Revision of United Nations Urged in Commencement Address

Seventy-three Students Receive Degrees and Certificates at 121st Annual Commencement on May 31 — Dr. Edmund F. Miller Gives Baccalaureate Sermon

THE UNITED STATES must take the lead in forming "a more perfect union" in the world, which will secure for ourselves and our posterity the blessings of liberty," Congressman Walter H. Judd, of Minnesota, told the members of the 1948 graduating class at the 121st annual commencement of the college on May 31.

Seventy-three students received degrees, certificates and diplomas from Dr. Franc L. McCluer at the commencement, held on the lawn in front of historic Sibley Hall. In addition the honorary degree of Doctor of Letters was conferred upon Dr. Alice E. Gipson, Academic Dean.

The commencement day program opened with a prayer meeting of the Seniors with Dr. McCluer at 7:15 a. m. in Roemer Auditorium. It was followed by a breakfast for the Seniors and their families. At 10 a. m. the academic procession wound its way under the linden trees to the open air setting. The invocation was given by the Rev. James R. Blackwood, pastor of the St. Charles Presbyterian Church, and the benediction by the Rev. Dr. W. B. Whitcomb, pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian Church of St. Joseph, Mo. Special music was given by the Lindenwood Choir and by Miss Pearl Walker of the Fine Arts Department.

The baccalaureate sermon was preached in Roemer Auditorium on Sunday, May 30, by the Rev. Dr. Edmund F. Miller, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Tulsa, Okla. On Sunday afternoon Alpha Sigma Tau gave a tea honoring the Seniors and their guests.

"The plainest fact we face today," Congressman Judd told the graduates, "is that we do not have one world. We have two worlds. Men and nations are divided, not only politically and economically, but ideologically and spiritually. It is equally plain that we cannot go on indefinitely as two such worlds. The two worlds must become one, or at least have one set of rules.

"I see no hope of establishing a just peace on a reasonably secure basis, except through a world organization so revised and strengthened that it can effectively handle all threats to peace from whatever source, on the basis of world law, and in the name of free men everywhere. The common people of the world placed their faith in the United Nations as such an agency. It is clear from the experience of the last two and a half years that the UN in its present form cannot do the job. The UN is so constructed that one of the Big Five, by its veto, can use the UN machinery to prevent the making of peace, to defeat the very thing the UN was set up to guarantee.

"The Soviet rulers have used the veto not to block war, but to block peace. They have not used it once to prevent war; they have used it repeatedly to defeat measures or decisions that were in the direction of peace. This is an intolerable situation for those who really want peace and freedom. The remedy is not to abandon the UN, or to bypass it, but to revise it so that it can function as intended. We must get its structure modified so it can and will work—with Russia if possible—without her if necessary.

"We must get an international organization based on justice, under world law, and with a policeman. We must get an instrument that the peaceful nations of the world can use to make peace, and not one which a non-peaceful nation can use to protect aggression and to block the peace. To work for the revision of the

Home Economic Students Present Annual Spring Style Show

Students in the clothing classes of the Home Economics Department presented two style shows featuring original designs for young women in May. The annual spring style show at the college was given in Roemer Auditorium on May 12. Approximately 70 students modeled clothes for sportswear, spectator wear, dress and formal occasions. Miss Joan Reed, of Lomas, Mexico, was the commentator for the show.

Models from the show were featured in a telecast over Station KSD-TV in St. Louis on May 14 and on May 15 Lindenwood and Stephens College presented a joint style show at Hotel Sheraton in St. Louis.

All of the garments in these shows were designed and made by the students under the direction of Miss Griffin and Mrs. Karen R. Lurting of the Home Economics Department. Mme. Helene Lyolene, internationally famous designer and Lindenwood's fashion consultant, spent a month on the campus aiding in the preparation of the new styles.

Dr. McCluer Speaks at Meeting Of Chicago Alumnae

Dr. Franc L. McCluer and Guy C. Motley were guests of honor at a luncheon of Chicago alumnae of Lindenwood on April 26 at the LaSalle Hotel in Chicago. Approximately 135 alumnae and mothers of students now attending Lindenwood were present. Dr. McCluer addressed the meeting, telling of the college's plans for the future.

