PUBLIC relations may be very hastily and cleverly managed. Nevertheless, what is behind the front that the public knows is probably important. Certainly it is interesting to those who really care for the institution. To others, of course, the account of an escapade is more fascinating. Having no thrilling adventure to recount and not for the moment being interested in small talk—"the crackling of thorns under a pot"—I shall give to you a little inside information.

When I came to Lindenwood I brought into association with me Dr. George A. Works, for many years Professor of Education, Dean of Students, and University Examiner in The University of Chicago. He serves here as Director of Institutional Research. Each month he spends several days on the campus. He works directly with a faculty Committee on Institutional Research of which Dean Gipson is Chairman and Dr. Schaper Secretary. Dr. Works does not do the research—he directs it. Sometimes he suggests the making of studies; more frequently he accepts suggestions and assigns fields to be investigated. Faculty members are independent professional men and women working in close cooperation and responsible for curricula courses, and methods of instruction. Their initiative and assumption of responsibility is encouraged and required. Reports on studies completed or in progress are made to the Research Committee and to the instructional staff.

At the end of two years we are beginning to get a close-up and comprehensive view of Lindenwood; also detailed views of various parts of our academic insides. Some of the information is as expected and confirms previous judgments. Some is surprising and pleasing; some surprising and not pleasing. We have always thought that Lindenwood is financially and academically sound and that its teachers are competent. Figures confirm that judgment. One is a wee bit surprised and much pleased to learn that so many students have marked capacity for college work; but more surprised and not at all pleased to learn that some students of great ability do not have comparable achievement records. The best result of our study is generation of a feeling of competence to manage our affairs. The figures give us facts. We can deal with facts. If ventures are demonstrably useless, we can abandon them; if they are useful and responsive to effort, we can increase our efforts in those directions; if new fields of work open, we are prepared to enter. If we are running in a rut, we can get out; if the status quo is unsatisfactory, we can create a new situation. If what is old is good and in danger of being lost, we can "hold fast to that which is good" and restore its vitality. In general college teachers are inclined to know their subjects better than they know themselves in their collectivity; sometimes they know subject matter better than they know students. This is an inclination to which we shall not yield. For this reason we conduct institutional research under expert guidance. As teachers we think institutionally and not departmentally. Our purpose is to bring the whole weight of the institution to bear on each student at each point of contact. More in particular we are making home economics more a department of the home closely articulated with our program of general education. Proposed ventures into the humanities and science will assure liberal education to all students in specialized courses. Space forbids further elaboration. In conclusion we shall put the Lindenwood stamp on each student. Basically it will be the old familiar stamp but revised progressively for current use and properly dated for each successive generation.

LINDENWOOD COLLEGE
ST. CHARLES, MO.

Entered at the St. Charles Post Office as Second Class Matter

Attractive Program Planned For Alumnae Day on June 5

Mrs. James A. Reed to Speak and This Year's Graduates Will Be Formally Inducted Into Alumnae Association in Ceremony Conducted by Mrs. Martha Cunningham

MEMBERS of this year's graduating class will be formally inducted into the Lindenwood Alumnae Association on Alumnae Day, June 5, which will be one of the features of commencement week on the campus. Mrs. Martha M. Cunningham, Class of '05, president of the association, will conduct the induction ceremony.

Lindenwood clubs in all parts of the country have been invited to send greetings, and where wartime travel restrictions make it possible, representatives. To enable the college to plan for the buffet supper that night, alumnae who plan to attend are requested to notify the college by May 18 if possible.

Another feature of the alumnae program will be an address by Mrs. James A. Reed, wife of Missouri's former United States Senator, creator of the internationally famous Nelly Don dresses, and an alumna of Lindenwood. In addition to the annual alumnae meeting and the buffet supper there will be a program for the alumnae that night in Roemer Auditorium.

The annual election of officers will be held at the alumnae meeting. In addition to Mrs. Cunningham, the officers of the association are: Miss Gladys Campbell, of St. Louis, Class of '24, vice-president; Mrs. Lois Margaret Lane, of St. Charles, secretary, and Mrs. Ruth Steedman Wright, of St. Louis, Class of '24, treasurer.

