ALUMNAE ARRIVE FOR FOUNDERS' DAY

Lindenwood Adds 8 Members To Faculty in Various Fields

Eight new members have joined the Lindenwood faculty this year. They are in the music, classics, religion, history and government, mathematics, modern language, and physical education departments.

Ozan Marsh, professor and concert pianist in residence, and his wife Patricia Benkman are piano teachers replacing Dr. John Thomas, who retired in May. Mr. Marsh, who gives concerts under Columbia Artists management, was graduated cum laude from the Fountainebleau School of Music in France and has studied with Egon Petri, Emil Sauer, and Rudolf Serkin. He has performed with several symphony orchestras, including the New York Philharmonic-Symphony.

Mr. Marsh recently completed pre-season concerts in Iowa and Illinois. Monday he began his national concert tour of California, Washington, Oregon, Montana, North Dakota, South Dakota, and Nebraska. Lindenwood students will get to hear him at his Lindenwood concert Nov. 19.

Miss Benkman, resident pianist, has studied with Egon Petri, Marcel Maas of the Royal Conservatory of Brussels, and Isabelle Vengerova. She first appeared in public at the age of eight and has played with major orchestras on the West Coast and was co-director with Mr. Marsh of the Indianapolis Artists Series.

The Marshes live on campus with their dog George, whom they call "The Resident Dog."

Dr. Hazel Toliver is the new professor of classics. She received her B.A. and M.A. degrees from the University of Arkansas and her Ph.D. degree from the State University of Iowa. She has travelled in Europe and the Near East and has published several articles in classical journals.

Miss Mary Jean Bartholomew, assistant professor of religion and director of Christian Education has degrees from Macalester College and McCormick Theology Seminary. She teaches classes in religious education and acts as director of religious education for the St. Charles Presbyterian Church.

New history and government instructor is Frank T. Armstrong, Jr., alumnus of Westminster College and the University of Missouri. He has served with the U. S. Corps of Engineers.

Two newcomers who are teaching part-time are Mrs. Theodore J. Huesemann and Oscar A. Henning. Mrs. Huesemann, Lindenwood graduate, teaches mathematics. She formerly taught in St. Louis and St. Charles schools.

Mr. Henning, visiting professor of modern languages, was graduated from Central Wesleyan and previously taught at Culver-Stockton College.

Acting as full-time physical education instructor this year is Fern Palmer. Miss Palmer received her B.S. degree from Lindenwood last year where she also gave riding instruction part-time.

'Glass Menagerie' To be Given at LC; J. Hodges to Direct

"The Glass Menagerie" by Tennessee Williams will be given in the Library Club Room for three consecutive evenings beginning next Wednesday at 8 p.m. The theater-in-the-round performances will be directed by James Hodges, senior, for his 390 project in drama.

The tragedy is about a St. Louis family. The mother, Amanda, wants to find a husband for her daughter, Laura, who lives in a secret world of her own. The bread-winning son, Tom, wants to escape from the inevitable end that he sees, to seek adventure.

Marilyn deBeer, senior, will play Amanda; Diane Floyd, junior, will play Laura. Edwin Van Woert, senior, is the son Tom; and Don Grimes, senior, is the gentleman caller.

Others assisting in the production are Mary Ann Carr, senior, stage manager; Jo Ann Lovins and Jeanette Williams, freshmen, and Ferol Finch and Kay Westwood, juniors, technicians.

R. Ryter Heads Frosh Council of 14 Members

Rynee Ryter was elected president of the 14-member freshman council at the first meeting of the newly appointed group Friday.

The council will administer freshman affairs until class election at the end of the first nine-week grade period.

Members of the council and the dormitories they represent are Kathleen Horner and Mary Taylor, Butler; Nancy Calvert, secretary, Barbara Kasper, and Connie Schaffer, Irwin.

Ann Boswell, Jacqueline Hutt, Rynee, Lauralee Vry, Mary Dee Williams, treasurer, and Georgia Wood, Nicolls; Penelope Cox and Joann Kilpatrick, Sibley. Ina Rae Barklage represents the Day Students.

Mrs. Aaron Fischer

LCers Discuss Color Problem

The problem of integration was discussed at the first faculty-student "Conversations" of the year, held Oct. 3 in the Library Club Room. No solutions were reached during the hour and a half of informal discussion, in which both Southerners and Northerners took part. It was brought out that the problem is not entirely one of the South, and that time and further education may solve it.

