Meets Coming

VOLUME 29

ST. CHARLES, MO., TUESDAY, APRIL 12, 1949

NUMBER 10

Plans Completed For Two Conferences To Be Held On Campus, April 29-30 Simultaneous Meetings To Be Held

Two regional conferences will bring delegates from universities and colleges and civic groups to the Lindenwood campus on the week end of April 29.

The college's Third Annual Radio Conference, under the direction of Miss Martha Boyer of the Radio Department, will be held on Friday, April 29. Registrations for the conference already received indicate that it will set a new attendance record, exceeding last year's figure of 250 delegates.

A Workshop in Community Leadership, under the direction of Paul Greer of the Sociology Department, will open on April 29 and continue through Saturday afternoon, April 30. It will bring to the campus delegates from many of the communities in the St. Louis area.

There will be a joint session of the two groups at 11 a. m. on April 29 in Roemer Auditorium, at which Leonard Hall, noted columnist of the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, will speak on "Listening in—R.F.D."

The radio conference will open with registration beginning at 9 a. m. The morning program includes a breakfast for Miss Judith Waller, director of public service of the Central Division of the National Broadcasting Company, an address by Miss Waller, and tryouts for the production of a radio show. Student delegates attending the conference are eligible to participate.

At 2 p. m. in Roemer Auditorium, Ted Wescott, director of the radio program, "The Land We Live In," will present a radio show produced from an original script. This program will feature a demonstration of production techniques. At 4 p. m. there will be a dance sponsored by Alpha Epsilon Rho in Butler Gymnasium for the visitors.

The evening session will present a panel discussion of "Radio: The Fifth Estate." Charles C. Clayton, of the Journalism Department, will act as moderator. Members of the panel will be Dr. Samuel Johnson, news commentator of Station KMOX; Alfred Brandt, news editor of Station KXOK, David Shefferin, a member of the faculty of the School of Journalism of the University of Missouri, who will speak on "Facsimile." The meeting will be held in the Library Club Room.

At the Friday afternoon session of the community leadership conference, there will be four group discussions. A panel on "Community Health" will be led by Miss Gwen Goodrich, a member of the faculty of the University of Wisconsin. "Community Recreation" is the subject of the panel to be led by Fred Naeter, editor of the Cape Girardeau Southeast Missourian. Dr. Homer Clevenger, head of the History Department, will lead a group discussion on "Growing Pains," and a group on "Community Tensions" will be led by Henry F. Chadeayne, of St. Louis.

Junior-Senior Prom Held At Hotel Chase

The Junior-Senior prom was held at the Starlight Roof at the Hotel Chase, April 9 for the first time since the war. The evening began at 9 o'clock and dancing ended at 1 a. m. All upperclassmen were permitted to stay out until the small hour of 2, climaxing the very eventful evening.

For refreshments, punch and assorted nuts were offered. Bubble bowls containing flowers decorated the tables. Russ David and his orchestra provided music for the dance.

Dr. and Mrs. McCluer, Miss Grace Albrecht, sponsor of the Junior Class, her escort, and Joan Reed, president of the class, and her escort formed the receiving line.

Plans For Press Club Contest Revealed

Miss Joey Choisser, president of the Press Club, has announced the opening of the annual Press Club contest. A $5.00 prize will be awarded for the best writing printed in any student publication this year. The contest closes May 10, and all writing should be submitted to the Journalism room before this date. There are no limits set for student entries.

Judges selected for this year are Dr. Parker, Dr. Betz, and Miss Trimble.

Miss Emily Heine was winner of the Press Club prize last year.

Fifty-Three Seniors Will Receive Their Degrees At Commencement May 29

Day Students Capture Scholarship Trophy For Second Year

For the second straight year the Day Students have captured the President's Scholarship Trophy for the dormitory group having the highest point average for the past two semesters. The cup was presented by President Franc L. McCluer in Student Assembly on March 29.

Irwin Hall was announced as second place winner, and Ayres Hall placed third in the contest.

The winner of the contest is determined by the average grade point level taken of the separate dorms and the Day Students for the second semester of 1947-48 and the first semester of 1948-49.

This award, begun last year by President McCluer, stays in the possession of the group permanently if they win the trophy three years in succession. This year's winners have only one more year to go.

R. H. Kazmayer To Speak At Exercises

Plans have been completed for the Baccalaureate and Commencement exercises to be held on Lindenwood campus May 29 and May 30, respectively.

