The Learning Academy Presents: Promising Practices for Online Course Design

Why?

It's about impact. You've got high expectations—for yourself and for your students. This presentation will help you maximize your impact on student success.

It's about time. You've got big ideas, multiple interests, and important people in your life. Wouldn't it be wonderful if you also had more time? This presentation will help you to maximize time by working smarter, not harder.

It's about evidence. It depends. The real answer to almost any question. Course design is no exception; there are no absolutes. Far too many generalizations about "best practice" are put forward without regard to the context and purpose of the course. This presentation will introduce evidence-based, cross-disciplinary practices for online course design and delivery.

It's about design. In a world of information overload, simplicity, clarity, and priority have never been more important. This presentation will help you leverage these powers. As da Vinci advised, simplicity is the ultimate sophistication.

It's about leadership. What's the difference between leading a class and teaching a course? This presentation will help you become an increasingly effective leader of student success.

Borrowed Notes to Perform on Quad Friday at Lunchtime

Borrowed Notes, a music group composed of Lindenwood faculty and staff members, will perform from 11:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. Friday, May 11, at the pavilion on the quad. The Lindenwood community is invited to bring their lunches and enjoy the music.

Bass player Rico Delgado, dean of the School of Sciences, said the band has gone by many names over the years and has had "more members than Spinal Tap has had drummers." The group plays an eclectic mixture of old and new songs from many artists and genres: Lady Gaga, Fleetwood Mac, the Beatles, and James Arthur, for example.

"The common theme is that we have fun playing whatever songs we perform," Delgado said.

The group also includes Mike Stein, professor emeritus of sociology, on rhythm guitar; Steven Sherblom, professor of education leadership, on vocals, guitar, drums, and harmonica; Chris Scribner, professor of psychology, on lead guitar; Rachel Blair, administrative assistant in the School of Sciences, on vocals and percussion; and Elaine Ragland, administrative assistant in the School of Humanities, on backup vocals.

Women's Rugby Wins National Championship

Women's rugby defeated Life University 36-8 to claim the USA Rugby D1 Elite 15's National Championship Saturday night at Titan Stadium in Fullerton, California. The title is the first 15's championship for the Lady Lions, but second overall for the program after winning the USA Rugby D1 Collegiate Sevens crown last year. Women's rugby will seek to defend that title May 18-19 at Infinity Park in

Glendale, Colorado. Read more.

Women's Lacrosse Hosts NCAA Midwest Regional

The Lindenwood women's lacrosse team will host the NCAA Division II Midwest Regional this weekend at Hunter Stadium. The first round will take place on Friday when Indianapolis and Regis compete at 5 p.m. The winner will then take on Lindenwood for the regional championship on Saturday at 5 p.m.

Lindenwood enters the national tournament as the No. 1 team in the country. It is the only undefeated team in NCAA Division II with a 19-0 record, and it has won both the RMAC regular season and tournament championships. The Lady Lions defeated Indianapolis by an 11-7 score back in February, and it has two wins over Regis since April 15, including a 19-14 victory last weekend in the RMAC Tournament Championship game.
