RAUS MIT 'EM!

Raus Mit 'Em! Out with it! Slave of the desk, arise! A spectre is haunting Roemer.

You toilers of the pen must take your place beside the greats of history! Uncover all corrupt and evil. Let all, for years hidden, come to the fore and in the light of yellow journalism be revealed. Raus Mit 'Em! It has been said: The truth will out.

! BULLETIN !

Dean "Eunisco" Roberts announced at an exclusive press conference yesterday that Easter vacation would be shortened. The dates are now April 8 at 7:32 p. m. till April 10 at 4:28 a. m. The Dean asks that the girls try not to return on time so that the Attendance Committee will have something to do. She wants to change their theme-song from "Time on my Hands" to "I Wish You Were Dead, You Rascals You."

The golden rope ladder was low- ered from the new-model helicop- ter. The gentle whirr of the pro- peller blended with the strains of, "If I Knew You Were Coming I'd Baked a Cake." Fifteen thousand spectators breathlessly scanned the morning sky, as the Queen of Jes- ters began her descent to the Lin- denwood campus 10,000 feet below. As she reached an altitude of 3,000 feet, the crowd gasped in wonder at the beauty of her costume. Dressed in baby blue jeans of parachute silk, designed by Dior, and waving a diamond-studded trowel, she graciously greeted her clamoring cohorts. Yes, Queen Marton (Daffodil) Dawson, the "Girl With The Green Hair" began her reign on April 1, 1950.

Cupid Comes To Lindenwood

In keeping with the tradition of leaving behind some memory of their stay at L.C., these six members of the Class of '50 give a farewell glance at the June 3. Ordinarily the Senior Class present is not thought that the Son of Love might offer moral support for those who walk alone about campus during these coming spring evenings. The statue, an original, long a familiar figure at Lindenwood, will respond by suggesting future gifts future seniors may contribute to the school. The money for this year's present was financed by the Home Loan Finance Agency. Because of the extravagant generosity of the contributors, the Seniors will remain on campus until government welfare can be obtained for them.

Doctor Roberts' Appendices To Come Out in Aug.

Doubleday and Doran has announced the coming appearance of "Appendices to Handbook of Lindenwood College."

Thought to be the next Book-of-the-Month selection, "Appendices," written by Dr. Eunice Roberts, will deal with exceptions to rules that either have, or might be, disobeyed.

Dr. Roberts was inspired by Mr. Hershey's current novel, "The Wall." Both books deal with life under totalitarian governments. In each instance, there is a revolutionary group who would escape from the rigidities of this enforced regulation.

Dr. Roberts, a neophyte novelist, has just completed a six-volume study of the initials of UNESCO.

"Appendices to Handbook of Lindenwood College" will be on sale some time in August. Its price, though not set as yet, has been promised to be reasonable.

Meanwhile, flight lists have been posted in all the dorms. McCluer, in his own plane, the "Sacred Bull," left early this morning for a personal tour of Europe. While there he will select foreign students for next year's term at Lindenwood. This will also give him an opportunity to compare the planning of Lindenwood with schools in England and Russia.

Slot Machines To Be Installed

Penny slot machines will be installed on the terrace level of Roemer Hall. These were approved after so much red tape was cut for the installation of the cigarette and candy machines that all involved had become daring.

Only second semester Seniors will be able to use these machines, or any underclassman with an average of 3.99.

The terrace level, it will be recalled, is the name applied to that region of Roemer Hall formerly known as the basement floor. This change of nomenclature came shortly after the completion of Cobbs Hall.

Air Age Hits Wormwood At Last

Ever abreast with modern improvements and one step ahead of Wellesley, Lindenwood has taken to the air.

This announcement was made yesterday by Second Presidential Military Aide Franc McCluer. He has been communing with Washington ever since the West Point of the air was established nearby.

In a special communique to the press, McCluer remarked, "This will place Lindenwood on every air map in the world. Since we have never been on a map before, this will be one of the gre-e-atest things in Lindenwood's history."

Chaplain Conover will be in charge of the special services commemorating the opening of the L.C. Air Base. Conover, when interviewed, stated, "This will place all students nearer to the universal facts of life. Not only their souls, but their very bodies will be in the air."

