Four Juniors Take Off By Plane To Spend Semester In The Nation's Capital

Four Juniors are attending the Washington semester this fall. The girls are: Sharlene Agerter, West Concord, Minn.; Laurie Bowman, Seminole, Okla.; Eleanor Trefz, Beatrice, Neb., and Joan Kirchherr, from Warsaw, Ill.

Sharlene, who was a member of the Linden Bark staff last year, will be its Washington correspondent. She will send dispatches for each issue from the nation's capital for the following four months.

Girls who attend the Washington semester study government in action. This is done in two courses, a general over-all study, and detailed work in one certain phase of government. Other than these two courses the girls may also take regular college courses similar to those offered at Lindenwood.

In addition to their academic work the girls have a wonderful time, if their stories turn out to be the same as those told by the Washington semester students of last year.

September 19 our adventuresses boarded a plane to take them to the capital city. They will return to the campus in January.

'South Pacific' Heads Hit Lis. Of Theater-Goers

"Some enchanted evening" within the last few days about 125 girls boarded a bus for Kiel Auditorium to see "South Pacific." Janet Blair and Richard Eastman play the leads in Rogers and Hammerstein's famous musical.

If you happen to be walking around campus and hear girls humming "Younger Than Springtime," "I'm Gonna Wash That Man Right Out of my Hair," or any of the other tunes from "South Pacific" you know they were among the fortunate ones who were able to get tickets.

L. C. Girls Tell Tall Tales Of Vacation Rambles And Romance

Now that summer vacation is officially over and we have one week of school behind us, we still enjoy talking about "the things we did last summer." Emily Terry took in the West Coast. She represented Lindenwood at the national Mu Phi Epsilon convention in Seattle, Wash. From there she went to California to spend the rest of the summer. Short trips from there led her up into Victoria, Canada, and down into Tijuana, Mexico. Emily's home is in El Dorado, Ark.

Liz Bates, a Senior this fall at Lindenwood, worked as a recreational leader at Miller Park in Omaha, Neb. Liz was in charge of music, all sports, and organized games.

Marilee and Nancy Darnall of Illiopolis, Ill., spent part of their

The Campus Hall of Fame

Our first candidate for the Hall of Fame in 1950-1951 is Betty Jack Littleton, president of the Student Body of Lindenwood. Betty Jack or "Beegee" is from Miami, Okla., and is a Senior, majoring in English. She was secretary-treasurer of the Student Body in 49-50, and is a member of the Poetry Society, Sigma Tau Delta, Alpha Sigma Tau, and Pi Gamma Mu. Last year she was given the award for doing the most outstanding work in the English Department.

Beegee is always ready with a helping hand and a great big smile. That's why we know she'll have a successful year in office. Welcome to the Hall of Fame, Beegee.

Ten Freshmen Chosen For Temporary Council

Girls chosen for the temporary Freshman Council are: Rhea Kahre, Peru, Ind.; Jean Lawson, Shawnee, Okla.; Marie Taylor, Murfreesboro, Tenn.; Arleen Beck-

House Staffs Chosen Recently

Dormitory elections were held in all the halls on campus except Niccolls last week. The Niccolls election will take place late in October.

In Butler Rose Marie Murfey, Chicago, is president; Lorraine Klockenbrink, student council representative, and Glenna Kiner, judiciary board representative.

From Sibley Hall, Mel Bemis of Cornell, Ill., was elected president; Estelle Swanson was selected for the student council, and Joyce Fleet was named on the judiciary board.

In Cobbs Hall Pat Sowle from Jonesboro, Ark., was named president; Patsy Fields, student council representative, and Emily Terry, judiciary board member.

The Irwin Hall president is Jayne Collins from Tillar, Ark.; student council representative is Caroline England, and judiciary board member is Virginia Ratcliff.

