By PRESIDENT GAGE

LOOKING forward to the coming of students in September, my mind reverts to a prayer in preparation for study by Saint Thomas Aquinas (1225-1271 A.D.). He was a man powerful in body and mind and one of the world's most influential scholars. Studies will be more fruitful if students and teachers proceed reverently as Saint Thomas did. Here are the words of his prayer:

"Grant me grace, O merciful God, to
Desire ardently all that is pleasing to thee,
Examine it prudently,
Acknowledge it truthfully,
Accomplish it perfectly,
For the praise and glory of Thy Name."

First, there is humility, appeal to the Infinite, and worship from a sense of need. Knowledge never comes to those who approach truth with strut and swagger and boastfulness. Years ago a boy wrote me about himself and expressed a desire to favor and adorn the campus by attending college. By way of postscript he wrote, "I may need some polish but not much." He really did need "some polish" and something that would take polish but naturally he did not get what he needed. His attitude prevented.

A real student desires what is "pleasing" to God; to be "in tune with the Infinite." To be out of tune is unlovely; it is an error.

Whatever comes to a student's mind must be examined carefully and critically. A student cannot be careless intellectually. Learning is more than memorizing.

Acknowledgment of truth is a test of courage. It requires moral stamina. "It is the truth that hurts." People avoid truth and follow pleasing fancies. Scholarship requires strength of character. Whoever says this is true but I dare not admit it should go to the foot of the class and there sit with a fool's cap on his head.

The final test of scholarship is not to know what to do but to do what one knows. Scholars are not impractical. Their vision of truth is so clear and their love of trust is so sincere that they strive through repeated failures to accomplish truth perfectly in their own lives and in the world about them.

The purpose which St. Thomas in prayer longed to realize is indeed the "chief end of man"; it is to "glorify God and enjoy Him forever." The perfection of persons, homes, government, business, industry, agriculture, capital and labor—these things glorify God. They are the rewards of scholarship. They require and justify the process we call education.

Lindenwood faces a new year seriously and joyfully. We are serious because of the weight of responsibility resting on teachers and students. We are joyous because of our splendid opportunity.

New Health Center at Lindenwood Named For Dr. B. Kurt Stumberg

*College Campus Is Busy This Summer with Improvements for Opening of the 1945-46 Collegiate Year in September—
New Club Rooms for Sibley Hall*

THE LINDENWOOD campus is busy this summer with improvements being made for the opening of the 1945-46 college year in September. Outstanding among the changes being made is the remodeling of Senior Hall, which will be the new Student Health Center. By order of the Board of Directors the building will be named the Dr. B. Kurt Stumberg Health Center in memory of Dr. Stumberg, a member of the college's Board of Directors, college physician for thirty years and a friend of hundreds of former Lindenwood students. Dr. Stumberg died August 20, 1943.

Senior Hall, located on Butler Way near the center of the campus, was formerly the music hall. It was used in recent years as a residence for upper-class students. The health center has been located in Sibley Hall but it was felt desirable to expand the health facilities and to provide for segregation of patients in the health center. The remodeling will be completed in time for the opening of the college.

A new road is being constructed in front of Sibley and Niccolls halls, with a circle drive and new club rooms are being built in Sibley Hall, which will have a separate outdoor entrance. Improvements are also being made in the college dining room in Ayres Hall.

A capacity enrollment is already assured for the 1945-46 college year, which will open with a meeting of the faculty on September 12. Registration and student conferences with counselors will be held from September 17 to 22 and classes will be organized on September 24.

News From and About The Classes Of 1898 and 1899

By KATHRYN HANKINS, Alumnae Secretary

THIS month we present the roll call of two of Lindenwood's classes before the turn of the century:

1898

Anna Marr Egger (Mrs. Clinton A. Barnett) 513 South Second Street, Clinton, Mo.: "I am a homemaker and have been all of my married life. My husband is living and I have only one son, who is a graduate of Harvard University. He also received his M.A. and Ph.D. degrees from Harvard and at the time he entered the Navy three years ago he was a professor of English at Boston University. He is a lieutenant and is back from fifteen months overseas duty in the Pacific. He is now stationed at Charleston, S. C., with the N.A.T.S. Sorry I did not have a daughter to send to Lindenwood."

Lucy Jacobs (Mrs. J. E. McPherson) is deceased.
Theo. McDearmon is deceased.

Hanna Wannall (Mrs. H. Stone) lives at 3820 Lincoln Street, East St. Louis, Ill.

Marie Zimmerman (Mrs. Marie Barnett) is deceased.

1899

Anne C. Aymond lives in St. Charles.

Harriet Baldwin, Los Angeles, Calif.: "I am doing Red Cross work at odd times, but most of the time I lecture to groups in churches and women's clubs on peasant life in the Holy Land, where I lived for many years. My book, written there, 'In Galilee With the Galileans,' published by Revell, is illustrated with my own pictures and is an authentic account of village life in the Bible land." Her address is, c/o Title Insurance and Trust Co., 433 S. Spring St., Los Angeles.

