Three One-Act Plays To Be Presented

Friday evening, March 11, at 8 o'clock the drama classes will present something new in the way of plays at L. C. Instead of one whole play lasting for three acts, they are going to present three one-act plays. Not only are the acts different, but also the plots of the plays.

The first of these plays is "A Matter of Husbands" written by Terenc Molner, a Hungarian composer. The characters in the play are Jean Robb as the aloof actress, and Miriam Shelton as the earnest young wife. The plot has a triangle twist and an ending which I'm sure you won't want to miss.

The next play is a psychological fantasy, "Overtones" written by Alice Gertenberg. She was one of the leading playwrights in the early little-theater period. The time of the play is set about 1915. The plot presents two women talking to each other, and an amusing twist is that their inner-selves are on the stage also, saying the things they are really thinking while their outer-selves are not. The result is not only very confusing but also amusing. The characters are Joanne Cox as Harriet, Billy Whitnell as Margaret, Martha Anne Dusch as Hattie (Harriet's inner self), and Barbara Walters as Maggie (Margaret's inner-self).

"The Far-A-Way Princess" is the last of these, written by Hermann Sudermann, a great German playwright. He was a romanticist very popular in the late 19th century. This play is a romantic idyll in character costumes. It is the story of a poet who idealizes a certain prin-

Fifty-Two Plus Four Equals One Very Well Kibitzed Bridge Game

By Mary Frances Morris

Last Saturday, after completing 24 hands of bridge, (three hours of constant tension), I felt an unconquerable urge to play solitaire. With the usual impersonality, I shuffled the deck and commenced my game, but two tired eyes refused to focus upon anything but the picture cards.

For the first time in my life I noticed the individuality of each figure in the card families. Suddenly, I saw a movement! Did the Jack of Clubs wink at me? As I stared, the lid slowly closed over his left eye again. In a moment, the corner became a habble of voices—some high and piping (the queens), others low and soothing (the Jacks and Kings). What had I stumbled onto?

Bending low over one excited little group near the center of the card table I heard a shrill voice (which I later associated with the Queen of Diamonds). She was advocating a general walkout of all the honors, in retribution for the misery to which she had been subjected. It seems Jewellie, as she is known to her familiars, is ticklish. All afternoon she had been forced to endure untold agonies at the hands of the Lindenwood bullies. In an at-

Lindenwood Students Exhibit Paintings In St. Louis Show

Six Lindenwood art students' paintings were chosen for exhibit in the show for artists 25 years old and younger now on display at the St. Louis Artists' Guild. The exhibitors are Helen Ray, Marie Koch, Delores Moore, Beverly Pannell, Barbara Hueftle, and Ardis Schrik.

Out of 125 works presented to the Guild a total of 50 pieces, including paintings, prints, and sculpture were chosen for exhibit. Lindenwood students are represented by seven paintings.

Two of the same students, Helen Ray and Marie Koch, with Jane Foust and Dorothy Walker, have recently been exhibiting paintings and lithographs in a national Kappi Pi exhibit at Michigan State Normal College, Ypsilanti, Mich.

cess in his mind so much that he falls in love with her image. But much to his woe, he discovers that he does not love her at all when he meets her. The meaning behind the meaning in this plot is that only the unreal never fades. The setting takes place in the garden of an inn. The characters are Jeanne Gross as Princess Marie Louise von Gelden, Joan Reed as the Baroness von Brook, Suzanne Bingham as the innkeeper, Pat Stull as the maid, Rosa, Folsta Bailey as Frau von Halldorf (a social climber), and her two daughters portrayed by Mary Lu MacNail as Millie (the healthy daughter) and Suzie Finney as Lydi (the anemic one).

tempt to console the indignant queen, the King of Hearts suggested she pad herself with large amounts of cotton wadding. This was the wrong thing to say, believe me. Jewellie stormed, and the confused king retired, murmuring something about never having been able to understand women, and scratching his head with his sword.

Regaining my composure, I asked how they had fared during the bridge sessions. "Bridge!" someone sneered. "If you mean that overgrown game of whist that has everyone so excited, we think it is highly overrated." "Speak for yourself," and a handsome young man (it was the Knave of Hearts). "I like the game myself. Why just think, we'd never get a taste of coca cola if it weren't that the girls spilled it on us during card sessions." "And besides that, we'd never get out of our boxes if they did away with bridge; not on this campus, anyway," said another. "Yes, and I'd probably never see any pretty girls," exclaimed my friend of the heavy left eye.

"All right then, if that's the way you feel, I suggest we stop complaining, and give a cheer for a

Nationally Known Speakers To Be On Campus For Third Annual Radio Conference

Plans that include nationally known radio speakers are being completed for Lindenwood's Third Annual Radio Conference on April 29. Under the direction of Miss Martha May Boyer, head of the Radio Department, a tentative schedule has been set up that includes an address by Miss Judith Waller, director of public service, Central Division, National Broadcasting Company; a demonstration of production techniques by Ted Wescott, director of "The Land We Live In" and production director in television of Station KSD, and an address by another national radio authority.

