Today's Headlines

Water to be Shut Off to Heritage Buildings Monday, Aug. 6

There will be one final shut down of water to the Heritage side of campus on Monday, August 6, 2018. The company installing the new water line needs to shut down the existing line in order to disconnect it from city service and connect the new line – there are four locations this must be done. We are anticipating this will be an all-day shut down with hopes of it being much shorter. Just as in previous cases, Spellmann, Young, and Harmon will have water and working restrooms.

There will be intermittent shut downs of the heritage side water line for about 10 minutes multiple times throughout the day on Friday, August 3. The company will be doing testing to prepare for the Monday all day shut down.

This should be the last time we have to shut off water for this project. Thank you to everyone for your patience as we complete this much-needed improvement to our campus.

Lisa O'Brien Enger Named Lindenwood Vice President for University Relations

Lindenwood University has announced that St. Louisan Lisa O'Brien Enger will be the university's vice president for university relations. The veteran executive will start in the new position on Sept. 1 and will direct the university's marketing, communication, development, and alumni relations efforts.

O'Brien Enger has more than 20 years of senior leadership and management experience, including executive director positions at the Clayton Chamber of Commerce, the Susan G. Komen for the Cure St. Louis affiliate, and the United Soybean Board and, most recently, as chief operating officer for the United Soybean Board. She is active in the community, including as a board member of the Cardinal Glennon Children's Hospital Foundation Guild, and received the St. Louis Business Journal's 40 under 40 Award in 2008.

Lindenwood University System President Michael D. Shonrock, Ph.D., welcomed O'Brien Enger and lauded her extensive experience.

"We're very pleased and happy to welcome Lisa to the Lindenwood family," Shonrock said. "This is a new position in keeping with our strategic plan's focus on branding, marketing, and alumni affinity groups and engagement in the greater St. Louis area."

O'Brien Enger, who has a Master of Arts degree in marketing and a baccalaureate degree in business management, echoed that sentiment.

"I am very excited about this opportunity to work with President Shonrock and the dedicated leadership team that is in place," she said. "It is a great time to be a part of Lindenwood, and I'm looking forward to the collaboration and meeting the challenge of driving 'Real Experience. Real Success.'"

O'Brien Enger and her husband, Tom Enger, live in St. Louis County.

Facilities Launching New Online Work Order System

The Lindenwood University Facilities Department is implementing a new software-based work order reporting system called FAMIS. Employees should report all maintenance and custodial issues to their deans or supervisors, and these requests will be entered into the system by someone in that office.

The Facilities Department will no longer take phone calls or emails to report routine maintenance or custodial items. You will be asked to report the issue to the appropriate office to be entered into FAMIS. Emergencies (a water line break or gas leak for example) should be reported immediately to the maintenance department at 636-949-4922.

Hammond Institute Holds College Credit Course for High School Students

From July 16 – 27, the Hammond Institute's Justice American Style Program held a course on campus called Justice & the Constitution. This two-week college credit class included 12 high school students (8 students from 7 local high schools and 4 homeschool students). One homeschool student had the following to say about the class: "I've really enjoyed your class and I haven't been this excited about doing schoolwork before in my life. This class sparked an interest that I didn't know I had, and that's in criminal justice and law enforcement. I want to take more classes that touch on this topic..."

Justice & the Constitution is a unique course taught by Darren Marhanka, associate professor of Criminal Justice, exploring the United States Constitution and its relationship with our current judicial system. The course examines the Constitution and Bill of Rights from the perspective of the application of those rights in criminal and civil cases. Students discuss the application of the First, Fourth, Fifth, Sixth, Eighth, and Fourteenth Amendments, as they relate to a current criminal or civil case, and the Supreme Court cases that shape current decisions.

To learn more about this class, please visit us online at www.Hammond.Institute, or call Matt Adams, program coordinator, at 636-949-4835.
