Margaret Barton Wins Lindenwood Fellowship for Graduate Study

Other Prizes and Awards Announced at Commencement on June 9

—New Members for Alpha Sigma Tau and Mu Phi Epsilon

THE Lindenwood Fellowship, awarded for high scholarship, character, personality, extra-curricular activities and the unquestioned ability to do graduate work, goes this year to Miss Margaret Barton, of St. Charles, who received her A. B. degree at commencement on June 9. Miss Barton plans to use it for graduate study in history at the University of Illinois.

Miss Barton was advertising manager of this year's Linden Leaves, and was literary editor of last year's annual. In her senior year she also won first prize in the Christmas story contest. She was a member of the German Club and its president in 1938-39 and 1939-40. She was a member of the International Relations Club, the Athletic Association, Alpha Sigma Tau, Sigma Tau Delta, the League of Women Voters, Pi Gamma Mu, the Encore Club, and the Class Council. She won first prize in the Bible contest in 1938-39.

Other awards and prizes were announced at commencement. They included:

Progress prizes to students not specializing in music who made the most progress in music during the year—Violin, Colleen Combs, El Dorado, Ark.; Voice, Marillyn Appelbaum, Decatur, Ill.; Organ, Claire Branit, Chicago, Ill.; Piano, Patricia Potter, Des Moines, Iowa.

Upper Class Original Composition Prize—Evelyn Wahlgren, Oklahoma City, Okla.; Under Class Original Composition Prize—Janice Martin, University City, Mo.

Poster Prize, awarded in the Art Department by the college—Bette Cobb, Kirkwood, Mo. Honorable mention—Jane Mobley, Amarillo, Texas; Marjorie Vanderlippe, Omaha, Neb.; Charlotte Galm, Indianapolis, Ind.; Marjorie Bluhm, Peoria, Ill.; Patricia Lee, Oklahoma City, Okla.

Introduction to Art Prize, awarded by the St. Louis Afternoon Lindenwood College Club—Jane Mobley. Honorable mention—Charlotte Galm; Nancy Jane Riggs, Des Moines, Iowa; Marjorie Bluhm.

Mary Easton Sibley Art Scholarship, awarded to the freshman majoring in art who has done the best all-around work in the Art Department for the year and who has met the campus requirement of general desirability as a student—Jane Mobley.

Sigma Tau Delta Freshman Medals for outstanding literary contributions—Gold Medal, Doris Pickering, Fort Benning, Ga.; Silver Medal, Jean Holdeman, York, Neb.; Bronze Medal, Lynn Beck, Webster Groves, Mo. Honorable mention, Kathryn Claasen, Cedar Rapids, Iowa, and Rosemary Edminster, Joplin, Mo., tied for first; Marilyn McCurdy, Moline, Ill., second.

Pi Gamma Mu Prize for distinctive work in the social sciences—Peggy Lindsay, Foreman, Ark.

The Dorothy Holtcamp Badgett Freshman Bible Memory Contest—First prize, Dores Johnson, Caldwell, Kansas; second prize, Catherine Compton, Eau Claire, Wis.; third prize, Patricia Echols, Houston, Texas.

Freshman Medal for French, awarded by Beta Pi Theta — Marie Helene Stumberg, Austin, Texas. Previously announced were two national honors awarded by Beta Pi Theta to Martha Weber, of St. Louis, one the annual French national essay contest which carries an award of a summer scholarship at Middlebury College, and the other the fraternity's annual scholarship prize.