Invitations have been sent to Westminster, Shurtleff, MacMurray, Stephens, Christian, Fontbonne, Webster, Principia, William Woods, Harris, Missouri U., Washington U., and St. Louis U. Last year more than 250 attended the conference, and it is expected that the registration for this year's conference will set a new attendance record.

Miss Waller, author of "Radio, the Fifth Estate," is a pioneer in the radio broadcasting industry. She has been a central figure in the development of the Radio Institute conducted for many years by NBC in cooperation with Northwestern University, and is responsible for many radio "firsts"—transcontinental hookup, transoceanic broadcasts, broadcast of big league baseball, Amos and Andy, and many others. Her headquarters are now in Chicago.

Mr. Westcott has been associated with the radio and the theater for more than 12 years. He was a staff announcer in Chicago for Stations WIND, WCBD, and WGES.

He appeared with the Actors Company of Chicago in such well known plays as "Escape Me Never" and "Flight to the West." When the last war broke out he enlisted in

Susie Martin Selected First Maid Of Honor

Jo Ann O'Flynn, President of the Student Government Association, was crowned Lindenwood's 1949 Popularity Queen at a ceremony in the candle-lit dining room in Ayres on February 24. Jane Foust, editor of the Linden Leaves, which sponsors the annual dinner, acted as Mistress of Ceremonies. Bobbie Walters was First Maid of Honor to the Queen, and Susie Martin was Second Maid.

Betty Bivens, Senior, led the procession of attendants. She wore a frothy pink net gown, trimmed with sequins on the bodice.

The spotlight then landed on Babs Bush, Senior, who was dressed in a white crepe blouse trimmed in blue, and a black skirt.

Joan Reed, Junior, followed in a blue taffeta strapless dress.

Next was Jeanne Gross, Senior, who wore a pink strapless formal, trimmed in white.

Casey Jones, Senior, was dressed in a plaid taffeta formal with a green velvet bodice.

Following came Butch Macy, Senior, dressed in an off-the-shoulder black taffeta gown, trimmed in blue.

Another Senior, Mary Morris, came next, gowned in gold taffeta.

Dot Steiner, the only Sophomore on this year's court, came next, dressed in a green satin, off-the-shoulder gown.

A stir passed over the dining room as the Maids of Honor were presented. Second Maid, Susie Martin, was dressed in a shoulder-strap green and black changeable taffeta gown. First Maid, Bobbie Walters, wore an embroidered yellow chiffon formal.

The spotlight turned to the back of the dining room to mark the last

Watch It! Don't Be Surprised! Here Come The Screeching Alarm Bells

By Betty Joy Haas

One of these warmer nights, when it's about 50 degrees above, a huge groan will entangle itself in the shrill cry of police whistles, dinner bells, and ear-racking jingles of all kinds. Lindenwood is planning a fire drill!

In high school, fire drills were welcomed and simple. They gave a legitimate excuse for leaving class "en masse" and if you were a true red-blooded exponent of middle education, you never seemed to be able to find your way back to the interrupted shorthand class. There was the usual drawback, however. You probably had to put up with some big ole football player pushing you down three flights of stairs, and hurling you out of the north door.

With higher education, the procedure has become more complicated. There you are, draped over your embryonic term paper, and comfortably settled in your pajamas or shorts. You've already washed your hair, and turned back the covers of the bed, when the halls begin to vibrate suddenly with a vibrato above high C. "Fire drill—get out quick!" So you dress, tear up your nice, soft bed to get a blanket, endanger your life and limbs while descending the fire escape, and stand out in the rosebed in ankle deep mud until the inevitable "all clear" is heard. However there is one good point in favor of this type of fire drill, too. There are no big ole football players to push you down three flights of stairs.

Dew Drop In

In the midst of great buildings on the Lindenwood campus stands a small brown building which is called the "Tea Room." This tiny place has been the home of many an after-class chat, before-bedtime coke, hide out for hibernators, between-class cigarette, and a fill-in for the patrons of coffee houses. It's your place for enjoyment and relaxation, so take advantage of it.

As of this semester, the Tea Room has a new set of hours for your convenience, so why not patronize the place more often? Why not grab a hamburger in a jiffie, a hamburger eaten in a clean and wholesome atmosphere? Far better to walk in a room and see friends and people, rather than strangers and cats (the four-legged variety). Far better to smell the aroma of coffee and bacon than hamburgers of dubious origin.

At home you all are pretty particular about what you do and where you eat, so continue that practice away from home. If your parents could get a glimpse at some of the restaurants and stands, their first question would be, "Why don't you snack at the little place in the middle of the campus?" Be wise, intelligent, smart, right and safe, patronize the Tea Room and you will be pleased.

