BULLETIN

Lindenwood now has some of the most modern radio and recording equipment in American colleges today. This is a view of the soundproof control room of the Radio Studio in the Lillie P. Roemer Fine Arts Building, showing the control panel, mixing board, cutting tables, playback machines and the communication system to the broadcaster.

Around the Lindenwood Campus

UNDER the direction of Harry P. Ordelleide, Superintendent of Buildings and Grounds, Lindenwood's students and faculty laid their dimes "on the line" in the annual March of Dimes campaign in January. More than $250 was raised.

Three Lindenwood students, Mary Jane Horton, of Kansas City, Mo., Miss Hazel Clay, of St. Charles, and Miss Barbara Hencke, of Little Rock, Ark., were featured in Gil Newsome's platter program over Radio Station KWK in St. Louis on January 9. Miss Hencke will be heard each week through February over Station KFUE on Saturdays at 10:15 a.m., presenting a fifteen minute broadcast for women. Other members of the radio production class will be auditioned for subsequent programs.

Miss Coy Payne, of Council Bluffs, Iowa, is serving this year as secretary-treasurer of the College Section of the Missouri Academy of Science. This is the second consecutive year Lindenwood's students have held offices in the state organization.

Dr. Jessie Bernard, of Lindenwood's Sociology Department is the author of two articles appearing in recent issues of magazines. One article, entitled, "George Tucker, Liberal Southern Social Scientist," was published in the December issue of Social Forces. In the January issue of the South Atlantic Quarterly, Dr. Bernard is represented with an article on "Social Salvation Through Science." Her husband, Dr. L. L. Bernard, also of Lindenwood's faculty, has been asked to collaborate in the preparation of two books to be published by the Philosophic Library of New York.

A recent vesper speaker was Rabbi F. M. Isserman of Temple Israel in St. Louis. At the vesper service on January 5, he discussed, "The New Atomic Age."

Miss Anne Bush, of Little Rock, Ark., is the president of the Lindenwood Chapter of the Red Cross. Miss Bush, who served as vice president last semester, succeeds Miss Nancy Holmann, of Chicago, Ill.

Lindenwood's fourth annual gridiron dinner, sponsored by the Press Club, will be given in Ayres Dining Room on February 26. Miss Mary Jane Horton, of Kansas City and Miss Mary Neubert, of Carthage, Mo., are co-chairman of the Skits Committee, appointed by Miss Carol Clayton, of Normandy, Mo., president of the club.

Miss Elizabeth Scott, Paramount motion picture star, has been announced by the Linden Bark as the judge of the 1947 Romeo contest. Miss Scott's selections, made from pictures submitted by the students, will be featured in the Valentine issue of the Bark.

Lindenwood Expands Its Radio Program To Fit Modern Needs

Radio Conference to Be Held This Spring Will Emphasize Many Ways in Which This New Educational Medium Serves the College

By MARTHA M. BOYER
of Lindenwood's Speech Department

TENTATIVE plans are now being made at Lindenwood for one-day radio conference on the campus, to be held early in the second semester. This meeting, which will be open to all students and faculty members as well as others who are interested, will serve to focus attention on Lindenwood's expanding radio program.

Lindenwood's radio equipment now includes sound-proof studios, a modern control room, microphones, amplifiers, and recording and play back tables. These facilities, installed last year in the Fine Arts Building, are among the best in colleges in the Middle West. It provides the physical equipment upon which an effective radio education program can be developed.

The college's radio program is directed toward several specific objectives. First, the radio courses are designed to provide students with the necessary skills for use in radio, either as an approach to future professional radio work, or in connection with participation in community activities, or in professions other than radio. These fields include social service, teaching, journalism, home economics and music.

Second, the radio program is being developed to build up within the college an awareness on the part of faculty members and students in all departments of the important role radio now plays, and certainly will play in the future, in American life. The recent developments in the use of radio as an educational medium are emphasized.

Third, the college's excellent radio equipment is being used to serve all departments, and plans are under way for the expansion of this service. Recordings of important broadcasts can be made for history and sociology courses. Language classes use the recording equipment to enable students to hear their own voices in foreign language readings, in order to perfect pronunciation.