Lindenwood's 116th annual commencement will be held on June 7. The commencement address will be delivered by Dr. Alice C. Lloyd, dean of women at the University of Michigan. Dr. George Arthur Frantz, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Indianapolis, Ind., will give the baccalaureate sermon on June 6.

May will be a month crowded with special events on the campus. There will be special Senior chapels on May 7 and 14, and on the night of the 14th the Senior carnival will be held. The following day Lindenwood will crown Miss Ruth Haines, a Senior, of Rivermines, Mo., as its 1943 May Queen. Miss Sally Dearthmont, of St. Louis, a Junior, will be the Special Maid of Honor. The Queen's Court will include Miss Doris Banta and Miss Joyce Burge, Seniors; Miss Florence Barry and Miss Virginia Donovan, Juniors; Miss Betty Waters and Miss Jacqueline Schwab, Sophomores, and Miss Kay Barngrover and Miss Sophia Russell, Freshmen.

Alumnae Day Speaker

Mrs. James A. Reed, creator of the internationally famous Nelly Don dresses and an alumna of Lindenwood, who will speak at the Alumnae Day program on June 5.

There will be a horse show that morning and the annual Queen's dinner that night, followed by a dance recital presented by Tau Sigma. On May 16 there will be a special convocation and that afternoon the new Queen will be honored at a tea.

Pre-commencement honors and awards will be announced at a convocation on May 26 and the following day will be Senior Class Day. The annual commencement play will be given on May 29.

Lindenwood Alumna Celebrates Golden Wedding Anniversary

Lindenwood extends its warmest greetings and felicitations to Dr. and Mrs. William Carter, of 25 East Ninety-ninth Street, New York City, who will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary on May 14. Mrs. Carter, who was Alice Kellogg, was a member of the Class of 1890.

Through the years she has been a loyal supporter of Lindenwood, and she was a close friend of Dr. John L. Roemer. The faculty and alumnae send their best wishes for many more years of happiness to Dr. and Mrs. Carter.

Lindenwood's Loyal Daughters Have Enlisted For War Service

LINDENWOOD alumnae are now wearing the uniforms of all branches of the armed services open to women. The college has received word during the last month of the following alumnae who are now in active service:

Mrs. Robert McGill, Donna DeWees, Class of '39, has enlisted in the Marine Corps Women's Reserve and is now a midshipman at the Naval Training Station at Smith College, Northampton, Mass.

Also in training at Smith College is Miss Alice Ruth Brown, Class of '31, who is a midshipman in the WAVES.

Miss Marjorie Moberg, Class of '42, of Bayard, Neb., has enlisted in the WAVES and at the time of her letter to Dr. Raymond Garnett, on March 25, was awaiting her order to report at a training station.

Another member of the Class of '42, Miss Margie Ibsen, of Rockwell City, Iowa, has enlisted in the WAVES and is now at the Naval Training School at Cedar Falls, Iowa.

Miss Sunny Lohr, Class of '38, is a civilian employe in a United States Army hospital at Fort Lawton in Seattle, Wash., where she is in charge of the X-ray department. Her new address is 10656 Riviera Place, N. E., Seattle.

Miss Charle Jean Cullum, Class of '30, of 5953a Rita Avenue, Huntington Park., Calif., has applied for enlistment in the United States Marine Corps Women's Reserve, and expects to be assigned for officer's training about June 1. She has been employed by the City Transportation Company of Los Angeles.

Former Faculty Member

Lindenwood alumnae will recognize Mrs. Julia Underwood (at left in the front row), who was a member of the college's faculty from 1923 until she retired in 1940. She is now living in Seattle, Wash., and with her in the front row of the picture are her sister, Mrs. Jessie Crawford, and her brother, John. The others in the picture are her nephews and nieces.

Alumnae President

Mrs. Martha M. Cunningham, Class of '05, of St. Charles, who will induct the members of the Senior Class into the Lindenwood Alumnae Association on Alumnae Day. Mrs. Cunningham is now completing her second year as president of the association.