'Tis The Wearing Of The Green

Green, Potato, Shamrock, Mike, Twinkle! As March bursts upon us with winds and icy blasts, one simply cannot help remembering that St. Patrick's Day is near at hand. This is the time when Irish eyes are smiling, and everyone from Reagan to Smith prefixes his name with "O." As a matter of fact, if characteristics mean anything, one would think that there are a good many descendants from the Emerald Isle here at Lindenwood. Red hair can be found in abundance, laughter is certainly at no premium, and there are those who say that fays and shiney-ones dwell in the attics and bell towers on campus. As a matter of fact, L. C. should be attired in the traditional hue, come March 17. Erin go Bragh!

If you can't speak, then smile as you pass.

Opportunity Knocks

Opportunity seems to knock more than once at Lindenwood. Two outstanding ones are the third annual Radio Conference, and the first Community Leadership Conference to be held here April 29. Prominent persons in the fields of radio and community activities will be on campus to discuss with the students and delegates their fields of work.

Attending conferences of this sort is as much a part of our campus life as going to class, or writing that next essay. These conferences are open to the entire student body. Attend as many of these conferences as possible.

The real proof of courtesy is to have the same ailment the other person is describing and not mention it.

Quit Gripping

"This food is terrible; they make us study too much; I hate school." You are now elected queen of the grippers for 1949, but this is by no means a position of honor. Use your common sense and abdicate at once.

Think, do you sincerely want the title bestowed on you? Perhaps then you would rather go down in the eyes of people not quite so fortunate as you. There are such people in our world today, those who can't eat for lack of food, those who can't study for lack of books, and those who hardly know what the word "school" means. Yes, and we are the ones who complain because there is too much of the word "plenty."

Something is wrong with us, we're getting our sentences mixed. We gripe in the midst of plenty, and those in poverty sit by and listen. We are a bit confused, but the confusion is not in our grammar, but in common everyday thought.

The bark is louder than the bite, but why bark, we're only disturbing our frowning neighbors.

Schmoo's Schmoothies

Far be it from Susie to let up on the L. C.-ites when it comes to sound advice. However, I really love the gals—that's the reason I can't stand seeing them all haggard and rundown so soon after semester exams, too. What gives, faculty?

Everyone welcomed that great day when club and organizational meetings were cut down, enabling them to catch up on back work, and maybe even balance the accounts on days and assignments. Then, to the amazement of parties on the pointed end of the grading pencil, extra-class work again forged ahead, and at this report is leaving our academic athletes winded and insidiously outclassed. Rumour has it that the girls are now chewing whole coffee beans instead of double-bubble.

Being a woman myself, I hate to see our pretties cut off in their youth. This calls for some decision, ye keepers of the keys.

OF ALL THINGS

Sophomore: "What do you find the hardest thing to deal with?"
Senior: "An old pack of cards."

If you are trying to live by your wits and are making only half a living, there is an obvious conclusion to be drawn.

One thing leads to another:
Jean: "Let's cut our 9 o'clock class today."
Dot: "Can't, I need the sleep."

Many a woman thinks she bought a gown for a ridiculous price when in reality she bought it for an absurd figure.

The average man is proof enough that a woman can take a joke.

An average college student: "My allowance is like a sprinter—it goes awfully fast, but not very far."

"Of course I'm not married," said she. "I'm nobody's fool."
"Then said he, hopefully, "will you be mine?"

Have you heard this one:
Said the toothbrush to the toothpaste,

As he sang out in sheer delight;
"I'll give you a little squeeze,
When we meet on the bridge to-night."

FALL BARK AND NO BITE

By Sally Joy

Drawings by Doie Moore
Well, it seems like the time has finally arrived. The time when songwriters have run out of coherent ideas, that is, and attempt to make their money by leafing through Websters and selecting a number of pretty-sounding words which they throw together with a verb in the middle. For example, examine the tune, "A Little Bird Told Me." Presuming the song writer lives in the South where they have birds chirping in the winter-time, betcha a dime to a dollar no blue jay, redbird, sparrow or any other of the class Aves of the warm-blooded vertebrates can talk! But there's always the parrot, of course, who sometimes does quite well in the vocal arts, but even it can't express feelings and opinions and only mutters what someone has taught it to say. So what has the songwriter told us? Merely that there's some multi-colored domesticated parrot down South who is quite insistent about the fact that millions of song listeners are madly in love with his owner. To make the sit-condensing the rays of the sun into a pinkish-white powder which then can be produced on a mass scale for the benefit of the feminine element of society. It certainly is a wonderful idea, but just a bit impractical since we're living in the dark ages of splitting of the atom and as yet no one knows of a way to produce sun rays in a powder form! And these rainy, snowy, cold Sunday afternoons we've been having, some group has been "Cruising Down the River" . . . way down, I presume, at New Orleans. Save that song . . . we'll sing it next summer. But perhaps I'd better stop these remarks or some songwriter will come out with a ditty written about newspaper writers!

