Tuition, room and board will remain the same

Lindenwood University President Dennis Spellmann has announced a freeze in tuition and room and board for the 2002-2003 school year.

President Spellmann said the LU Board of Directors has approved a measure that freezes tuition at $11,200 for full-time undergraduates. Room and board charges will remain $5,600 annually.

All other tuition and room and board charges for LCIE, graduate, trimester and evening students will also remain the same.

"We want to provide a little certainty for people in an uncertain time," said Spellmann. "Individuals who transfer here for the second semester, for instance, will be able to lock-in for nearly two years. They are assured their prices won't go up."