The meeting was the first of a series planned to permit upper-classmen and faculty to become better acquainted and to discuss topics of mutual interest.

Dr. Alice Parker, professor of English, said the problem involves the changing of mores in the South. "This is a problem for your psychologist, your sociologist, and

Two Nashville seniors discussed your teachers," she said, the South's attitude to the problem. Shirley Noland said Southerners would more readily accept Negro students in white schools if the Negroes of the South would become consistent in their behavior. Some Negroes who want to put their children in white schools are not yet ready to relinquish their "Saturday nights" when they are boisterous and make the streets unsafe for

Mrs. A. Fischer Convo Speaker At 11 Tomorrow

America's educational needs and the college woman's responsibility for them will be the subject of a talk given by Mrs. Aaron Fischer, a delegate to the President's White House Conference on Education, at 11 a.m. tomorrow in the new chapel for the annual Founders' Day convocation.

The convocation which is for all students and visiting alumnae will highlight the observance of the 131st anniversary of the founding of Lindenwood College and the annual alumnae weekend. Nine classes, including those having 50th, 25th, 10th, fifth, and first reunions, will return to the LC campus to renew old acquaintances and recall past college experiences.

Mrs. Fischer, a St. Louis woman, was organizer and chairman of a White House Conference on Education held in St. Louis last year. She is a member of the board of the St. Louis Council on World Affairs, and is a former president of the St. Louis League of Women Voters as well as the Missouri League of Women Voters.

Weekend events begin tonight at 5:30 p.m. with a talk by Dr. Robert L. McLeod, Jr., dean of the college chapel and professor of religion, on his summer flight around the world. Following Dr. McLeod's talk there will be a dinner in Fellowship Hall of the new chapel for alumnae and LC seniors.

At 7:30 p.m., Dr. Alice Parker, professor of English, will speak on "Shakespeare—the Problem Solver." Immediately after Dr. Parker's talk there will be a reception for alumnae, faculty, and administration at the home of President and Mrs. F. L. McCluer.

Alumnae will be guests at luncheon in Ayres dining room at 12:30 p.m. tomorrow, and the annual meeting of Lindenwood College Alumnae Association will be held in Sibley chapel at 1 p.m.

Isidor to Give Faculty Recital

Miss Gertrude Isidor, professor of music, will be featured violinist at this fall's first faculty recital on Oct. 22. The program covers music in the classical, romantic, and modern periods.

Miss Isidor will be accompanied by an alumna, Mrs. Mildred Clarke Denning (B.M. 1937), of St. Charles.

Her first group will begin with Kreisler's "Praeludium and Allegro." She will play Beethoven's "Sonata No. 9, 'The Kreutzer.'" The third group is composed of numbers by Mompou-Szgeti, Gardner, Boulanger, and Ravel. The concert will end with two movements from the "Concerto in D Minor" by Weiniawski.

The recital will be held in Roemer Auditorium and the student body, as well as the faculty, is invited to attend.

Judy Glover Featured in Show Of Alumnae Artists in Roemer; Opens for Founders' Weekend

Miss Judith Glover, instructor in art, is the featured artist among Lindenwood alumnae showing their work in the annual art exhibit which opens today in Roemer Hall. She is a 1956 graduate.

Miss Glover's water colors, which were done during her graduate work this summer at the State University of Iowa, are unusual because of the media used. Some water colors are highlighted with ink applied with tree twigs, a technique which produces an oriental effect and a sense of free movement. Others are highlighted with charcoal to give a hazy effect.

The show, which will continue until Oct. 31, includes the work of Dorothy Neblett (B.A. 1955), Jo-Anne Buck Goudie (B.A. 1952), Cory Critchfield Gilliland (B.A. 1954), and Virginia Lee Woodman (B.A. 1956).

Three of them have gone on with their art studies. Dorothy is a teaching assistant at the University of Illinois department of art. Joanne, who has an M.F.A. from the University of Iowa, and her husband are on the faculty of Knox College, Galesburg, Ill. Virginia, who studied at Iowa last year, is on an archaeological expedition in Yucatan studying Mayan ruins. Cory is in Japan with her husband, who has been sent there by the government, and she still finds time to paint.