RAUS MIT 'EM!

When asked what she thought of Lindenwood taking to the air, Dr. Parker replied, "This is what the AAUW has needed for some time. Now I can start for my classes five minutes late and still get there at only ten minutes after the hour."

RAUS MIT 'EM!

Rob Colson has been selected as the man in charge of maintenance and repair. So far, Colson has had nothing to say, but has been immersed in a study of the various government requisition forms that have been sent him. "They even beat us," he occasion- ally mutters. Deanie "with-the-dark-blue-jeans" Roberts has issued special permis- sion blanks for students who desire to spend the night in Africa or other places. These will be sent to parents and must be signed by them before any Lindenwood girl will be permitted to fly unchaper- oned.

Laments

Attention all you burly athletes. The game of the year is on! Today in Butler Stadium the two best Checker Teams will play the final play-off. Playing for the Red will be Colson and Lichten; for the Black, McCluer and Roberts. So far this year the Red have won 65 games, McCluer and Roberts. Win- ners of this tournament will play the English Checker Champions at Oxford College later this month. Everyone come out and root for their favorite team.

Since the crime that makes this Hall of Blame is too great for one person alone, we are making two choices, Amy and Katie, the renowned postmistresses of our Alma Mater. What two people are better known and what two people are busier than these two? What with reading (censoring, that is) all the incoming mail from the one and only and answering the juiciest ones, the poor dears don't have a minute to spare. Not only is this famous couple good at dusting and shining, but they are excellent educators in manners. Be nasty to them or impolite in any way and you may as well give up all hope of receiving any correspondence for at least a week. (Not that you'd get any anyway.) So remember, girls, always wear a sickening grin and use a pleasing rasping voice when you give forth with "Is all the mail up?" For in the hands of Amy and Katie lie the determining factors that will cause you happiness or grief.

Analysis Of A Kiss

1. A kiss is a noun, because it is common and proper.
2. It's a pronoun, because "she" stands for it.
3. It's a verb, because it is active or passive.
4. It's an adverb, because it makes an explanation.
5. It's a conjunction, because it brings together and connects.
6. It's an interjection, because it shows strong and sudden feeling.
7. It's a preposition, because it has an object.
8. I don't know if it's a preposition or not, but I'm saying so.

RAUS MIT 'EM!

By "Keyhole" Parker

The recent advent of the Air Force establishing an academy within spitting distance of dear old D. W. has caused a great deal of excitement on the campus. To the students it means an opportunity to meet men. To the faculty it means an entire revamping of the curriculum in order to prepare the Dogwood girls for the lives they will lead following graduation. With all D. W. students now concentrating on flying, the usual subjects such as English have taken a back seat. I feel this is a great improvement to the Dogwood curriculum. There may still be some confusion in the student's mind as to just how these courses will be conducted. At first it was thought by the student body, they would fly. This, however, is a great fallacy. The student must remember that Dogwood does not offer the exact thing that the student will do after graduation but only prepares them for it. In this light none of the students will do any actual flying. However, 120 hours in the theory of flying will be needed for matriculation from the college. Freshmen students will begin their study with Einstein's Theories. This will serve as a basis for the more advanced courses such as "The Principles of Bailing Out When Out of Gas." Upon graduation we, the faculty of Wormwood, feel that the students will then be able to take their place in the air!

One problem seems to outweigh all others in the difficulties of the dear innocent Wormwood ladies dating the young men at the Air Force Academy. Girls are reminded that the sun deck of Cobbs Hall is not a landing field for helicopters and their dates should not, I mean this literally, pick them up there. A landing field for such purposes has been provided on the shores of Lake Success. Incidentally, whoever has been turning the floodlights off at midnight when all dates should return to the campus must remember that those lights are provided for the purpose of a safe landing. They are not put there in order to watch your actions with your dates. The floodlights on the building are for that purpose.

RAUS MIT 'EM!

Since this column is the only opportunity that we of the faculty have to bring our gripes for consideration before the entire student body I would like to report the discussion held at the last meeting of the Faculty Council. The subject was "Shall Seniors be Required to Give Their Professors Comprehensives to See if They are Well Versed in Their Particular Subject?" The Faculty Council feels this is entirely unnecessary. Already students have caused embarrassing situations by asking questions the answers of which are not contained in the textbook. This situation cannot continue and we refuse to tolerate comprehensives!