That "for every problem there's an answer" guy, Dr. Clevenger, (Mayor, that is) has produced a solution to the dilemma confronting the L. C. girls as presented in the editorial "On Smooching in the Parlor" in the last issue of the Linden Bark. He's offered to petition the city council to turn the lights out in the city park on the uation worse, the owner believes it! "A Little Bird Told Me" doesn't have a priority on this type of chatter, though. There's also "Down at the Station." What station? Oh yes, "the" station. In St. Charles "the" station is the Wabash railroad station, where trains pass through every morning, but not one of them has an engine-driver that turns a little handle then "Chocho, toot-toot" and bye, bye. Perhaps the songwriter was thinking of his home town railroad station . . . in that case what difference does it make what time the train pulls out since the one you have to catch leaves from another station? Also making a fast rise to the top is "Powder Your Face With Sunshine," a tune composed by an advocate of week ends. This is an example of the spirit of student-faculty cooperation which is only too welcome by the Student Body. And think of all the money you'll save the taxpayers, Mayor Clevenger, Sir, Your Honor!

The weather couldn't get worse, but it did! As soon as the rainy season arrives . . . rain constantly, that is, instead of only half the day . . . the biology field trips should begin. To those of you who plan to investigate the natural wonders of Pere Marquette State Park, remember to be careful on the steep slopes and dangerous edges near any precipice; and if you fall, remember to look to both your left and right. You get a wonderful view.

The Ballad OF Daniel and Becca

By Mollie Carr

One day Boone with his brother-in-law	And Daniel thought of the long hard way,
Set out for Missouri or Caintuck;	Far from his lady love.
There were hardships and famine that he foresaw	He learned to make friends with his ruthless foe.
But he went on his hunter's luck.	The red men of that part
The way led over the Smokies great	He thought of the times when he would go
To the last of the white man's posts;	Back to his own true heart.
He left behind Rebecca his mate	Daniel meandered back in '71
And her acres haunted with ghosts.	With nothing in his pack;
The nights were long and the wolves would bay	But Rebecca entwined him within her arms;
	She was glad to have him back.

THE METRONOME

Orchestra Gives Concert

Last night the Lindenwood Orchestra, under the direction of Kauko Lustig, presented a concert in Roemer Auditorium. Featured soloists were Barbara Watkins and Jean Eiel.

The program included "Hymn to Diana," by Von Gluck; "Russlan and Ludmilla," by Glinka; "Che Faro," contralto aria from Von Gluck's "Orpheus," Barbara Watkins, soloist; "Sunrise at Sea," by C. Demarest; Mendelssohn's "Concerto for Piano and Orchestra, No. 1, G minor," (Molto allegro con fuoco), Jean Eiel, pianist; "Perpetual Motion," by Carl Bohm; "Andante, (from "Violin Concerto Op. 64"), by Mendelssohn; Maganini's "Milady's Fan," and the Don Giovanni Overture," by Mozart.

Initiation ceremonies for Delta Phi Delta were conducted last Wednesday evening in the Sibley Club Room. The new members are: Barbara Burcham, Rosa Lea Heath, Carol Romann, Janice Sunde, Barbara Sutton, Mary Martha Sivals, Mary Jo Sweeney, Mary Murray, Beverly Stukenbroeker, Eleanor Stubblefield, and Gloria Lakenan.

Members of the sorority presented a recital in Sibley Chapel Tuesday, Feb. 22.

Patrons of Mu Phi Epsilon were the honor guests at a spaghetti dinner given by the members on February 23, in the Memorial Arts Building.

The patrons are Dr. and Mrs. Franc L. McCluer, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Colson, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Friess, Mr. and Mrs. John Thomas, and Mr. and Mrs. M. J. Gauss.

Carol Clayton Is Scoop Queen At Missouri U.

Miss Carol Clayton, former Lindenwood student, was crowned queen of the Annual Scoop Ball of the Journalism School at the University of Missouri, on February 19. She received her crown from Dr. Frank L. Mott, dean of the Journalism School.

Carol attended Lindenwood in 1945-47.

Seniors Entertain Sophs at "Kid" Party

Both Seniors and Sophomores became children again for an evening in Butler Gym last Friday night. A Kid Party given by the Seniors in honor of their sister class provided games and decorations in childhood tradition.

Balloons and nursery rhyme figures decorated the room, and each guest received bubble gum and other favors.

Entertainers were members of the Senior Class. Babs Bush and Betty Bishop danced a soft-shoe number to "The Sidewalks of New York"; Folsta Bailey, dressed as a tot of seven years, told a story, and Butch Macy, Jean Heye, and Betty Bishop presented a skit on school-days. Kay Pemberton was the pianist for the evening.

Games were "Drop the Handkerchief," "Loobey-Lu," "Ring Around the Rosy," "London Bridge" and "Kitty in the Corner."

After the games cokes and strawberry shortcake were served in the Gym lounge.

Helen Sherwin was the general chairman for the party. Nancy Boyd and Marie Koch made the decorations.

STUDENTS' DORMITORY LINDENWOOD COLLEGE LABEAUME & UNLAND ARCHIT.

New Dormitory For Lindenwood's Campus

New Four Story Dorm To House Seventy-Two Students and Tea Room

Detailed plans for the new four story residence hall have been made public. It will be erected on a site at the west side of the campus between Irwin and Nicolls halls. Approximately three acres of ground have been acquired from the City of St. Charles in an exchange of land.

