

Students From Twenty Campus Stations To Attend Radio Clinic

Region Seven of the Intercollegiate Broadcasting System will hold its annual meeting and production clinic on the campus this week-end. The region is composed of seven midwest states and 20 campus stations. These stations will be represented at the clinic and will bring with them samples of their programming. These programs will be heard and evaluated by commercial radio personnel from St. Louis.

Lindenwood's Radio Department, under the direction of Prof. Martha May Boyer, has planned a full schedule of events for the participants. Registration will be until noon Friday, after which each station will present a 15-minute special feature show for evaluation. In the afternoon taped and transcribed shows will be evaluated. In the evening, each group will present a 15-minute dramatic show, after which there will be a party. Ann Gilbert will be the featured entertainer and Stephen College will present a variety show.

Saturday the group will tour in St. Louis, and possibly KMOX or KSD. At KWK, station personnel will deliver talks on problems in programming and production. Luncheon and the IBS business meeting will be held at St. Louis University. The university has offered its news service for the news staff to edit their news programs. After the news competition everyone will return to campus.

All the IBS national officers have been invited. The colleges invited include: MacMurray.

L.C. At The Ball

Virginia Ratcliff, Barbara Burcham, Carol Romann, Carolyn Smith, and Caroline England attended the ball of His Majesty, the Vieded Prophet of Khorassan, in Kiel Auditorium recently. The L.C. girls had a wonderful time and came home with stories of beautiful gowns and brilliant colors.

Six Lindenwood Seniors Are Selected For Who's Who' In American Colleges

Six L.C. Seniors have been chosen for the 1951-1952 edition of "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities." The girls are: Laurie Ann Bowman, Lois Deisenroth, Caroline England, Virginia Ratcliff, Nancy Anne Starzl, and Eleanor Ruth Trefz.

Laurie Bowman, from Seminole, Oklahoma, is vice president of the Student Council. She organizes all of the social activities of the council. Laurie is now assistant editor of the "Griffin," an active member of Beta Chi, and head of the Young Republicans. She attended the Washington Semester in 1950.

Lois Deisenroth, from St. Charles, is President of the Day Students, and advertising manager of the Linden Leaves. She was awarded a President's Scholarship last year, and is retiring president of Alpha Sigma Tau. She has been active in Phi Alpha Delta, Triangle Club, and the Encore Club.

Caroline England, Festus, Missouri, is active in music circles at Lindenwood, and is a member of Mu Phi Epsilon and Delta Theta. "Carrie" is organization manager for the Linden Leaves, and a member of the Student Council, Alpha Sigma Tau, and Future Teachers of America.

Virginia Ratcliff, of Jasper, Texas, is president of the Student Christian Association. Ginny is a music major, and in addition to her own recital last year, has accompanied the college choir for three years. She has been treasurer of Mu Phi Epsilon, president

Value Of Travel - Main Theme Of Miss Hiller's Talk

By Joan Kirchherr

An English woman's impressions of Lindenwood and of the American scene were given last Thursday at the Annual Founder's Day Convocation by Professor M. Hiller an exchange professor has changed places with Dr. Agnes Sibley of the Lindenwood English Department. Professor Hiller, a fine example of an educated woman, spoke on the subject especially interesting to her audience—that of, "The Education of Women."

Miss Hiller began her talk with the comparison of the United States and Britain as they appear today. The two countries share a common language and a common culture but they cannot know one another as the urgency of the world situation demands. The Englishman's impression of America is gained through the medium of newspapers and movies which glamorize gangsters, and dope addicts, while the American thinks that England is composed of "the fading aristocracy retreating into the corners of old homes."

Professor Hiller went on to say that "travel" is one way in which the two countries would be able to become better acquainted with each other. "Lectures are no good. You've got to travel to see how the ordinary people live." The student will go to Europe to see the cathedrals, visit Shakespeare's home, and because of his ability to get along with anyone—he will talk with the common people. Miss Hiller and Dr. Sibley are more than tourists and outsiders as they are actually looking on the inside at each other's "logic," "behavior," and "ways." Only the tourist thinks that the "ways" are different. Miss Hiller commented upon the "friendliness," "kindness," and "consideration," shown to her at Lindenwood.