COLLEGE CALENDAR

Calendar for the week April 1 to 7.

Saturday, April 1
6 a. m. "Gossip Gaieties" distributed to everyone free.
11 a. m. Breakfast served in bed by the housemothers.
9 p. m. Dinner at Chase Cub.

Sunday, April 2
11 a. m. Breakfast served in bed by the faculty.
2 p. m. Special performance of "South Pacific" in Roemer Auditorium.

Monday, April 3
11 a. m. Picnic and boat rides on Lake Success. Guests from Harvard, Yale, and Princeton.

9 p. m. Dance to the music of Guy Lombardo in Butler Gym. Dance will last until 3 p. m.

Tuesday, April 4
STOP DAY.

Wednesday, April 5
Special excursion to the University of Missouri to attend dances sponsored by the frats. No chaperons!

Thursday, April 6
Two day excursion on the Admiral to New Orleans as guests of Loyola University. Special classes will be held by Loyola students on the night life of New Orleans.

We, the members of the faculty and administration, would like to make a few suggestions to you students.

Dr. Dawson wishes that her Biology students wouldn't insist upon having that weekly quiz every Monday. She says she gets tired of giving everyone 100 all the time.

In the line of quizzes, Dr. Parker and Dr. Betz request that their E. Lit. students refrain from begging for a test every single day.

Miss V. K. wishes that the basketball team would quit winning all the games because paying off those bets is expensive.

Mr. Brien asks that all Humanities students come to class just once without their lessons so that he can lecture for a change.

Mrs. Machelle would like her Sociology students to bring pillows to class with them so that they'll be more comfortable sleeping.

Mrs. O'Rear wishes that the Ayres girls wouldn't be so quiet because if there's anything she can't stand it's a morgue.

Miss Foster complains that the students are eating all the food at meals and she doesn't have anything left over for the next day.

Dr. Clevenger announces that a class in Political Science will be held at "Old Trails" so that a "Refresher" can be had between discussions. Mr. Lustig would like for the orchestra to be out of tune just once. He says they're so good he's afraid of losing them to the St. Louis Symphony.

Mr. Bauer would be much happier if his German class wouldn't speak German so fast because he can't keep up with them and he's getting tired of looking bored while the class carries on the discussion.

Dr. McCluer asks that students refrain from swimming in Lake Success because they are scaring all the poor little fish.

Mr. Colson announces daily poker games in his office for the purpose of balancing the budget.

Students, we are pleading with you to take heed of these requests.

Hey Rouse Gals!

Owed To Education

By Our Own Lizzie Browning
Listen my Freshman and you shall hear
Of four years at college now held dear.
On the 15th of Sept. in forty-six
I entered the gates an innocent chick.
What one remembers that day and year
Who will not cry in a glass of beer?
My first few months at college-land
I studied hard and thought it grand.
Went to chapel, and never cut classes
Didn't wear make-up and always wore glasses.
Didn't smoke and just drank cokes
Saved my money; never told jokes.
Then I met a guy named Pete
Tall, dark, and mighty sweet
He smoked and drank and even swore,
He taught me what lipstick was for.
Pete did not last long, however,
And soon I met Joe who was very clever
At dealing cards, and other deals, too,
So I cast him off for someone new.
By the end of my first year, you see,
I hardly recognized innocent me
I smoked cigarettes and drank weak wine
Dated men and thought it fine.
My second year I was back once more
Knocking on education's door.
I signed up for courses; Bio and History
Ready to tackle wisdom's mystery.
Now on this point I'm not quite clear
But 'twas November or somewhat near
When I went to a dance with a fraternity man
Lovable, laughable, back-slapping Dan.
The dance, however, turned into a brawl
Spoken of as a party by all.
Now this was my first experience
With such an evening of violence
With broken chairs and shattered glasses