Six Members Of Class of 1950 Doing Graduate Work

Six members of the Class of 1950 are doing graduate work this fall. Miss Dorothy Walker of Grand Island, Nebr., is studying art at the University of Iowa. Miss Mary Ann Smith, of Bonne Terre, Mo., will do her graduate study at Duke University. Her major will be English. Miss Patricia Lee Schilb will attend St. Louis University during the first semester and Northwestern University during the second semester for graduate work in biology. Miss Walker, Miss Smith, and Miss Schilb were awarded Lindenwood fellowships.

Three other members of the class have entered graduate schools this fall. Miss Sally Joy, Wawatosa, Wis., has received a graduate assistantship at the University of Illinois. Sally will work for a master's degree in radio and communications in the University's new School of Mass Communications. Miss Dorothy Quail, of Port Huron, Mich., will major in social work at Washington University in St. Louis. Miss Elizabeth Wetzel, of Springfield, Mo., has a dietetic internship at the Fort Hospital in Detroit, Mich.

Campus Gets Its Annual Face Lifting

Buildings and rooms which are used by hundreds of girls nine months a year need repair now and then. All the rooms in the dormitories on the campus are redecorated every summer. Last summer there were some other improvements.

The first and the third floor in Niccolls' Hall have new asphalt-tile floors and the bathrooms in the hall have been repaired and have new floors. Three of the smokestacks are painted and the water-tank is repaired.

The greatest change is in the Home Economics' food-laboratory, which is refurnished and redecorated. New equipment has been installed. There is a new fence in front of Cobbs Hall, and the rooms in Ayres Hall are not being used this year.

Patricia Underwood Heads Seniors And Joy Hellwig Elected President Of Juniors

Senior President

Miss Patricia Underwood, who has been elected president of the Senior Class.

Percy Faith Draws Overflow Crowd To KCLC Broadcast

One of the biggest events of orientation week was Percy Faith's visit to the campus radio station. Studio A had an overflow crowd of autograph seekers and music lovers.

The broadcast included a personal interview about Faith's life and his music. He reminisced about how he got his start and the long hard pull to the top position he now occupies.

Mixed in with the interview were several of his best sellers and one new release that had never before been heard over any radio station.

Anyone who has met him will tell you that he is one of the shyest and most pleasant celebrities that live in this egocentric world of ours.

Mary Banta Is Chosen By The Sophomores

Patricia Underwood of Knox, Pa., is the president of the Senior Class. Pat will have a busy year as an active member of Alpha Sigma Tau, Poetry Society, and Sigma Tau Delta. In addition, Pat is working on a double honors program.

Other Senior officers are: Marilee Darnall, Illiopolis, Ill., vice president; Carolyn Furnish, Kansas City Mo., secretary; Helen Parks, Hornersville Mo., treasurer.

Joy Hellwig from Chesterfield, Mo., is the new president of the Junior Class. Joy is also publicity chairman for AA and a member of the SCA cabinet. We'll be seeing her in many of the plays this year, too.

Ruth Beutler, Hinsdale, Ill., is Junior vice president; Joyce Fleet, Houston, Texas, secretary, and Barbara Burcham, Doniphan, Mo., treasurer.

The Sophomores chose Mary Beth Banta for president. Beth was last year's vice president of the Freshman Class. Beth is a member of Alpha Lambda Delta and Terrapin. She's another Missouri girl from Arcadia.

Sophomore vice president is Nada Roberson from Mexico, Mo. Mary Louise Cook from Camden, Ark., is secretary, and Mary Lou Stubbs, St. Joseph, Mo., was elected treasurer.

Class representatives for Student Council are Rose Marie Murfey from the Senior Class; Nancy Starzl, Junior representative; and Pat Thomas from the Sophomores.

The Freshman elections will not be held for another two weeks.

Drs. Roberts, Dawson, Parker Jaunt To England, Scandinavian Countries

By Birgit Johanson
Dean Eunice C. Roberts, Dr. Alice Parker and Dr. Elizabeth Dawson went to Europe this summer in a group of 12 students and teachers. The main points of interest were the Scandinavian countries and the Congress of the International Federation of University Women.

