertain no guest overnight in the dormitory during the week. We have been told that the rule protects us from being annoyed while studying.

We feel, however, that a college woman has the courtesy and intelligence to have a guest in her room and not encroach upon the rights of others. We can understand why this should not become a habit. There are, however, special occasions which merit the modification of this rule.

For example, a former Lindenwood student may return to the college (during the week) and wish to stay overnight with one of her friends. If there is ample space for another person without inconveniencing others, it seems only reasonable that the girl should be permitted to visit for one night. It seems abrupt to send such a person to a hotel when there is room for her with one of her friends.

We could solve this problem if the rule were changed. Another solution is to have a guest room for this purpose in each dormitory. In the latter case, the guest would not annoy or upset the routine of any student in the dorm.

Travel Difficult Since Destruction of Stage Coach

Whew!

"O.K. girls. Check your equipment as I call it from the master sheet. Bed roll, bunsen burner, bug repellent, tent stakes, first aid kit . . . "Boy," came a terrified whisper from the back of the room, "this is going to be one of the toughest trips ever."

And then again from the khaki-clad commander: "One more word before we get started. Be careful when cutting through cow pastures. We've got to eliminate last trip's casualties. Oh, and keep it quiet during buddy-check."

Then, in rigid formation, three rows of Lindenwood Ladies began their march. Heading out of the Expedition Room, accompanied by the smell of hot canvas and the sounds of pots, pans, and other camping equipment, the camouflaged troops turned toward the highway by way of the underbrush.

Where are they going—these 33 girls with 33 chins set in stalwart determination, and partially hidden by 33 traffic exhaust masks? Is it a camping trip? No, they're taking advantage of St. Louis' cultural opportunities. You see, the only reasonably priced transportation into St. Louis was destroyed when the Indians burned the stage coach in 1849.

All Bark No Bite

May Day Remnants for Sale; Students Select Picnic Haven

Here we are on location in Pere Marquette State Park (only forty five minutes from our lovely campus. A few issues ago I recommended Creve Coeur as the place to go for a picnic—no more! From now on out it's Pere Marquette; and if you don't know how to get there just ask Bobbi Ferguson or Diane Goldman. For that matter, almost anyone in Irwin can tell you how. A WORD TO THE WISE: Take the ferry.

FOR SALE CHEAP

Several hundred copies of such assorted tunes as Dearie, Look for the Silver Lining, and Collegiate. If you'll hurry there are also some copies of Remember left. If you don't know where to go to get them—FORGET IT! You're out of harmony.

It's all over. Everything's gone—everything but the memories and the platform. At any rate it was a wonderful weekend and many thanks to all the people who made it so. Also thanks to the May court for being such lovely representatives of our school.

Congratulations are certainly in order for all the girls who were tapped last week (tapped for Linden Scroll we mean). It was certainly an impressive half hour.

You know if some of you all would get on the stick and do something witty and sharp so I could write about it this column wouldn't be so trite. (I use this word with all apologies to the English department who, so some of the freshmen are saying, seemingly holds the patent on it.

A word of condolence to Fletcher Cox: Don't worry about it, for anyone can build a fire; but it takes someone special to wear a sweat shirt in that true "camper style."

At this point I would like to extend a broad, general "congratulations" to all the people on campus who have merited it in the recent elections. Also welcome back to Gay Pauly who's just back from setting the "Big City" on fire. What more could a college girl want than to get to meet John Kennedy on excused cuts. What's more she was at a banquet in her honor.

Of all the men on campus May Weekend, there's only one that everyone termed a "living doll," and that was Ben Boswell, brother to Ann. Little Ben completely snowed all who met him and offers great encouragement to those who want to finish college and work awhile before getting serious.

And with that bit of pleasant philosophy I'll close by begging you to hang on there's only four more weeks. J. E.

Linden Leaves Whisper

Sun-Worshippers Invade Campus, Believe LC to be Hottest College In U.S.; Bugs Make Annual Return

LC is, without a doubt, the hottest college in the U.S. It's difficult to believe the radio announcer when he says the temperature is 90. It's at last 450 in the shade. But we can all go home sporting tans and have comparative proof that the sun bleached our hair. One disadvantage is that when you walk into a class you've been faking through all year—the prof can easily note that you've been making more note of nature's wonders than those found in books.