LC's New Chapel - Inspiration to All

One of the most pleasant things about Lindenwood this fall is having the new chapel. How good it is to have an appropriate meeting place for vesper and chapel services! How different from previous years.

Roemer auditorium, the scene of weekday convocations, student assemblies, and even WUS auctions, couldn't easily become a place of worship on Sundays. In a church, we get "in the mood" for a religious service, and each service becomes a new experience as a guest speaker begins his inspiring lesson.

We are inspired by the atmosphere, yes, by the beautiful building itself, and by the choirs' voices as they sing "Keep Not Thou Silence." A kind of transformation seems to overcome us. We find we want to do unto others as we'd have them do unto us. We are properly meditative when Dr. McLeod, dean of the chapel, tells of God's loving kindness. We give serious thought to President McCluer's inquiry, "What do you think of yourself?"

The chapel invites us to be quiet and respectful. We are not even tempted to open and read letters in this place of worship!

A worship service in the middle of the week in our beautiful chapel makes us grateful that the chapel is for us of Lindenwood, and that it adds to the part which religion plays in our lives.

We believe these sentiments are those of the majority of students who have lived through the move from Roemer auditorium services to the new chapel. In fact, we have heard many students say so.

'Unused Students' are Half Students

Homesickness, we are told in psychology class, is a mild form of regression—a yearning for former times when we were more sure of ourselves, more secure. Nearly 500 of us have been at Lindenwood for almost four weeks now, and probably all of us, freshmen and upperclassmen alike, have experienced pangs of "mild regression." Freshmen, of course, particularly are susceptible to symptoms of this malady.

As the year progresses, homesickness should become less and less of a problem. As upperclassmen know, homesickness gradually diminishes as one makes friends and really begins to get into her studies.

New problems can arise, however, once the student passes the homesick stage. There is danger that a student, just because she does feel secure, will tend to slip into a rut of complacency, or even a do-nothing state. As the weeks pass one almost sees moss developing on the "unused" students. Characteristically these students put little effort and thought into any of the clubs and organizations on campus.

The "unused" student usually is not homesick; she has lost her symptoms of mild regression, but something still is lacking. She attends classes, convocations, and meals; she may date; but her college life stops there. As far as campus activities are concerned, she might just as well still be at home.

To be a part of life at Lindenwood, or any college, a student must become sincerely interested in the college. She must want to be a part of the important student activities. There are always "joiners," students who join any number of organizations just to have their picture in the year book more than once. Even the joiner gives more of herself than does the "unused" student.

Students gain many benefits from extra-curricular activities. They meet and work with other students, they learn to accept responsibility. As a bonus, there often is genuine fun involved. The real argument for joining these activities, however, is that one becomes a part of Lindenwood. Until a student really works in an organization, she is not giving enough of herself to the college. She is just a half resident, not really at Lindenwood, not really taking part in college.

Outside Lindenwood

Russian Artificial Satellite

Captures Week's Headlines

Capturing all headline space in this week's news is the artificial satellite launched by Russia last Friday. The baby moon, which weighs 184 pounds, passes over the United States about six times every 24 hours on a north-south course.

Pravda, the Soviet Communist newspaper, predicted that the United States will have to alter some of its foreign policies because of the Soviet scientific success.

The satellite should become visible in the United States in the next week, according to a spokesman for the Naval Research Laboratory. On the national scene, last week's teamster elections resulted in the naming of James Hoffa as president. He will succeed the controversial Dave Beck. Hoffa was quoted as saying he will turn the union into a "model of trade-unionism." Harold J. Gibbons of St. Louis was voted in as first vice-president of the union.

Still holding a prominent place in the news is the Little Rock integration situation. Nine Negro students attended Central High School last Monday as the institution began its third week as an integrated school. The Negro students were driven to school in an Army station

D.C. Semesterites Keep Busy

By CROP
(Peggy Crane, Becky Roberts, Julie Orr, Patsy Price)

WASHINGTON, D.C., Oct. 2—"Wonder if George thought it ever would be like this!" That was the first thought of your Washington Semesterites as we zoomed across Memorial Bridge on our way in from the airport.

Highlighting our first two weeks here was coffee with Senator McClellan of Arkansas. We were sitting in the Senate coffee shop with Fred Livingstone, a young man who is Senator Fulbright's assistant, when much to our great excitement in walked Senator McClellan. Fred invited him to join us.