Our three teachers left the United States July 10 by plane. Their first stop was in London for one week. They made a tour to Oxford and saw the university and some of the colleges.

From Newcastle they went to Bergen in Norway by boat. They spent about a week in each of the Scandinavian countries. They were strongly impressed by the cleanliness, tidiness, and beauty of the Scandinavian towns. They noticed the absence of slums in these towns and noted little distinction between rich and poor people.

The Norwegian landscape was distinctive for its hills and mountains.

Several days were spent in some very small and charming villages. The Missourians felt a little at home there because the Norwegian farms were similar to those in Missouri, the only difference being that in Norway even the steep hills were carefully used for farming.

The trip continued from Oslo to Stockholm, Sweden, the most beautiful of the three capitals, situated partly on islands with water between them. Another town in Sweden, Linkoping, was visited, and one of the most modern factories in the country, a chocolate factory, was toured by the travelers. Dr. Roberts, Dr. Parker, and Dr. Dawson noted the comfortable and well-furnished dormitories for the workers.

The third and last stop in Scandinavia was in Copenhagen. While there Dean Roberts, Dr. Dawson and Dr. Parker visited in Marianne Mohl's home. Marianne was one of the foreign students at Linden-

From The Office Of The President

It has been pleasant to greet the Lindenwood students at the opening of the new college year. Your friendly, buoyant spirit has contributed much to the happiness of these opening days and to the ease with which we have all moved into our work. The enthusiasm and seriousness with which you have undertaken your tasks give us all earnest hopes of a year of meaningful achievement. May the year be a happy, strengthening, and memorable one for each one of you!

City Of 1001 Sights

There's a metropolis just twenty miles yonder that has the latest in fashions, the oldest in culture, the biggest botanical garden and the smallest monkeys. If you feel as though you were being choked by these ivy-covered walls, plan an expedition into St. Louis—it's the surest cure for stagnation.

The "city" is planned so that you can find a day's entertainment in a localized spot. Take Forest Park . . . in a fairly small area you will find the world-famous zoo where you could spend an entire week if you looked at each Mongolian baboon and threw pennies at every alligator: the Art Museum is a store of culture as well as interest. And if you've never seen all the orchids that you'd like to see, take a well-beaten path from the zoo to the Jewel Box where you will find displays of rare and elegant flowers. For all Lindbergh admirers there is a museum of Lindbergh trophies on the outskirts of the park. On your way out of the park stop for dinner at Garavelli's Italian restaurant.

St. Louis boasts of an extensive shopping district . . . and about two blocks beyond the towering stores there's a river bank upon which the remains of the old French settlement that once was St. Louis stand. You will see the old Court House, scene of the famous Dred Scott Trial. The Rock House, which was once a fur trading post and river inn, dates back to the days of the Indians. For a look at real rustic beauty, go through the Old Cathedral. These are only two of the possible ten full days of sightseeing, but will you ever get there? I'd say offhand that our best bet is to begin campaigning right now for a series of trips into St. Louis, say once every two months, on chartered buses which will take us and fetch us so we won't have to worry about being lost in the shuffle of the big city.

We Do Bake A Cake!

To all the Freshmen . . . welcome to Lindenwood and to the rest of you, welcome back. Another year is now under way. Schedules are arranged and social activities have begun. Let's make this one of the best years Lindenwood has ever known! This can be accomplished by all of us working together. Everyone wants to make it a year of fun, but it must also be a year of work. We have standards to uphold and new goals to work toward. We need to always be on the job with willingness to help others and a spirit of co-operation.

That feeling of homesickness has now been conquered. We are all settling down to new work and experiences for another year. By following the patterns set for us and the faith placed in us, this will be truly the happiest year we have known.

Bigger And Better - We Hope!

With the publishing of the first issue of the Linden Bark for this school year, the staff eagerly awaits your approval. We hope to carry on in the steps of the former staffs and to keep the high standards they have set. With the co-operation of the staff and you the reader we should have a paper full of news and fun.