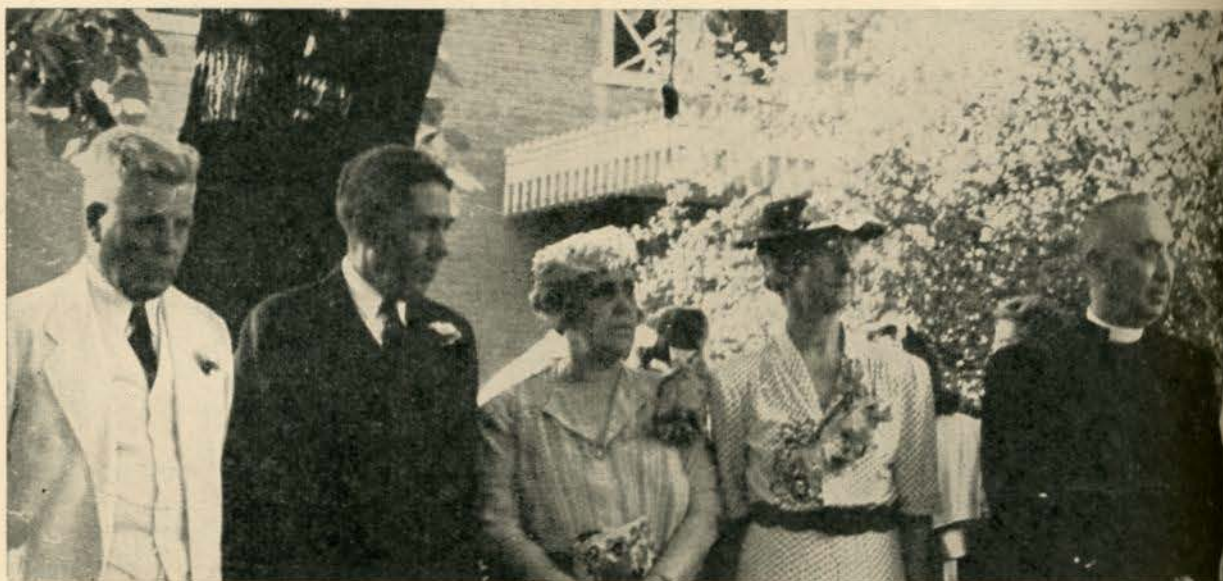

Sigma Iota Scholarship, awarded for outstanding ability as a student and outstanding traits of character—Carol Bindley, Chicago Heights, Ill.

Eta Upsilon Gamma Scholarship, awarded for outstanding ability as a student and outstanding traits of character—Adah Louise Parkinson, Mt. Carmel, Ill.

At the Moderator's Reception at Lindenwood

This picture was taken at the Moderator's reception on the campus during the annual convention of the Presbyterian Church in the United States, which was held in St. Louis in May. From the left are Dr. John W. MacIvor, president of the college's Board of Directors and pastor of the Second Presbyterian Church; Dr. Harry Morehouse Gage, Lindenwood's new president; Mrs. MacIvor; Mrs. Gage, and Dr. Herbert Booth Smith, pastor of the Immanuel Presbyterian Church, of Los Angeles, Calif., who was elected moderator at the opening session of the convention.

Lindenwood Alumna Makes Good on Broadway

If any Lindenwood alumnae happen to be at Whitefield, N. H., this summer and see a leading lady in the summer theater there listed as Ellen Andrews on the program, it will be a Lindenwood alumna who has made good on Broadway. Her classmates will be more apt to recognize her though as Ellen Ann Schachner, who attended Lindenwood in 1934-36.

A recent letter from her tells of her experiences in the theater. She has just finished playing the role of Ellie Mae for eight months in the Broadway company of "Tobacco Road." She has played with Orson Welles in two plays and appeared on several of his Campbell Theater radio programs. She has played several summers in stock, and last fall had a part in a new play on Broadway which, she adds, had only a short life. Since Ellen Ann Schachner is "much too long to go up in lights," she has adopted the stage name of Andrews.

To Lindenwood students who are interested in the theater she writes: "I hope they realize Mary McKenzie Gordon is giving them the best kind of training—as she did me—and that appearing in the plays at Lindenwood is the best possible experience."

Lindenwood Alumna Runs Dress Shop in California

Miss Pauline Martin, who attended Lindenwood in 1923-1925, opened a dress shop last September at 2102½ Las Tunas Avenue, Temple City, Calif. The shop is proving quite successful, and she writes that she is enjoying her business venture very much.

Botany is Fascinating Subject at Lindenwood

Students in Dr. Marion Dawson's Botany Classes Develop "Seeing Eye" on Field Trips and Learn Gardening in College Greenhouse

By Dr. Marion Dawson

DEPARTMENT OF BIOLOGICAL SCIENCE

"HOW do I transplant my philodendron? Shall I use Zoom? Are these geranium cuttings ready for potting? Could I water my fern with a plant food solution? What shall I do with these bulbs that are through blooming?"

These and many other questions are heard each day as busy groups of Lindenwood girls learn as they work in the college greenhouse.

It would be difficult to measure the joy and interest that a year of training in botany gives to a large number of students. Frequent field trips develop a "seeing eye" as well as a thorough knowledge of the growing things everywhere around them. This spring, after the final field exam which covered more than two hundred species of native and cultivated trees, shrubs, and herbaceous plants, several girls were heard to remark with great pride, "Well, I knew one hundred and seventy-five of them. Four months ago I was lucky to identify a maple correctly, much less give the correct species."

Learning the names of plants is only a small part of the training this course affords. Several weeks are given over to an enthusiastic study of the art of Flower Arrangement. A number of exhibits are staged in order that each girl may have the opportunity to plan, order, and finally arrange flowers for breakfasts, luncheons, dinners, and teas. The tables, lovely to the last detail, are enjoyed by the entire student body. This past year, J. Gregory Conway, foremost authority in the art of Flower Arrangement, lectured to the group and was welcomed with high enthusiasm.