She was greatly impressed with her first glimpses of America. She spoke of the American educational system as being "democratic," in that American students rub shoulders with every boy and girl in the community primary schools. This common start in school, and

Mrs. Sibley To Make Annual Halloween Visit

Halloween is coming soon and with it comes Mrs. Sibley's Ghost! You Freshmen haven't had an opportunity to meet her yet, but take it from an old hand, she's a charming little creature. Every Halloween she leaves her place of rest in the old cemetery behind Sibley Hall, and comes floating up the hill to Sibley Chapel. For just a few minutes she reverently plays some of her favorite old tunes at the organ. Then she silently leaves to return to her cold, gray home for the rest of the year. She has stated several times, when the Bark reporters were brave enough to interview her, that she looks forward to these yearly visits. She enjoys seeing the new vogue in dress, since she always has to wear the same old gray.

If you are out strolling Halloween night about midnight and feel something brush by you . . . don't be scared. It's just the founder of your Alma Mater.

Four Corners Of World Meet Here Jackie, Jill, Ingrid, Astrid, Thil

Here at Lindenwood, it could almost be said that the four corners of the world have met, and this year we have five new girls to add to our list of foreign students. They are Jacqueline Meyer from Bordeaux, France; Jill Gingell from London, England; Ingrid Getreu from Styria, Austria; Thil Van der Haagen from Amsterdam, Holland, and Astrid Castro from Ponce, Puerto Rico.

Jackie Meyer, who is now living in Sibley, is a sister to Simone, a student at Lindenwood last year. Jackie is very interested in travel and after she graduated from high school, she spent nearly a year in Spain studying Spanish and traveling all over that country learning the customs of the Spanish people.

Last year Jackie worked for her father in a medical laboratory. Her job of explaining new medicines and drugs to doctors required more travel through France and Austria.

Before Jackie came to St. Charles she spent several days touring New York and she plans on seeing more of this country before returning to France. Jackie is studying English here at Lindenwood.

When I asked Jill Gingell how she liked Lindenwood she said, "That's a silly question—you know how much I like it." Jill is a fun-loving girl and gets a laugh now and then out of some of our little peculiarities but all in all she thinks the American people are all right.

Before coming to L.C., Jill attended a secretarial college in England and worked for the Girl Guides of England. She made a five day trip to America on the Queen Elizabeth, arriving in New York, where she did a lot of sightseeing. Now that she is at Lindenwood, Jill is studying modern languages and history and can also be found quite often down on the hockey field.

Ingrid tells of an interesting trip to the United States—coming on a student boat and visiting several countries on her way. After arriving in the United States, she went to Washington, D. C., where she spent several weeks, participating in an experiment in social living.

Having completed one year in a university in Austria, she is classified as a sophomore this year. In comparing college life, Ingrid noticed that we stress much more social life in our colleges, and the girls pay more attention to their dress, makeup and figures. She was surprised to hear us talk about dates so much because in Austria

Our Heritage

Observance of Founders' Day this year will mark the 125th year in the history of Lindenwood College. Major George Sibley and his wife, Mary Easton Sibley, endowed the school with their lands, their ideals, and their hearts so that the college would have a firm foundation on which to withstand the marks of time.

Lindenwood Female Seminary was founded on the precept that young women should prepare for the future with a strong moral and educational background. Lindenwood has come a long way since its small beginning in a log cabin with only four students. It has carried on through five wars and the intervening peace to what it is today, always keeping in mind the founders' ideals and traditions.

We owe a debt to the Sibleys for their pioneer spirit which gave the college an environment that fosters democratic living, good health, strong character, sound judgement, and high intellectual attainment. The growing complexity of the world situation has given women the chance to take their place beside men as leaders in business, political, educational, and religious circles. We can repay our debt to the Sibleys by becoming accomplished and useful members of society who take an active interest in what is going on around us.

Pick Your Party

Did you ever want to go to the circus very badly? When we were little, we always found that arguments were much more effective if we presented a united front. If all of us explained our reasons for wanting to see Barnum and Bailey's Big Show we usually made our point. When a vote was taken, we won with sheer numbers. Of course, our arguments were particularly convincing to father, because he loves circuses too.

The primary purpose of a political party is to see that people are heard. In a country as large as the United States, an ordinary individual just doesn't have a loud enough voice. Political parties have platforms which tell you what they stand for whether they have conservative or liberal views on the major issues of the day. It's up to you to choose a political party that matches your ideals in order that you may be heard.

Lindenwood is having political conventions for college students of both the major parties this spring, and now is the time to make your choice. Join one of the political clubs on campus and do your part, so that you can have a real voice in the convention.

Remember that it's only with a united group and a large one that we can make an impression. And remember also, that the object of your arguments is much more easily convinced if he partly agrees with you in the beginning, and the only way to be assured that the right people will agree with you is to stand for the right things.