Speaker for the graduation program is Robert H. Kazmayer, noted lecturer and news commentator.

There are 53 candidates for degrees: Bachelor of Arts, 26; Bachelor of Science, 21, and Bachelor of Music, 6. Twelve girls are candidates for certificates, six for diplomas.

For the morning Baccalaureate Service May 29, Dr. Raymond I. Lindquist will be the speaker. He is familiar to Lindenwood, having conducted Religious Emphasis Week observances last year.

The Lindenwood College Choir, under the direction of Milton Rehg, will sing for both occasions.

Plans Revealed For May Day Week End

Jeanne Gross as May Queen of 1949 will reign over the May Day fete through May 6-8. The May Day festivities will begin with a street supper and carnival Friday night. On Saturday afternoon there will be the crowning of the Queen with Tau Sigma performing their "Gay Nineties" dance program. Saturday evening there will be a dance in the gym and in the street in front of Butler Hall.

Dr. Frank Caldwell, president of Louisville Theological Seminary, will give the sermon Sunday at a church service. At 12:45 dinner will be served in the dining room for students and their parents. A reception will be held in the Fine Arts Building for parents, students and friends.

Study Tours Of Europe Organized By W.S.S.F.

The World Student Service organization has announced that study tours in Europe are now being organized for this summer. The study tours will take place in the following countries: Great Britain, Italy, Denmark and Finland, France and Switzerland. During these tours the students will have the opportunity to study such subjects as: "Local Government in Britain," "Italian Art and Architecture," "Scandinavian Democracies," and "France Rebuilds."

Those who are interested for further information should consult Dean Roberts.

"Oh My Achin' Back" Is Heard Far And Near From Juniors Over Campus

By Barbara Allen

Hup, two, three, four—to the rear, harch!! At approximately dawn Friday such harsh orders as these pierced the ears of LCites not sleeping the proverbial sleep of the dead. Freshman hazing of the Juniors began at 6:30 when they none too gently routed "said unfortunates" out of bed. Army fashion, all those having the misfortune to be Juniors were marched outside for more army style calisthenics.

After being put through various villainous forms of yogi-trying tortures, the class has unofficially adopted the motto, "Oh, my achin' back."

Along with other aches and pains each Junior bore the brand JR prominently displayed on her forehead. Evidently this was to protect innocent members of other classes from falling into fiendish hands. Instructed as to the proper greeting in addressing any sweet young Freshman she might meet, one Junior awoke mumbling "I humble myself before thee, my superior sister." To be on the safe side, and fearing threatened consequences, another sister sufferer set a new pace in the fashion world by wearing her skirt upside down (some fun, you try it,) one flat shoe and one heel plus anklets.

A "Command Performance" program was given by the Juniors in the dining room Friday evening. This was followed by a party given by the Freshmen in the gym.

Amid moans and groans, that wound up what will doubtless go down as the blackest Friday, April 1, in the history of Lindenwood's Junior Class history.

To those few warped souls who would like to see such goings-on become another fine L. C. tradition, the Juniors say, "Phooey!"

Many Areas Of Radio Studied By Two L. C. Students At KMOX In St. Louis

Pat Stull, KCLC station manager, and Mary Lou McNail, member of the KCLC staff, have returned to Lindenwood from a two week apprenticeship at KMOX in St. Louis.

They were under the direction of Miss Carlotta Wetmore, who aided them in their studies of the various departments of the station. Their work was in continuity, sales promotion, music, and traffic which included building logs and filing programs. They attended all live shows; Curt Ray shows, Man At The Grocery Store, Saturday At The Chase, Lee Adams, Quiz Down, High School Party, the Hi Neighbor show, Two For the Money, and the Wed Howard Food Show.

Some of their time was spent in lectures and control room procedure for the more technical aspects of station operation.

Miss Stull, Senior at Lindenwood, worked as continuity editor for WCIL, Carbondale, Ill., last year.

Even though she had four daily programs over this commercial station, she said that her two weeks in KMOX was the "most wonderful experience I've ever had. It made you realize why KMOX is one of the best stations in this area, and their success can be summed up in one word, cooperation." She has returned to KCLC with many new ideas, particularly in sales promotion, programing, and enthusiasm.

Miss McNail, Senior with her own show, "Starry Eyed Over The Stars," agreed that the apprenticeship was very practical and worthwhile. She especially enjoyed her work in the Traffic Department, where she typed and prepared questions for the High School Party.