We chatted for a while about the Little Rock situation and the Labor Racket hearings that were to open the next day. All too soon we had finished our coffee, drained the water glasses, and could find no further excuse for staying. Exciting—that's not the word for it!

Chaos is the only word for our first two weeks here. Perhaps that's because we have packed so much into so little time. We took out one day to do most of our sightseeing; we must have walked fifteen miles!

Here follows an itemized list and first impressions. Item one: White House—equipped with Red Room, Blue Room, Green Room, Gold Room, and State Dining Room—FREE FOOD (alas, for dignitaries only). Item two: Treasury Building—many interesting exhibits and MONEY all over the place.

Item three: Pan American Union—patio complete with tropical vegetation and parrots. Everyone spoke Spanish so we left. Item four: Washington Monument—very tall. We got a little dizzy gazing from the windows. We could see all of Washington and the outlying states.

Item five: The Lincoln Memorial. Perhaps this impressed us more than anything we had seen all day. From the back steps we had a wonderful view of the Lee Mansion across the Potomac. It was all we could do to restrain ourselves from breaking into Dixie, but we decided that neither the time nor the place was appropriate.

After the Lincoln Memorial anything else would have been an anticlimax, so we ended our tour for the day. Since then we have seen at different times the Jefferson Memorial, Arlington Cemetery, Mount Vernon, and quite a number of the other tourist sights.

Already we have become international in our eating habits. Chow mein at noon; Wiener-schitzel in the evening; Lasagna at midnight; and pizza at odd hours. All this makes us more than ready for good old ham and eggs at 7 a.m.

Besides our regular routine we spent an afternoon at the Labor Racket Committee hearings. Patsy, Julie, and Peggy were quite impressed with their senior senator. (In case you don't read the headlines, McClellan is chairman of this committee.)

We spent an interesting but confusing day in the Library of Congress. On this day we had lunch in the Supreme Court Building. No, we didn't see Warren!

We have found our classes with graduate students unique, not only because we are the only undergraduates, but also because there are MEN in the classroom. This is unusual!

Needless to say, we haven't neglected our social life. Becky had a date to see Nature's Way, a new play which opened here. Speaking of the theater, we have tickets to see The Egghead which opens this week. Starring is Phyllis Love, an old LC student.

Picnics are in full swing. Patsy and Peggy went with a group from Georgetown University to Great Falls Park in Virginia. We all went on a unit picnic there this weekend. We've also been to some good movies and some of the better known night spots.

Chaotic?—you bet it is, and we love it!

Pogo Takes LC Campus Tour Checking Up on Latest News; Orchids Sent to Sydney Finks

Students, welcome! This is not Jack Webb Sgt. Friday to give you "just the facts" about the welfare of our campus. This is I, Pogo, with a lot of sense (non), hopping about Lindenwood on my pogo-stick-bicycle, digging up the latest on profs, housemothers, and fellow members of this institution.

A look at the social side reveals that magic ingredient, BOYS. We're sure you're looking forward to another mixture (mixer), tomorrow night. By the way, orchids to Sydney Finks, social council chairman, and all council members, for the swell job so far. We hear, via the grape vine, that "a good time was had by all," at the date dance at the Barth Estate.

Ladies who attended the SAE rush party: Do you know that it's not ethical to wave at Phi Delt's from the SAE's upstairs window? Elsie reminds you to Watch Your Manners.

Of course we've heard of the lucky gals who attended the Veiled Prophet's Ball. We understand that the spectacle was exquisite. To quote one student, "The men looked like penguins, and the women like pictures out of Harper's Bazaar." Seems as if it was as great as the stay-in-dorm TV viewers imagined it to be.

DGC's (distinguished guests on campus) have come and gone at LC. The field representatives dropped in for a visit, and gave parties for their "crews."

While we're on DGC's, we must mention Dr. Glassberg, director of health and hygiene in St. Louis Public Schools, who visited LC during freshman orientation week. Elsie hopes that Dr. Glassberg answered all questions on dating, going steady, early marriage, etc. If not, we're sure that the courtesy council will be glad to oblige.

