PEOPLE, NEWS AND NOTES

LINDENWOOD ONE THOUSAND INVITES FACULTY & STAFF TO BREAKFAST

All Faculty and Staff members (full- and part-time) are cordially invited to attend the Third Annual Faculty/Staff Recognition Breakfast at Lindenwood College on Friday, March 18 from 7:30 a.m.-9 a.m. The meal and entertainment is free to members of the Faculty and Staff. This year's featured speakers are Peter Pitts, director of admissions; Maggie Kracke, director of off-campus centers; Esther Fenning, director of alumni activities; and Dean Eckert, chairman of the art department. Please join us as we celebrate the 160th anniversary and the service anniversaries of many faculty and staff members. If you did not receive an invitation, please pardon the oversight and call extension 383 to RSVP before March 14.

MANSION HOUSE CATCHES YOUR EYE

If you're driving in the downtown St. Louis area, take a cruise past the Lindenwood College Mansion House Center. The college's new educational facilities are located on the east side of Fourth Street between Locust and Pine. Two lighted signs display the new Lindenwood College logo. Maggie Kracke, director of off-campus admissions, and Karen Johnson, a student assistant at the Mansion House site, are working hard to recruit new students from the St. Louis and metro areas. Stop by and see the new facilities or call 997-6622 to arrange for facility use. The college's Mansion House center is available for meetings, conferences, lectures, seminars, etc.

APPLICATIONS FOR ADMISSIONS EXCEED 50% MARK

Day admissions counselors have a lot to smile about. They have just exceeded 50% of their goal in new applications for the day college fall session. Their accomplishments mark a new level of high energy and enthusiasm on behalf of Lindenwood College. "I have to give credit where it's due," said Peter Pitts, director of day admissions. "The admissions staff is working hard to make these goals and I'm proud of their performance on behalf of Lindenwood."

DIRECTORS ADD TWO NEW MEMBERS AND ENDORSE VALUATION INSTITUTE

Harold J. Corbett, senior vice president, environment, safety and health, of Monsanto Company and Richard A. Harris, group president for Southwestern Bell Corporation have been appointed to the Lindenwood College Board of Directors. During the February 16 acceptance of the two new members, the board also endorsed the efforts of the International Valuation Sciences Institute at Lindenwood College. Since 1987 the Institute has raised over $100,000 in donated library resources, funding, and new college tuition in the area of Valuation Sciences.

COLLEGE WELCOMES NEW DEVELOPMENT DIRECTOR

Charles M. "Chuck" Brown has been working in the Development Office as Director for Individual Gifts since February 1. Brown brings a strong fund raising background to Lindenwood with previous experience as director of fund development at DePaul Health Center and as assistant director at The Deaconness Foundation. Brown holds a B.A. in Business Administration and is a resident of St. Charles. His office is in the Memorial Arts Building, Room 108. Brown currently directs the 1988 Alumni Phon-a-thon Campaign for Lindenwood. If you or someone you know would like to earn some extra money for yourself and the college, please call Chuck at extension 386.

INSTITUTE RECEIVES DESIGN AWARD

The International Valuation Sciences Institute recently won an award for "Excellence in Design" for work submitted on behalf of Lindenwood College. The award, presented by the Beckett Paper Company, was sent to Richard Rickert, director of the Institute. Rickert wrote the text, Karlyn Witt, from admissions, helped with the layout and Kris Cordes helped with the layout and printing for the Valuation Sciences award-winning brochure. Congratulations on your accomplishment on behalf of the Institute and Lindenwood College.