Maude A. Bennett (Mrs. H. C. Holdermann) Route One, Afton, Okla.: "I have been just a homemaker, which seems to be the most popular vocation for women after all. We had a family of five children, one of whom we lost last year at this time. I am very happily a most enthusiastic grandmother and we have also a 21 months-old great grandson. I have been a very busy woman, but I always find time to read the Bulletin."

Olga Daudt is deceased.

Alice Ellis (Mrs. Frank Lamb) lives at 250 Cunningham St., Vallejo, Calif.

Jean McDearmon (Mrs. Arthur J. Barrett) is deceased.

In Service Overseas

Mrs. Loren Rhodes (Nell Thomas, Class of '32) who is now serving as a Red Cross staff assistant in India.

* * *

Mollie Marshall (Mrs. John A. Collins) lives at 271 Goel Drive, Warren, Ohio.

Edna Schaefer (Mrs. M. L. Harris) lives at 729 Post Place, East St. Louis, Ill.

Elsie Schoeneich (Mrs. Charles J. Daudt) is deceased.

Laura Sikkema is deceased.

Marguerite Adele Wobus lives in St. Charles.

Lindenwood Student on St. Louis Style College Board

Miss Jean Sims, of St. Charles, is Lindenwood's representative on the College Board of the Stix, Baer and Fuller department store in St. Louis. Recently with other members of the board she was given a trip to New York City to choose the perfect campus costumes for college wear. They attended style shows, discussed their problems with designers and met fashion magazine editors.

In between seeing what makes the fashion world tick, they saw several of the new plays on Broadway, met some celebrities and did their own shopping.

Lindenwood Gives Money For Library For The S. S. Lindenwood

LINDENWOOD COLLEGE has made a gift of $100 to the American Merchant Marine Library Association to buy books for the library of the S. S. Lindenwood, Victory cargo ship which was launched at Richmond, Calif., on June 23. A plaque telling of the college's gift and the Lindenwood pennant will be displayed in the captain's quarters on the ship.

Because the United Nations' world security conference was in session at San Francisco, the State Department prohibited any public celebrations for the launching of ships while the conference was meeting. The college, however, was represented by six Lindenwood alumnae. They were: Mrs. L. R. Hain, president of the San Francisco Bay Lindenwood Club; Mrs. Taylor Douthit, secretary of the club; Mrs. C. L. Thompson, Mrs. John S. Craven, Mrs. Victor Thompson, and Mrs. William Lawrence. The husbands of the six alumnae accompanied them.

When the launching signal was given and the S. S. Lindenwood Victory was christened and started down the ways, a hushed silence came over the entire group witnessing the ceremony. John Starling, an official of the Kaiser Shipbuilding Company, was master of ceremonies and Mr. Bedford of the same company gave a brief address. Lieut. Rice of the United States Navy offered a prayer—and by coincidence, Lieut. Rice is a Presbyterian minister from Virginia.

With Red Cross in Italy

Miss Dorothy Lawhon, Class of '38, who has been overseas since November, 1944, as a Red Cross staff assistant in Italy.

The ship was named in honor of Lindenwood in recognition of the college's outstanding contribution to the war effort. A P-51 Mustang fighter plane also bears Lindenwood's name.

The S. S. Lindenwood is one of the new Victory type ships designed by the Maritime Commission. It is a 10,730 ton vessel, 455 feet long and 62 feet wide. It has a speed of 15 knots or more and is adaptable for postwar use.

One new star has been added to the Alumnae Service Flag this month. It represents Mrs. Loren Rhodes, who has arrived in India to serve as a Red Cross staff assistant. Mrs. Rhodes was Nell Thomas and attended Lindenwood in 1930-32. She is the daughter of Dr. L. M. Thomas, of Webbers Falls, Okla., and before her appointment to the Red Cross overseas staff she taught in the Muskogee, Okla., schools.

News was also received this month of Miss Dorothy Lawhon, who is serving as a Red Cross staff assistant in Italy. She went overseas in November, 1944, and her first assignment was in Rome. She went from there to Florence and is now stationed at a post club near Bologna in the Po Valley. She writes that her work is "interesting and absorbing" but she will be glad to live in the United States again after the war.

What Members of This Year's Senior Class Are Planning To Do

In Hall of Fame

THE future plans of the members of the 1945 graduating class are divided about equally between a career and marriage. Some of the career graduates will teach this fall; others will try their wings in the world of business.

Among the graduates who plan to teach is Miss Mary Aldridge, who has a position teaching the first grade in her home town school system in Evansville, Ind. Miss Virginia Gilreath has a kindergarten job waiting for her in the Granite City, Ill., schools. Miss Earline Ransom, of Norfolk, Neb., plans to teach history and Miss Frances Watlington will teach the fourth grade in her home town, Texarkana, Ark. Miss Mary Lou Gillette, of O'Fallon, Mo., also plans to teach this fall.

Miss Polly Woolsey, of Lakewood, Ohio, has a position in the advertising department of a Cleveland department store, and Miss Barbara Wertz, of Evansville, is signed up to do research for two dermatologists in Evansville. Miss Ruth Neef is working in her father's office in Omaha, Neb.

Miss Nadine Ziern, of St. Louis, will attend the Washington University Art School in St. Louis and has a job in an antique shop. Miss Jo Ann Crawford,