Miss Martha Boyer, head of Lindenwood's Radio Department, is responsible for the opportunity afforded the members of the KCLC staff who are interested in radio as a career.

Budget Your Time

It is later than you think. Do you realize that there are only 51 more days until school is officially over for this year? That's not long to get in and participate in all the activities that are coming up. There's May Day week end, Commencement, Baccalaureate, Senior Convos, and Pin Day. All these are a part of your campus life. Without them, something would be lacking from the memories of your college years.

Einstein reminds us that time is relative—it stretches in the Fall and contracts in the Spring. It's really contracting now, and there are a lot of things crowded into the remaining few weeks. The moral of this little tale is to budget your time to include all the Red Letter activities on the calendar not forgetting that there are a few assignments that will have to be handed in, too.

Within The Shadows

There is perhaps nothing quite as traditional to old L. C., as her own little police force, Oscar and Ed, and on Sundays, Casey. Each night as the dramatic artists of the school leave play practice in Roemer to the twelfth bong of the library clock, they must find Ed to have him lock the building. On the cold, clear evenings, they have only to step to the front door and ascertain from which direction the wind is blowing; for from somewhere will be blown the delightful fragrance of a good pipe being smoked in the crisp air. There will be Ed.

If on spring evenings the girls and their dates sit about the campus, they know that standing somewhere within the shadows, keeping watch upon their precious charges, are Ed and Oscar. They also know, just as well, that these wonderfully steadfast guardians, sitting on their benches, are discreetly out of hearing, and within calling distance. They, religiously as though by an ethical agreement, face the other direction, which at times is no easy job; but they are unflinchingly there. When these lovable, other-era gentlemen go about their beat, they always warn of their approach. Oscar's cheerful whistle will proclaim his nearness, while Ed will always have his aromatic pipe.

On a cold winter's night or a hot summer's eve, our vigilantes are always faithful. During the arctic months at L. C., they are on their guard as ever. Ed sits at the entrance of Ayres and on the hour makes his way doggedly about the icy campus to see that all is in order. At twelve or one he meets his crony, Oscar, in the basement of the Health Center for supper. Not infrequently, one of those simply marvelous cooks on campus slips our friends a special treat to go with their midnight lunches. After their brief repast, they continue the watch, until the cold morning light begins to tint the red bricks of the library a rosy tone, and the clock bongs five. In summer they sit on benches in front of their respective dorms, Ayres or Irwin, and it is quite light when they leave at five.

Some of the under-class students question the need for these constant guardians; but anyone who remembers the night a prowler tried to enter by the fire escape and the quickness with which Ed answered the frightened screams of the girls will never doubt the wisdom of their presence. After four years, there will hardly be a girl who won't have a running joke with one of them concerning some little incident. One girl they tease about carrying money concealed in her hair, another about trying to elope her freshman year, and yet some others about how they tried to go out the fire escape on some wild escapade which Ed and Oscar successfully discouraged privately.

Though many of us "scotch" about them, we know that they will always be a part of L. C. We could no more do without them, than we could do without a housemother in an undergraduate dorm. We should always remember that few schools can boast of such witty guardians of such precious treasure.

New Fields To Conquer

Never underestimate the power of a woman, especially in these days when women are giving men stiff competition in every field of business except railroad engineering and house painting.

The Career Conference last week reminds us that women can succeed as executives. There was a time in the dim past when women were relegated to the position of either school teacher or nurse. The invention of the typewriter, in effect, produced a more revolutionary change in our lives than woman suffrage. Women first entered into industry during World War I.

It seems that when men leave their jobs to make war, women are found quite as capable in these jobs as their predecessors. If men persist in holding the belief that a woman's place is in the home, they should stick to business rather than war. It's pretty safe to lay odds of 2 to 1 that most women would prefer a home to a job.

Nevertheless, we should realize that it is often necessary for both parties to work, and consider the opportunities open to us before we graduate rather than afterwards.

Schmoo's Schmoothies

Easter vacation already and I just want to wish you all schmooth sailin' home. Have one great, big, real, fine time, then hurry back for the last hectic weeks of school. Happy Easter!

Fifteen Colleges Send Delegates To Fifth Int. Rel. Club Conference

Approximately 100 student delegates from colleges in the area attended the first annual International Relations Conference on Sunday, April 3. The conference was sponsored by the International Relations Club.

