Thank You...

A very special thank you to everyone who participated in the preparation for the North Central accreditation team visit. Your hard work and energy are appreciated. Congratulations to everyone on a successful visit!

NCATE Gives LC Thumbs Up

The National Council for Accreditation of Teacher Education (NCATE) has accredited LC's teacher education programs for another five years -- again, the maximum period. Congratulations to the entire education faculty, students, deans and administration on a job well done!

Spreading Good Cheer

In December, President Dennis Spellmann spoke to the St. Charles Chamber of Commerce Economic Development Committee about the growth and success of Lindenwood College.

Sports Shorts

Men's Cross Country Coach Gary White was honored for the fifth time as District Coach of the Year. Congratulations!

Lindenwood Joins WalkAmerica

Lindenwood College is proud to be the St. Charles sponsor for the 1994 March of Dimes "WalkAmerica" event. WalkAmerica is the nation's first and biggest walking event, and the largest annual fund-raiser for the March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation. Money raised from the walk supports the Campaign for Healthier Babies, a nationwide effort to prevent birth defects and infant mortality. The Campaign includes programs of research, community services, education and advocacy.

Patterson Workshop

Marilyn Patterson, assistant professor in LCIE, presented a workshop entitled "Mental Health and Aging Issues," at the Second Annual Rural Elderly Conference held in November in Kirksville.

Author! Author!

The history of St. Louis was explored in the plays of George Hickenlooper in the "Saint Louis in the Gilded Age" exhibit at the History Museum. Hickenlooper, associate professor of English, wrote six 10-15 minute vignettes that highlight themes from the late 1800's in St. Louis. The plays were centered around the exhibit's streetcar, which recreates the mood of the original mule-drawn trolley. Each play discussed important societal concerns of the 1800's that are still important to us today. The Gilded Age Dramatic Vignettes were presented last winter.

Financial Reviews

Tom Goldberg, adjunct professor of management, was published in the St. Louis Small Business Monthly in October. He wrote a book review on Scoring Millions by James H. Dayley. Goldberg teaches finance in the undergraduate and graduate levels.

Field Trip

In October, William Felty, assistant professor of business administration, and Don Babbitt, associate professor of management, took 20 accounting students to a Career Day program sponsored by the Missouri Society of Certified Public Accountants. The program was offered as a means of introducing students with various career opportunities in the accounting profession.

"Art In Transit"

Michael Castro, professor in LCIE, and Adelia Parker-Castro, photographer and LCIE student, have been teaching fourth through sixth graders about poetry and visual arts for the Bi-State "Art In Transit" program. The poetic duo visited five schools in the St. Louis, Wellston and East St. Louis areas. Their workshops concentrated on expressing concrete poems that combine visual arts and poetry about the MetroLink. The students' poetry will be displayed in MetroLink cars sometime in 1994. Castro also served as a reader for the Thomas Merton Workshop held at Washington University in December..

Team Talk

John Tieman and Phoebe Cirio, adjunct professors in LCIE, have spoken at Kiwanis monthly breakfasts about non-violent conflict resolution. The talk is the outgrowth of an article "Violent Behavior Is Learned Behavior" co-authored by the husband and wife team, which appeared in a December issue of the Post-Dispatch.

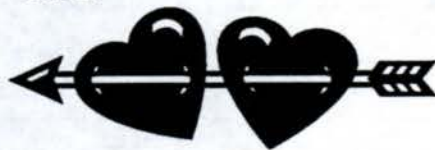

Emmy Award Winner

At the National Academy of Television Arts and Sciences (NATAS) St. Louis Mid-America Emmy Awards last fall, Carole Knight received an Emmy for Individual Achievement in the category Writing, Other Than News. Knight, an LC alum and adjunct professor in LCIE, is a producer for KETC, Channel 9. She won the Emmy for writing the program Mr. Potter's Traveling Adventure Show, a weekly children's series. This is her second Emmy; her first was in 1990 for Outstanding Achievement for Arts and Entertainment Programming. Knight has been nominated for several Emmys and was the recipient of a National Honor Award from the Parents' Choice Foundation for locally produced children's programming.

Sports Center Rally A Success

On November 30, a crowd of community & business leaders gathered at the LC Fitness Center to take part in the kick-off rally for the proposed performance arena. To date, about 350 community leaders have joined in to support the project. The new center will be home to the Lindenwood Lions basketball, volleyball and wrestling teams, as well as many other performance events. Besides the community support, we appreciate the response from faculty and staff. We challenge you to help us achieve 100% participation from LC employees! To support the new performance center, please contact the Office of Development at ext. 4903.

Happy Valentine's Day!

Youth Orchestra

LC band members Eric Hume, Jim Tokos and Jason Pierson are also members of the St. Louis Youth Symphony. Hume, an education major, plays the trombone; Tokos, a music major, plays the trumpet; and Pierson, a music major, plays the bassoon.

A Note from Development...

A special thanks to all of you have been active in soliciting gifts for Lindenwood. However, we ask that you keep in mind College policies when seeking gifts:

- All receipts and gift acknowledgement/thank you letters should be done by the Development Office. Federal tax regulations are very specific, so all post-gift correspondence will be produced in the Development Office to ensure compliance.
- Please let the Development Office know, in advance, of your plans to solicit gifts. In many cases, Development can provide you with donor history and preference information that will enhance your prospects. The Development Office can also provide other support services as well.

Any questions or comments? Contact Barry Freese, director of development, at ext. 4908. Thank you!