The Chicago Lindenwood College, which was inactive during the war, is now being re-organized. A committee was appointed at the meeting to plan for the re-organization. It includes Mrs. Marian Hardtke Tobias, 1942-43; Mrs. Carol Bindley Palmquist, '43; Mrs. Louise Kenman Mallory, '44; Mrs. Gloria Young Stunkel, 1938-40; Miss Marie Mount, and Mrs. Florence Guilford Wilson, '32. The committee plans to hold a luncheon during the summer.

The college would appreciate information as to new addresses of alumnae and former students now living in the Chicago area. It was difficult to maintain up-to-date records during the war and persons knowing of the addresses of alumnae in Chicago are asked to send this information to the college.

Dr. Alice Parker Addresses Three Women's Meetings

Dr. Alice Parker of the English Department made three addresses to women's groups in Missouri in May. On May 3 she spoke at a meeting of the Slater, Mo., branch of the American Association of University Women. On May 4 she addressed the Marshall, Mo., branch and on the same day she spoke at a organization meeting at Blue Springs. Her subject was "The International Federation of University Women."

Lindenwood Will Participate in Washington Semester Program

Other Innovations Announced by Dr. McCluer Include New Courses, Construction of College Radio Station, a Lake and Establishment of Literary Magazine

A NUMBER of innovations which will give Lindenwood College a "new look" next fall have been announced by President McCluer. One of the important projects planned is the college's participation in the "Washington Semester." This program will enable Lindenwood students in their Junior year to have a semester in residence for study of the national government in Washington.

Schools which have joined Lindenwood in the program include Birmingham Southern College, Denison University, Dickinson College, Transylvania College, Randolph Macon College and Hamlin University. Dr. McCluer recently attended a meeting in Washington, D. C., with representatives of these schools to discuss the details of the plan.

Under an arrangement with the American University in Washington, superior Junior year students will have the opportunity for a semester in residence at the American University for study in the fields of the political sciences, public administration, economics and international affairs. The objective of the program is to give such students direct contact with the work of government agencies and the international agencies centered in the nation's capital, thus providing a first hand acquaintance with possible careers in public services, as well as the opportunity to achieve a better understanding of the realities of national life. The American University will provide the facilities for the program and general guidance and direction.

A group of students will be selected by each of the participating schools in accordance with the principles and standards established by the Washington Semester Committee. The students must be in their Junior year, must have maintained an academic average of B, have shown ability to do independent work, and have demonstrated high ability on the basis of performance on national objective tests. They will carry an academic program of not more than 15 hours. Three hours credit will be allowed for an individual project upon which each student works. These projects will be of two types: The study of some unit of government or of a non-government office; and the study of some national or international problem or program, or of some proposed measure which requires considerable contact with Washington agencies.

A special three credit seminar will operate under the joint direction of a co-ordinator designated by the American University and a visiting instructor from one of the co-operating schools. Direction and co-ordination of student projects will be handled through this class which will meet three times a week, with an outside speaker once a week.

Two co-ordinators will provide general guidance in individual conferences. Weekly and bi-weekly meetings of small groups of students working on related problems will be arranged with other faculty members. As quickly as possible the students will be put in touch with some specialist in government or other agencies. Of the three remaining courses, one will be designated by the Washington Semester Committee to provide a common core to the work of the group. Another is selected to provide a background for the individual projects. The third course will be an elective.

By a system of rotation, one of the participating colleges will send a member of its faculty each year to work with the group. In addition to assisting in the direction of the seminar this instructor will teach two courses at the American University.

Roper House, the former WAVES officers' quarters on the American University campus, has been reserved for housing the Washington Semester students, and as their general headquarters. Meetings of

News From and About Members of the Class of 1934

By KATHRYN HANKINS, Alumnae Secretary

FOURTEEN YEARS AGO the Class of 1934 left Lindenwood. This month we present the first installment of the roll call of the class. The following members have responded to our request for news about themselves and their activities:

Nancy Watson (Mrs. Jack McKenna), 1100 W. Elm St., El Dorado, Ark.: "After I graduated from Lindenwood, I entered the business world. I went to work in the business office of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co. in my home town of Camden, Ark. In three months time I was made manager of the telephone company. It was such nice pleasant work but along came Jack McKenna and in less than a year I was Mrs. Jack McKenna. His work was in El Dorado, so to El Dorado I came. Here I entered the 'home making world' and have been at it ever since. It also is such nice, interesting work and every minute has been a pleasure. We have a fine, young son who was 8 in March. Here in El Dorado, my time is spent with church work, P.T.A. work and our Junior Charity League work. I had the pleasure and honor of being President of Charity League these past two years. It is a wonderful organization and we do so much good for the underprivileged children of this county. My best wishes to each of you."