If you attend the convention you may be on the Resolutions Committee, and your job will be to draw up the platform for your party. Even as a delegate you will have a vote with which to give your opinion on every issue. No matter which party you prefer, make the platform a good one. Mudslinging and muckracking should be almost caveman tactics.

Now is that time that America needs some strong ideals expressed in strong and uncompromising terms; now is the time that your country needs you — each and every one of you — to help fight the battle for freedom, and now is the time to begin to plan for our conventions next March.

All Work And No Play

Preparing lessons and going to everyday classes is probably the most important task a student has, but that's not all there is to this college life. Why not leave your books once in a while and join in on the fun? What better way is there to get to know all the girls and to work with them than through extra-curricular activities? We all have our special interests and outside work that we enjoy. At L.C. there are clubs and organizations for every department besides the various honorary groups. No matter what your enjoyments are, you are certain to find some club on campus that meets your demands.

During the first few weeks of school, you new students learned of the activities of each organization. Go ahead and look into some club that interested you and if you have a hobby that wasn't mentioned, maybe you could form a group to start something new. This matter of having extra-curricula activities is important — they will add spark to your college life and you will have fun playing a part in campus functions.

ELSIE SAYS

Elsie was a little put out when she heard that we had to dress up for convocation and to top things off we were to have only one class period off instead of the usual afternoon for Founder's Day. But the convocation made her sit up and take notice and she began to think about all of her student friends, instructors, and the administration and how all of them have been so helpful with her everyday problems. She knows that all of us have been in sort of a rut and have been taking too many things for granted. The talk made her realize how lucky she is to be a student in the U.S. and how our everyday necessities are luxuries to the students of other countries.

OF ALL THINGS

By BARBARA EBELING

Here we are, another issue of Linden Bark and another column of jokes(?). We have heard, many, many jokes, some printable, some not. I shall start out with a little poem about an English theme, taken from the "Spider."

ONE WEDNESDAY MORNING
A good English theme now I must try to write.

It's due Wednesday morning; it's now Tuesday night.

We were told what to write just one week ago,

But I'm always so busy I just let it go.

I'm racking my brains and biting my nails, —

Why must one have all those little details?

I hardly get started when the telephone rings;

That can't be helped; it's just one of those things.

An hour passes by, then to work I return.

To start early next time is something I learn.

My brain is still empty; time continues to pass,

So tomorrow I'll do it, oh, just before class.

If you find yourself following this pattern, it may be wise to remember that "it pays to start early."

The Lord aimed for man to do twice as much listenin' as talkin'. That's why He gave everybody two ears and one mouth.

Now a smile from the Torch: "Women are like newspapers. They have forms, back numbers are not in demand, they always have the last word, they have a great deal of influence, they strive to have a perfect make-up and now and then they are well worth looking over."

A woman can't become President, because when a woman throws her hat into the ring, by the time people recognize what it is, the election is over.

"Whats the last word in airplanes?"
"Jump."

ALL BARK AND NO BITE

by NELL CULVER

Our thanks to Miss Hiller for leaving us with a warm glow Thursday. She's one of the most refreshing speakers we know, and we quite agree with her that travel is the best way to get acquainted with people.

Founders' Day always makes us think about the contrast between the old conceptions of education for women and our modern schedule at Lindenwood. Time was when girls were taught to cook and sew and curtsy and were proudly presented as "finished." I'm sure that there are people today who feel that education doesn't include enough "finishing," but even they must admit that, as far as the course of study is concerned, girls' schools of 1951 are a far cry from those of 1851, and certainly 1827. The modern idea is to educate women equally as well as men, since women have a prominent place in today's business as well as society.

Founders' Day also makes us realize that while the ideas of education have changed radically, the ideals are the same. Mary Easton Sibley founded Lindenwood to educate young women for their place in the world, and President McCluer and the administration and faculty are doing the same thing. Lindenwood should be very proud to have lived up to ideals of her founders, and to have kept its honored place in our changing world.

Finding myself with ten seconds free last night, I manufactured the task of counting the days until Christmas vacation. I found that out of the 99 days between the opening of school and the first vacation, there are 57 left. That means that most of us have been here for 42 days—over a month—professors are giving tests so that they'll have a tentative measurement of their new students—and maybe it's a good time for us all to stop and measure ourselves against the Lindenwood yardstick. How do you stand up beside those ideals you had last summer. Have you really tried to improve your table manners or your speech or your knowledge of biology or interest in current events? Have you followed up that resolution to learn more about other countries by getting acquainted with Jill Gigell or Yu-Chen Li? And how about the League of Women Voters and Encore Club? Weren't you planning to join them? Lastly, what have you learned about living together? You may be perfectly satisfied with your roommate, but is she just as pleased with you? Are you putting forth much effort to get acquainted with that cute little Southerner down the hall—even though she isn't in any of your classes? Are you a desirable character?