"What is the General Reaction Toward the American Foreign Policy in the Major Areas of Tension," was the theme of the conference. A first general session was the beginning of the program, followed by four sectional meetings including: discussions on Russia, Western Europe, China, and Middle East. A second general session closed the conference.

The International Relations Club entertained its guests at tea in the Library Club Rooms.

Fontbonne College, LeClere College, Lincoln University, Maryville College, McKendree College, Parks College, Principia College, Quincy College, Shurtleff College, Southeast Missouri State College, Stowe Teachers College, St. Louis University, Washington University, Webster College, and William Woods College, sent delegates. The delegates not only represented the United States, but also China, Bulgaria, Belgium, France, Egypt, Lebanon, Denmark, Germany, and India.

Well, flip that calendar and look at tomorrow! Yea, spring vacation begins! It's certainly crept up quietly without the usual excitement that accompanies this annual departure. Looks like the Easter outfits will be last minute affairs this year when true to tradition the Freshmen rush out to buy new garb from head to foot, while the upper-classmen merely sew a new flower on last year's hat . . . after all that hat was only worn about two times last year.

Every year with the arrival of spring on the campus two bugs sink their deadly stinger into L. C. lassies. The result of this sting is an entirely rejuvenated appearance. First of these deadly insects is the one whose bite causes short haircuts. It usually bites the unwary femme when she's sitting in on a bull session looking admiringly around at the short haircuts in the room, while her locks, long and dangling, cling around her neck. The first symptom is when she looks despairingly in the mirror and murmurs to her roommate, "I simply have to do something about my hair . . . hm . . . wonder how I'd look with a feather cut?" From here, each individual case varies, but inevitably within one or two weeks the full force of the bug's bite has taken effect and the victim is hopping around the campus full of smiles, and with ear tips showing.

Shortly after this insect invades the campus another type of bug descends with stinger poised. Just one sting by this little one and you too join the hundreds of sunbathers lounging on the hockey field, tennis courts, and archery range (but please not the golf course.) Beware of this bug on those warm, sunny afternoons following several days of rain, or you will find yourself indulging in a required rest at the infirmary with a sunburn and a "slight sprig code in de head." However, if you're certain the ground is not damp, and are willing to take the sun in small portions for the first few days, then go to it! You gals from the South try to catch up with your friends at home and you Yankees try to make the homefolks look even more like palefaces, when June rides around. But please don't forget a few necessary items, including:

1. Books, so you can study.
2. Stationery, which you will use after looking at one of the books about ten minutes then deciding there's too much glare from the sun for you to read.
3. Cards, for a game of bridge or solitaire when you decide it's impossible to write a letter and get your left side tan at the same time.
4. A blanket to lie upon . . . the grass on the hockey field is very stubby.
5. Sunglasses. Remember to keep these on at all times for the miute you take them off some individual who forgot to bring hers, will "borrow" yours, and you can kiss them goodbye forever.
6. Some sort of oil. Sometimes it isn't too much help, but if you get a sunburn it gives your morale a lift to be able to say "But I kept putting oil on!"

Several Juniors are still limping as a result of the hazing they received from the Freshmen—on April Fools Day. You can depend on the Freshmen to come up with some novel idea, and naturally who would be a better target for their sweet, childish pranks than the Junior Class. Congratulations to those gals who stood up against the fire and bravely defended the Class of '50, and a medal of merit to every Junior who did the washing or made the bed of a Freshman.

Students Hear Discussion On Women In Business World, At Career Conference

A glimpse into the opportunities open to them in the business world was given Lindenwood students at the Career Conference held Thursday night, March 31, by the Altrusa Club of St. Louis and the Student Guidance Office. Miss Mary Lichter, Director of Student Guidance, introduced Mrs. Grace McNeese, president of the club, at the general meeting of counselors and students in Roemer Auditorium. Mrs. McNeese then presented Marguerite Stuehrk, committee chairman, who in turn introduced the counselors to the students.

The counselors were: Mrs. Agnes McCaddon, advertising; Dorothy Dolan, dietetics; Mayme Sartoris, dress designing; Hazel Stolz, interior decorating; Mary Kimbrough, journalism; Dr. Grace Bergner, medicine; Georgia F. Wittich, merchandising; Edna E. Peterson, nursing; Dorothy L. Flint, occupational therapy; Annabell Lamburth, personnel; Gretchen Vanderschmidt, Mrs. Margaret J. Williams, social service.