Many of the old favorites will appear again this year such as, "All Bark-No Bite," "Hall of Fame," "Bark Barometer" and the "Linden Leaves are Whispering." There will also be added new and interesting features. One of our aims is to represent the students, and we are open to suggestions from you. If you have any, just drop a note in Box 498.

Just a word more, don't forget to read our advertisements and patronize our advertisers whenever possible.

Schmoo's Schmoothies

Susie Schmoo says "howdy" to all the new students (and old ones too.) Get prepared for another exciting year at Lindenwood. We are all looking forward to a prosperous year with a lot of fun and folly. Don't be a wallflower, get out and exercise those muscles on the golf course (between showers that is), or go for a dip in Butler pool. One bit of healthful advice from one who knows, go to the Post Office each morning and noon expecting nothing and you are guaranteed not to be disappointed. Get into the swing of things and you will find yourself smiling from dawn till sunset. Here's to a happy, healthy year at Lindenwood.

OF ALL THINGS

By Kathryn Shaddock

Greetings, gals! Here we are back again this year to spin a few more quips, jokes, and what-have-you. Remember, these jokes have to be clean, so if you don't like them, just blame yourselves.

Just to help get back into the swing of things, did you hear what the two KCLC announcers talked about? One of them said, "Do you know why radio announcers have such small hands?" The other one very obligingly said, "No, why?" "Wee Paws for station identification."

A civilian who is not of our motley array of campus characters asked one of the students what she was before she became a student. She answered in one simple word: Happy!

Then there's the one about the small boy who returned home from school and told his father that he was second in his class. Top place was held by a girl (naturally). "Surely, John," said the father, "you are not going to be beaten by a mere girl!"

"But, you see, Dad," explained John, "girls are not nearly so mere as they used to be."

The Daily Texan states that a completion question of a University of Texas chemistry quiz read:

"The aroma which emanates from Chemistry 605 is caused by _____."

Came the reckoning and the teacher's jokes led hydrogen sulfide by a vote of 2 to 1.

Did you hear about the science major who stayed up all night trying to figure out where the sun went when it went down? Finally it dawned on her.

Mary Lou Matthews

Now that school is in full (I might say over-flowing) swing, and we are all settled in our respective ivory towers, the Freshmen and new students probably aren't expecting any more welcomes. But we'd like to offer them one more and say it's mighty good to see all those fresh white caps and friendly smiles.

On your next trip into the City (upperclassman term meaning "St. Louis") take a look around at the face of the mob. You will notice dejection, pessimism, desperation, and sheer disbelief on their countenances. But do you know why? The war situation? Yes, maybe. But another battle even closer to the hearts of loyal St. Louisians is the battle fought (and lost) for the National League pennant. The city on the river takes its sports seriously, so don't even mention William Penn in the presence of more than two St. Louis residents if you don't want to become involved in a mob riot.

All the most sublime dreams of over a hundred Lindenwood students were realized last week when they were fortunate enough to see "South Pacific," that all-record-breaking hit playing at Kiel Auditorium. The road company, starring Janet Blair and Richard Eastman, began tour last spring, and believe me, it's worthy of all the praise you've heard.

Seems we have no true sky-watchers on campus this year. Or did you observe the eclipse of the moon? We noticed several would-be Einsteins taking turns scanning the heavens and then dashing back to their very un-celestial Humanities books. Meaning, of course, that the study of humanities is every bit as much a phenomenon as an eclipse of the moon.

There's a new member of the infirmary staff these days. "It" has become quite accustomed to "its" new surroundings, and is literally eating out of benevolent hands. "AI" (short for Alcohol) is a member of the felis domestica group, and has the run of the place. The last we heard, he was learning to distinguish between white pills and pink pills.