When you go home at Christmas time, will you have changed or remained your same old high school self? People don't expect you to be the same person when you come home as you were when you left in September. They want to see "Lindenwood girl" written all over you. Will it be? You can't grow in any way unless you put forth some real effort, so if you want to "grow up," let's see a little work. What have YOU done?

Some wild tales came back from the Young Democrats meeting in St. Louis the other day. It seems that several of the girls were sent in to act as marshals. They were assigned to take care of the microphones that the delegates used when they spoke from the floor. It sounded like a harmless assignment, so our loyal Y. D.s pitched right in, and found that on one side of their aisle there were three very Southern States, while three powerful Northern groups were on the other side. The girls were pretty excited about the situation, because they thought it would make the convention much more interesting. They just didn't know how interesting. Poor Mary K. was almost trampled by angry delegates back in her section, and Vi M. tells me that some of the younger Young Democrats annoyed her the whole time she was there with constant gab. The girls were all impressed with the number of lawyers present, and the amazing number of copies of Roberts' Rules of Order. There was some doubt as to whether the copies of the Rules made the meeting swifter and simpler or not—but whatever their immediate impressions, the L. C. girls decided that political parties are fascinating things—maybe one of them will be President some day!

Thought for the week: Boy Scouts say, "On my honor I will try to do my best"; Southern gentlemen "stand on their honor"; Brutus was an "honorable" man. What does your honor mean to you?

Bark Barometer Of Public Opinion

STUDENTS REVEAL THAT MUSICAL SHOWS RATE FIRST IN LISTENER APPEAL ON KCLC—QUIZ PRGRMS ALSO HIGH ON POPULARITY LIST

The Bark Barometer has taken a poll this time on the programs put on by KCLC. The pollster asked these questions of the student body:

1. What type of radio programs do you like best?
2. What is your favorite show on KCLC?

3. What hours do you do most of your listening?

For the first question, we find a great majority of the students like the musical shows, including the light music as well as jazz and dixieland. Also many of the girls like the quiz and poetry shows.

In answer to the second question, we find that many of the girls like the talent and quiz shows that are produced by KCLC. Also "Show Time," "On & Off," "Pick Platter," "Party Line," and the disc jockey shows are great favorites.

Such hours as 7-9, 10-11, and late hours are favorites with the girls as listening times. Also Saturday night seems to be quite popular. A few of the girls like to listen constantly or at varied times.

He asked me: "When?" — I could not tell.

He queried: "Who?"

Again I fell.

He named a man

To me a stranger.

And I could see

Myself in danger.

What was this plight—this mystery?

Oh! Just my course in history.

TRANSMISSION TROUBLE PLAGUES KCLC—
NEW TALENT LINED UP FOR SEASON WHEN STATION RETURNS TO THE AIR

Have you ever heard of a voiceless radio station? Well, that is what goes on down at KCLC. Ever since the beginning of the school year we have been trying to go on the air—but with no success. It's not that we haven't tried either, because we really are doing our level best. All we seem to have is equipment trouble and more equipment trouble. First it was the console and now it is the wiring. We really do hope to get it fixed soon and when we do we'll really celebrate. Anyway, please bear with us.

Even though we haven't been broadcasting so that you could hear us, we have been broadcasting. All last week we carried on with our regular programming. It proved to be a good practice for everyone, at least. We have some new talent on our station this year. Doris Beaumar, Deane Keeton, Sally Snelling, Carolyn Cole, Carol McGaughey, Annie Lou Cowan, Maureen Guggisberg, Dorothy Boutin, Barbara Shuttleworth, and Molly Peterson are the freshmen who have platter shows, both popular and classical. There will be more shows assigned later on.

A young gal applying for a position answered the interviewer: "Certainly I can take shorthand, only that way usually takes me longer."

—Reader's Digest

Everyone has heard about the new quiz show, "Ply'ke and Win," so let's see you all down here on Monday nights. It's an easy way to win yourself a hamburger or a malt. The new sponsor for this show is Gillens.

The regional meeting of the Intercollegiate Broadcasting System is being held this week-end. It will be a production clinic and will be valuable for anyone who is interested in radio to attend. We would like to see Lindenwood well represented this year, so do come down. It starts Friday and if you have classes, you certainly can come Saturday. Let me urge you again to turn out in full force. You can read the program elsewhere in the paper.