Mademoiselle Editor Selects Lindenwood Romeo of 1943

Miss Kay Long, Midwest Editor of Mademoiselle magazine, has selected Lieut. Henry J. Pasheo of the United States Army Air Corps as Lindenwood's Romeo of 1943. His picture was entered in the Linden Bark's "Man of the Moment" contest by Betty Miller, of Pine Bluff, Ark.

The "most athletic" man is James Moore, entered by Eloise Baim, also of Pine Bluff. The "most intellectual" is Don MacPhee, submitted by Patricia Foran, of Dallas, Texas. The "most kissable" is Russell Milliken, entered by Joyce Vestal, of North Little Rock, Ark., and the "most marriageable" is Warrington Sharp, entered by Sophia Russell, of Warrensburg, Missouri.

Sociology Department at Lindenwood Keeps Pace With the Times

Students Study Problems Created by War and Supplement Classroom Work by Field Trips and Individual Research

By DR. JESSIE S. BERNARD, Department of Sociology

THE current issue of "Sociology and Social Research," one of the leading sociological journals of the country, contains an article by two Lindenwood girls, Miss Ruth Schrader, '42, and Miss Louise Olson, '43. It is a research study of the trailer camp population in the St. Louis area. The authors found the people who live in trailers are, on the whole, young, skilled workers, with above average education and health. Most of them were small families. This study, which makes a distinct contribution to our knowledge of contemporary social life, illustrates how Lindenwood College keeps abreast of the times.

In the fall the girls in the course on "Population Trends," led a round table discussion of the International Relations Club on population as a factor in present day international relations and the war. Miss Lell Lewis, Miss Shirley Goodman, Miss Louise Olson, and Miss Betty Myers were the leaders of the discussion which was lively and enthusiastic. At a meeting of the League of Women Voters, the girls in introductory economics applied what they had learned about war finance in a panel discussion explaining evils of inflation and the necessity for buying bonds as a preventative. Their presentation of facts was cogent, convincing, and most effective.

What is the war doing to the American community and what can the American community do to help win the war? What are women doing in the war effort? These are among the questions the girls in "Women in the Community" are trying to answer. An innovation in the course this year is the use of moving pictures showing the actual work of women today. Another innovation is having women active in different aspects of community projects talk to the girls about what they are doing.

Field trips take on a new significance in times like these. The "Public Welfare Administration" class visits local institutions and welfare organizations and evaluates them in terms of future developments. The National Resources Planning Board recommendations for post-war programs, as well as the English Beveridge Report, are given careful consideration. These girls will be prepared for many of the post-war problems they will be forced to face in their communities.

Every Freshman in the college is required to take the course in "American Contemporary Civilization" at sometime during the year. This course attempts to interpret some of the phases of contemporary life in America as they affect the citizen. Particular emphasis is given to current changes in American culture as these affect youth especially, in order that youth may have an opportunity to understand social changes and accept responsibility, rather than to be overwhelmed by emotional instability which can very easily follow social change. A further purpose is to develop an appreciation of the interests of humanity, rather than the particular interest of any one race or nation.

The war has created an unprecedented demand upon the high school youth of America for providing vocational and educational guidance for youth. To meet this need the course, "Educational and Vocational Guidance," is offered to students planning to teach, or to engage in social work. The principles and philosophy of guidance, as these are realized in standardized tests, individual interviews, occupational information, and curriculum offerings, are examined in detail, with the view to equipping the high school teacher with the tools necessary for educational, vocational, spiritual, and social guidance.

War marriages have been discussed this year in the course on "The Family." The girls concluded no general formula could be established to cover every case but each one had to be considered individually. If the young people had known one another a reasonable length of time, had planned to get married anyway, were mature and settled in their emotional attitudes, and were fully cognizant of the hazards involved, war marriages are permissible. On the other hand, marriage without a suitable acquaintanceship, because "everyone is doing it," when war hysteria rather than settled emotional relationship was the chief incentive, were seen to be highly hazardous.