Frances Marie McPherson, Eastern Kentucky State Teachers College, Richmond, Ky.: "In 1942, I received my Master's degree in piano from Michigan State College, doing my piano work with Frank M. Reimer. I taught one year in Tallahassee, Fla., at the Florida State College for Girls. Then I came here to the Eastern Kentucky State Teachers' College, and have been here as assistant professor of piano for three years. I do a great deal of concert work here in Richmond, and in surrounding towns like Berea, Paris, and Winchester. I have done quite a bit of composition in the modern idiom, and am seriously contemplating getting my Doctor's in that field in the next year or two. I spent a most pleasant summer last year motor-ing through old Mexico; from Vera Cruz to Acapulco, from Mexico City to Guadalajara, and I was particularly charmed with Taxco, and, of course, the active volcano at Paracutin. My regards to all who remember struggling with me."

Jane Laughlin (Mrs. J. S. Denslow), 800 South Halliburton, Kirksville, Mo.: "I married the summer after I graduated (the man who took me to the Senior Prom.). For four and a half years we lived in Chicago; then we moved to our present home in Kirksville, Mo. My husband is an osteopathic physician and has been engaged for the past ten years in research in neuro-physiology. It has been my privilege to have helped from time to time. We have three children but only one L.C. prospect. Our oldest child, Martha, is 11 and already has her eye on Irwin Hall. The boys, Mike and Peter, are 8 and 4 and not particularly interested in the process of formal education regardless of its source! Being, by necessity and interest, drawn into P.T.A., I have served in all degrees and am now Girl Scout Commissioner and screwing up my courage for my coming session with Cubs."

Dorothea McCulloh (Mrs. W. W. Sutherland), 6530 Fifty-third Ave., N.E., Seattle 1, Wash.: "I don't feel as if I belong to the class of 1934 but instead to the class of 1931 in spite of the fact that I did get my degree in '34. In 1929 I left Lindenwood to attend the University of Wisconsin Library School. From the fall of 1930, until I reentered Lindenwood in 1933, I was librarian in the high school in Great Falls, Montana. Then I returned to Lindenwood for a year. After that I was in library work for just one more year when I married. We went to Toledo, Ohio, to live for a few years. When we lived there, we saw a great deal of Ruth Bullion Bruere and her husband. In 1939, we came to Seattle to live. We have three children, two girls, ages 11 and 3, and a boy, 6. My oldest daughter is already planning on going to Lindenwood."

Dorothy Holcomb (Mrs. John Fay Wright), 2405 Court Street, Muskogee, Okla.: "My memories of Lindenwood are as vivid as if they were only yesterday, and I sometimes wish that our son was a girl, so that he might look forward to sharing some of the experiences I had during my four glorious years there. As to what I'm doing—needless to say I'm kept pretty busy with an almost 5 year old son; and besides keeping up with his interests, I keep house and find time for many extras—far too many, I'm afraid. After I graduated I had my private Speech Studio until I married and for a few years afterward. I hope to start teaching again when Ray gets in school. I do a great deal of Church work, belong to the Girl Scout Council, Woman's Forum and the Musical Arts Society; but outside of my home and family, my next love is Speech and Dramatics. I read in public a great deal and just recently directed a woman's pageant in connection with the Freedom train here in Muskogee. Going through the paces with Miss Cracraft at L.C., have really been

Dr. Alice E. Gipson Awarded Doctor of Letters Degree

Tribute Paid at Commencement to Academic Dean Who Retires After Serving College Twenty-four Years in Citation Given by Dr. James W. Clark

DR. ALICE E. GIPSON, who has served as academic dean and head of the English Department of Lindenwood since 1924, was awarded the honorary degree of Doctor of Letters at Lindenwood's 121st annual commencement. Dr. Gipson has announced her retirement, effective this month.