If you've always wanted to go to Mardi Gras, but just never could seem to find the time or funds, cheer up. You're in luck. Tomorrow night is the majestic Veiled Prophet's parade. Veiled Prophet festivities are St. Louis' counterpart to New Orleans' Mardi Gras, and have all the splendor and tinsel even the most romantic could wish for. The Veiled Prophet Ball is tonight at which the "fairest maid in all the realm" will be crowned the new Queen of Love and Beauty. For the first time since the appearance of the Benign Potentate, 58 years ago, the Queen will ride in the V. P. parade with His Munificence. The theme of the parade this year will be American folk songs, and as the floats make their way through the city, the spectators will be asked to sing the songs the individual floats represent. Grab your confetti and let's go!

We're elated over the Art Department's announcement that on Saturday nights we can go down to M.A.B. and whip up a masterpiece. There's nothing quite like releasing tensions and inhibitions with a tube of finger paints and an easel. Or maybe you'd like to make a clay model of a biology book and stick pins through it . . . you know . . . voodoo.

Couldn't help but notice all the svelte clothes at President and Mrs. McCluer's reception last Tuesday night. The Freshmen in their smart shorter skirts made the Seniors in their three-year-old "New Look" dresses look like definite anachronisms—which only goes to show that Freshmen aren't as green as they are sometime made to seem.

Came across some choice proverbs which should provide food for thought . . . "Universities are full of knowledge; the freshmen bring a little in and the seniors take none away, and knowledge accumulates . . ." Abbot Lawrence Lowell. "Training is everything: the peach was once a bitter almond; cauliflower is nothing but cabbage with a college education." . . . Mark Twain. "Learning learns but one lesson: doubt!" . . . Bernard Shaw.

Congratulations to the Freshman Class for its variety show. Such wonderful new talent shouldn't be forgotten during the rest of the year. How about another such show . . . soon?

Bark Barometer Of Campus Opinion

SHOULD WOMEN BE DRAFTED? BARK STAFF'S INQUIRING REPORTERS FIND 95 PER CENT BELIEVE GIRLS SHOULD SERVE IF NEEDED EVEN IF IT MEANS COMBAT DUTY

The topic for the first Bark poll of campus opinion has been one of the favorite subjects for dorm discussions since school began. It really isn't anything to be laughed off, however humorous the mental picture of yourself in combat boots.

The questions this week are: Do you think women should be drafted?

What branch would you prefer? Do you think women should be sent to combat areas?

In answering the first question, our poll found that 95 per cent of the girls felt women should be drafted in case of total mobilization and an emergency. Five per cent stated that women should not be drafted under any circumstances.

A. T. C. U. professor of education gave up trying to understand the younger generation and formulated the following code:

1. Teachers must know their

"What branch would you prefer, if you were drafted?" Male draftees are not only ones who groan at the prospects of being in the Army. Sixty per cent of the students questioned favored the Navy, 10 per cent said they would prefer the Marines, and 10 per cent chose the Air Force. Fifteen per cent had no preference, and one person said she would sincerely like to be a trainer for the K-9 Corps.

"Do you think women should be sent to combat areas?" "Nearly all those questioned had an "if" before their answers to this question. "If we are drafted," "if it is really an all-out emergency," or "if necessary," were the most popular answers.

2. They must know the people they intend to stuff.

3. Above all, they must stuff them artistically.

The Linden Leaves Are Whispering

By Carol Greer

If the Linden leaves are whispering, then I can't hear them . . . the gusts of gossip are faint and far between. Just wait till I get my supersonic ear drum functioning!

HEARD FROM AFAR That Alice Mack is the cutest girl on campus, according to "Mark." He'd better watch out for a sharp left to the jaw.

An unwanted guest visited in Sibley, and left its traces—dog hair was everywhere

Slight misunderstanding — Grett Bartenbach is not going to "produce," that's Gretchen Schnurr's job.

Three blind dates, three blind dates, Hear how they sing, hear how they sing. They love the girls in Cobbs Hall Best of all.