What's wrong with Hitler's theory of race? What does war do to the quality of the population? What about eugenics? Propaganda? Natural resources? These were among the many questions discussed by the girls in introductory sociology as they applied sociological principles to current events.

In "Methods of Case Study," Miss Rachel Morris emphasized particularly the needs of children under war time stress. The girls in this class learn how to keep families integrated even under war time strains and how to handle post-war problems of re-adjusting soldiers to family life.

Members of the Class of 1927 Send News About Themselves

By KATHRYN HANKINS, Alumnae Secretary

A CARD was sent from the Alumnae office to every member of the graduating class of 1927 for whom we have a correct address. The following alumnae responded. The expression of pleasure in learning about fellow classmates was most enthusiastic. Next month we shall feature another class.

Margerite Tainter (Mrs. E. H. Ahrens), St. Charles—"At present I am a home-maker. On Wednesday afternoons I have been teaching nutrition to the women of St. Charles for the Red Cross. My daughter, Margaret Ann, 10-years old, is planning on being a Lindenwood girl like her mother."

Marjorie V. Wills (Mrs. G. D. Jones), 6 Wayne Road, Columbia, Mo.—"I have lived here for 10 years. My husband has been on the University staff for 12 years. We have a son George, Jr., who is 9 and in the fourth grade."

Dorothy Dunseth (Mrs. Kenneth Krehbiel)—"My husband owns the newspaper at McPherson, Kan., and because of that public position I lead a very active civic life. I have one child, Kenneth Dillard, four, and a very large home and garden that I care for myself. I have written a column, "Vagaries," for 11 years that appears in all Kansas daily newspapers and frequently is reprinted in the Kansas City papers."

Delta Newman—"I am now assistant professor and supervising teacher of home economics at Texas State College for Women at Denton, Texas."

Helen Baysinger—"For the past eight years I have been the postmistress at Rolla, Mo.—a most interesting position."

Katherine Day (Mrs. C. H. Whitaker, Jr.), Clinton, Mo.—"Since 1927 I have taught school one year, spent a summer session in the library school of the University of Iowa and also one year there. In 1937 I was married to Charles H. Whitaker, Jr., of Clinton, co-editor of the Clinton Daily and Weekly Democrat. I expect to be working on the paper 'for the duration'."

Irene Hall (Mrs. E. R. Darling), Auburn, Maine.—"I am a home-maker above all. We have three children—Joanne, 13; Nancy Lee, 11; Robert, 10. At present I am general chairman for State Conference of Daughters of American Revolution. Am a state promoter for Children of American Revolution and last year was senior president of our local society."

Leona Kramer (Mrs. Steven A. Kostakos), 2720 Simpson St., Evanston, Ill.—"I am married, the mother of two children—Stevie is my older child and is 9.

The second is a girl, Ann, 7. I do some P.T.A. work besides devoting some time to the Red Cross."

Alycen Baker (Mrs. Floyd Wallace)—"I have lived in Sherman, Texas, ever since I married in 1929. My husband owns the Wallace Pharmacy. I am a home-maker. We have two little girls. The older, Bonnie Baker, is a little over 2, and the baby, Mary Ayleen, is 15 months old."

Elizabeth Ann McClintock (Mrs. W. W. Anderson, Jr.)—"I have been married since 1928. I have been a post office clerk in Monticello, Ark., since 1927. We do not have any children. We live on a farm, about one mile from town, on which we raise Aberdeen-Angus cattle. When Mr. Anderson went to the army, I persuaded him to let me keep the cattle. So I have two jobs."

Lucy Smith (Mrs. Wm. T. Sweeney), Marshall, Mo.—"I am a home-maker, with one child, a little boy 7 years old."

Pauline Davis (Mrs. Lewis Hedgecock) St. Louis, Mo.—"My work now that my husband is at war, is that of administrative assistant in the Northwestern Area office of the National Red Cross. I handle a heavy volume of correspondence between our office and 57 chapters in western Nebraska."