While "A wonderful time" was affirmed by the masses.
Dan was the one who taught me to tell
Traveling salesman jokes so well
He taught me that beer was cheaper than whiskey
So order the first and don't get friskey.
When my Junior year came along
I decided Dan's type of life was wrong
So I gave him the shove
And decided my love
Was with books and learning
Not men and yearning.
I'd study, I would, and get all A's
In an ivory tower I'd spend my days.
And really it all would have been fine
If I hadn't met Art with his soft-spoken line.
He was the one who provided the source
Of the final lectures in my course
Of what a girl should learn in college
In addition to the scheduled knowledge.
Now I was prepared for that final year
The one which now I find is here.
I never study, don't go to classes,
Just neck and joke and drink from glasses.
But listen, my Freshmen, to a voice of the Past
Through all my years to the last
I always intended to study and such,
But didn't get around to it much.
And now that I'm leaving these hallowed halls
Unable to climb worldly walls
I fear that I must pay the price
Of my four years of gambling vice
So listen to my words with an attentive ear,
Don't follow in my path or even stumble near
Unless you wish to live
Four years a fugitive
From care and worry, sorrow and sadness
In a world of fun-loving, gayety, madness.

STUDENTS REVEAL REASONS FOR COMING TO LINDENWOOD IN THE FIRST PLACE—BUT WHY THE SECOND PLACE?

This week's question was placed before the students only after great deliberation. When asked each student was provided with four pencils, three stacks of paper, and four hours. Results have been tabulated and put on file in the Dean's office for future reference.

The question asked was: "Why did you come to Lindenwood?"

Answers were as follows:

20 per cent—"Must I really answer this? I don't quite understand what you mean.

10 percent—"Mother never told me. She just sent me."

5 per cent—"The University of Missouri wouldn't take me."

40 per cent—"I'm still waiting for the promises to come true."

1 per cent—"I thought it was a finishing school. Now, it's too late—I'm finished."

24 per cent—"You got me. I've been wondering the same thing for four years."

The Clubs Cornered

Last Tuesday, at a meeting held under the last table at Old Trails Dr. Sigmund Betz was elected president of Toppa Keg 'O Rye. Since he is considered the number one operator in these parts, he was elected unanimously.

At the last meeting of the Gotta Koppa Guy sorority held on the shores of Failure Lake, Miss Ulegoer I. Swingem, president, announced that any members failing to pass the charm course after the twelfth attempt would automatically be dropped. "Such members," she said, "are no asset since they are unable to bring in any income. After a careful check of all those eligible, the organization was immediately dissolved.

It was announced Friday night that the rowing teams will begin practice Wednesday on Lake Success. The dreamers in this outfit hope to enter the best team in the Western Conference of the "Culled Sculls" as representatives of Lindenwood's Saght (pronounced Sot) Club.

The campus chapter of the U Moo Too fraternity, made plans for its annual voice recital. Tryouts for the chorus will be held in the stables. Romeo Regh, at that time, will also introduce many new techniques to the incoming members.

Special flying togs will also be allowed. However, these must be covered by a long coat whenever a student lands and leaves her plane.

At all times, squadrons of groups of eight planes will be considered as representatives of the college. When flying in this formation, planes must form the letter "L."

The Major And The Mrs., Or This Is How It All Happened, Kiddies

By Our Own Walter Winchell

One day while the Major and Mrs. were paddling down the dirty old Missouri looking for a picnic spot they spotted St. Chas. Since the old burg was in a lot better condition than it is now, they decided to stop for a short one. After a number of quickies, they were informed that that day was the day of days, Founders Day. And if they were gonna be on the ball they had better get into the swing of things. So they started looking around to see what they could find to found. And what do you think they found to found? Lindenwood — what else? But they found they would need some funds to found such an institution properly.

Mrs. Sibley, the brains of the outfit, decided that an eatery was the quickest and easiest method of bleeding the blockheads of St. Charles. And that is how Eee Jays happened to happen. The only unfortunate thing about it is that it's still bleeding blockheads.

After a short session of slinging slop for suckers, a sufficient sum was raised and construction was begun. First a firm foundation was laid in the fallow firmament that now is called the Lindenwood campus, and Sibley Hall came into being. And that, my little dears, was the beginning of the end.