Now, just a mention to LC celebrities: we have Peggy Limbaugh, freshman, who was runner-up in the "Miss Arkansas" contest, and Peggy Roberts, sophomore, runner-up in the "Miss Tennessee" contest. A collectively voiced "congratulations" to both students.

With this last bit of information, Pogo will hop off until next issue. If you flunk the rule book test, don't worry, you'll have another chance.—BP

Frosh Lose Chlorophyll Look

Linden leaves are falling again at dear old LC, and judging from the appearance of our busy campus, life is in full swing!

Speaking of leaves, is anyone dreaming Lindens, Ginkos or American Elms? From the looks of all the photosynthesis, it seems as if this year is sapping, er, shaping up, doesn't it "tree-trippers?"

Freshmen are losing that chlorophyll look and are the subjects of much attention from that other sex, which has "coeducationalized" our campus every weekend since the first arrival. Watch out, upperclassmen!

wagon. The usual throng was absent from the school entrance, and white students complied with requests to stay inside the building. James C. Hagerty, presidential press secretary, said he hoped the troops would not have to remain throughout the school term, but could not say when they would be removed.—B. L.

"Big things from little acorns grow!" (So hope nine Butler girls who might become movie stars for 20th Century Fox as the result of a joke.) A radio request for college girls for walk-on parts prompted these "ambitious" girls to send in their names. Within a week they auditioned meekly before the director, an unfamiliar script in their hands. Good luck to the potential celebrities Chapman, Fryfogle, Halk, Johnson, Kattmann, McParland, Mojonner, Pechar, Purdue, and Smith.

Mrs. Steger is reading Nicolls girls the story of "Sleeping Beauty" these days. The heroine is a freshman who didn't scamper down the fire escape with her dormmates during a recent fire drill, but dazedly slept-walked past Mrs. Steger and Mary Lee Boren, fire captain, and stood on the lawn in front of the dorm. She was quietly "rescued" by Mary Lee, who led her back upstairs, where she made the proper descent and was re-united with her harassed friends.

"Up a tree" about your future? Why not consult the ouija ("weegie") board of Donna Davis, Irwin freshman from Sapulpa, Okla. Seems everyone else is.

This journalist recalls reading in a 1956 Bark that Mrs. Foreman believes "an apple a day keeps the doctor away."—We're sending a big bushel of apples to her in hopes she will recover soon.

Speaking of apples, was that Dr. McCluer climbing his apple tree recently? Here's a scoop, girls! He loves apple pie!

"We're on the ball—all day long, boom, boom!" The Ayres Hall Chorus presented its fall concert in the dining room recently. The program included two songs written by three talented sophomores, Jane Copeland, Linda Cotton, and Elizabeth "Skipper" Hoogestraat.

Your columnist leaves you now with this thought—better cut down on those seconds (thirds?) and deserts. The figure you save may be your own!—D.S.

LC's New Family Life Course Designed to Develop Mature Women as Community Leaders

With the idea of developing mature women who will be qualified as able community leaders and well equipped family heads, Lindenwood College has introduced a family life curriculum this fall. A combined effort of the home economics, sociology, and psychology departments, the course is offered for students who have no real career ideas but want an education that is not entirely vocational.

Requiring a major in sociology and a minor in home economics, the course of study is broadly based around family life and is valuable either to a housewife with children or a student who wants to take graduate work in social service or home economics, Walter M. Beattie, professor of sociology, told the Bark.

Mr. Beattie also explained that while this program is specifically geared to family life and its relationship with the individual, it provides a firm foundation for professional fields.

The curriculum provides only one course for the freshman year, a class in community life to be taken second semester. Sophomores in family life take introduction to sociology and introduction to psychology, and a course in food preparation and selection.

Junior and senior years are more specialized, but students also have a choice of electives. Courses include family housing, child development, home management, and marriage and family relationships.

In speaking of LC's new curriculum Miss Mary Lichliter, director of guidance and placement, said, "This curriculum is of current interest and is a trend in the universities of our country. We are fortunate in that Lindenwood College is one of the few liberal arts colleges featuring it."

Marriage Counselor

Dr. David Mace, British marriage guidance counselor, spoke on "Marriage in the Modern World" at convocation yesterday.

Lindenwood Has 488 Students; 451 in Dorms

Lindenwood has 488 students this year, Miss Bettie B. Wimberly, secretary to the director of admissions, told the Bark.