Fourth, Lindenwood radio programs help create public interest and public good will in the college and its activities. For example, a dramatization for children is given every other Saturday by the students over Station KFUE in St. Louis. Last December a program by recording was presented over Station WIL. The script writing class now has a number of new scripts under way, some of which will be aired this

In Hall of Fame

Miss Joanne Shroder, of Memphis, Tenn., who has been nominated by the Linden Bark for the Campus Hall of Fame. spring. These programs not only provide actual "mike" experience for students, but they can be used to give broadcasts of class projects.

A new course in radio is being offered in the second semester this year. It is intended to provide basic instruction for students who wish to enter the radio production class and to give students not majoring in speech the opportunity to study the basic techniques or radio speech. It will stress announcing, speeches, interviews and other things about radio that the layman who may be called upon for an occasional radio appearance should know. Critical listening will be emphasized.

It is now clear that radio will play an increasingly important part in higher education in the future. Lindenwood's program is designed to make this college a leader in this new educational field.

Roll Call of the Class of Fifty-Six Years Ago

By KATHRYN HANKINS, Alumnae Secretary

THERE are nine members of the Class of 1891. Four of them have responded to the Alumnae Office's request for news about themselves and their activities. In addition this month we present news from members of other classes which arrived too late to be included in the regular roll calls. First the Class of 1891:

Margarita Petitdidier (Mrs. Walter W. Seymour), 1545 E. Sixtieth St., Chicago, Ill.: Known to Lindenwood girls as "Miss Pearl." "After my graduation from Lindenwood in 1891, I traveled in New England; and while at Rye Beach, N. H., I received an invitation from Dr. Irwin to teach mathematics at L. C. This was my very happy privilege for six years and under Dr. Irwin's rare guidance, we learned, as a united faculty and student body, to work, to play, to study and pray together for the highest and noblest interests of life. On Feb. 28, 1898, I left my teaching to marry Walter Seymour on March 1 in Mount Carmel, Ill. Our two daughters, Margaret and Florence, attended Lindenwood many years later, and Margaret returned to teach for a year. Although a busy homemaker, I kept up my studies in art, mathematics, and law at the University of Chicago. After the death of my mother, husband, and son, I concentrated my interests in the Women's Clubs; for I believe that education of Christian womanhood plays a part in the welfare of mankind. I have held many offices and presidencies in local clubs and also in the Illinois State Federation; later I became chairman of the American Home Department of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, which office I consider my most successful work and the most necessary study in the world today. At present I am Honorary Vice President. For 40 years I have been Superintendent of the Junior Dept. in the First Presbyterian Church of Chicago and am still active in that work. My affectionate greetings to my classmates and all L. C. Girls."

Anna Haecussler (Mrs. Will K. Roth), 626 Forest Court, Clayton, Mo.: "My family, my home, and music have woven the pattern of my life. Having lived through World Wars I and II, I did my bit in both to the best of my ability. For many years Mr. Roth and I worked together in the Congregational Church. Mr. Roth and I liked to travel, and we have had many trips in our country and in foreign lands. I have a son and daughter and four grandchildren—two girls and two boys. I am still interested in music and what it stands for. I feel that if people did more singing there might be less fighting."

Alberta Converse (Mrs. Arthur W. Burch), 817 Osceola Ave., St. Paul, Minn.: "Mr. Burch and I have one son, Donald Greenough Burch, who had charge of the Personnel Office in the Coast Guards. He was an officer and upon his return from the east and west married the daughter of Dr. Donald Grey Colp of Miami, Florida, and the Countess Larische of Austria. I spend my time in my home, Red Cross, and church work. Earnest greetings to the class.