In keeping with the general architectural plan of the college, the exterior will be of brick with limestone trimming. The entire building, constructed of reinforced concrete, will be fireproof.

At the rear of the ground floor will be the Tea Room, approximately 27 feet by 30 feet. At one end will be a snack bar, with an adjoining kitchen.

Off the Tea Room will be an outdoor terrace, on which tables will be arranged in favorable weather. This floor will also include a lounge and a game room with movable partitions to provide a spacious dance floor.

The ground floor contains a modern laundry and a kitchenette for students' use, a large trunk room and other storage facilities accessible to an electric trunk lift, and quarters for the maids, with their own bath and recreational facilities.

In addition to the main entrance at the front of the building there will be a separate entrance to the Tea Room at the rear.

An office, quarters for the head resident, and a living room 48 feet by 30 feet will be on the first floor. Ten date parlors, adjacent to the living room will be used by the students in entertaining guests. This section of the building will be two

Honorary Fraternity Holds Initiation

Twenty-four girls were initiated into Alpha Sigma Tau, the honorary fraternity for superior scholastic attainment, on February 14. Those initiated were Bettie B. Dr. Eunice C. Roberts, dean of the faculty, welcomed the new members and Miss Gertrude Isidor, accompanied by Miss Virginia L. Winham, played several violin selections.

stories high. Above the living room will be a large sundeck.

Bedrooms will be located on three floors. The dormitory will accommodate 72 students. All bedrooms will be provided with connecting baths. A flat roof will allow for full-size rooms on the top floor.

Dimension of the building are 140 feet by 40 feet, with a projecting wing on the ground and first floors 50 feet by 30 feet. Estimated building costs are between $250,000 and $300,000.

Plans for the building have been drawn by the architect's firm of LaBeaume and Unland, of St. Louis.

No name has been selected for the new hall.

Dramatically Yours To Present Story Of Life In A Girls' School

"Revolution by Sharon," an original script written by Suzanne Campbell, will be heard tomorrow night over "Dramatically Yours" at 7:30. The story depicts the troubles in the life of a group of girls in a woman's college.

The radio workshop that is now being held for all girls interested in working on KCLC last Thursday aired its first production . . . a show written about the atom bomb, and titled, "Split The Atom." Future productions being planned include a series of dramatizations on how the United Nations works.

A special series of transcriptions of "Great Scenes from Great Plays" is now taking its place on the lineup for present and future KCLC schedules. The first of the series, "Little Women" with Joan Caulfield playing the lead, was heard last Wednesday, while this week "The Enchanted Cottage" with Gene Tierney will be featured.

Lorraine Peck, who recorded and sent back to Lindenwood interviews made while she was in Washington, D. C., plans to continue this type of show now that she has returned to the campus. Every two weeks she plans to give a short summary of important national and international news and follow this with a short interview with a St. Louis personage discussing some current problem.

Encore Club Plans

"Honkey-Tonk" Party

Members of Encore Club plan to give a "Honkey-Tonk" costume party for their friends next Friday evening, at 7:30, in the Library Club Room.

Singing waiters, candlelight, entertainment, and refreshments will be among the attractions. Each member will invite one other person. Prizes will be given to the member and guest having the best costumes.

Chairmen of the committees are: Entertainment, Marcia Fisher; decorations, Jackie Boomis; food, Jean Heye.

Miss Katherine Hankins is the faculty sponsor of the club.

THE LINDEN LEAVES ARE WHISPERING

By Dot Steiner

Did you know that Jackie Fish was pinned? Well, she is, and the lucky man is a sweet, sweet Sigma Nu from Waterloo, Ia. Oh yes, his name is Don and they look darling together. Congratulations.

Must admit that Marilyn Maddux is the real brave one. I hope for-crawling around in the dark you at least put your blue jeans on.

Mary Jane Miller is certainly lucky that she didn't hold her breath, she got a call from San Diego and the certain party said he would be here on Thursday. Well Thursday rolled around and another Thursday, and still no sailor-boy. Where he is, we don't know.

Jo Ann Myers is sporting a luscious frat pin which she happily received at the dance last Saturday night. Never have I seen anyone so excited in my life. Congratulations Jo, we're proud of you.

Jeanne Gross went to a dance with a fellow named Gordon, last Saturday night in Warrensburg. Have a good time Jeanne?

If I may give a word of advice in the gab column, I will. You know, it would be much nicer if there were less real gossip on campus and the gossip worth repeating would be turned in to this writer for publication. If you want to know what you sound like when you meow all the time, borrow someone's E-Lit. book and read, "School for Scandal."

Joan Hake has just returned from a pleasant week in Florida. Wow, what a sunburn and it looks so good on Joan. Why didn't you take all of us with you?