Paula Moore couldn't talk above a whisper for two days after a dance at Logan's Chiropractic College. Her date went to work on her stiff neck and hit the wrong nerve.

SEEN FROM A DISTANCE . . . The sign on Petie Nevins door which reads "No dogs or upper-classmen allowed, why make a distinction"

Nancy Starzl looking frantically for the lost "sweater man"

Several Freshmen sporting the latest in platinum nailpolish . . .

Sandwich dates are a common thing at Lindenwood, but this is something new in date cards "Mollie and Kiki out with Marvin for food."

Freshmen Open Social Season

Lindenwood's first social function of the year went over with a bang and plenty of men! The Freshman informal dance, held September 23 in Cobbs recreation room, turned out a bit different than Lindenwood dances usually do when a stag line of about 50 young men showed up. Everyone had a date and some to spare. Music was furnished by George Johnson.

The Student Council formal dance will be coming up October 14. Music for this dance will be by the Bonny Ross orchestra.

Linden Bark Leads M.C.N.A. Division In Contest Winners

The final account of the Missouri College Newspaper Association judging placed Lindenwood College Journalism Department on top. The Linden Bark received a rank one rating, which is the highest award given.

It was announced this month that Lindenwood College received 40 awards, the largest number in the college division to be received. In the news story division L.C. came out with one honor in the first rank, five in the second rank and four in the third rank. In the editorial division, one in the first rank, two in the second rank, one in the third and three in the fourth.

In the feature story division L.C. supported the best in the division. Along with this they had three in the first rank, three in the second rank and four in the third rank. In the sports division, one in the first rank. And last but not least two first ranks and three third ranks were received in the column division.

PERCY FAITH OPENS KCLC SEASON WITH BIG BANG; AFTERNOON BROADCASTING AND NEW PROGRAMS ARE INNOVATIONS THIS YEAR

By Carol Greer

We like to think that life at Lindenwood is hardly complete until the KCLC transmitter goes on to stay on until someone blows a tube. The station made a momentary debut during orientation week, but daily operations were not begun until September 25. The first sign of the year brought Percy Faith to the campus microphone as the first and perhaps the best known guest of the year. Although many of the staff claimed that they had become rusty over the summer, the first show of the year came off with polished precision.

When KCLC returned to the air for good we found that it had undergone a face-lifting. The afternoon hours are an experiment in programming and their effectiveness will be tested later with a Hooper survey. It has been said that one of the advantages of non-commercial radio is that it can experiment with new hours and new programs, and finally all the toil of trial and error will bring new listening pleasure.

So far the new shows of greatest interest are music programs. On Wednesday night you can hear the man with the "river bottom throb," Jim Morris, with the talented Freshman, Bette Smith, on a completely enjoyable half hour of radio listening. When Friday afternoon comes it's time for the disc show that has all the personality of Garroway, better music than the First Five, and no commercial interruption. Listen for King Arthur's Turntable, forty-five minutes of music done by a mysterious man called Art.

KCLC is looking for a better year than ever, but as the saying goes, only time and Hooper can tell.

In Zurich, Switzerland, Dean Roberts, Dr. Parker and Dr. Dawson met again to attend the Congress of the International Federation of University Women.

The main theme of the congress was: "The human rights, the task before us." It was planned with study groups and lectures, one of them on "education for international understanding." It was a wonderful opportunity for women from the whole world to come together in this way. Delegates were sent from all the European countries except Spain and the countries behind the iron curtain; from the United States of America, Egypt, India, Australia, Israel and many other countries. Our representatives met another friend, Dr. Grovas from Mexico, who was at Lindenwood last year as a speaker.

The Student Council representatives of the Freshmen will be elected within six weeks. Until this time the above girls will take the responsibilities of the council members.

The engineering departments of certain male schools nearby are baffled by the fact that the girls with the more streamlined figures seem to offer the most resistance.

The European stay finished with a week in Paris, where Dean Roberts met Simone Meyer, one of our foreign students this year, and her father.