Catherine Van Court (Mrs. W. S. Myrick), Parkview Hotel, Memphis, Tenn.: "I often think of the happy days I spent at Lindenwood . . . of Dr. Irwin and his family, of many of the girls in my class whom I loved so well. It will be interesting to hear of them. At my age there isn't anything I can say that would hold the attention of any but old friends, and there are few of them left. If, by chance, and old schoolmate should read this I will say: Life is still very wonderful to me. I continue to work at this and that because inactivity would be intolerable. Blessed with two middle-aged children, whose children have grown up around me (I have three great grandchildren), I am a busy old woman."

We have recorded nine members in this class. Two did not respond. The following two are deceased: Lillie Miles (Mrs. E. M. Hall) and Maude E. Nolan. Can anyone give us the address of Mabel K. Peters?

One reply to the Class Roll of 1928 came too late for publication.

Christine McCoy (Mrs. L. D. Jones), 1915 W. Main, Jefferson City, Mo.: "After graduating from Lindenwood I spent a year as Home Demonstration Agent in the mountains of Kentucky. When I got home I went to Springfield, Ill. for a visit and got involved in Social Work during the depression and stayed two and a half years. I then went to McLeansboro for a year as Relief Administrator. I was in the same capacity in McComb, Ill. for a year. While there I met my husband. We were married in 1936. Since that time we have lived in Missouri. My husband was in Chamber of Commerce work. For the past three years he has been Executive Secretary of Missouri Osteopathic Association. We have lived in

Five Members of the Class of '47 Complete Work for Degrees

*Several New Courses Are Added as College Begins Second Semester
With a Capacity Enrollment*

FIVE members of the Class of 1947 completed the work for their degrees in January. They will be graduated at Lindenwood's 120th annual commencement in June. The Seniors who have finished their requirements are: Miss Margaret Ann Kendall, of Granite City, Ill., Miss Margaret Kinkade, of Tahlequah, Okla., Miss Keltah Long, of Elizabethtown, Ky., Miss Anna Louise Lynn, of Checotah, Okla., and Miss Medora Swilley, of El Dorado, Ark.

There are twenty-two new students enrolled for the second semester, which opens February 3. In addition to a number of courses offered for the new semester which were not on the first semester schedule, several new courses have been added to the curriculum.

A new course, Introduction to Radio, will be conducted by Miss Martha M. Boyer of the Speech Department. Another course, Retail Advertising, is offered for the first time.

Final examination for the first semester began on January 27 and continued through the week. A full week's program for relaxation and entertainment was provided under the direction of the Office of Student Guidance and Personnel and the Athletic Department every afternoon.

Hope of Tomorrow

Introducing Christy Tresselt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Tresselt, of Columbus, Ind. Mrs. Tresselt, who was Barbara Adams, attended Lindenwood in 1937-40.

Romeo Judge

Miss Elizabeth Scott, Paramount motion picture star, who is selecting Lindenwood's Romeo of 1947. The winner will be announced in the Valentine issue of the Linden Bark.

Dr. Florence W. Schaper Elected To Office in Sociology Society

Dr. Florence W. Schaper, Director of Student Guidance and Personnel, was elected secretary-treasurer of the United Chapters of Alpha Kappa Delta, national sociology honorary fraternity, at the annual meeting of the organization in Chicago in December. This is one of the important offices in the national organization and will keep her in touch with chapters in universities and colleges all over the country.

At the same meeting Dr. L. L. Bernard, of Lindenwood's sociology faculty, retired as national president after serving for ten years.

Lindenwood College is affiliated with the fraternity through the Washington University chapter.

Miss Alice Bruere, Former Faculty Members, Dies

Word has been received at Lindenwood of the death last October 18 of Miss Alice Bruere. Miss Bruere was a member of the Modern Languages faculty at the college during the administration of the late Dr. Robert Irwin, who served as Lindenwood's president from 1880 to 1893.

Alumna Proves a Farm Wife Is Worth at Least $69,000

MRS. KENNETH P. HUTCHINSON, of Route Five, Xenia, Ohio, is remembered on Lindenwood's campus as Katherine Routzong, Class of '28. In a recent letter to Miss Kathryn Hankins, Alumnae Secretary, Mrs. Hutchinson offers some amusing comments on the statement by a University of Minnesota professor that a farm wife is worth $69,000. For the benefit of her classmates and sister alumnae, she tells what is required of a $69,000 farm wife.