Tribute to Dr. Gipson's long service to the college was paid in the citation for the degree, read by the Rev. Dr. James W. Clarke, pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church of St. Louis and president of the college's Board of Directors.

"It is my great privilege to express our appreciation to one who has long served this college," Dr. Clarke said. "Dr. Gipson, who received her undergraduate degree from the University of Idaho in 1905 and her doctorate degree from Yale University in 1916, has also done graduate study at Oxford University. Since 1924 she has been the respected head of the Department of English and dean of the college. Out of her rich experiences and ripe scholarship, she has demonstrated her ability as a teacher. We respect her for her ability as a teacher. Her character and her dignity are the marks of a strong personality. She has put upon successive classes of students the imprint of a fine character. All over America there are women who hold her in high esteem. She has secured the loyalty of a succession of faculties and is established in the affection of the present faculty.

"The Board of Directors unanimously agreed at its last meeting that the honorary degree of Doctor of Letters should be conferred upon her."

Dr. Gipson is the author of "John Home, His Life and Works," a novel of pioneer life in the Far West, which she entitled, "Silence," and numerous articles in educational magazines.

She is a member of Phi Beta Kappa, Sigma Tau Delta, Pi Gamma Mu and the Association of Academic Deans.

Girl of the Month

WE PRESENT Dr. Oreen Ruedi as the girl of the month. Miss Ruedi received an A.B. from Lindenwood in 1924, an M.A. from Smith College in Sociology in 1936, a Ph.D. from Clark University, Worcester, Mass. in Economics and Sociology in 1932. She held a Fellowship at Clark for the two years she was there.

Miss Ruedi was instructor in Sociology, Southern Methodist University, from 1926-29; assistant professor at Mount Union College, Alliance, Ohio, from 1937-41. Since September, 1941, she has been at Hollins College.

From 1932 to 1937 she was engaged in social work. Beginning as a caseworker in Kansas City, progressing to Intake Secretary of one of the Districts, she then was sent to South Dakota in the spring of 1935 to help organize the casework procedure of the state. At first she was a District Supervisor but in January, 1936, she became State Director of Personnel. With the help of a small staff and aid from the Federal Social Security Board, they worked out the new social security plans and saw them through the first difficult months. In the spring of 1937, she decided that grasshoppers, dust storms and blizzards were too much and that she wanted to return to teaching so she went to Mount Union where she stayed until going to Hollins.

The years at Hollins have been busy. She has spoken to numerous clubs—fraternal, women's organizations, church groups. She is a member of the Board of the Virginia Home Society (Child Placing Agency of the state). She has been Faculty Chairman of the Hollins War Fund Chest and Community Fund since 1943. She has been a member of the University of Virginia, Division of Extension, since 1945, teaching Sociology in Roanoke one night a week.

She has gone back to her piano and takes piano there at the college, which she says is a great pleasure and gives needed relaxation.

The American Way of Life with Harry E. Barnes was published by Prentice-Hall in 1942. It is an introductory textbook in social problems and its sale has been enormous and most surprising. It is now being revised to be completed by September.

This summer she will teach the first term of summer school at Southwest Missouri State College, Springfield, Mo. She was asked especially because they wanted her to teach "The American Way of Life."

In between times, she does book reviews for the Southern Economic Journal, attends occasional professional meetings and enjoys Hollins which is in the beautiful Valley of Virginia, seven miles from Roanoke.

Dr. Ruedi plans to write another book, this one with no co-author. She hopes that it will be a good text in social legislation.

We congratulate Dr. Ruedi upon book number one and look forward eagerly to the publication of a second book.

Semester Program at Lindenwood

the seminar will be held in this building and the other classes will be held in the School of Social Sciences and Public Affairs.

Lindenwood will have its own radio station when classes are resumed in September. A campus station, to be operated on a commercial basis, will be constructed this summer. It will be on the air from 7 to 9:30 p. m. five days a week, and later it is planned to add an hour daily from 7 to 8 a. m.

The station is intended to provide practical instruction in radio and will be operated as a student project under the direction of Miss Martha May Boyer, of the Radio Department. Talent for the broadcasts will be drawn from the entire student body, with the radio classes forming the nucleus. Miss Pat Stull, of Zeigler, Ill., has been named station manager.