Half-hour conferences with each counselor were held in assigned rooms in Roemer and the Fine Arts Building immediately following the general meeting. A reception was held in the Library Club Room from 8:50 to 9:15.

Student hostesses were Nancy Bailey, Frances Bauer, Betty Bivins, Nancy Boyd, Jo Anne Choisser, Jane Faust, Joyce Garrison, Frances Jones, Betty Keighley, Virginia Kimmel, Marie Koch, Mary Ann Liggitt, Mary Lu McNail, Lois Malone, Margery Marcellus, Suzanne Martin, Mary Jane Miller, Mary Frances Morris, Jo Ann O'Flynn, Helen Ray, Jo Anne Sager, Mary Alice Sanders, Mary Dell Sayer, Patricia Stull, Ruth Schaefer, Helen Sherwin, Joyce Shoemaker, Jennifer Sullivan, Dolores Thomas, Dorothy Walker, Barbara Wade, Bettie Wimberly.

"I just don't know when I'm going to have time to pack," said one LC-ite, making it a delightful complaint.

"Pack, what's that? It's been so long I hardly remember," said her friend.

Now these are gripes we will admit, but they are the kind that sound sweet to the ear and are actually fun to gripe about because they refer to the "freedom train" which will pull into the station in less than a week. Of course we may be closing our suitcases five minutes before the train leaves, with various and sundry things drooling out, but we'll make it, and if we don't there is always the hitchhiking angle.

'Twas truly enjoyable . . . the "Twelve Tantalizin' Terrapins" even though some of us were sitting on the pool on a pair of legs that didn't quite unbend when we wanted to get up and a back permanently maimed. Anyway Terrapin deserves another large hand for a fine show.

"All's well that ends well" and I don't know how to end this well, but I'll make it short. Things are looking brighter . . . the grass, trees, flowers, time element, clothes, and as a result L. C. faces.

See you about campus and have a whooping good time spring vacation.

Rules Announced For Sigma Tau Delta's Freshman Medal Contest

Sigma Tau Delta, national honorary English fraternity this year is again sponsoring a contest for the Freshman students. For the best pieces of any type of original literature, gold, silver and bronze medals will be awarded and the prize compositions published in the Linden Bark.

Various types of manuscripts which may be entered in the contest are essays, dramatic sketches, short stories, and poems or groups of poems. Manuscripts should be typed and the pages numbered. The name of the contestant should appear only on a card enclosed in a sealed envelope. The pen name should be written on the outside of the envelope and the manuscript. These manuscripts should be submitted to Dr. S. A. Betz by 4:00 o'clock, May 2. They should not exceed 3000 words in length. Winners will be announced at the close of the semester.

Student Program Is Presented For Women's Club In Hannibal, Mo.

At a recent meeting of the Women's Club of Hannibal, Mo., Gladys Miranda, Wadad Dibū, Marianne Mohl, Irma Fernandez, Rosa Tsatsakos, Mary Morris, and Marthan Dusch were guests.

The students presented a program which included music and talks.

They were accompanied by Mrs. Franc L. McCluer, Miss Mary Lichter, and Miss Anna Mottinger.

In appreciation of our students' program, the Women's Club offered them luncheon at the Mark Twain Hotel, and organized an interesting Mark Twain tour during the afternoon.

THE CAMPUS HALL OF FAME

Sally Joy, Junior, is not only our choice for the Hall of Fame, but she also gets an E for efficiency. Packed up in her brown alligator briefcase there are more organizations than most jugglers have duckpins. As president of Alpha Epsilon Rho, she has devoted a great deal of time to the business end of KCLC. On the Linden Bark editorial staff she takes the campus pulse with her column, "All Bark and No Bite." Sally is vice president of Sigma Tau Delta, the national honorary society on campus, and is an active member of the League of Women Voters.

We don't know how you do it, Sally, but here's our chance to Thank You!

Mary DeVries To Present Recital

This afternoon in Sibley Chapel, Mary DeVries, contralto, will present her Junior recital. She will be assisted by Dorothy Becker, Carolyn Furnish is her accompanist. Mary, a Senior majoring in public school music, is a candidate for the Bachelor of Music degree.

Last Sunday evening the Lindenwood Vesper Choir gave its Easter concert. Assisting the choir were three instrumentalists: Miss Gertrude Isidor, violin; Miss Albertina Flach, harp, and Edward A. Murphy, French horn. Marjorie Moehlenkamp, soprano, was soloist with the choir. Director of the choir is Milton Rehg. Carolyn Furnish is the accompanist.