"No, I do not ride the tractor, work the horses, milk the cows or feed the pigs. But I have my tasks—$69,000 worth," she writes. "There are times when I am called upon to assist in bringing up from the pasture to the barn a fresh cow and her little calf. I am told, 'she is a bit touchy, but pretend you aren't afraid. I pretend—but not for long. Soon I am merrily on my way to the nearest fence. I have broken all records for speed and high jumps. I am also an expert pig chaser; once on ice. Here again, I exhibited talent, becoming the world's fanciest skater—minus the skates.

"Maybe it is a sick cow, one of the Angus. It is after midnight on a cold winter night. I am told to call the veterinarian, but the phone is out of order (this happens frequently in winter). In the car I go alone, but I get the veterinarian. Or it is fair season, the show season for the Angus. When there are local shows, I have started many evening meals between 9 and 10 p.m. Hubby, refusing to eat out, only requires a simple meal, consisting of meat, potatoes, a vegetable or so, gravy (if there is no gravy he looks at me like a calf bawling for milk), salad and dessert. He prefers pie. If I had a quarter for each pie I have baked I would be worth more than the professor estimates.

"Do we have company? Certainly. During the summer months, our city friends will write, or verbally suggest a picnic, at our house. I admit the yard is spacious, almost an acre, with an inviting look, but very few stop to realize the work required to keep its inviting look. Tacked onto the suggestion is this: 'Let's keep it simple. You fix fried chicken, some of those delicious home-made baked beans with Boston brown bread. You raise such good vegetables, fresh from the garden; make those into a salad. Why not lemon sherbet and a chocolate cake with white icing?' (I haven't tasted the latter since sugar rationing, except in my dreams.) Our company will bring the rest of the food. What other food?

"What do I do in my spare time? Sisters, I haven't any. I do the thousand and one tasks any homemaker does—except I do them alone. Hubby is not a free man a 3, at 4 or at 5 o'clock. Then there is the business to check, with its bills, insurance policies, plus the business letters to write. I must also know, in case Hubby is not at home, the cattle which are for sale, their price, age, qualities and where each placed at the various shows.

"So, gals, that is the co-operate life—$69,000 worth. Despite my many tasks, I would not exchange places with anyone. Love dwells here and there is peace, quiet and contentment. I also have additional blessings, the value of which no professor can estimate. I have the 'kiss of the sun for pardon, the song of the birds for mirth. One is nearest God's heart in a garden than anywhere else on earth.' We farm people attend to God's garden."

Roll Call of Class of 1891

Jefferson City for two years. I have two children, Brian, 9, and Helen, 3. My home duties along with outside activities have more than kept me busy. I have been treasurer of the local branch of A.A.U.W. for two years, belong to D.A.R. and church circles.

We have some letters from members of the Class of 1926 whose Roll Call appeared in the Bulletin last summer.

Margaret A. Roberts, 2501 No. Robinson, Oklahoma City 3, Okla.: "In July I resigned from the American Red Cross after three and one-half years, in Hospital Service and Home Service. That same month I was employed by the Veterans Administration to be the Chief of the Social Service Section of the new Regional Office here in Oklahoma City. I have been in social work ever since I graduated from the University of Illinois in 1928, only taking time out to do graduate work and finishing my Master's Degree in social work at Washington University."

Dorothy Towers (Mrs. Scott R. Whitman), 1612 Trendley St., St. Charles, Mo.: "After graduating from Lindenwood I taught Home Economics a couple years and then married. We lived in California and New Mexico, and for the last six years have been here in St. Charles. I have three children, Nancy Jane, a student at St. Charles High, Robert, 8th grader, and Harry, 5th grader. For a number of years I have taught in the grades; however now I am teaching Home Economics at Francis Howell High School, which is only eight miles out in the county. I have tried to do my share of Red Cross and Community work during the war. I taught First Aid and Accident Prevention classes. Besides running a home I have been a bit busy."