The greenhouse, a seventy-five foot unit, is a beehive of activity from September to June. A visit any day will disclose these things: a group learning how to make cuttings and experimenting with the relatively new plant auxins which stimulate root development; another group transplanting, carefully mixing the proper soils, using Zoom, a vitamin B₁ product which checks root shock. Or there is the possibility that you may find a student carefully preparing solutions of plant foods for the plants growing in Hydroponds, or in other special pots adapted for water culture.

During the dreary winter months the greenhouse is a favorite mecca for every Lindenwood girl, for it houses a fine collection of bulbs as well as a large and colorful collection of house plants and annuals. The culture and care of these plants is a part of each student's training.

Botanist

Spring days are devoted to the preparation of annual and perennial borders in the trial plot adjoining the greenhouse. The final and most exciting project concerns the execution of a landscape plan. Each girl measures her home property, draws it to scale, and then prepares a landscape plan involving proper foundation and screen plantings, trees, bulb, annual and perennial borders, a rose garden, an outdoor living room space, a rock garden, or any other landscape feature she may

Dr. Gage Is Honored by Cedar Rapids Rotary Club

Dr. Harry Morehouse Gage, Lindenwood's new president, was presented with a diamond-studded Rotary Club pin by members of the Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Rotary Club, of which he is a past president, on May 26. The presentation was made by W. R. Boyd, a member of the Board of Trustees of Coe College. Citing Dr. Gage's service as president of Coe College and as a citizen in that community, Mr. Boyd said in part:

"Dr. Gage possesses a genius for friendship. He draws men to him in bonds of friendship and esteem as unconsciously as a flower gives its perfume to the air. He is at home in almost all places, and under almost all circumstances. Why? Because he is a genuine lover of his kind. He understands people. He knows their thoughts, their feelings, their reactions. He possesses in large measure a sense without which I cannot understand how men exist—a sense of humor. He can always see the humorous side of things. He has the power to relieve a tense situation by an apt joke, or a story that just fits.

"Perhaps he is never so welcome and so effective as in times of trouble. He can come into a house which death has entered and speak such words of comfort as rob death of its sting. In like manner, he can come to those who have suffered misfortune of various kinds and lift them up and start them on their way again hopefully. He has even softened the shadows of grim prison walls. He has been to this community not only a guide in all things spiritual—he has been a benediction, a healing and an inspiring influence always.

"It may be noted that I have not spoken of Dr. Gage as the great college president, who knows all the notable figures in higher education in America, and who is known and honored by them. Nor have I mentioned his learning, his culture, his eloquence, nor sought to enumerate the academic honors which have come to him. These will be elaborated upon by others on other occasions.

"Dr. Gage, it is beyond my power to describe what you have been to this community. Fortunately it is not necessary that anyone should adequately describe it. The community instinctively feels and knows what you have meant to it since you came to bless it with your presence and with your ministrations, your culture, your learning, your adaptability, your all-embracing friendliness. Long will the memory of you linger. You have been precious beyond words, and as you go away from us physically, but not in spirit, we bid you God-speed and wish for you and yours the fulfillment of every desire of your and their hearts."

Presbyterian Youth Conference Is Held at Lindenwood

Approximately 200 delegates from the Presbyteries of St. Louis, Hannibal, Iron Mountain and Alton attended the Presbyterian Youth Conference at Lindenwood College from June 21 to 28, inclusive. The conference was one of 144 conferences sponsored by the Presbyterian Church this summer and was directed by Rev. Paul L. Stumpf, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Collinsville, Ill.

Miss Ethel B. Cook, bursar of the college, served as conference registrar, and Mrs. Lloyd B. Harmon, wife of Dr. Harmon, was a member of the conference faculty. Classes were held in the mornings, the afternoons were devoted to recreation and there were outdoor vesper services on the campus each night.

choose. These, complete with lists of plant materials and cost, are prized possessions. In many instances the student's family use all or parts of these plans and the girl has the added experience of seeing her ideas put to use.

'Tis true that "science is never dull," but often a student faces a year of such training with some dread and little eager anticipation. She usually completes her course in Botany with quite a different attitude. She has "learned by doing" and the year has been a worthwhile adventure, abounding in interest and useful information.

Ohio Students Plan State Club

The first meeting of what promises to become one of the liveliest state clubs on the campus took place June 2nd, when fourteen student and faculty members of the college gathered for dinner in the Cupboard. The original purpose of the get-together was to give the Ohio people a chance to say "hello" to each other before the year ended; but congeniality and enthusiasm ran high, and the group made plans to organize into a real state club next year.