We still would like to see all the workshop girls on Monday nights. We are going to start rehearsing some dramatic shows and do some other mike work. Remember the shows are assigned through the workshop.

I hesitate to say this in the light of present conditions . . . but when we really get started . . . "Remember for good listening, it's not CBS . . . but IBS"

Dr. Conover To Sponsor Alpha Sigma Tau

Alpha Sigma Tau, honor society for the highest ranking Juniors and Seniors, has announced a new faculty sponsor. Dr. C. E. Conover has succeeded Miss Kathryn Hankins.

The new officers are: president, Barbara Sutton; vice-president, Kathryn Lewellen, and secretary-treasurer, Beverly Stukenbroker.

The society will continue to provide a scholarship for a student at the School of the Ozarks. To raise funds for this activity, the club will again sponsor a White Elephant Sale in the spring. All you gals who want to know what the future holds for you plan to attend for Dr. Parker is usually there to tell fortunes. Of course it is understood that a small fee will be charged.

Madem Begun Aga Khan Raza, of Pakistant, who addressed a student convocation last night.

Pakistan Leader Tells Of Problems In Her Country

"Pakistan is one nation that does not want handouts from America," Begun Aga Khan Raza told a student convocation last night in Roemer Auditorium.

Madam Raza is located now in Washington where her husband, Brigadier General N. A. K. Raza, is Military Attache at the Embassy. Of Persian descent, Madam Raza was evacuated from Singapore at the time of the Japanese invasion. A leading figure in all the Pakistan Women's Association, she has traveled widely and is making her first speaking tour of this kind.

After graduating from college, Madam Raza taught in a Christian missionary school and later worked in the press department of the Ministry of Information at Singapore. Due to her understanding of the complicated political situation in her country, she is able to give a clear picture of the situation.

"We have a large number of economic problems that require almost immediate attention, but we feel that for the good of our country, these must be worked out and solved without recourse to foreign lands," she said.

"From the very beginning of our new nation, we have tried to hold ourselves to a three-point

'The Whirlwind Passeth' To Be Given Again

"The Whirlwind Passeth," a three-act comedy, will be presented in Roemer Auditorium on October 31. The play was written last year by Helen Marie Parks, and was directed by Dott Hall, both of the class of '51. The cast will include Sue Elliott as Mrs. Maud Buffin, Cynthia Ricklin as Mrs. Esther Cates, Mary Kay Pinckney as Mrs. Elaine Black, Sharon Lee Brown as Mrs. Timmons, Sara Sahli as Mrs. Martha Potter, Joy Hellwig Hausman as Mrs. Mary Palmer, Patty Peterson as Winifred Palmer, and Douglas Hume as Preacher Palmer. With the exceptions of Sue Elliott, Joy Hausman, and Patty Peterson, the cast is the same as it was last spring, at its first presentation. Arleen Becker will again be stage manager and Connie Gorden is property manager. Lindenwood is honored in having Dott Hall here to direct the play again, for she has just spent a summer in stock in Massachusetts, and is an experienced actress as well as an excellent and exacting director. Students will remember Dott particularly for her portrayal of Elvina in "Blithe Spirit."

After five weeks of rehearsal the cast will present "The Whirlwind Passeth" here on Wednesday and at the St. Louis Community Playhouse on Friday, Nov. 2. The presentation at Lindenwood will not only be a practice session, but will give those who didn't see the play last spring an opportunity to do so. Upperclassmen will remember that the play is well-written and the characterizations excellent.

policy: To establish a democratic state; to benefit workers and tillers of the soil by evolutionary reforms; and to modernize agriculture and establish home industries.

"Our economic plan at present is working under great handicaps. Although we have remained more than self-sufficient in food, our most pressing problem is the Indian boycott, harmful both to India and to ourselves. It is hoped that this will soon be lifted and our industries can find new national and international markets for their expansion. Once this has been accomplished, our national economy is well on its way to becoming stabilized. In the meantime, we will continue doing as well as we can without seeking loans from other countries."

Miss Barbara Sutton, a senior, left September 28 for New York by T.W.A. from the St. Louis Airport, to visit her brother, Ralph Sutton. Barbara was accompanied by Hal Curtis, to whom she is pinned. They arrived in New York at 4:30 a.m. Saturday morning, but Barb was wide awake. It was her first plane ride. Barbara and Hal were met by Hal's parents, with whom she stayed for a short time.