Seen on the Beaten Path . . . Butch Adelstein craving that State of Virginia . . . Rita Baker and the logic class wondering if taking logic was the logical thing to do . . . Babs Bush advertising for a new pair of pajamas . . . Parks, Cohen and Steiner taken for a ride in a park . . . Madeleine Combes having unwanted callers . . . "No No" Fay and her constant chatter . . . Marty Reid, Timmy Doran, and Carolyn Furnish making up a beautiful valentine court . . . Everyone so proud of the girls winning scholarships . . . Hollywood Set For Judging L. C. Romeo Lend an ear, one and all, 'cause there's good news today. The Linden Bark has received notice that the Romeo pictures have arrived at Paramount Studios and are in the process of being judged. The Linden Bark staff has been sworn to secrecy on names, places and incidents concerning the judging in Hollywood. It's all going to be a big surprise. Keep your fingers crossed, because the unrevealed movie star in Hollywood may choose your man as the 1949 Romeo.

Plans For Ground Floor Of Lindenwood's New Residence Hall

The blueprint of the ground floor of Lindenwood's new residence hall shows the provision for the Tea Room, a large lounge and game room, an electric trunk lift, and an outdoor terrace.

Breakfast Given By Home Economics Club

"Spring has sprung" was the theme of the annual breakfast of the Home Economics Department, Sunday morning, Feb. 27. Decorations included yellow and white blossoms and a centerpiece of white china lambs with narcissus and jonquil blooms. Ruth Wilkie was in charge of decorations.

Muriel Jacobson and Babs Cargill were in charge of the food. Margery Marcellus and Ruth Wilkie were acting hostesses in the Library Club Room for this traditional breakfast. Guests included members of the Home Economics Club, house mothers, administration, and the nurses and dietitian. Marie Steiert Heye, a former student of Lindenwood, was also present.

The menu included such rarities as hot cross buns, broiled bacon, frozen strawberries and honey butter.

Student Attends Radio Meet At Northwestern

Sally Joy, Lindenwood Junior and director of public relations for KCLC, the campus radio station, attended a recent meeting of the Intercollegiate Broadcasting System at Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill. Present at the meeting were representatives from carrier-current or "campus" stations located in the midwest and Great Lakes regions. The Intercollegiate Broadcasting System, or I. B. S. as it is generally known, consists of all such radio stations in the United States, and has been the sponsor for such ventures as the network of campus stations now in operation in the northeastern region. Such a network for the midwestern region is now being contemplated and would include Lindenwood's KCLC in the hook-up.

Scholastic Awards Made

Top scholastic honors have been awarded to the five leading students of the Freshman, Sophomore, and Junior Classes.

Dr. Franc L. McCluer awarded the annual President's scholarships to the following: Juniors, Lorraine Peck, Troy, Ohio; Mary Jo Sweeney, Overland, Mo.; and Patricia Schilb, Pilot Grove, Mo.; Sophomores, Joanne Cox, Jackson, Miss.; Jennifer Sullivan, Wichita, Kan.; Patricia Underwood, Knox, Pa.; Muriel Jacobson, Grand Haven, Mich., and Margherita Baker, Leavenworth, Kan.; Freshmen, Lois Deisenroth, St. Charles, Mo.; Janet Neilson, Oklahoma City, Okla.; Barbara Sutton, St. Charles, Mo.; Marilyn Hirsch, Newark, N. J., and Jane Hall, DeWitt, Ark.

This is the second year that these scholarships have been presented. They are based solely on academic record, and were initiated by Dr. McCluer to recognize outstanding academic records. The Junior scholarships have a cash value of $300, Sophomores, $250, and Freshman $200.

Another unusual accomplishment in the light of academic records was three straight E students, Janet Neilson, Lois Deisenroth, and Barbara Sutton, all from the Freshmen Class.

THE CLUB CORNER

Alpha Sigma Tau held its initiation Monday evening, Feb. 14, at 6:45 in the Library Club Rooms. The following girls were initiated: Betty Wimberly, Mary Jo Sweeney, Betty Joy Haas, Carol Greer, Suzanne Campbell, Muriel Jacobson, Joanne Cox, Jean Eiel, Nancy Boyd, Helen Jones, Delores Moore, Dolores Thomas, Betty DeLisle, Jennifer Sullivan, Joyce Holt, Rita Baker, Patricia Underwood, Margery Marcellus, Marjorie Moehlenkamp, Rose Gilmer, Jane Collins, Mary Dell Sayer, Emily Terry, and Carolyn Hughes. After the initiation service, Dean Roberts gave a word of greeting to the new members and Miss Isador and Miss Winhem furnished a musical program. Following the short business meeting refreshments were served.

The International Relations Club had its regular meeting Wednesday, Feb. 16, at 6:45, in the Library Club Rooms. Miss Lorraine Peck, who has just returned from the American University in Washington, D. C., spoke to the club concerning international developments in the capital. A business meeting was conducted after Miss Peck's talk, during which definite plans were made for the conference planned by the club for April 3 of this year. Final plans for the mailing of clothes collected for Arabian refugees were made and they are pleased to announce that the students cooperated to a fine extent in this drive and they want to thank all students who contributed to making this successful.