There are 451 students living in the dormitories and 37 day students. This enrollment is three less than last year's opening enrollment of 491 students.

Lindenwood students this year represent 25 states and eight other countries. Foreign students are from Ecuador, Cuba, Hawaii, Japan, Turkey, Korea, Sweden, and Iran.

Art Students Leave Friday On Annual Art Weekend in Ozarks

Lindenwood art students will leave for the Ozarks Friday for the annual art weekend, to be held at Mound Ridge, Mo. Sponsored by Kappa chapter of Kappa Pi, national honorary art fraternity, the weekend is open to all art majors and minors.

The traditional outing provides an opportunity for outdoor sketching and for fellowship of students and faculty, Harry D. Hendron, associate professor of art and Kappa Pi sponsor, told the Bark.

An art workshop on Monday evenings is another Kappa Pi project. It also is open to all majors and minors in art.

Nancy Bowser, senior, is president of Kappa Pi. Other officers are Gul Atal, Joyce Kayarian, and Mary Cox.

Pledges are Joann Burgin and Nori Hotta, seniors; Idele Bruning

FTA Schedules First Meeting

The Sibley Chapter of the Future Teachers of America will start its year's activities with an open meeting on Wednesday, at 4 p. m., in the Library Club Room. Students interested in teaching are invited to attend, Bremen Van Bibber, professor of education, told the Bark.

Three Missouri educational administrators are scheduled to address FTA this year, Mr. Van Bibber said. They are Forrest Walverton, executive secretary of the St. Louis Suburban Teachers Association, Paul Greene, director of certification, Missouri State Department of Education, and Everett Keith, executive secretary of the Missouri State Teachers Association.

New club members will be initiated Wednesday, Oct. 30, in the Library Club Room.

McLeods Meet Leaders on World Tour

By Nancy Calvert

The world refugee problem and the depleted soils of many countries caused concern to Dr. and Mrs. Robert L. McLeod, Jr., as they circled the world this summer, they told the Bark in an interview.

But the distress they saw was counteracted by the dedication of top ranking officials of the countries they visited and by the conviction that the United States is well represented by its ambassadors and diplomats in foreign lands.

Dr. McLeod, dean of the chapel, and Mrs. McLeod travelled in the Far East, Middle East, and Europe as members of the Christian Century World Tour.

Everywhere they went, from India to Greece, they found a staggering refugee problem, the McLeods said. Mrs. McLeod said that in crowded Hong Kong alone there are more than a million refugees. Over 100,000 of them live on the roofs of buildings in crude sheds and have to go down four or five flights for water and bathroom facilities.

"The situation is much the same in Syria, Lebanon, and Jordan," said Mrs. McLeod. "Over 800,000 refugees are fed by the United Nations, Church World Service, and Jewish charities." No one they talked with thought that the division of Palestine was a good thing, and the belief prevailed that the United States has been more generous to Israel than to other nations in the Middle East.

Dr. McLeod said that in all the countries they visited, with the exception of Japan, there was almost total depletion of land because of improper use. "I was very much impressed with the plan Iraq is using in the dispensation of the money from her oil wealth," he said. "They have put all the profits right back into the country and have built some wonderful roads, canals, and irrigation systems to make more land available."

The trip was highlighted by a tea and talk with Prime Minister Suhwady of Pakistan, and a trip to the summer home of Chiang-Kai-Shek and Madame Chiang-Kai-Shek, for tea. Madame Chiang-Kai-Shek, a Wellesley graduate, is especially interested in social welfare in Formosa.

The McLeods and their group also had the opportunity of talking with Dr. Rudha Krishnam, a great philosopher, who is now vice-president of India. Dr. Krishnam told the group that the United States must be patient with India, because it has been an independent country such a short time. They must have time, he said, to put their house in order before they enter into any intangling alliances with other countries.

The McLeods were planning to spend some time with Evelyn Munn and Phyllis Sharrar, two LC students who are studying in the Philippines this year, but the girls had to cancel out because they were so busy with their work. It was a shame, Dr. and Mrs. McLeod said, because the girls missed going on a trip on a Philippine sub-chaser to the battlefields of Corregidor and Bataan.

When they visited a school in Karachi, Pakistan, which is maintained by the Ford Foundation for the training of home economists, they found that one of the teachers had studied under our Dean, Paulena Nickell, at Iowa State University.