But here's a word from sun-bathers. The first few days weren't too bad if you had a thick blanket that at least made you even with the grass. But anymore it takes two or three mattresses to keep from feeling like Jungle Jane. My guess is that if the lawns aren't trimmed pretty soon there'll be a run on sickles at the local hardware stores. And some of the sun soakers for whom bugs have an affinity are eagerly waiting for their bug bites to close in. One Copper-toner said she couldn't wait to see her parents because she'd lost five pounds and knew how happy they'd be to see her slim. Observers say they've never seen such a crestfallen face when her dad said he thought she'd gained. The truth of the matter is that her bites had closed in and she was simply one big welt.

And then there was May Weekend. Moms and dads of LC girls are the best. Those of us who weren't able to get our folks down were readily adopted by parents of those gals who did—and thus collect phone calls home from weepy students were tremendously decreased. And Mr. Weatherman was really on our side, so thanks to him. It was a beautiful weekend and congratulations go to students and faculty who made it so.

Bongo drums have been hitting the spotlights a lot lately. Some of the most avid bongers are even taking lessons. You can usually tell them from non-bongers because of their swollen hands and big knuckles. That's one way a guy can be assured of not getting a ring back—or a girl of keeping it. After a couple of good sessions at the bongos there's not much chance of being able to put on or take off a size 60 washer with three tons of soap.

Rooms are now back to normal and I doubt that many parents were taken in by the favorable impression everyone tried to create with scrubbed floors, dressers without dust lines under them, and clean bed spreads.

Well, Mr. Sun is about at his best and I'm about ready to go out and take advantage of him. After glancing out the window at the suffering sunners, though, I don't know. It looks pretty bad. Kind of like Death Valley Days.

Culmination of Year's Work

'Griffin', Yearbook Ready For Reading

by Beth Allen

Each year $3000 are spent for editions of "Linden Leaves", the yearbook, in order to print 500 copies for distribution among students, faculty, and field representative offices. The publication is financed through advertisements and from each student's five dollar deposit included in her tuition.

A 12 to 14 month project, the planning of each year's publication begins in early spring, when the old staff selects members for the coming year. Immediately, the newly-appointed staff examine bids from commercial publishers and photographers who vie for the next year's job. Also, they select a theme and dedication for the book. They formulate ideas about the different sections of the yearbook and begin to look for events on campus to photograph.

During the first week of school in the fall, the organization manager begins scheduling pictures for the various classes. Also, the various "heads" plan the art, literary phrases, and pictures for the first third of the book. Working in the Tower Room above the library many nights during the week, which is the only time available for annual work, the students aim towards their three deadlines in November, January, and at the end of February. At these specified times, one third of the book is sent to the printers.

After the last copy is in, the final work is not finished until the middle of April. In this month the brownlines, copy that is to be proof read, is received for accurate checking. This proof reading is the last work for the annual staff.

This year the "Linden Leaves" is scheduled to be distributed among the students about May 15.

May 7 is finally here. Yes, today is the day many secrets will unfold and excitement will be the "big word" or "your story." Not only will Honors' Day presentations be full of fun and excitement, but your mailbox will contain more enjoyment.

The '59 Griffin is out and ready for distribution. This year for the first time LC's "Literary digest" is given to each student free as a courtesy of the financial aid of the Student Activity Fund.

The magazine, sponsored by Dr. Agnes Sibley, contains 38 selections this year, primarily short stories, humorous and serious poems, one essay, and a fable. Eleven upperclassmen, Elizabeth Bohn, Judy Brown, Cornelia Childs, Charlotte Kinnard, Jane Cooper, Mary Elizabeth Cox, Norma Nixon, Suellen Purdue, Helen Rice, Cynthia Richards, and Elizabeth Thomas, are represented. Eight freshmen, Carolyn Drane, Kay Heitchecher, Mary Hughes McCue, Nicole Johnson, Launa Sturgess, Linda Thomas, Sue Thurman, Jill Rebman, have entries.