Several club members, including Wadad Dibu, Rosa Tsatsakos, Remy Rodrigue, Martine Porteret, Giney Crawford, Gladys Miranda and Mel Bemis, attended a social meeting sponsored by the International Club at Parks College, East St. Louis, Ill., Saturday evening, Feb. 19. The Parks club provided an interesting talk by one of the faculty on the coming importance of the private airplane and of air travel in general. Two films were shown, the first supplied by the United Nations information service showing a summary of UN activity in the past year. The second film, procured from the Indian Embassy, showed the cultural development of temple building in India from the early 7th century to the 20th century. The rest of the evening was spent in dancing and conversation.

How Do You Rate? Take This Test, Mend Your Ways

Remember that gal you live with? The one that buys your cokes over in the Tea Hole when you run out of money and that allowance is still weeks away. The same one that got you a date for the first dance—what difference did it make that you didn't like the fellow, for after all you did get to go. Yes, after all is said and done you guess she is a pretty swell roommate. But how about yourself—did you ever take time to take stock of yourself as a roommate? For a pretty accurate check-up just answer the following questions taken from a University of Idaho publication.

1. Do you lose temper easily?
2. Do you sulk?
3. Do you talk too much?
4. Do you read out loud?
5. Do you gossip?
6. Do you fail to consider her likes and dislikes?
7. Do you expect to be included in her invitations?
8. Do you brag about your work, friends, or social position?
9. Do you rely on your room-

THE CAMPUS HALL OF FAME

This week the Bark proudly presents Mary Frances Morris as its new member to the Hall of Fame. Mary, known as "Mo" to her friends, is a popular Senior with a lovely voice and loving smile. Hailing from Eldorado, Ohio, Mary has auburn hair, brown eyes, and she stands 5' 6" tall.

"Mo" was the Student Council representative of the Junior Class in 47-48, president of Delta Phi Delta (honorary music fraternity), and has been a member of the Encore Club ever since she first came to L. C. in '45-'46. This year, besides being the vice-president of the Senior Class, "Mo" is a hard worker on the Linden Bark staff and this past Thursday night she was presented in the Popularity Court.

Choir To Tour Kansas, Missouri and Oklahoma

"The most talented and well balanced choir since I have been here," exclaimed Milton F. Rehg, choir director, who will conduct a seven-day spring tour from March 10 through 16, visiting towns in Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma.

Mr. Rehg will direct the thirty-member choir with Carolyn Furnish at the piano throughout the tour. Soloists will be Marjorie Moehlenkamp, Mary DeVries and Barbara Watkins. Included on the program will be two comic numbers, "Peter Piper" and "Two Clocks."

The tour will include concerts given at Union, Lebanon, Marshfield, Corthage, Joplin, Neosho, Monette and Aurora, Mo.; Baxter Springs, Kans., and Miami, Okla. The choir will return to St. Charles March 16.

mate for amusement?

10. Do you talk too much about your heart interests?
11. Do you always talk about your troubles?
12. Do you try to be boss?
13. Do you ask questions about personal matters?
14. Do you share her interests?
15. Do you lack respect for your roommate's privacy?
16. Do you play the radio continuously?
17. Do you take the best drawers and hog the closet space?
18. Do you litter the room?
19. Do you neglect cleaning up after a party?
20. Do you forget to pay half of mutual expenses?

Well, how'd you do? If you answered "no" to 17 or more that means you're just too good to be true; 13 to 17 means that you're still pretty super-duper; 11 to 13 means that you're a pretty fair roommate. If, however, your "No's" are below 9, BEWARE, you will soon become a hermit!

RADIO CONFERENCE
the Air Corps and participated in 50 missions over Europe. Returning to Chicago in 1945, he appeared on a number of radio and television shows. In July of that year he was named director of "The Land We Live In," then presented over KMOX in St. Louis. When the show was moved to KSD in 1947 he transferred to that station, where he now directs television production for KSD-VT in addition to "The Land We Live In."

The tentative program for the conference will open with registration for delegates, beginning at 9 a. m. The Lindenwood KCLC staff will give a breakfast for Miss Waller. At 10 a. m. Miss Waller will discuss "Training for Careers in Radio" at an informal student session.

In the morning Mr. Westcott will conduct tryouts for the half-hour student radio show to be produced at the afternoon session. The script for this show has been written by students of Lindenwood's Radio Department, and tryouts for parts in the cast will be open to all student delegates. The show will be presented and recorded at 1:30 p. m. as a feature of the program which will include a demonstration of production techniques by Mr. Westcott.

A tea dance, sponsored by campus organizations, will be held for the delegates at 4:30 p. m. in Butler Gymnasium, and at 6 p. m. there will be a dinner in Ayres Hall. The evening session will convene at 7:30 o'clock, and will feature an address by a nationally known radio speaker.

Entries Now Accepted For Press Club Contest

Joey Choisser, president of the Press Club, announces that the entries for the annual Press Club contest are now being received.

The best article or story that has appeared in the student publications of Linden Bark and Linden Leaves will be awarded a $5 prize.

The announcement of the judges, who will be faculty members, will be made at a later date.

Last year's Press Club contest winner was Emily Heine of Hooper, Neb.