At a meeting in Hong Kong, where Dr. McLeod was introduced as being from Lindenwood, he was approached by a man who had spoken here at college when LC was world leader in WUS contributions a few years ago. "It just goes to show what a small world this is," said Dr. McLeod.

white people and other Negroes, Shirley said.

Carol Gardner said Southern students in a Northern state often have conflicts in reaching a decision which can satisfy them and which also can be accepted by their families and friends in the South. Carol brought a laugh when she said when she goes home she is often greeted with, "See you later, integrator."

Dr. C. Eugene Conover, professor of philosophy, said that in his opinion the problem results from a general human reluctance to give up and share privileges. The Northern states should not take credit for making a voluntary move toward integration, he said, since the practices sometimes were enforced on the North by laws of the state courts.

He cited an incident in Cincinnati where Negroes were allowed to eat in Woolworth's after several cases had been brought to court. He said he believes that the differences between the white and Negro people are a "matter of education," and that they will be overcome in time.

LC Horsewomen Ride Away With Prizes in St. Louis Show

Lindenwood College horsewomen copped six awards in the annual Knights of Columbus Horse Show, Sept. 22, in St. Louis. The event, which was held at the Clayton Riding and Hunt Stables, is the first in which members of Beta Chi have participated this semester.

Taking second place in the five-gaited class was Kay Province riding Sweetheart Stonewall.

Mary "Dallas" Rankin, on Lovely Kalarama, won a third prize in the three-gaited class. Also, riding Lovely Kalarama, and taking second, third, and fourth places in the equitation classes was Betty Jane Palmer, sister of Miss Fern Palmer, the LC riding instructor.

Beta Chi, the campus riding club, is open to all students who are now taking riding or have had a semester of horsemanship at Lindenwood.

The Beta Chi officers are Joan Broeckelmann, president; Sarah Loden, vice-president; Kay Province, secretary; Carol Davidson, treasurer; and Janet Walker, publicity chairman. These students, with the co-operation of the 13 other members of the club, are planning a full and varied program. Among their plans is a trip to Kansas City, Oct. 24-27, for the American Royal Horse Show.

Tryouts, for those interested in joining Beta Chi, will be held Nov. 3, and installation of new members is scheduled for Nov. 5.

LC Drama Majors Play Summer Stock In Plymouth, Mass.

James Hodges and Edwin Van Woert, senior drama students here at Lindenwood, played summer-stock this summer at the Priscilla Beach Theater in Plymouth, Mass.

The company, which started out with 55 members, was narrowed down to 22 and later to eight students. James and Edwin were in this group of eight.

Classes were held in make-up, improvisation, dance, voice and diction, and theater fundamentals. Student-actors also played roles in various plays.

The LC men were in five: "Hayfever" by Noel Coward, "Season in the Sun" by Woolcott Gibbs, "The Happy Time" by Samuel Taylor, "Petticoat Fever" by Mark Reed, and "Bus Stop" by William Inge.

In discussing the favorable aspects of the Plymouth theater, Jim said, "You gain a lot of experience from this theater because you are doing the acting yourself, not observing others act as apprentices in most summer theaters have to do."

Nine Swimmers Join Terrapin

Nine new members have been added to Terrapin Club, the campus swimming society, Mrs. Grazina Amonas, club sponsor, announced recently.

Those who pledged Wednesday night are Ina Rae Barklage, Sheryllyn Benderoff, Linda Gillespie, Julia Hoyt, Sally Hutchinson, Nancy Lantz, Renee Ryter, Marietta Tinsley and Jacqueline Wolf.

The presiding officers, who were elected last spring, are Donna Lacy, president, and Helen Moeller, secretary-treasurer. A vice-president will be elected from the new members.

One of the activities sponsored by the club this year is open pool, which is open to all students. The schedule for open pool is Monday, 7-8:30 p.m.; Friday, 7-8 p.m.; and Saturday, 2-4 p.m. Lifeguards will be provided from Terrapin.

Mixer Set for Gym

The second all-college mixer will be held in Butler Gymnasium tomorrow evening. It is to be a beachcomber party, with music by the Melody Makers and class skits. After the dance there will be a bonfire party at the Ovens.

Archery Tournament to Begin; Hockey Victors to Gain Lindy

Archery intramurals will begin in about a week, Miss Betty Barbee, Women's Recreation Association sponsor, told the Bark.