Three former students are represented in the magazine: Ellen Devlin, now studying at the University of Iowa; Karen Prewitt, a junior at Butler University, and Mary Ann Thielecke, now Mrs. W. D. Guthrie.

Those freshmen who won the freshman writing contest, sponsored by the Griffin and announced today at Honors' Convocation, are included in the publication. Nicole Johnson's poem, "Song," which won the Poetry Society Contest, is also offered in the booklet. The entries by Suellen Purdue are a part of her special English project. Cornelia Childs is editor; Myrin Bruns is art editor.

Linden Leaves Elects Officers

The "Linden Leaves" staff, appointed by the present staff members of the Lindenwood yearbook and approved by Dean Paulena Nickell, has been named for next year. New members are meeting to discuss theme, publisher, photographer, and dedication for next year's publication.

Wedding Bells to Ring Soon As 12 Seniors Make Plans For Marriage After Graduation

"Wedding Bells Are Breaking Up That Old Gang of Mine." This old favorite has recently been revived by the Lindenwood seniors. Twelve students are looking forward to graduation a little more than the average graduate, for marriage soon will follow for them.

Carol Ann Hopkins will marry Jim Hayward in the Lindenwood College Chapel June 6. Jim is a graduate of Washington University with a degree in electrical engineering and is doing electrical engineering work in sound research.

June 27 will be the big day for both Elizabeth Ann Britt and Joyce Georgia Kayarian. Elizabeth is planning a wedding in the First Methodist Church, Ft. Smith, Ark. Her husband will be Samuel R. Ludington, Jr. He is a graduate of the University of Arkansas, Fayetteville, and is now an accountant in Ft. Smith. Joyce will marry Ted Duke in the Southampton Presbyterian Church, St. Louis. Ted graduated from Washington University with a civil engineering degree in 1955 and is now a regional engineer for a St. Louis firm.

Mary Dillard and Lt. John McGehee Burroughs will be married in the First Presbyterian Church, Osceola, Ark., July 11. John is stationed at Ft. Bliss, El Paso, Tex., and will return to the University of Arkansas to do graduate work in November.

Patsy Petty, Mary Warner, Ruth Beckmann, and Elise Horstmann will be August brides. Patsy will marry Glendon Fleming in the Inglewood Baptist Church, Nashville, Tenn., Aug. 1. Glendon will graduate in June from Vanderbilt University Nashville, with a degree in mechanical engineering. The couple will reside in Quantico, Va., for a year where Glendon will be stationed in the Marine Corps.

Mary Warner and Robert Ninker will be married in the First Presbyterian Church, Brighton, Ill., Aug. 8. Robert is a graduate of the University of Missouri, Columbia. He is doing graduate work at St. Louis University and working in the advertising service division of Ralston Purina Company. Ruth's husband-to-be is Ed Murray. They will be married in Carlyle, Ill., in August. Ed is a senior at Washington University and majoring in sociology. He is working as an assistant to the Christian education worker at the Delmar Baptist Church, St. Louis. Elise and Al Deddens plan an August wedding at the Pilgrim Lutheran Church, St. Louis. Al will graduate in June from the Missouri School of Mines, Rolla, with a civil engineering degree.

This summer Shirley Smith will marry Herb Speckman, who has been in the Air Force for four years. He is now a sophomore at Quincy College, Quincy, Ill., and majoring in psychology.

Janet Flo Phillips, a winter bride to be, has set her wedding date for Dec. 19 in the Evangelical United Brethren Church, Plymouth, Ind. She will marry Johnny Macey, a television technician in South Bend, Ind.

Betty Layton and Roy Warren will be married in the Bethany Methodist Church, Louisville, Ken., in January. Roy is working on his master's degree in geophysics at Washington University.

Mary Green and Marvin Hudwalker will be married in the Church of Christ, North Little Rock, Ark., June, 1960. Marvin will graduate from the Missouri School of Mines in June with a degree in mining. He will then go into the army as a second lieutenant and will be out next April.

May Weekend Horse Show Huge Success

"Attention riders, attention. Line your horses up facing your ringmaster." This was the familiar announcement given to each class as it finished its workout at the close of each division in the Lindenwood horse show last Saturday morning.