Barbara had her first real job while she was in New York. She played at Eddie Condon's in Greenwich Village. Other members of the orchestra were Bill Davidson, trumpet; Edmund Hall, clarinet; Cutty Cutshall, trombone; Bob Casey, formerly of St. Louis, bass; and Buzzy Drooten, drums. She also played at Central Plaza with George Brunis, trombone; Henry "Red" Allen, trumpet; Tyree Glenn, trombone; and Morey Feld, drums. As a sideline performance, Barbara played at a private party at the National Arts Club on Gramercy Square. Just by looking at Barbara's face, you could tell that she was thrilled by the opportunities.

Ralph is Barbara's well-known brother of Dixieland Jazz. Looks like Barbara will be following in his footsteps.

After an exciting, but sleepless, week, Barbara left La Guardia Field on Sunday, October 7.

The Campus Hall Of Fame

This week we nominate Ruth (Terry) Beutler for the Campus Hall of Fame. Most of us see Terry dashing from Sibley to Butler to the hockey field and back. As you can guess she is active and is a P.E. major. Terry may be seen in action in many of the games against other schools.

As president of the Athletic Association, she is kept busy chasing after prospective members and keeping her eye on the practice hours of those who have been caught.

Besides being active in A. A., Terry is also student president of Sibley Hall. Ask any girl from Sibley and she will tell you that Terry's the best. Congratulations, Ruth, on the fine job you are doing.

The Linden Bark is proud to add Terry to its Campus Hall of Fame.

Practice Teachers Welcomed At St. Charles High

Several Lindenwood girls are already teaching in the various departments at the St. Charles High School. Charline Armstrong is in the typing section, Ruth Beutler and Joyce Fleet are in physical education, and Marilyn Fawley in home economics. Carrie England, Barbara Burcham, Barbara Sutton, Beverly Stukenbroeker, Carol Romann, and Kathleen Hartzog are teaching vocal music. Mr. Van Bibber is in charge of the practice teaching program, in which the St. Charles schools cooperate to the fullest extent.

There's A Celebrity In Our Midst Ann Gilbert -- Horace Heidt Fame

Ann Gilbert was known to the Lindenwood students long before she came to the campus as she had been seen and heard over television and had traveled with Horace Heidt's famous radio orchestra. The daughter of T. V. Gilbert of Memphis, Tennessee, she began her career in radio when she was nine and joined the chorus of the Memphis Summer Opera at the age of twelve.

She has had leading roles in "H. M. S. Pinafore," "Mikado," and the character part in "Martha," all presented by the Memphis Summer Opera Company. Ann would have co-starred with Thomas Hayward and Marguerite Piazza in Cole Porter week in Memphis but the two stars were unable to leave Hollywood in time for the celebration.

Ann appeared with Horace Heidt on N.B.C. and C.B.S. during the last three years. She started in competition against Ralph Sigwald and came out second. She also appeared with Dick Contino on the Horace Heidt show.

Ann Gilbert has come a long way since she started in radio with two years of TV work and her own thirty minute radio program in Memphis, Tennessee. Ann had an audition with Rogers and Hammerstein coming up but decided to wait until she had completed her year of study at Lindenwood.

Carnival Theme For S.C. Dance

The Student Council sponsored a formal dance last Saturday night in Butler Gym. The theme of the decorations was a carousel and all the trimmings. Everyone enjoyed the music of George Johnson and his orchestra.

The next formal dance coming up will be the Harvest Ball. Everyone be sure and attend as it is one of the finest dances of the year.

Water Break Causes Panic In Ayres Hall

Last Friday night the flood struck St. Charles again, only this time it happened in Ayres Hall. About 2 o'clock in the morning a water main broke on second floor, causing a torrential downpour. It broke in the ceiling above Sue Hughes' closet and did a fine job on dampening her clothes. Astrid Castro, who has the room on first floor below Sue, woke up just in time to prevent her clothes from being ruined also.

Plumbers were immediately called and sometime the next day the damage was repaired. Nevertheless the whole episode created a panic for a while.

S.C.A. Calendar

Approximately 75 girls attended the first SCA "Pow-Wow" in the Library Club Room on October 9. Mrs. Anita Croft led the discussion, which centered around "Dating and Marriage."

On October 14, a number of Lindenwood students were guests at Second Presbyterian Church in St. Louis. A tour of the church was made and the 11 a.m. service was attended. After church the girls were invited to dinner in the homes of members of the congregation.

The first meeting of the Freshman Fellowship was Tuesday night, October 16. Each group met in the home of a faculty member. The subjects discussed were: "Predestination," "Christianity on the Campus," "Christianity vs. Communism," "Marriage" and the Markham projects.