The Hemlocks Are Hee-Hawing

Your Follywood reporter is now ready to divulge the dope on the politics behind the behind scenes of this year's Academy Afford Dinner. Chairman of the counterfeiting committee Bobby "S" Colson wasn't wearing those gloves because of a hangnail, but the green ink was difficult to remove and cover-up was necessary. Johnny "Woo-woo" Middents was toastmaster for the evening and presented the awards to the outstanding performers of the year for the Academy. Manson "dance-on" Brien was given the award for the man voted most outstanding (outstanding in the rain, that is!) This award was no surprise to those who know the inside dope Homer Clevenger. Hume as chairman of the campaign committee worked in cohorts with Gorgeous Gene Conover and Lover Grundhauser and it was due to their perseverance that the nomination was a push-over.

Rachael "I'm not, are you" Morris was chairwoman of the entertainment committee and she did a good job. Lorraine Peck and Hazy Garrison offered excerpts from the immortal "Midnight scene." Marjorie "I'm so innocent" Savage blushed, but Joey Choisser and Bobbe Walters enjoyed immensely the quaint can-can by Woo-woo Wurstter. Millie Kohlstedt and Mable Holt took a dim view of things, put on their specs and didn't miss one of Mary "Tango" Terhune's sags and swags.

We are now ready to divulge that the lovely spine-tingling voice heard from the Inner Sanctum is none other than that of Douggie Hume. An emotional outlet, no doubt?????

"Chuck Clayton" and Paul Greer deny all rumors that a cold war exists between them due to rival positions as newsboy on the Star-Times.

Congratulations to Pearl Walker on the formulation of her new swing band. Grace "G-note" Albrecht and Mil McMican will blow the horns and Nita Croft and Marty Boyer will be featured soloists. They open a definite engagement at The Old Trails starting after all girls have graduated.

Eunice "what's the rest of it" Roberts and Detective Mottinger were sitting on the side lines dragging everyone in . . . better make my get away . . .

Today over Station KCLC (kisses, caresses, love and caution) at 11:45 a. m. a special program will be brought to the students of Lindenwood College. This special event, programmed for the public service of all who wish to know the future of the institution, is another in the KCLC series of "You Won't Be There." Remember that KCLC is your radio station so why in heck don't you listen to it once in a while?

Owing to a difficulty arising from a conflict in the air waves between the United States Air Force and the United States Air Force have come into conflict. Miss Boyer maintains that certain of the air waves must be kept clear for use of KCLC while the United States Air Force claims it is impossible for their planes to detour around the air waves. Asked for a statement the radio station executive said, "They'd better watch out—we're radioactive." Retorting, an Air Force official said, "Normandy, Anzio, Africa and then we meet this!"

The Midwestern Golden Gloves heavyweight and lightweight championships were won by "Slugger" Conover and "Big Boy" Brien last night in Roemer Arena. Conover won by a knockout over "Hefty" Machel. Brien kayoed "Lightnin'" Lustig in the sixth round. The champs will take on Joe Louis at the Barnum and Bailey circus next week.

The championship award for the best tiddlewink team was presented to Herr Bauer and Sig Betz Thursday at Convocation. So far this year they have won 98 games. They won the award by defeating last year's champs, Hayes and Midents.

A medal for winning 110 hands of "Old Maid" was presented to Dr. Alice Parker and Dr. Agnes Sibley. They edged out Miss VerKruzen and Miss Ross by a mere two hands.

Awards for the best games of Post Office were presented Thursday at Convocation. First place went to Dr. Sigmund Betz and Carolyn Trimble; second place to Robert Douglas Hume and Elizabeth Watts. The winners will give an exhibition game tonight at 11 o'clock in Blanchette Park.

Date Drawing To Be Held In Near Future

"One for you, and one for me. One for you, and one for me. One for you and" What are we doing? Just doling out the men in the St. Charles area now that the Air Force Academy is so near by. Stephens may have Mizzou, William Woods may have Westminster but we have the Air Force! Miss Lichliter, head of the Lindenwood Personal Department, is in charge of dividing the men equally. Each student has been requested to submit a blank stating how many men she desires, height, age, and weight, preferred. Also please state if your parents will be able to continue financial support following graduation or you plan on supporting your husband alone. Please get your application in early. Drawing for the men will be held sometime in the near future. It will be conducted in order of application and classes, Seniors first, then Juniors, Sophomores, Freshmen.