Sunday evening, April 3, the Vesper program presented Miss Pearl Walker, soprano, and Miss Virginia Lee Winham, pianist. Mr. Paul Friess was the accompanist for Miss Walker.

Schedules For Final Examinations Released

Final examination schedules have been announced by Robert C. Colson, Registrar. Senior exams will be held from Monday, May 23, through Thursday, May 26. Exams for Freshmen, Sophomores, and Juniors will be held on Friday and Saturday, May 27-28, and Tuesday through Thursday, May 31-June 2.

Walter Grundhauser To Return To Biology Department Next Fall

J. Walter Grundhauser has accepted appointment as Assistant Professor in the Department of Biological Science at Lindenwood College, it is announced by President F. L. McCluer. Mr. Grundhauser has been conducting research at St. Louis University and has completed his work for the doctorate degree at that institution. This Fall he will rejoin his former colleagues in the Department headed by Dr. Mary Talbot.

Mr. Grundhauser has been giving his attention to three important research studies:

1. The effect of anaesthetics and narcotics on the water-holding properties of living tissues.

2. Examination of changes in the water-holding properties of seedlings after they had been exposed to large doses of soft x-rays.

3. A tracer work study with radio phosphorus which has revealed that there is a concentration of this element in tissues preparing for and undergoing mitosis and that this information can be used in detecting such things as cancer in deep tissues.

These researches are of practical as well as theoretical value. The report of the tracer work study is being published. P32 is obtained from the Oak Ridge Laboratories of the Atomic Energy Commission for use in this study.

Mr. Grundhauser will continue his activity in research in the laboratories of Lindenwood College and will give courses in biology and physics next Fall.

Faculty On The Grid At Press Club Sixth Annual Fun Frolic

"They wouldn't believe us," but the Gridiron Dinner on March 29 was more than a howling success. Reports along the grapevine reveal that such raucous laughter has not been heard in months.

In her column, Louella Parsons said, "Lindenwood's Gridiron Dinner was funnier than 'The Grapes of Wrath!'" Walter Wichell had as his comment, "Good evening Mr. and Mrs. North America and all the ships at sea, stay there, Lindenwood College really caused chaos here." Of course there were other fine compliments paid the dinner, but time and space does not permit elaboration.

Easter Style Show To Be Presented Tonight At 7:30

If you are looking for that "certain something" for Easter, tonight in Roemer Auditorium at 7:30 the clothing classes are presenting many fascinating ideas in their style show of the year, featuring window shopping. Students and public are promised the showing of some outstanding garments which have been made throughout the term.

The creations cover the entire field of a college girl's wardrobe. A variety of spring formals will climax the show, which is a month early this year. Street clothes, suits, sportswear, lingerie and cotton dresses will be modeled by the students who planned, designed and made them. In addition to a surprise feature, Miss Rosa Tsatsakos will present a Grecian dance, and adaptations from her costume will be shown for the modern American miss. The college orchestra, under the direction of Kaukow Lustig, will play between groups.

The advance costume design class is assisting with the planning, staging and general arrangements. Miss Dolores Thomas will act as narrator for the show. Faculty members in charge of the production are Miss Margaret Lindsay and Miss Marjorie Savage. All students and public are invited to attend.

'Antigone' Is Picked For Annual Spring Play

The spring play to be presented by the Speech and Dramatic Department is "Antigone." The play is one of the best known of the Greek plays by Sophocles. The date for the play is May 6 on May Day week end. This is only one of the many events that have been scheduled for entertainment during this week end. As yet the cast of characters for the play has not been revealed.

Speech Recital Given By Folsta Bailey

Miss Folsta Bailey gave her main speech recital on March 30. The play chosen for the recital was Joan of Lorraine by Maxwell Anderson. The play had a cast of eight characters, all excellently depicted by Folsta. The incidents rehearsed occurred in four different scenes. According to several different accounts of the recital, this play was a perfect revelation of Folsta's art. The audience felt that she was especially good in her portrayals of The Dauphin and Joan of Lorraine. It can best be summed up as "an excellent performance from an excellent actress."

The Speech and Music Departments are planning to present a joint program for a luncheon club in Louisiana, Mo. The Speech Department will give a performance of its well received play Overtures, starring the same cast and characters.