On October 17, twenty-five girls went to the County Home to sing. The songs were led by Mrs. Barker and were accompanied by Virginia Radcliff. Because of the enthusiasm shown by the student body (only 1/4 of the ones that signed the list could go), monthly trips are being planned for the rest of the year.

The Halloween Party at Markham Memorial is approaching, Saturday, October 27. All those girls who are interested in helping to give the children a gala party sign the papers which will be in the dorms. Nell Culver is the chairman of Markham projects, Carolyn Smith is in charge of refreshments, Joyce Fleet and Ruth Beutler will supervise the games.

Miss Mary F. Lichliter, Dr. Sigmund A. E. Betz, and Mr. Douglas Hume are donating three prayer pillows to the Prayer Room.

Art Students Teach At Center

Four Lindenwood students have been teaching art to children at the Peoples Art Center in St. Louis. The girls, Dorothy Neblett, Thil van der Haagen, Betsy Severson and Charlotte Seehorn, teach from ten to twelve on Saturday morning. Officially known as assistants, the girls teach painting, sculpture, ceramics, crafts, and metals to children from 4 to 15.

The girls are amazed at the ability of the youngsters, and amused at their choice of subjects. Most of the paintings are taken directly from comic books and television shows, but sometimes the originality, particularly of the younger children, is amazing. Only one little boy was troubled the other day when his class was working with clay. "I can't make anything but worms!" he complained tearfully to his teacher. "Well," she said, "go head, then." So for two hours the would-be artists sat happily and rolled clay between his palms for worms.

Thil feels that her experiences at the Center are valuable because she is trying to learn as much about American teaching methods as possible, and all the girls agree that not only is it fun to watch the children but it is wonderful training for them. In January Betsy plans to start a new class in puppetry for the children.

The four girls have doubly enjoyed their teaching experiences because they have made several visits to the St. Louis Art Museum on Saturday afternoons.

The Linden Leaves Are Whispering

By Jane Amsden

We've been hearing a lot lately about all the different clubs on campus but there's one that really has me puzzled. Jackie Cheney if you don't mind me asking, who in the world are the "Frustrated Frog Hunters"? Also seems the "Cow-Cow Club" has gained quite a few members this year.

Overheard an interesting bit of conversation in the Tea hole the other night. One freshman was asking another about "What the Irwin girls just don't do". Her answer? "Well, the Ayres girls do what the Irwin girls don't do but not quite so much as the Sibley girls do it."

Gossip about men? Of course! Have you heard the latest—Jennie Witsell is now pinned. Congratulations, Jennie.

Seems that Jackie Owens was pretty excited about someone coming up for the weekend—could it have been H. K.

Don't know where these freshmen are getting all their dates but have you noticed all the men around Ayres of late.

I hope this won't embarrass anyone but I thought I better let you know. In case you see Miss V. K. driving around with a pair of shoes on top of her car, think nothing of it—she does it all the time.

Hear that Anita Marshall from Butler Hall is still enjoying the weather in exotic Arizona.

It was a sad, sad day on third Sibley when poor Dwight jumped out of his fish bowl and was found dead on the floor. Carol Dearing hasn't been the same since.

Haven't got much gossip from Nicolls this year. Seems to be pretty dead over there. They must be working for the scholarship cup. Haven't heard a sound out of the place all year (except music majors).

As a matter of fact I don't have much more gossip from any dorm this week. But I guess where there's life there's hope.

SMILE!

Just thirteen muscles make a smile
That comforts, heartens, cheers,
While sixty-five may make a frown
That brings a flow of tears;
So why not smile more frequently
When easy, quite, to do,
And by so doing you will find
More folks will smile at you.

Sue Hughes Wins KCLC Talent Show

Sue Hughes, a freshman from Ayres Hall, was the first winner of the talent show sponsored by KCLC. She sang "Dark Is the Night."

Other contestants were: Sue Foley, Beryl Gouy, Vi Moscoff, and Cara Jean McClelland. There will be three more contests after which the winners will compete against each other in the finals. The final winner will be given a 15-minute show over the station.

If you are interested in competing, contact your talent scout. They are: Paula Moore, Irwin; Connie Gordon, Cobbs; Ann Frazier, Sibley; and Prissy Lord, Ayres.

VALUE OF TRAVEL

democratic leadership in organizations, leads the student to love the company of their fellow man. The ambitious scope of the American educational program enables almost everyone with any degree of intelligence to obtain an education, whereas, in England the schools are much older and harder to change than the comparatively new schools in the United States. England has a handicap in its lack of funds to support educational institutions so it has to train its youth to become what best suits the country's needs.