The horse show, one of the most popular events during Parent's Weekend, was hailed a success by Miss Fern Palmer, riding instructor, and by many of the spectators.

Barb Mester took the blue ribbon and trophy for first place in the first advanced English class. Helen Bohn won second place. The trophy and ribbons were awarded by Miss Dorothy Ross, physical education department chairman. Class II, an intermediate English class, was won by Judith Hale. Second place went to Barbara Boland. Mrs. Mrs. Verneta Clark, head resident of Butler Hall, presented the ribbons.

The five-gaited class was won by Lettie Russell. Susan Perry placed second. Head resident of Sibley Hall, Mrs. Kathryn Hendren, awarded the trophy and ribbons.

WRA Initiates 15 Members

Initiation for about 15 new members of the Women's Recreation Association began Monday at 6 p.m. Each of the pledges was expected to have a bag with them at all times containing chewing gum, candy, cigarettes, a comb, and bobby pins to offer to the members.

The pledges had to make and wear original signs saying WRA, and upon meeting a member recite "I'm a little green worm; to thee I squirm. Button, button, button." They were also required to do various stunts requested by the old members.

The informal initiation, which lasted two days, will be followed by the formal initiation which will take place later in the spring.

Beta Chi Members Plan May Activities

Two horse shows and a picnic are scheduled for Beta Chi members during the next two weeks.

Lindenwood will be well represented at the St. Joseph Academy Horse Show May 6-9, St. Louis.

Miss Fern Palmer will ride "Sweetheart Stonewall." Lettie Russell, senior, will show her mare, "Wind Song." Pat Havens, Beta Chi member, will ride "Duke," owned by Arthur Wilmes. "Betty Jane Stonewall" will also be shown.

Beta Chi members and other LC students will attend the Bridlespur Horse Show in St. Louis, May 17.

A picnic is being planned for the club either May 12 or 19.

Vogue Reveals Spring Styles

"Did you realize that five or more costumes could be made from a basic dress by the simple addition of a few accessories?" asked Miss Ethel Smetts, representative of the educational department of Vogue Company, to home economics classes Apr. 29.

Miss Smetts, a graduate from Syracuse University in clothing and textiles and journalism, is the Vogue representative for the Midwest section of the US. Before her present job she held a position in the Mademoiselle Company. With Vogue she travels throughout her area visiting high schools in order to show new colors, fabrics, and patterns for the forth-coming season.

Explaining the new color schemes for spring, she named citrus greens and yellows and sherbet pinks and new blues as the two main schemes for the season. She added that the synthetic fabrics would be the most popular materials for summer fashion.

Pertaining to spring styles, she stated that in addition to the traditional shirtwaist, suits emphasizing the natural waist line, casual clothes with oriental lines, and party dresses with details of chiffon cummerbunds and over-skirts would be features.

Colhecon Elects Officers

Colhecon, home economics club, will elect officers for the coming year May 12 at a picnic to be held at the ovens.

Sally Seifert, vice-president, is the general chairman.

WRA Elects B. Dinkmeyer

Elected president of the Women's Recreation Association for next year was Betty Dinkmeyer, junior day student. She is replacing Norma Nixon. Replacing Mickey Kroepel as vice-president is Connie Conrath.

Other officers elected last Tuesday are Ann Wentker, secretary; Ina Rae Barklage, treasurer; Judy Guthrie and Karen Howless, intramural chairmen; Renee Ryter and Fran Armstrong, social chairmen; and Nancy Gale and Chiquita Smith, publicity chairmen.

Nominees for the offices were selected by nominating slips sent to all the members, asking who they thought would be most capable. The three highest for each office were placed on the final ballot.

The newly elected officers were installed May 4.

Terrapin Plans Picnic, Election

Senior standing, election of officers, and a picnic are among the activities planned for the Terrapin Club this spring.

Yesterday, members of Terrapin, already holding their Junior standing, tried out for their Senior standing. To obtain this standing the students were required to perform certain swimming strokes and stunts efficiently and expertly.

Terrapin is planning a picnic for Wednesday, May 13. The club will hold elections for next year's officers at the picnic.

Several of the club members received Terrapin monograms, which are small white and gold felt turtles.