Catherine Joslyn (Mrs. Robert L. Conner), Lebanon, Mo.—"I am just a home-maker, doing a bit of Red Cross work. I have two children, Lelia Ann, aged 12, and Robert Joslyn, 9."

Arlie Schnedler (Mrs. M. W. Dunn)—"My husband and I bought a 50-year-old house and have had much pleasure modernizing it. I fear I am not a very good housekeeper for it seems to be only a part time job. I am teaching the fourth grade in one of the schools in St. Charles."

Edna Mae Stubbins (Mrs. R. J. Davisson), 5540 Grant Place, St. Louis, Mo.—"I am a home-maker. We have a little girl, Camille, 6. I am a member of the War Block Service, work in the P.T.A. and mothers' circle, and sell war stamps at a public school."

Evelyn Teller (Mrs. P. H. Feibelmann), 5539 Pershing Ave., St. Louis, Mo.—"I have been married almost 14 years and have one child, a 10 year old son. I do what most other housewives do—try to make a real home and do as much helpful work as possible during this war period."

Ethel Spreckelmeyer (Mrs. H. H. Kaveler),

IN MEMORIAM

Lindenwood extends its deepest sympathy to three of its alumnae whose father, Frank Ringer, of Pauls Valley, Okla., died February 7 after a brief illness. His three daughters are Mrs. Barbara Hamill, Class of '32, of Sparta, Wis.; Mrs. Margaret Howell, Class of '34, and Miss Dorothy Ringer, Class of '38, of Los Angeles, Calif. To them and to all the members of his family, Lindenwood sends its sincere condolences.

Bartlesville, Okla.—“I am a home-maker and have a little girl 8 years old.”

Norine Ziegler (Mrs. Norine Mecum)—“I am secretary to the chief clerk of the Administrative department, Silas Mason Company, Louisiana Ordnance Plant, Shreveport, La. I have no children and am divorced.”

Anna Lois Mitchell (Mrs. W. E. Remmers), Darien, Conn.—“I am a home-maker. I have two children, Edward, 12, Tome, 6.”

Estelle Pfaff—“I am principal of the Lincoln School at St. Charles, Mo., and teach the first grade for a half-day.”

Nancy Hitner (Mrs. M. M. Perry), 4800 E. Sonny Slope Road, Minneapolis, Minn.—“I am a home-maker with three daughters—aged 12, 10 and 6. I have kept up my music, however, holding a solo position in a large church as well as giving concerts locally.”

Nellie McClanahan, Caruthersville, Mo.—“I am not a housewife, but I own my own home. I am not a mother, but I am rearing a child, a little boy who is now 6. I am beginning my 9th year as Deputy County Collector of Pemiscot county. I also take care of farming and rental property.”

Aline Davidson (Mrs. A. Hainsfurther), Winchester, Ill.—“I have been married since 1927. We have one son, Albert, now in his first year of high school. I have continued my love of dramatics by acting in home talent plays, and directing short sketches for the Woman's Club.”

Phyllis Schloeser (Mrs. C. B. Cowger), Fredonia, Kan.—“I have taught music and English in various high schools since 1931. I was married in 1936. While my husband is in the service I am teaching music in the high school at Bartlett, Neb.”

Mildred Smith (Mrs. R. C. Riepe), 7112 Oakgrove, Minneapolis, Minn.—“Right now I am following the army. A year ago I started a little dress factory in Kansas City. We manufactured dresses for children and were progressing famously when the war came along, and it was hard to get materials. I hope to start again when the war is over.”

Margaret Louise Smith (Mrs. Elbert S. Harwick) 2321 East Glendale, Milwaukee, Wis.—“I am a home-maker. My husband is the secretary of Carnation Milk Company.”

Nadine Faris, Wolf Island, Mo.—“I teach the rural school in my home community and manage two farms.”

Marian Robb (Mrs. J. K. Roberts), Flossmoor, Ill.—“We have two sons, Joseph, 11, and Robb, 7. I am active in the P.T.A., the league of Women Voters and the local Red Cross.”