Winding up the hockey intramurals, now in progress, will be the presentation of "Lindy," the WRA mascot, to the winning team in student assembly.

Cobbs forfeited to Ayres in the first game, the score standing 1-0, and Butler squeezed past the day students 2-1 in the second game of the series. Niccolls and Sibley met Monday night with Sibley the winner. Irwin and Ayres' date was uncertain as the Bark went to press.

High on the list of WRA activities was the camping trip at Camp Irondale last weekend. Leaving Friday afternoon, the students stayed until noon, Saturday. Chaperones for the 80-mile trip were Miss Barbee and Miss Dorothy Ross, professor of physical education. Campers reported "fine food, fine fun, and freezing cold weather."

Elected as WRA's new vice-president is Peggy Newell of St. Charles. She will take the place of Marva LaBonte, who did not return this year. Mary "Dallas" Rankin is president.

Social Council Gives Courtesy Priority Rating

Minding one's manners and doing the right thing at the right time are being stressed on the Lindenwood campus this fall with the start of a Lindenwood Courtesy Council.

The need for such a council has been realized for several years because questions of social behavior kept coming up in dormitory meetings, Sydney Finks, social chairman, told the Bark.

Sydney presides over the committee with help from Mrs. Leonard Steger, head resident of Niccolls Hall, and Mrs. Bremen Van Bibber, assistant professor of home economics.

The council presented an orientation skit the first week of school, with the theme, "It's fun to do it right." Hostesses in the dining room were appointed by the council the first weeks of school, to acquaint new students with the traditional style of serving.

Plans are laid to follow up during the fall with a series of coffee hours. Students are welcome to talk over any problems about the pattern of social acceptances with committee members or the advisers, Sydney said.

KCLC Broadcasts Fall Line-up, Party Line Previews LC Events

Party Line, an informative preview of coming campus events, is included in the new line-up of fall programs on KCLC, the campus radio station, which began broadcasting Sept. 30.

The program, produced and directed by Karen Klabau and Sandra Hairston, can be heard at 7:15 p.m. Thursday.

The Talking Traveler, another program on the new schedule, broadcasts at 3:45 p.m. Friday. Connie Sutton travels to the tea room and Roemer Hall to tape record the students' views on current campus problems.

Other new programs heard on KCLC include:

Dig That Beat, consisting of progressive jazz and Dixieland music on records. Jo Ann Lovins takes charge every Monday night at 7:15.

Soiree, presented by Nan Nordyke on Wednesday night at 8 o'clock. It broadcasts the top talent of the Lindenwood campus.

Between the Book Ends presents poetry, literature, and news articles on Thursday night at 8:15. Karen Prewitt presides over this cultural session.

ALD to Honor Frosh, Faculty at Tea Sunday

Alpha Lambda Delta, national academic fraternity for freshman women, will sponsor a tea for all freshmen and the faculty Sunday from 3 to 5 p. m. in the Memorial Arts parlors.

The society is composed of freshman students who have maintained a 3.5 or better academic average at the end of their first semester or first year in college.

Three sophomores, Cleta Jones, Nancy Tucker, and Judith Winburn, were pledged to ALD on Thursday, Sept. 26. They will be initiated on Oct. 30 at the home of Dr. Marion Dawson Rechtern, professor of biological science and ALD sponsor.

The organization has 87 chapters. Lindenwood's chapter was organized in 1949, and now has 11 active and 16 associate alumnae members on campus, Dr. Rechtern told the Bark.

Campus Poets Invited To Compete in Contest

Announcement of the annual contest of the Poetry Society was made this week by Jane Cooper, junior, newly-elected president of the society.

All students who are not members of the club are eligible to enter original poetry in the contest. The deadline date is Oct. 30. Authors whose poems are accepted by the judges will be eligible to join the society, and the first prize winner will get a free membership.

Students also may enter a St. Louis area writing contest, sponsored by the Metropolitan Church Federation. Emphasis is to be on inspirational and thought provoking writing.

Entries may be poetry, a one-act drama for church groups, or articles emphasizing the importance of the family. In each class prizes of $15 and $5 will be given.

Dr. Alice Parker, chairman of the English department, will be one of the poetry judges. The deadline for entries is Dec. 1.