The strong regionalism and local patriotism of the American was another of Miss Hiller's tentative impressions of the United States. The loyalty to small communities—"my state is the best" is like that of the Englishman's county being termed the "Garden of Eden." Miss Hiller also commented upon the beauty of the American countryside and was surprised to find that the small towns were so beautiful. The Missouri countryside is so like that of the English.

The power of American economy as expressed in the cities is overwhelming to the visitor and Miss Hiller is afraid that with so much wealth and power the individual may lose his importance to the society as a whole. "The United States and England must become vigilant and not let man lose his individuality. As compared to the skyscraper, man is much more complex and valuable."

The differences between the two countries that Professor Hiller found are merely superficial and the likenesses are "deeply profound," and "abiding." We have the same values and the same language but we have so much to learn: "straight thinking, love of our fellow men, and the power of the spirit."

Following the convocation, there was a guest luncheon for the alumnae and faculty with the students in Ayres Dining Room. Presentation of a gift to the college was given by Miss Janet Stine immediately after the luncheon. The traditional pilgrimage was made of Delta Theta, treasurer of Future Teachers of America, and a member of the Judiciary Board.

Nancy Starzl, from LeMars, Iowa, is known to all as Counselor for this year's Freshman Class. She has been active in the Student Council during her years at Lindenwood, and is a former president of the Poetry Society.

Eleanor Ruth Trefz, president of the Student Council, comes from Pueblo, Colorado. Known as "Butze" in campus society, she has always taken an active part in Student Council activities as well as those of the Young Republicans and the International Relations Club. Butze attended Washington Semester in 1950, and was awarded a President's Scholarship last year.

"Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities" is published annually, and contains students from all leading American colleges and universities. Students are carefully chosen on the basis of character, leadership, scholarship, and potentiality for future success and usefulness to business and society.

Biology Dept. To Pere Marquette

Students of the advanced biology courses made a field trip to Pere Marquette last Saturday, Dr. Marian Dawson, Dr. Walter J. Grundhauser, and Dr. Mary Talbot took care to provide transportation for the group.

FOUR CORNERS OF WORLD

the girls don't tell everything they do on their dates.

Students in Austria study the year around; it would be impossible to vacation in the summer or have a part-time job while going to school. In their big universities the students just attend large classes and spend all their outside time doing their work. Ingrid especially noticed the close connection between students and between the students and teachers which they don't have in Austrian universities.

Thil came from Holland on a student boat with more than 1000 exchange students. When asked to tell what particular thing she first noticed, she said she was surprised to see how green and fertile the land was. To her, New York was a cubistic picture. She took a sightseeing tour through the city and, since Thil is interested in art, she spent a good deal of time in the Museum of Modern Art there.

Since her country is so small, Thil was astounded to see how far apart our cities were. In Holland, she said, one could take a bicycle wherever he wanted to go and people use bicycles more than cars.

To Thil, Lindenwood is her "dream school" and she has noticed and liked the close interest and friendship of American students.

Astrid Castro, who lives in Ayres, hails from Ponce, Puerto Rico. She flew from San Horn to Miami, where she visited for three days and then she went to Washington, D. C., before coming to Missouri. We live much the same way in the United States as her people, but she has noticed a great difference between the girls in the fact that American girls have much more freedom. She said the girls in her home were brought up in an old-fashioned and very strict manner. Girls her age were not allowed to date alone. She noticed, however, the more friendly attitude of girls here and says that is the thing she likes most about Lindenwood.

Lindenwood welcomes you girls to our country and to the College and hopes that you will enjoy your stay here.

The prospective AA members have been busy on the hockey field, the tennis courts, and in the pool putting in their practice hours. Last week they took their tests. The informal initiation will be given October 24 and the formal initiation on October 31.

Intramurals are now underway. In the tennis singles, Ruth Beutler brought Sibley through with a first place; Cobbs was second with Marlene Czarlinsky playing, and Butler placed third with Bonnie Holt.

In the tennis doubles, Bonnie Holt and Max Davis played for Butler, Carolyn Nielson and Pat McDonald for Sibley, Rue Campbell and Chigger White for Irwin, Audrey Dietrich and Jean Thiery for Cobbs, and Doris Beaumar and Margery Null for Ayres. Butler, Sibley and Irwin won first, second and third places respectively.

The Day students won the archery contest as Carol Wolter came through with 406 points. Barbara Reed won a second place for Cobbs with a score of 293 and Pansyetta Glaser collected 236 to put Ayres in the third spot.
