Today's Headlines

NCAA Athletics Weekend Events

The No. 3 ranked Lindenwood women's lacrosse team has never lost a conference game since moving to the NCAA. The Lady Lions are at 47 straight conference victories, and hope to extend the streak to 49 by the end of the weekend. Lindenwood will be home for two games, starting with Friday's contest against Colorado Mesa at noon. On Sunday, the Lady Lions will take on Westminster at 11 a.m. Both games will be in Hunter Stadium.

The Lindenwood baseball team is scheduled to play a three-game series against Northwest Missouri at the Lou Brock Sports Complex. Check out www.lindenwoodlions.com to see an up-to-date schedule for the series, which might be affected by the weather.

The Lindenwood women's tennis program is also home this weekend for two conference games. The Lady Lions are currently scheduled to face Northeastern State at 10 a.m. on Friday, and Central Oklahoma at noon on Sunday.

Dr. Brian Matz to Speak at Lindenwood April 3

Dr. Brian Matz, associate professor of the history of Christianity at Fontbonne University, will present “Does loving your neighbor mean providing them healthcare? A Christian social ethic of healthcare in America” from 4 to 5:30 p.m. on April 3 in the Hyland Arena VIP Room on the campus of Lindenwood University. The event is free and open to the public. Linden Scroll Accepting Nominations

Linden Scroll is an honorary society comprised of students who excel academically (cumulative GPA of 3.0 or higher) and have a dedication to both the University and the community as a whole. Linden Scroll members are exemplary students who have served as student mentors, engaged in University and service events, and carry forward the historical purpose of the University.

It is an honor for students to be nominated, and all nominees will have the opportunity to accept or decline the nomination based on their own personal situation.

Should you have students who fit the criteria, please forward names (and ID numbers if possible) to my attention at svines@lindenwood.edu by Wednesday, March 28, 2018.

Thank you in advance for your time and nominations.