Problems And Experiences To Be Exchanged At Community Leadership Conference

Civic leaders of eastern Missouri and bordering counties of Illinois will exchange experiences in a regional conference on "Community Leadership" here April 29 and 30. This conference is sponsored by Lindenwood College and is under direction of Paul Greer of the Sociology Department. Subjects to be discussed at the conference include health, delinquency and modern tensions.

"The adjustment to peacetime conditions," said Mr. Greer, "has encouraged the desire among citizens of small American communities to discuss the solutions of civic and social problems that beset the American way of life."

The opening speaker will be Leonard Hall, noted columnist of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, who will discuss "Listening In, R. F. D." Friday morning at 11 o'clock. Mr. Hall will set forth the keynote of the conference, that no community ends at its city limits.

A panel on community health will be led by Miss Gwen Goodrich, former field secretary of the Cooperative Health Federation of America, now teaching at the University of Wisconsin. A leading participant in this discussion will be Dr. C. E. Lively, of the University of Missouri.

Fred Naeter, publisher of the Cape Girardeau Southeast Missourian, will conduct a roundtable on community recreation. Several outstanding persons in this field from Moberly, Poplar Bluff, Mexico, and Jennings, will take part in this discussion.

A group discussion on community growing pains will be led by Dr. Homer Clevenger, mayor of St. Charles and Professor of History and Government at Lindenwood.

At the same time a fourth session, on community tensions, will be opened by Henry F. Chadeayne of St. Louis, who will introduce the chief speaker, L. M. White, publisher of the Mexico Ledger.

The form of group discussion, resembling that of the old town meetings of New England, is designed to encourage wider participation in community thinking and planning. Emphasis on this approach is the outgrowth of a new course in sociology at Lindenwood called Community Leadership, taught by Paul Greer.

At an evening meeting, "Thought Recorders" or secretaries, will report on the high light of each discussion. On Saturday morning a forum will be held on the theme, "The good community bases its stability on the fact of change rather than on hope of keeping things as they are." Robert Blakely, chief editorial writer of the St. Louis Star-Times, will conduct this meeting.

The workshop will close Saturday afternoon with a demonstration of folk games and recreation, in which Lindenwood girls will participate as an example of the possibilities of non-commercial community recreation for old as well as young.

SHORTY O'FLYNN—QUEEN
 entrance, that of Queen Jo Ann O'Flynn. "Shorty" was gowned in a black crepe dinner dress with black lace insets at the shoulders.

The attendants carried colonial bouquets of pink carnations. The Maids of Honor carried bouquets of glads and sweet peas, lavender and peach. Jo Ann's arm bouquet was of yellow roses to match her crown of the same flowers.

The queen and her attendants were seated on a raised platform in the front of the dining room. The dais was decorated with palms and other greenery, interspersed with white tapers, which were lighted by Helen Ray.

Jo Ann was First Maid of Honor in 1948. She has been ably serving the student body this year in her capacity as president of the Student Government Association and in many other student activities. Last year she served as president of the Junior Class.

Bobbie Walters is vice president of the Student Council and is secretary-treasurer of the Junior Class. She is a former president of Niccolis

Faculty Member To Be Contest Judge

Miss Martha May Boyer has been named as one of the judges of the scholastic writing contest sponsored by the Star-Times in the St. Louis area. This is part of a national contest open to high school and upper elementary school students.

Miss Boyer also has been named as a faculty member of the Radio Workshop of Station KMOX in St. Louis. This workshop is open to high school teachers interested in radio work.

Susie Martin, Senior Class president this year, has been secretary-treasurer of her class in both the preceding years. She is a former Press Club president.

Arrangements for the dinner were made by the members of the Linden Leaves staff.

Instructor's Work Chosen For Exhibit

John Middents of the Art Department has had three of his lithographs chosen for exhibit in the Hoosier Art Salon in Indiana. From that show, they will be sent to the National Academy in Washington, D. C., for exhibit in March.

Dr. Gipson Returns For Short Visit

A tea was given for Dr. Alice Gipson at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Franc L. McCluer, February 13. Dr. Gipson, former dean of Lindenwood, returned from Washington at the beginning of second semester. She taught two classes at the American University, Modern English Dramatists and American Literature. She has returned to Idaho to rest and write.

Students Discuss New Honorary Fraternity

Visiting L. C. campus February 23 to arouse interest in a new honorary student publication fraternity, Gamma Upsilon, were several students from Culver Stockton. Bill Mansfield, Ada Schroeder, Bill Paule and A. N. Allen spent the day here conversing with faculty on the fraternity.

The purpose of the fraternity is to foster an interest in college student publications, and to stimulate interest in phases of undergraduate literary work that is printed. This is to be a national fraternity in all standard colleges.

Dr. And Mrs. McCluer Visit In California

Dr. and Mrs. Franc L. McCluer are now spending two weeks in California. Dr. McCluer will address and visit with the Lindenwood Alumnae clubs in Los Angeles and San Francisco.

"If you refuse me," vowed the ardent swain on bended knee, "I shall die." She refused him and seventy-two years later he died.
